

Graduation Is Sunday

Sunday is a day that one group of Winchesterites have counted down to, worried about, dreamed about — had nightmares about — and thought would never come: graduation day.

Winchester High School's 312 seniors (and their families) will be part of the 135th commencement since the town graduated its first seniors in 1850, according to school officials.

If it's a sunny day, the ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m. on Manchester Field, behind McCall Junior High School, and will be open to all.

However, some long-range forecasts predict showers for Sunday afternoon. Should rain threaten, school officials will move the ceremonies indoors, into the high school gymnasium.

That means admission will be by invitation only, because of the limited seating capacity there.

Each graduate is entitled to bring four guests to the ceremonies if they are held indoors. Seniors have been told to pick up the printed invitations at the high school office, school officials told The Star.

"If you get 300-plus graduates, and they each bring four people, that fills up the gym pretty quickly," explains vice principal Thomas P. Budrewicz.

Rain will also change the time of the ceremonies, because of the logistics involved. If a rain delay is called, the ceremonies will take place at 5 p.m.

School officials have asked parents not to call the police or fire stations or the school to find out if there will be a rain delay.

The "no school" whistles will sound at noon if the ceremonies are delayed.

A Weekend Of Festivities

Seniors Have A Hit Prom

By JILL M. HIGGINS

A formal prom on a playing field? Many said it couldn't be done.

Well, they should have known the class of '85 could prove them wrong.

The outdoor prom — Winchester's first — was a huge success.

Sporting fancy tuxedos and sparkling evening gowns, Winchester High seniors danced until midnight Friday at the school's first outdoor prom.

Neither police nor school officials reported any trouble with teen drinking, a problem at prior dances that had threatened to cancel this year's traditional event.

Residents Flock To Town Day

Saturday was a perfect day for browsing — and anyone who stopped by the annual Town Day events had browsing room aplenty as the sun shined in the streets of downtown Winchester.

Amid a crowd of adults donned in shorts and summer shirts and youngsters wearing traces of cotton candy, the annual celebration went off with all its splendor.

Merchants touted everything from fruit to stuffed animals, cramming the streets and sidewalks from Mt. Vernon st. through the rest of downtown.

"Ya got any zugglesnooks?" asked Ben Coonley, 8, of entrepreneur Nadine Suhrbier. Suhrbier displayed a table filled with bright blue, purple and other colored animals — each with its own 'history.'

"I'm all out of those," she said with a grin, "... but I have these little guys." Then she spun a tale about her latest creation — snow snakes.

"So, the next time you go skiing and you fall down without anyone seeming to touch you — you'd better beware of the snow snakes," she said, as the crowd of youngsters drew back in amazement.

Over at the kiddie rides, a little boy sporting a bright green headband rode a shiny 'race car' that twirled as the merry go round circled.

At the Winchester Historical Society booth, homeowners and others pored over sketches and photo books that displayed some of the town's history — long before Town Day ever came to be.

"I think I saw your house," called a young man in tan shorts to his female companion. "Really, isn't that your house?" he asked curiously.

Toward the far end of the table, past where society worker Randy Barnsfeather was helping the browsers, an elderly couple sought to have the society help them find out more about their old house.

"We don't really know who owned it that long ago," said the gentleman. "We bought it from friends of ours and they bought from people who have since passed away. Can you help us?"

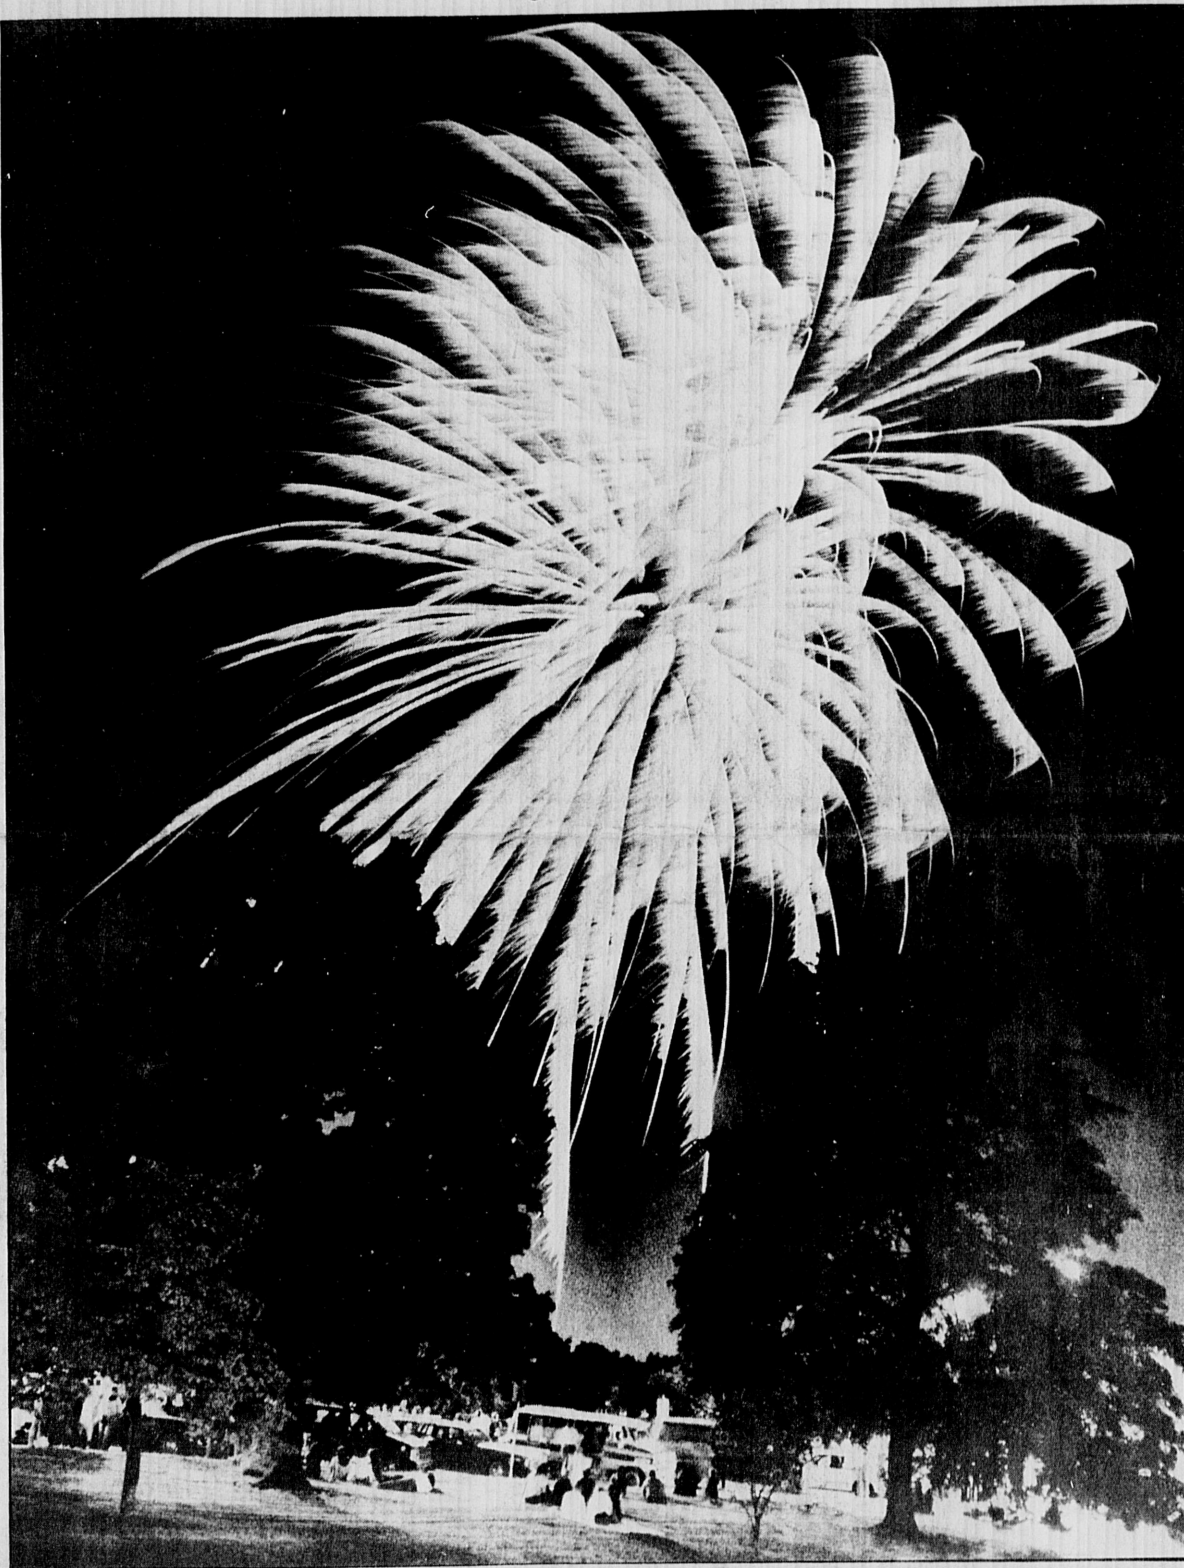

Clearly, the pictures of stately old homes of Winchester were a big hit — for even as the day was winding down, there were many people gathered near the table for a glimpse of years past.

As the day turned into evening, the streets were cleared and all eyes were cast upward, as the fireworks show began with the fall of dusk.

A youth who promised he knew "all the names of the fireworks" listed each one as the bright colors and deafening booms spread over town.

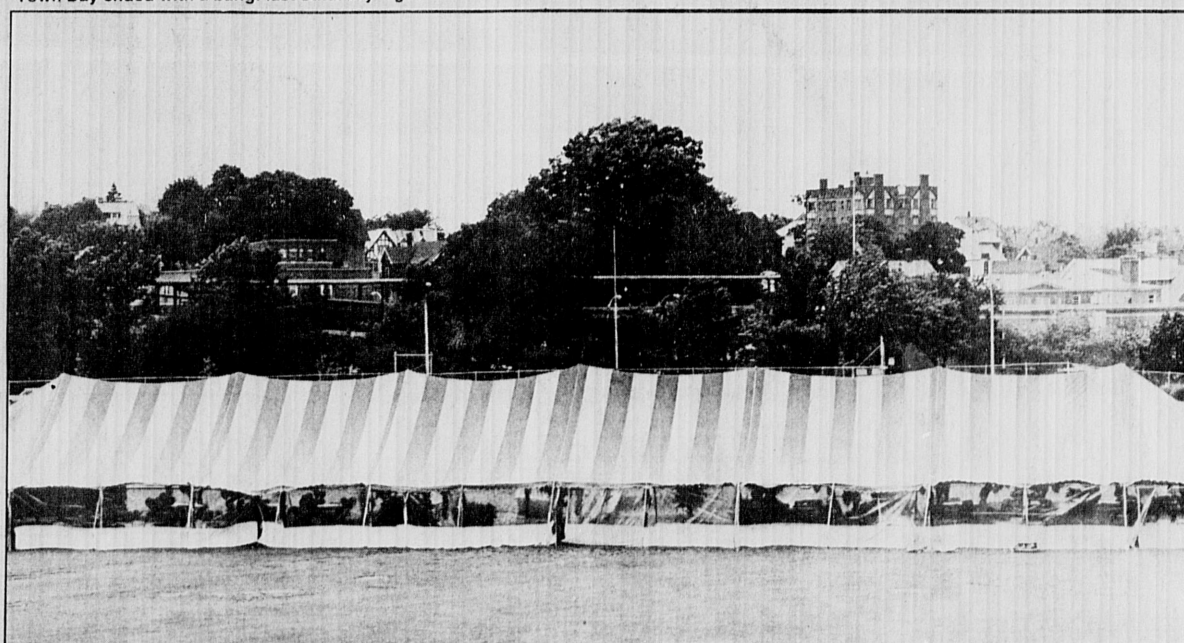

"That one's a double sun," he shouted excitedly, as a blue shower of star-like lights grew rounder and larger before it burst into a shining orange color.

And, of course, that was the best of all. A multitude of purples, reds, greens, and silvers accompanied by booms, whistles and cracks filled the air, as townspeople "oohed" and "aahed" on key.

State Will Test The Air At High School

By JILL M. HIGGINS

State health officials are expected to test Winchester High School's air quality this week, about a week after releasing a report citing poor ventilation at the school.

Meanwhile, some students and teachers have been holding classes outdoors and in other parts of the school, according to principal Vincent Larocco.

Larocco said air quality usually deteriorates every spring and fall, when the ventilation systems switches over from cool air to hot, or vice versa.

"It's been an ongoing problem, each year when the system turns over," said Larocco. "The system is zoned by floors, so if the second floor isn't working, you just move to the third floor."

"But there are only so many places to move. We have only so many classrooms in which to hold classes. For this reason, we allow people to move outside or anywhere where they feel more comfortable," said Larocco.

Joel Weddig, an industrial hygienist at the Department of Labor and Industries, said on Monday the agency would inspect for carbon dioxide levels within the next week.

"We have a backlog of operations, but in something like this, where school will be closing for the summer, we usually try to get to it quickly," said Weddig.

Weddig said besides a ventilation system failure, the lack of adequate oxygen could be blamed on air contamination, such as from the use of cleaning fluids at the school.

"We don't really like to comment on what we may find until we've been there and at least have an idea of what we're talking about," said Weddig.

He said it is quite possible that maintenance personnel may have overlooked a filter or other component in the cooling system that could be the cause for the lack of fresh air.

"In a building where you rely on mechanical cooling for fresh air, you really have a problem when something in the system isn't functioning."

"It's easy for someone to miss checking on one little facet, and then you have problems with the air," he said.

Meanwhile, Winchester health officer Joseph Tabbi said his agency expects to meet with state officials, possibly this week, to discuss the problem further.

Tabbi said April tests conducted by the state at the school department's request showed the level of

'Miracle' Baby Defies All Odds

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Helen Ruth Story stood pint-sized in her pink party dress, with a miniature cupcake to celebrate her first birthday.

To her parents, Keith and Ruth Story of Blackhorse Terrace, tiny Helen stood ten feet tall.

They remember her as a 15-ounce newborn who was fighting for her life. They suffered for months, watching her as she struggle against seemingly insurmountable odds.

Born three months premature — and undersized even for that — she is believed to be the only surviving infant in the region who was born that small.

"She's in really good shape, but she looks like an alley cat with all her scars," jokes Keith. He pushes up her sleeve to show a mass of pale needle marks, a poignant reminder of the hundreds of tubes and needles that kept her alive.

born May 11, 1984,

doctors and nurses

at Brigham and

Women's Hospital

in Boston had to

delivery room.

"She was so small that her thigh was the size of my pinkie

finger," recalls nurse Karen

Riedel. "I've never seen a baby

months, Helen depended on a separate oxygen

tank to keep her breathing. Her parents felt like celebrating the day she was finally taken off it.

"It was always so strange, seeing this little tiny baby hooked up to this huge oxygen tank," said Ruth. "But we were lucky, at least she didn't go blind."

Keith explained that often a baby who receives special oxygen mixtures is blinded by the richness of the oxygen.

Beyond that danger was the threat of infection — even that caused by the very needles that brought her nourishment and medicine.

"It was just one obstacle after another," said Ruth. "We never knew what else we'd be facing. It was a constant battle against new problems."

"Helen's had more antibiotics in her one year than I've had in my whole life," said Ruth. "But she's a fighter — I guess that's why she's survived."

Dr. William Tausche, director of the special infant followup program at Brigham and Women's, says Helen represents a milestone in the care of premature babies.

"We don't have 100 babies just like Helen," said Tausche. "We have babies who are preemies, with all the usual respiratory and other problems, but none who were so little who survived."

Dr. Alan Nauss, who cares for Helen during her regular checkups at the Lahey Clinic in Burlington, agrees.

"Helen has defied all statistics. She had virtually all of the problems that tiny babies have when they are

(Please see BABY, Page 22)

Little Helen Ruth Story weighed only 15 ounces when she was born. A year later, she's breaking medical records as one of the smallest premature babies to have survived.

POLICE LOG

Monday, June 3

• At 4:45 a.m. police responded to a noise complaint on Park st. and found a crane in use.

Workers for McKie Co. of Rockland, Mass., were cited on charges of violating a town bylaw forbidding construction work earlier than 7 a.m.

• Police broke up a fight at 3 p.m. between a Winchester man and construction workers at the intersection of Cross st. and Loring ave.

• At 6:30 p.m. a Plymouth rd. woman told police she had been threatened by a Malden woman in connection with a parking dispute.

• Vandals threw a rock through the dining room window of a house on Westland ave., a resident told police at 7 p.m.

Sunday, June 2

• Matthew R. Johnson, 19, of Longfellow rd. was arrested at 2:30 a.m. at his home on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident involving property damage.

Police said they found a car abandoned on Vinson Circle with heavy undercarriage damage and a wheel missing. Nearby lawns were ruined and a tree had also been struck, police reported.

Police located Johnson by the car's license plate, they said. Johnson declined to take a breathalyzer test.

• Police arrested a 27-year-old Medford man in connection with traffic warrants from Andover police.

The man's car was stopped when officers using radar clocked a car at 50 mph on Main st. in a 30 mph zone. The man was taken to Lynch School police station and later bailed.

Saturday, June 1

• Police arrested Craig T. Bliss, 32, of Stoneham, at 2:50 a.m. on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

He was stopped after police saw a car fail to stop at a red light at the intersection of Main st. and Lake st.

• A West Chardon rd. woman was cited on charges of leaving the scene of an accident involving injury at 10:35 a.m. after police officer Thomas Faulkner's elbow was cut during the Town Day Road Race.

Faulkner was taken to Winchester Hospital, where doctors stitched his left arm.

The driver was traced by license plate, police reported.

• At 1:10 a.m. a Cranston rd. man reported a two-foot brass lamp stolen from his front lawn. The resident valued the fixture at $300.

A second lamp was reported stolen from a Town Way home. A resident said the lamp was an antique but did not know its value.

• Jewels and china were reported stolen at 8 p.m. from a Highland ave. home. A resident said her roommates had taken the goods when they moved out of the house.

All items were returned after police contacted the two former residents, officers reported. No charges were filed in the incident.

• At 12:25 a.m. police responded to a report of a disturbance on Main st., where they found an unwanted person. The man was escorted to the Woburn line, police reported.

Friday, May 31

• A studded Toyota snow tire was reported stolen at 9:15 p.m. from a

Taft dr. garage. The owner set the value of the tire at $50.

• Vandals smashed the rear window of a car parked in a Brookside ave. driveway, the owner told police at 9:50 a.m. The cost to repair the car was unknown.

• Neighbors of a Central st. woman reported suspicious activity at 11:10 p.m. when they saw furniture being removed. They did not know she was moving out of the apartment, police reported.

Thursday, May 30

• A man driving a Thunderbird trailed a 12-year-old girl on her way to school, Ambrose School Principal George Flynn told police at 7:55 a.m. The man was described as white and bearded.

Star Truck Gets Stuck

By NANCY PICK

The Star learned a lesson last Thursday about the amount of news that fits — under a bridge, that is.

At 1:15 p.m. company photostater John Zarse tried to drive an 11-foot, 4-inch newspaper truck under the Cross st. bridge.

Only there was a hitch. The bridge was a foot shorter than his truck.

Zarse, a Westford resident, said the problem arose when he forgot the best path to Winchester's dump, where he was delivering a broken refrigerator. He turned onto Cross st. and, goaded by a horn-happy driver behind him, attempted to pass under the bridge.

He made it a few inches. Then he got stuck.

A wizard in the darkness, Zarse is no dummy at handling road crises. He let air out of the truck's tires to lower it, hoping it might clear the bridge.

Then, to check his progress, Zarse climbed up on the tall cab.

Wayward truck drivers, however, aren't the only ones to use that bridge. Just as Zarse climbed up to inspect, he came nose to nose with a train.

Zarse said he yelled — but the train was so loud he couldn't hear himself — and he scrambled down from the cab.

Despite the excitement, Zarse still managed to complete his mission and drive the defunct refrigerator safely to the dump.

The newspaper truck, one of two owned by Century Publications, will be out of commission for about two weeks, Zarse said. Deliveries of The Star, however, will not be affected.

Zarse was cited on charges of violating Department of Public Works signs.

Downtown Crosswalks Get Angry Attention, New Paint

By NANCY PICK

Winchester's granite and brick crosswalks may be fancy, but they aren't doing their job.

Facing complaints that downtown pedestrians are at the mercy of rude drivers, Selectmen Monday recommended steps to improve the center's safety.

They ordered fresh white lines to mark crosswalks — painted early Wednesday — and planned to order pedestrian right-of-way signs.

Selectmen Chairman Michael Saraco led the move to fix up the crosswalks. He in turn was inspired by Mt. Vernon st. store owner Jack Chitel.

Chitel told the Selectmen he had nearly been hit Monday by a car that swerved around Church st. without slowing down. Saraco then spent an hour observing pedestrian traffic and said the situation was grim: he said he watched an elderly person who "went a couple steps and then stepped back — ZOOM — while a vehicle went by." He said drivers were rude even when women were trying to cross with baby carriages.

"I think it's sad when our citizens cannot cross the street in Winchester center," said Saraco. "Action must be taken by this board. I think we'd better move and get some signs up there."

Several selectmen opted for putting signs up immediately. However, Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer said pedestrian right-of-way signs require state approval. Without the state's OK, he explained, the town could be liable in a crosswalk accident.

Selectman Mark Lombardi said any pedestrian danger is the fault of police slackness. "I put all the blame on the police department," he said. He claimed the crosswalks were understaffed by officers and "if there isn't a cop there, forget about it."

He was also outspoken about getting white lines painted on crosswalks posthaste.

"You don't have to go to Congress to do it," said Lombardi. "Call the DPW and have them put down two white lines."

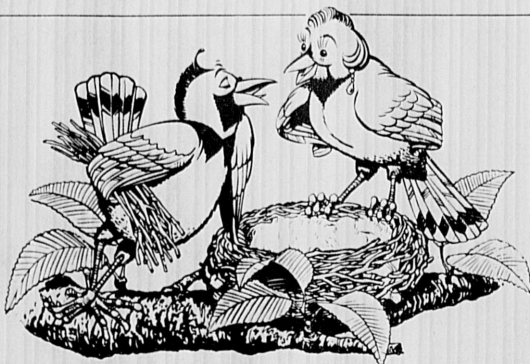

Meanwhile, Tuesday morning Winchester police officer Steven S. Fields was helping pedestrians cross the street at 10:15 a.m. He does that job whenever he's in the rotary area, he said.

He agreed that drivers are too aggressive. When he's in full police uniform, he said, "the cars don't even stop for me when I cross the street."

A $100 fine can be charged for drivers failing to stop for a pedestrian at a crosswalk, said Fields. He said the fine is just too high to be enforceable.

"I think $100 is too steep," he said. In three years of downtown patrol duty, he said he has never given a ticket for a crosswalk driving violation.

He said stationing a policeman at the crosswalks full time would not be the best solution. "It would be senseless to have me or another officer on the traffic island all day long," said Fields. He said a policeman couldn't handle downtown parking ticketing and helping people across the street at the same time.

Police Charge 27 With Trespassing

Police charged 27 people with trespassing at Winchester drinking water reservoirs during the weekend, including waders, hikers and fishermen. Also, a dog was caught swimming in the South Reservoir. The reservoirs and the land surrounding them are off limits to the public in order to protect water purity.

Four Winchester residents were implicated. On Saturday at 5:15 p.m., police arrested two Winchester men, ages 18 and 19, on trespassing charges and on charges of possessing alcohol under the age of 21. Police seized a six-pack of beer.

On Sunday two Fletcher st. women were issued court summonses at 1:50 p.m. on trespassing charges.

Besides the two Winchester women, 11 other people were issued summonses on Sunday. Charged with trespassing were two Cambridge men; a Cambridge woman; a 27-year-old Woburn man; three Brookline men; a 35-year-old Boston man; and a Watertown man.

Also on Sunday, police stopped a 28-year-old Malden man and a 20-year-old Medford man at 2:10 p.m. and seized their fishing poles. The men were also charged with trespassing.

On Saturday at 5:45 p.m., two West Medford residents were caught by police dangling their legs in Winchester's drinking water supply while their dog went swimming.

Three men — two from Stoneham and one from Lexington — were charged with trespassing after police found them fishing in the North Reservoir Saturday afternoon. A 29-year-old Melrose man and a 36-year-old Sudbury man were also seen fishing and stopped by police.

Five more fishermen were found that evening: two from Malden, two from Somerville and one from Medford.

Winchester Precincts Are In For A Change

By NANCY PICK

Heads up, Winchester voters. Precinct lines are going to change. On Monday, Selectmen supported a preliminary plan to change the boundaries of all eight Winchester precincts, putting a nearly equal number of voters in each. The plan would correct an imbalance with certain precincts bulging with voters and others coming up short.

The new plan, said Town Clerk Caroline Ward, would restore Winchester to the ideal situation of "one man, one vote."

It also means Town Meeting members elected last year could be ousted after only two years in office. According to state law, Winchester must hold a new Town Meeting election when precinct changes are put into effect. That could be as early as January, 1987.

Right now, some precincts lack the Town Meeting voting power merited by their population. Precinct 6, for example, has a population 18 percent above the town average.

However, at Town Meeting it elects the same number of Town Meeting representatives as precinct 7, which is 9 percent smaller than the average.

That means a precinct 6 voter has a smaller voice at Town Meeting than a precinct 7 voter. And that's not fair, says Ward, nor is it legal.

State law says towns can allow no more than a 10 percent population variation from precinct to precinct, and Winchester bylaws are even stricter, allowing no more than a 5 percent difference.

Selectmen are pushing to implement changes in January of 1987, the soonest allowed by state law. Winchester could wait as late as September, 1988, to make the switch.

Selectman Alan Macdonald favored the earlier date. "The sooner we get to using the equal representation, the better," he said.

At least two new Town Meeting members said they wouldn't mind early elections, even if their terms were cut short.

Ann Hathaway of precinct 2 said, "I'd be happy to run again a year earlier." She said the need to equalize town representation is more important than serving a complete three-year term.

Thomas Schmitt of precinct 3 agreed. "I think the town is better served by putting the change in effect sooner rather than later," he said Tuesday. "Yeah, I'd have to campaign again, but I think Caroline Ward did a superb job."

Hathaway would also face a change of precinct, from precinct 2 to precinct 3. She said the change might actually work to her advantage, by putting her in a precinct with other parents of Lincoln School children, where she plans to get involved.

Another Town Meeting member, Marcia Saltmarsh of Myrtle st., would also find herself in precinct 3 instead of precinct 2, where she has been a longtime resident.

She would make the switch reluctantly, she said. "I feel very loyal to precinct 2." However, the change won't stop her from running for Town Meeting member again, she said.

Originally, Town Clerk Ward backed a January, 1988, effective date for the new precinct lines. That way, she said, people who ran for Town Meeting in March wouldn't get any surprises about their term. "No notice had been given to those people who just ran," she said.

However, she said, she has concluded the need for equal representation in town outweighs the shortened term for certain Town Meeting members.

She also stressed that precinct boundaries would remain unchanged through 1986 elections.

Residents who have questions or comments about the proposed precinct lines may contact the Town Clerk's office at 721-7130.

Proposed Changes For 8 Precincts

Following are approximate descriptions of precinct changes proposed by Town Clerk Caroline Ward.

Precinct 1: No residents now in precinct 1 would have to change to a different precinct.

Precinct 2: Residents in the area north of Mystic Valley Parkway, east of Main st. or Washington st., south of Eaton st. and west of the Middlesex Fells would change from precinct 2 to precinct 3.

Precinct 3: Residents in the strip north of Leslie rd. or Herrick st., west of Main st. and south of Prospect st. and Lorena rd. would switch from precinct 3 to precinct 4.

Also, residents in the area northeast of Bacon st., south of Church st., southwest of Central st. or Meadowcroft rd. and northeast of the railroad tracks would change from precinct 3 to precinct 7.

Precinct 4: No residents now in precinct 4 would have to change precincts.

Precinct 5: Residents in the region south of Church st., east of Bacon st., west of Cambridge st., and north Sheffield west and Sheffield rd. and Everett ave., would change from precinct 5 to precinct 7.

Precinct 6: Residents in the area south of High st., and west of Ridge st. would change from precinct 6 to precinct 5.

Residents in the region south of Girard rd., northwest of Samoset rd., north of High st. and east of Olde Village dr. would also switch from precinct 6 to precinct 5.

And, residents south of Worthen rd., east of Emerson rd., north of Atherton rd. and Robinson rd., and southwest of Blossom Hill rd. would also change from precinct 6 to precinct 5.

Precinct 7: Residents in the area east of Wildwood Cemetery and Woodside rd., northwest of Palmer st., east of Main st. and bordered by Salem st., Farrow st., Sylvester ave. and Horn Pond Brook would change from precinct 7 to precinct 8.

Precinct 8: Residents west of the railroad tracks, south of the Aberjona and Swanton st., and east of Main st. would change from precinct 8 to precinct 2.

Residents in the area north of East st. and west of the railroad tracks would change from precinct 8 to precinct 1. Also, residents in the area north of Cross st. and west of the tracks would change precinct 8 to precinct 1.

Winchester Man Is ADL Executive

The board of directors of Arthur D. Little Inc., have elected Dr. William S. Augerson of Winchester as vice president of international management and technology consulting.

Augerson joined Arthur D. Little Inc. in 1983 after retiring from the Army as Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Policy, Planning and Systems. He also was commanding general of the Army Medical Research and Development Command. He retired from the Army as a Major General.

As a senior staff consultant in Arthur D. Little's biomedical research and technology section, Augerson specializes in internal and aerospace medicine, environmental physiology and occupational medicine, and medical aspects of defense against chemical and biological warfare.

Augerson is Arthur D. Little's principal investigator on an Air Force project to design a medical care system in the event of chemical warfare.

He is the medical member of several teams that are developing protective equipment, vital signs monitors and cooling systems for field use by military personnel. He also has led corporate task forces in health care and biotechnology.

A diplomat of the American Board of Internal Medicine, Augerson's World War II military career began in March 1945 as a 17-year old Navy enlistee aboard the battleship Alabama.

Later he was aboard the amphibious command ship at Mt. McKinley stationed at the Bikini Atoll during nuclear weapons testing in 1946. After his discharge, he attended Bowdoin College under the G.I. Bill.

He joined the Army Medical Corps following graduation from Cornell University Medical College. He was a flight surgeon with the 101st airborne division; and during a later assignment with the 82nd Airborne Division as Division Surgeon, he qualified for his parachute wings.

During his military service, he also was assigned as research flight surgeon to NASA's Mercury, Gemini and Apollo projects. In 1967-68 he served in Vietnam as division surgeon of the 23rd Infantry Division and commander of this division's medical battalion.

As a senior medical officer and Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense, Augerson was planner and resource and program manager for the Defense Department's $10 billion health care system.

During his tour as commanding general of the Army Medical Research and Development Command, Augerson directed the efforts of 3,000 researchers in eight laboratories around the world.

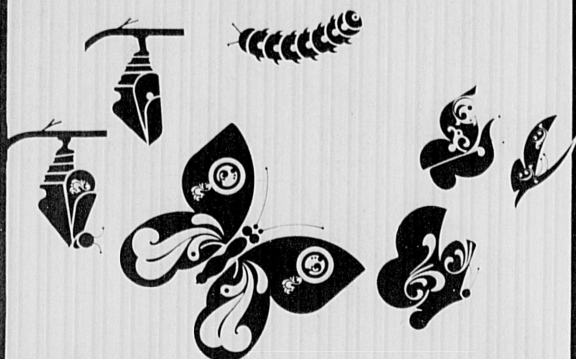

He initiated various programs, including one on the problems arising from the use of lasers. As the Army's assistant surgeon general for research and development, he also was involved in the planning for the defusing and disposal of chemical weapons, and drug abuse prevention. Augerson is credited with strengthening emergency medical planning in the Defense Department.

A highly decorated general officer, Augerson has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal; the Silver Star, the nation's third highest combat decoration; the Outstanding Service Award from the Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences, and a Special Honor Citation from the American Medical Association for his contributions to space medicine.

Augerson resides in Winchester with his wife, Maureen, and son Christopher, a student at Bowdoin College.

A BOUQUET FOR OUR ANNIVERSARY

We're celebrating our 125th Anniversary. Come join us during our week-long anniversary party. Beginning Monday, June 10.

125 years ago, in June of 1860, our bank opened for business as the West Cambridge Five Cents Savings Bank. Seven years later, we became known as the Arlington

Five Cents Savings Bank. Our purpose was to serve the growing needs of the community. Over the years, as Arlington grew, our bank grew along with the town.

Recently, we expanded the scope of our services into the communities of Bedford, Burlington, and Woburn, along with a change of our name to Bank Five.

Today, we're a strong, stable bank, with roots that still extend to all corners of the communities we serve. Our 125th Anniversary is a time to celebrate our growth, and look ahead to an even brighter future.

Join us for the fun.

★ Prom

No other trouble was reported by police, according to Sgt. James Pierce, who monitored the event along with about a dozen police officers.

"We didn't have one bit of trouble," said Pierce on Saturday. "The kids acted like perfect gentlemen and ladies — just the way they were supposed to. It went off without any problems whatsoever."

About 250 students, all dressed in chic evening finery, promenaded to the huge tent behind McCall Junior High on Manchester Field, where dinner and dancing were the order of the night.

"I don't think there'll be any problem," said a dapper Charles Cowen of Swanton St. He was decked out in a light colored tux, complete with violet cummerbund and a top hat.

"Everybody's here to have a good time — nobody wants any trouble," echoed another best-dressed senior.

In order to attend, each student and the parents had to sign a contract agreeing to obey rules banning alcohol and drug use. The pact was part of a campaign to curb such drug and alcohol use by students, especially at school functions.

Students had agreed to be taken into police custody if police suspected they had used drugs or alcohol before or during the prom.

On Friday, though, there was no sign of the drug and alcohol problems that had threatened to cancel the annual extravaganza.

As the young couples arrived at the gate to Manchester Field, many in shiny black limousines, they were met by Principal Vincent Larocco, Superintendent Charles Mitsakos and School Board Chairman Edward O'Connell. All donned tuxedos for the occasion.

Meanwhile, traffic rolled a bit slower by the area of the the striped tent, as the limousines dropped off their elegant young patrons.

Parents and curious passersby lined up at the gates and along the street — perhaps as much to see the huge, decorated tent as to get a look at the polished prom goers.

"They really look nice," said one woman, as her younger daughter craned her neck to get a better view.

School officials, meanwhile, were vigilant about allowing the students the freedom to enjoy themselves and ramble about the adorned tent and grounds at will.

"This is the kids' night," said Mitsakos. "They've worked hard to get this all together and they deserve to enjoy it. It's a memorable event for them."

Earlier, junior class members, parents and advisors pitched to decorate the tent, with ornate flower arrangements donated by Mahoney's Rocky Ledge nursery of Winchester.

"It was a milestone," said Larocco on Monday. "I haven't enjoyed a prom in years — this is the first in a long, long time. It was a great night and the kids are to be commended for their efforts. They really came through."

Larocco added that he hopes this year's success will be the beginning of students becoming more responsible about drugs and alcohol.

"It's kind of like Christmas," said Larocco. "It was better than my wildest dreams. But I hope this (problem-free school event) lasts more than just a day."

Prayer To The Holy Spirit

Oh holy spirit, thou who art all knowing, who brightens every path that I may reach my idea, thou who giveth me this divine gift of forgiving and forgetting wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life act with me, I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all your blessings and reaffirm once again that I never want to part from thee though the illusion of material things abound. My desire is to be with thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank you for your mercy on me and mine. (Person should pray 3 consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days, grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be.) Publish this prayer once grace attained. Grateful for grace attained. M.C.

Music Program Begins Signup

The Winchester Music Program is registering students now for the 1985-86 season. "All ages are welcome," says coordinator Corie Nichols, "and having students enroll now helps us plan for the fall."

The Music Program offers lessons in banjo, baritone, cello, clarinet, electric bass, flute, French horn, guitar (classical, folk, and electric), mandolin, oboe, percussion, recorder, saxophone, trombone, trumpet, tuba, viola, violin, and voice.

Lessons for special needs students, music theory classes, and ensembles are also available, and there will be a pilot eurhythmics class for three and four-year-olds.

"We find that many students take up an instrument as teen-agers or adults," says Nichols. "Some want to join the school band or orchestra, and others choose music for their own pleasure. It's never too late to begin."

For information call Nichols (729-8063) or Nancy Goodwin (729-0347).

NOTES FROM THE BLACKBOARD

Lynch Winner

Congratulations are due to Lynch student Emily McDowell who recently received a plaque at the State House for her outstanding poster on water conservation. She was one of a dozen students honored out of more than 3,000 contest participants from throughout the state.

Mathematics Contest

In March, the fifth and sixth graders at Lincoln School par-

Grandparents Day

Recently, a Grandparents/Grand-friends Day was held at St. Mary's School. The "special guests" were greeted by Sr. Irma Meuse, principal. The groups then proceeded to the classrooms, after which a musical program was presented by the students in grades K-4.

Field Day

The Vinson-Owen teachers, under the direction of gym teacher Pam

Evening activities included arts and crafts, a musical night, and a softball game.

The students also visited The Flume at Franconia Notch State Park and the Science Center of New Hampshire at Holderness.

Colonial Life

The fifth and sixth graders at Muraco School recently went on a trip to Strawberry Bank, where they con-and in the top third of the 35 school Intermediate School Math League. The team's philosophy was to enjoy the math competition and to give everyone a chance to participate.

Trivial Pursuit

Judy Babcock of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals visited Sheila Gill's fourth graders at Muraco School for three weeks with a program on cats. The children studied the history of cats and did research on the seven large cats of the world. The unit ended with a special version of "Trivial Pursuit."

Camping At Muraco

A total of 36 sixth grade students at Muraco School recently went to Camp Kirland in South Yarmouth for a week's camping trip. Accompanied by teachers Anne Marshall, Sheila Gill, Barbara Tilden, Janice Monteith, and Muraco principal Richard Young, they visited the National Seashore, the herring run, cranberry bogs, cedar swamps, and historical houses.

St. Mary's Moms

Moms have been given special attention at St. Mary's School. Grade 2 children interviewed their mothers, drew their portraits, completed a booklet on mothers.

Also in May, several classes went on field trips. Grade 1 visited Winchester Hospital, touring the emergency room, x-ray room and pediatric department. Grades 3 and 4 visited the New England Aquarium in Boston, while grades 5 and 6 were off to the Museum of Science. The preschool students were to visit Wilson's Farm.

CSA Concert, Show

The annual Community School Association concert and art show to benefit the art and music scholarships will be at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, June 11 in the Winchester High School auditorium.

Performing will be the "All Star Orchestra," under the direction of Mark Jacobs and the "All Star Band," directed by David Kontoff. The "Elementary School chorus" will be directed by Paul Davis, Mark Jacobs and Herman Greene. Burton Cowgill, director of music at Winchester High School, announced that this year's Art Scholarship was awarded to Patricia Lynch.

Residents will be asked for a $1 donation at the door.

The "Just Around the Corner" children's theater group performed at local elementary schools recently, including the two private schools. The show, called "Theater To Do," was an audience participation oriented program, funded through the Cultural Education Collaborative.

Math Team

The McCall Math Team and team advisor Jane Sughue performed well all year in the league meets. The team finished second in its division

SCHOOL NEWS

English Teacher Plans To Retire

Barbara Norton, a teacher in the Massachusetts Public Schools for 40 years and in Winchester for 22 of those years, has announced plans to retire in June. Fran Russell, director of English, accepted the news with regret, saying "Barbara is irreplaceable. Barbara has enriched the lives of over 2,000 of Winchester's young people through English instruction mixed with love and understanding. Her integrity and dedication have been an inspiration to her students and to her colleagues."

For many of her 22 years in Winchester, Norton has been the mainstay in grade 9. She has coordinated the efforts of Grade 9 teachers and at the same time has taught five classes each year. She moved from Lynch Junior High School to the high school when Winchester moved grade 9 into the high school in response to declining enrollments. In both schools she served on the numerous committees, the latest the high school principal's advisory committee.

The English department is hosting an appreciation reception in honor of Miss Norton on June 15. Parents and former students who would like to be part of this recognition should call the English office in the high school.

ASK THE EDUCATORS

(Editor's Note: As the end of the school year approaches, columnist Diane Thilly would like to thank all educators who responded to questions posed by this column. Their open responses have provided information and insight into why things happen the way they do in Winchester's school system. The last two columns will be devoted to parents, who have placed the care and education of their children in the hands of these educators. The question posed to educators and to the superintendent is: "If a parent is really interested in contributing to the quality of public education in Winchester, what opportunities are there to do so?" The responses have come from presidents of school parent associations and from the town-wide parent association, CSA.)

Phyllis Daggett

McCall Parents' Assoc.

The parents' association at McCall Junior High School offers many avenues for meaningful contribution to the excellent education our dedicated staff is providing for our 7th and 8th graders.

Direct contact with teachers and students through work in the library, chaperoning at dances, driving for extra-curricular activities such as the math team, foreign language club, etc., are a strong support (and in some cases firsts in the coming school year).

The association board organizes fund-raisers, which supply exceptionally fine assembly programs throughout the year and resources for needed special equipment. Enrichment is one of our most important contributions. The yearly drama productions can use the assistance of as many helping parental hands as offered and provide a wonderful outlet for the talents of many children and faculty members as well.

We hope to see a flowering of the "Class Committee" idea, where a group of parents unite to plan and participate in various social activities throughout the 7th through 12th grade years of a given class, such as being pioneered for the present class of '89. It is hoped through such vital parent support and guidance to assist our children in learning to enjoy themselves without resort to alcohol or drugs. McCall has outstanding staff experienced in imparting excellent instruction. Parents interested in their child's school work and supportive of our fine staff and administration contribute a great deal!

Lynch Parents Association

Parents entering the Lynch Elementary School are offered a number of avenues to find out about the school, about their children's learning environment, and about opportunities for parental involvement. The avenues can be intense or peripheral. Parents can become involved indirectly through the Brownies, Cub Scouts and Junior Girl Scout troops that are manageable in size and spirited. It is an excellent opportunity for parents to meet new friends as well as meet friends of their children. Even the kindergarten enjoys an excellent monthly support group.

Through their children's classroom experiences, parents can become involved as room parents. They coordinate refreshments for seasonal parties and participate in the phone chain. The Lynch library is the hub of learning. Parents volunteer on a regular basis: hourly, weekly, monthly, in whatever time block that is comfortable for them. Furthermore, parents assist the librarian with monthly themes not only in presentation but also by motivating children through availability of books, reading to class groups, and coordinating a culminating event for some of the monthly themes.

The Lynch Parents Assn. makes a decided effort to keep parents informed of administrative and School committee issues. The association utilizes the telephone chain to share pertinent information. All correspondence with the administration is shared school-wide with parents.

The association provides opportunities for parents to meet with administrative personnel. For example, this year we provided a candidates night for School Committee candidates, a lecture by Frank Bianco, director of special needs, and also sponsored a number of meetings for parental input to the Committee on Student Housing. In the spring, the Lynch school community sponsors a special evening to share. For example, we have had a Fun Fair, an International Fair, and a family festival (including a family tree, sing-along and a birthday cake to celebrate Lynch's 5th birthday.)

Board meetings are announced two weeks in advance and are open to all parents. Summaries are posted in the teachers' room. Contact with teachers is on an informal basis and on-going (an advantage of a small school).

Lincoln School Association

The Lincoln School Assn. provides many opportunities for parents to contribute to the educational process. From room parents to the newsletter, it provides parents with direct contact between faculty, administration, CSA and all other school associations. This, in turn, fosters a sense of community, an opportunity to share ideas and concerns and allows the parents to be fully aware of important educational issues.

Specifically, there are two areas I would like to mention which provide direct contact between parents and faculty. The first is enrichment. This area provides parents with an opportunity to plan programs within the classroom as well as the school in general. Most parents are aware of the fine programs provided town-wide through CSA, but probably not as many are aware of the interest expressed by many teachers in having parents with expertise in various areas share their talents within the classroom.

The second area is the teacher-liaison committee, which was started this year. It provides an opportunity to promote communication and trust between parents and teachers and to discuss specific educational issues of mutual interest. At Lincoln, these are but two of the many ways in which our parents actively take part in and enhance their children's educational experience.

Donna Brandt Landry

Community School Association

CSA is made up of parents, teachers, the administration and any citizen interested in quality education in the schools of Winchester. Its working committees and board are composed of representatives of each school parent association.

CSA works toward several goals. It provides a forum to share the unique character and perspective of each school. Members share new ideas, pool resources, communicate and publicize the successes of the schools and approach problem-solving with wide community-based support.

It funds and presents enrichment programs which educate beyond the regular curricula. It helps in the coordination of the school page in the Winchester Star.

It brings town-wide attention and assistance to problems faced by individual schools, as well as issues that are faced by the entire school system (this year focusing on home-school communication, of which one aspect was parent-teacher conference skills).

Dog owners of the world, take note: the town's dog officer, Nick Molea, sent around a notice a couple of days ago, reminding all and sundry that any dog over three months old have to have a license.

And, if they're not, and they're caught, the owners of the dog will have to pay a $20 fee — and buy a license.

Seems like it would be a lot cheaper just to obey the law and get a license for the poor pooch. It's $4 for male dogs, $7 for females, and $4 for spayed dogs, if you present a veterinarian's certificate.

And all dogs must have a rabies certificate. That's not a bad idea, anyway — public health types have been noticing an increase in rabies in raccoons down around the Washington, D.C. area. It's a rare disease these days — but that's because people were careful to vaccinate their pets. Hear that's dropping off lately . . . Kind of scary idea, isn't it?

Get your licenses from the Town Clerk's office (those folks do just about everything, it seems) at Town Hall, any weekday from 8:30 to 4:30.

Just what those poor, poor folks at the IRS need to hear, after they've scrambled to get all those checks out before they'd have to pay any interest to those taxpayer types. (Anybody else get a check dated May 30 on June 3?)

These fellows from Marengo, Illinois, Bill Benson sent out a press release about their new book, "The Law That Never Was." They say they've uncovered documentation that the 16th Amendment — the law that brought us the beloved income tax — was never properly ratified in 1913.

Might be fun reading — but it probably doesn't apply to the IRS. Nothing else seems to . . .

Speaking of taxes, the state fellows want a pat on the back for their swift processing of returns, which they say was done three weeks faster than last year, and 10 weeks faster than 1983.

Almost 90 percent of this year's refunds were mailed out in less than four weeks after receipt, the press release says. And, they say, 40,000 people got higher refunds than they'd thought. How nice for those folks.

Of course, 60,000 people gave themselves a little too much credit — but the tax-checking folks fixed that. No problem . . .

And, come next Town Day, how about giving them a hand? They could use a little help . . .

Another Soul's Vision Of A Musician's Special Art

It was dark in the cafe. The room breathed and rustled in anticipation. Then a thin stream of light, like liquid smoke, spilled from a spot high on the back wall, piercing the gloom and pooling upon the face of the performer perched on his stool. Because the room was a small one, some of its glow played upon the forms of those seated closest to the stage.

That's how I noticed him in the first place. He wore a plaid shirt and some tan slacks, running shoes and a gold watch. He'd come with his wife. He could have been any one of us there for the concert.

It wasn't until a small movement beneath his chair caught my eye that I spotted his seeing-eye dog.

She slept at his feet, managing to appear comfortable even in her complicated harnesses. Her hindquarters were pressed close against the stage.

Wires from the microphones crisscrossed the floor beneath her body. She sighed from time to time, and rested her chin on her paws beside her master's white cane.

He sat facing in my direction. Looking more closely now, I saw his difference from the other patrons.

His arms were thin and pale, paler than most of us get, even after a long New England winter. His watch, I realized now, was textured with three-dimensional bumps; he reckoned time in the minute topography of Braille.

But mainly it was his eyes that identified him as a blind person. They were more deep-set than the sighted person's eyes and they seemed to gaze out at the room with a certain fierce and deliberate intensity.

He had control of them, it seemed; they didn't roll or wander the way the eyes of some blind people do. They appeared to work together, though their point of focus remained fixed. Their expression was one you often see, in photographs, of the eyes of Lincoln.

In the meantime, the music we had all come to hear swirled in eddies around us. Guitar chords, riffs, and close vocal harmonies poured out into the basement cafe, rose to its windows, and spilled over into the warm night outside.

The blind man attended it more closely than the rest of us, I thought. He held his chin aloft, head tilted slightly to one side. He was listening, and smiling faintly.

His fingers began to tap on the tabletop, then to flutter like birds. They danced, as I watched them, and capered in complicated movement.

At one point, they reached out to his wife's hand, squeezed it, and lingered on her arm.

She replied with an answering grasp. Though her back was to me, I could see she was an attractive woman, small and fineboned. Her hair fell loose and full about her shoulders. She wore a dress of bright rainbow colors, colors her husband could never see, or it may be, even imagine.

He saw other things though; that much was obvious. He saw the music in a way that few people are able to do. I watched him watch it, watched him as he admired the shapes and structures the musicians were building, watched him follow the circles and parabolas and staircases of sound.

It seemed to me that I felt more in the music that night, watching him feel it the way he was doing. He listened with his ears, with his extraordinary deep eyes, with the skin on his arms, almost. He saw the music inside him, the way Beethoven, dead at the end of his life, heard it.

And when the concert had ended, he signalled to his dog, who rose, instantly alert and watchful. His wife rose too, and I thought again what a shame it was that he couldn't see the fine line of her jaw, or the brilliant hues of her dress.

Then she turned in my direction, took up her own white cane and showed me that they both dwelled in the same kingdom after all, one which, by all the signs, was a place of great and quiet beauty.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

There's No Gap Between Town's Kids And Elders

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A few years ago, there was a strong feeling in town that Winchester's young people had feelings on attitudes of resentment and disrespect towards our senior citizens.

I know that sincere efforts were made to reconcile the situation by groups of Winchester's Seniors Association personnel visiting and talking with the high school students, and they in turn, invited to visit the Senior Center. It has been an ongoing project for some time. (Not an official statement.)

Perhaps other factors have also occurred to improve the relationship as witness the following.

For the past few years, when not disabled by aging maladies, I take a walk from the Symmes Corner area, on Main Street, towards the center, generally about school release time.

I meet elementary, junior high, and high school students enroute home. It is amazing and heartening to have so many of these young people say "Hi" to me as they pass me!

I can't tell you how much this boosts my morale! I have been somewhat of a shut-in for the past three and a half months and have only recently been able to resume my daily walk, aided by crutches.

The many "hi's" that have greeted me the past week have really cheered me up to the degree that I felt I ought to make an effort to publicly thank these youngsters and to make parents aware of the kindness of their children of elementary through high school ages.

Reader Objects To Tone Of Story

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I consider the article, "Town Must Report Status of Housing," which appeared in the May 30 issue of The Winchester Star, to be insulting to the residents of Winchester and to your profession as a journalist.

I expect news articles to be objective and factual. I expect editorials to be vehicles of opinion and particular view points.

News articles which include such statements as, "Winchester had to stop trying to hope the fair housing issue would go away," strongly reflect the editor's subjective opinion and should not appear as news, unsigned, on the front page. Editorials belong, signed, on editorial pages.

When I subscribed to the Winchester Star, I expected to receive a quality newspaper. Instead, week after week, I find The Star to be one big editorial in the guise of professional journalism.

Since this approach to the news seems to be a persistent pattern in The Star, I am asking that you cancel my subscription.

Sincerely,
Ann Hathaway

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

This week's report records votes on roll calls from the week of May 27-31.

DRUG DEALERS (S 604) — Senate 18-18 refused to accept the recommendation of the Criminal Justice Committee that the Senate defeat a bill providing that any person in possession of illegal drugs worth more than $25,000 be held without bail.

Supporters of the bill said this will prevent big drug dealers from posting bail and then disappearing. Opponents said the bill is unconstitutional and noted the state has other laws that are tough on pushers.

A "Yea" vote is against the bill. A "Nay" vote is for it.

Sen. Richard Kraus voted yes.

GAYS — Senate 22-10 refused to table resolutions stating it should be the policy of the Department of Social Services to place children in need of foster care in the care of persons whose sexual orientation presents no threat to the well-being of the child.

Supporters said it was irresponsible and immoral to place children with gays.

Some opponents said the resolutions are unfair, anti-gay, and noted gays can provide the proper environment for children. Others said the resolutions are unnecessary because the department has already adopted a policy and several said the Senate should wait until more facts are known.

A "Yea" vote is for tabling the resolutions. A "Nay" vote is against tabling.

Kraus voted yes, paired present.

STATE BUDGET (H 6000) — House 124-17 gave near final approval and sent to the Senate the $8.8 billion fiscal 1986 state budget.

Supporters said the package was a fiscally responsible one which will provide quality services and additional local aid. Opponents said the budget was loaded with unnecessary items and does not offer any tax relief.

A "Yea" vote is for the budget. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

CHILD SUPPORT (H 6000) — House 116-29 rejected an amendment increasing funding for the Essex County District Attorney's child support enforcement section by $28,000.

Supporters said the funds are used to collect child support and noted since October 1982 this unit has produced an income of $600,000. Opponents said the solution to the problem is to change and toughen state laws regarding collections.

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

MENTAL HEALTH (H 6000) — House 75-67 approved an amendment earmarking $500,000 in funds from the Department of Mental Health budget for hiring psychiatrists and clinical psychologists for state mental hospitals.

Supporters said the amendment insures this money will go directly to help patients and to determine when patients should be released. Opponents said the earmarking is too restrictive and said the commissioner needs the flexibility to hire other mental health workers.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Both roll calls are listed below.

Saltmarsh voted yes twice.

RULES (S 2170) — House 111-31 approved a House-Senate conference committee version of the 1985-1986 joint House-Senate rules. Provisions include giving committees oversight powers; requiring each committee to hold a public hearing on its bills;

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

LANDFILLS (H 6000) — House 105-33 rejected an amendment providing a $12.5 million reserve to eventually fund the correction of design deficiencies in municipal sanitary landfills.

Supporters, noting the state auditor recently decided the state should pay for mandated landfill projects, said the amendment will send Gov. Dukakis a message to act quickly on this dangerous situation. Opponents said the amendment was a Band-aid approach to a serious problem and urged the House to wait for Dukakis to file his comprehensive bill dealing with the problem.

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

NURSES (S 2164) — House 103-41 gave initial approval to a bill allowing physician assistants, nurse practitioners, nurse midwives, and psychiatric nurses to order certain diagnostic tests and prescribe drugs for patients.

Supporters, noting the nurses could only do so under a doctor's supervision, said the bill includes safeguards and will reduce costs and improve access without sacrificing quality. Opponents said the bill grants a dangerous extension of authority and noted that the "supervision" does not even require the presence of a doctor.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

POLLING PLACES (H 2715) — House first rejected 72-70, then gave initial approval 74-63, to a bill expanding the current law which prohibits the display or distribution of materials relating to the ongoing election within 150 feet of polling places. The bill would apply the same prohibition to materials relating to future elections.

Supporters of the bill said this eliminates a loophole in the current law which has allowed future candidates to stand at the polling place door and harass voters. Opponents said the bill discourages personal contact and signature gathering and claimed it actually destroys its own intent by placing everyone at 150 feet and not allowing voters to easily get through to the polling place.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Both roll calls are listed below.

Saltmarsh voted yes twice.

RULES (S 2170) — House 111-31 approved a House-Senate conference committee version of the 1985-1986 joint House-Senate rules. Provisions include giving committees oversight powers; requiring each committee to hold a public hearing on its bills; allowing committees to draft and report out their own "committee" bills; allowing two committee members to require a committee roll call on any bill, requiring scheduling of committee hearings so they are not in conflict with House and Senate sessions; and providing for an outside independent audit of joint financial accounts by a certified public accountant.

Supporters said the package was innovative and included most of the reforms approved in the original House package. Opponents said the package did not contain several vital reforms including prohibiting passage of laws by inserting language in outside sections of the state budget and allowing for "carryover" of bills from the first year of a legislative session to the second.

A "Yea" vote is for the package. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Winchester I like it because of the duck pond.
I like to see the ducks,
They are funny and they are cute.
and I like Baskin Robbins. I like ice cream. It is cold and my favorite is strawberry and chocolate. It is yummy in tummy, and I like the park I like the jungle gym and the swings.

Winchester

I will miss Winchester when I move back to Japan because I liked the Enka fair. It had all kinds of rides, games, prizes, and video games. Next what I liked about Winchester was a safe place to live. In some towns, it's not safe to go outside. And I liked the park not made out of cement. I think the dry town idea is good so people will not get drunk and make trouble. And there are good schools and good teachers. And you can see movies and rent them. It's a very clean town to live in. There are all kinds of festivals like Town Day and Enka. Winchester is a great place to live.

I like Winchester because of the dogs and cats and the dog show coming soon. I also like my family

ARTS &amp; ENTERTAINMENT

Auditions Open
For 'Fantasticks'

Auditions for Winchester Players' musical "The Fantasticks" will be Sunday, June 9 at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday, June 11 at 7:30 p.m., upstairs at Winchester Unitarian Church.

Rehearsals will be Sept. 3 and the show will be performed in November. Directors suggest bringing a prepared audition song, but will select a tryout piece if necessary.

The love story's parts include:

- The Narrator (El Gallo), a seasoned man with a powerful presence. He can be serene, animated, honest, dishonest, compassionate, cruel, delicate, crass, romantic or cadish — without batting an eye. His songs are vocally demanding in both ballads and up-tempo numbers. Some dance necessary.

- Luisa, a 16-year-old girl infatuated with the woman she is becoming. She is theatrical, obsessed with all the delightful romantic fantasies, yet displays the awkwardness of a teenage girl in love. Her songs are very demanding, requiring an agile soprano voice. Some dance necessary.

- Matt, 19, filled with dreams of grandeur. He is expressive, sensitive and bright. He sings difficult passages in both ballads and up-tempo numbers in a tenor voice. Some dance necessary.

- Hucklebee, 40 years or older. Matt's father, he prides himself on his knowledge of horticulture and is more concerned with the appearance of his garden than his own looks. His manner is a bit rough around the edges, but in a lovable way. He sings and dances.

- Bellamy, 40 or older, Luisa's father. He is a button salesman, meticulously groomed, young-spirited. His frugality borders on penny-pinching, but he's nonetheless a good guy. He sings and dances.

- Mortimer, male or female. Henry's younger assistant. He or she has a small build and moves well. Mortimer is the biggest ham in the show, able to twich and snivel and speak in thick cockney all at once.

- The Mute (The Wall), no specific age, preferably slimly built. This character does not speak during the show but is always present, carrying out difficult tasks like a stage manager. He or she is not entirely stoic, but must be comfortable in stillness.

For more information, please call 926-3805.

Local Acting Club
To Meet, Perform

The Winchester Players will hold an open annual meeting at 7:30 tonight in Metcalf Hall at the Unitarian Church.

After a short business meeting and elections, players will present the one-act comedy "An Actor's Nightmare," starring Bob Ross, Al Leach, Alice Gross, Dot Roemer and Ann Baehr.

Ross directed the group's production of "Man of La Mancha" and has performed in several other plays.

At the meeting, refreshments will be served.

Local Pianists
Win Scholarships

Winchester residents Leslie Lien, Elizabeth Wechsler and Daphne Zervoglos have been awarded the high school diploma by the National Guild of Piano Teachers after completing the Guild's diploma examination judged by A.C. Trapp from Leesburg, La.

Each girl presented a memorized program which included a prelude and fugue from Bach's Well Tempered Clavier, a complete classical sonata, and five additional works from the 19th and 20th century piano repertoire.

The three young women also received the Guild's Paderewski Gold Medal and $100 scholarships for receiving superior ratings in auditions for ten years. Although more than 115,000 piano students participate in the Guild's yearly auditions, fewer than 100 qualify for the high school diploma and scholarship award.

Lien is a 1984 graduate of Concord Academy and will attend Harvard College in the fall. Wechsler is a graduate of the Winsor School and will attend Princeton University. Zervoglos, a graduate of Winchester High School, will be a freshman at Tufts University in September.

The three girls plan to continue their piano study at the college level.

Letters Policy

Letters to The Editor are welcome on matters of interest to local readers. Deadline for submission is 1 p.m. on Monday. Letters should be typed, and limited to 250 words. Names will be withheld upon request. Anonymous letters will not be published.

Local Students Will Perform
For Church Garden Concert

The first of this summer's Cloister Garden Concerts will be presented next Thursday evening, June 13, at 8:30 in the garden of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St., Winchester.

The concert, featuring the Treble Chorus of New England, will be devoted to music of the British Isles, from madrigals to Benjamin Britten. The program will include songs from "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "Pirates of Penzance" staged in costume.

Based at South Church in Andover, the 70-voice children's chorus is a regional organization with concerts throughout the Greater Boston area and New England to its credit. Members include Winchester residents Matthew Behnke, Megan Brady, Michael Callahan, and Emily White.

The Treble Chorus' busy schedule has included performances at Hammond Castle, on WGBH-FM's "Morning Pro Musica," and on WCRB with Dave McNeill. Last year the group participated in the American premiere of Paul Earls' opera, "Icarus," at MIT's Kresge Auditorium.

The group recently completed a spring concert tour of New England colleges.

Marie Stultz, founder and director of the Treble Chorus, holds a master of music degree from Southern Methodist University and has spent most of her life teaching. She now devotes most of her time to composing and conducting, and has studied both disciplines extensively in New England and abroad.

Stultz is pursuing her study of composition with John Heiss at New England conservatory. Her recent works include "Japanese Lyrics" for harp, flute, and voice, which had its premiere in Dallas in 1983, and "Caprice au Vent," performed at Harvard in 1984.

The Cloister Garden Concerts are open to the public. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance by calling the office of the Parish of the Epiphany, 729-1922.

Cheryl Hartford, Matthew Behnke and Annelisse Schumm enjoy a light moment during the operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore." The three sing with the Treble Chorus of New England, which will perform July 13 at the Parish of the Epiphany in Winchester. Behnke is a student at McCall Junior High.

Arthritis Foundation Offers Free Counsel

The Massachusetts chapter of the Arthritis Foundation offers a free physician counseling service to the public throughout Massachusetts.

Rheumatologist Dr. James D. C. Gowans, Clinical Professor of Medicine Emeritus of Tufts University Medical School, volunteers his services twice a week to the Arthritis Foundation.

Any person with a medical concern about arthritis may call Dr. Gowans toll free, 1-800-882-1464, on Tuesdays between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., and on Fridays between 2 and 4 p.m.

Dr. Gowans will answer arthritis-related questions on diet, medication, treatment, surgical intervention, physician/patient communication, and any other concerns.

Dr. Gowans has been an active member of the Massachusetts chapter of the Arthritis Foundation since 1965, serving in many volunteer capacities: as trustee, financial chairman, on the development committee, and now as the chapter's Medical Director.

For pamphlets or other free information on any of the known forms of arthritis, write to the Arthritis Foundation, P.O. Box 602, Boston 02112 or call, toll free, 1-800-882-1464.

Gifted Children Talk Planned For Monday

The Parent Connection of Arlington announces that Winchester resident Constance Stow, an educational consultant to parents and teachers of gifted children, will offer a workshop entitled "Is My Child Gifted?" from 7:30-9:30 p.m. on Monday, June 10.

At this workshop, parents can learn the characteristics of giftedness and some of the special needs of gifted children. They can learn how to provide encouragement, support, stimulation and challenge for their child. They will discuss how to find resources for their child: Special schools, special programs, books, materials and people.

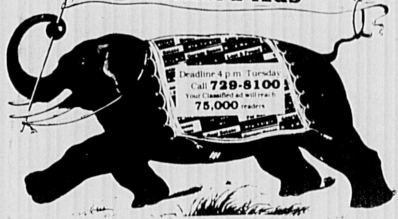

Parents can learn how to advocate for their child and how to tie into the network of parents, teachers and other professionals who are interested, concerned and knowledgeable about gifted children.

Preregistration is required. Openings are still available for this workshop. Call 641-2229 for more information and to preregister.

The Parent Connection is a non-profit center offering daytime and evening minicourses and support groups on all aspects of parenting as well as information and referral services. The Parent Connection also sponsors a consignment shop selling maternity and children's clothing, toys and baby equipment. The Center is located in a Victorian house at 1210 Massachusetts ave., near Arlington Heights, and is open to the public from 10-4 Monday through Friday and 10-3 on Saturdays.

Participants from Winchester and more than 30 other communities in the Greater Boston area have attended programs at the Parent Connection.

SENIOR NOTES

Boston Bus Trip

A huge two-story bus wheeled into the parking lot at the Jenks Senior Center recently, departing for a 4-hour bus tour of Boston. A total of 63 seniors learned about Boston during the eventful tour. Mary DeCourcy arranged all of the details of a delightful trip that will bear repeating for others to enjoy.

Mary De Courcy, a member of Winchester Seniors Assn. Recreation Committee, planned the group's recent tour of Boston historical sites.

June Dance

On Saturday, June 15, from 8 to midnight, seniors will dance to the melodious rhythms of Dick Brogna's Band. The evening is titled, "The Senior Prom," and is open to all. Light refreshments are available at these monthly social gatherings organized by Anne Feuss, Ways and Means chairperson.

Strawberry Festival

The Annual Strawberry Festival, served by Helen Hodgdon and the Food Committee, will beat 1 p.m., June 19, in the meeting room of the Jenks Senior Center. There will be shortcake and an exhibit of items created by members of Jane Norberg's Crafts and Stitchery Class. Registration is required.

New Officers

The Winchester Council on Aging, a town board formed in June 1973, consists of 11 Winchester residents appointed by the Selectmen for three-year rotating terms, and a full-time paid administrator.

Council on Aging recently elected new officers including Chairwoman Helen Dome, Vice Chairman Larry Beckley, Treasurer Vincent Berger and Secretary Isabel Grasso.

The Council is concerned with long-range plans and policies for the benefit of all Winchester seniors. It is also responsible for inter-departmental collaborations, outside funding, coordination with other communities, the Department of Elder Affairs and Minuteman Home Care Corporation.

Recently, the Council on Aging elected the following officers: chairperson: Helen Dome; vice chairperson: Lawrence Beckley; treasurer/clerk: Vincent Berger; secretary: Isabel Grasso; members: James Donohoe, William Keith, Dr. Donald McLean, Robert Morrison, Robert Mulford, John Null, Rev. Dr. Donald Rowlingston.

Associate Members: Edwin Palmer, Helen Murphy, Anthony Nowlan, Regina Karnilla.
Historian: Dr. Leonor Rich.

Guest Speaker

A lecture will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m. on June 11 at the Jenks Senior Center. The subject of "Strokes: The Declining Incidence, and Types and Outcomes of Strokes" will be addressed by Dr. Joseph Cuccia, a former neurologist at the New England Medical Center. Cuccia practices in Winchester.

Dr. Robert Smith, chairman of the Jenks Center Health Committee, is in charge of arrangements. All are invited and sign-up is at the Jenks Senior Center.

Canoeing

Malcolm and Claire Masters are opening the canoeing season with Saturday trips to rivers and lakes. No prior knowledge of canoeing is required, but participants should be able to swim. Masters owns a small fleet of canoes and shares them generously with interested seniors. For more information call Masters.

Hiking

Walking is one of the best types of physical exercise. Malcolm Masters has planned a hike at Horn Pond in Woburn on Friday, June 7. (The rain date is June 14.) Call the Jenks Senior Center to sign up and the group will meet there at 9:30 a.m.

Home Helpers

The Jenks Senior Center receives many requests for seniors to assist in the home either with other elders or with children. For more information call Barbara Ciampa, program administrator, at the Jenks Senior Center.

Winchester seniors are off on a double-decker bus tour of Boston. The trip was sponsored by Winchester Seniors Assn. Recreation Committee.

Volunteers Needed

The Senior Center, in cooperation with Channel 19, will offer a course on the use and application of TV equipment for four 90-minute sessions on August 6, 7, 20 and 21 from noon to 1:30 p.m. The training course will prepare seniors to use the equipment at the Jenks Senior Center. Call Jenks Senior Center for more information.

Clinic Help Needed

The vital health services offered to seniors under the direction of Ann Ciampa, R.N., is in need of volunteer nurses. The clinic is held on the first and third Thursdays of each month. Potential volunteers should call the Jenks Senior Center if they can devote some time to taking blood pressure and giving individual health counseling to seniors.

Desk Receptionists

The information referral desk at the Jenks Senior Center is the contact area for the Winchester Seniors Assn. and the Council on Aging. Volunteers are needed to serve at this important hub of communication with the public. Louise Kelly, chairman, will welcome all to this important group of volunteers.

Film Is Set

The monthly movie on Friday, June 21, at 1 p.m., features Charlie Chaplin in "City Lights." The public is invited. The film focuses on a lonely little hobo's affection for a lovely blind girl. Although produced during the early sound period, Chaplin rejected dialogue, preferring to continue silent screen pantomime. It was written, produced, and directed by Chaplin with Virginia Cherrill and Harry Myers.

CLUB NOTES

Winton Club Elects New Officers

The Winton Club held its annual meeting and election of officers at a luncheon May 8 at the Winchester Country Club.

Marjorie C. Mason, an original Winton Club member, was honored, along with Madge H. Spencer and Dorothy D. Stone, who have are both 50-year members.

Through the years, the Winton Club has grown to 288 members, who contributed $40,475 — and almost 5,500 hours of service — to Winchester Hospital since April 1984.

In addition, 12 new members joined during the past year.

Meredith Ciotti reported on the hospital gift shop, while Janice Coakley and Susan Powers reported on this year's "Hats Off" cabaret.

Chairmen of the volunteer services for the coffee shop and the gift cart also gave reports.

Nine members were congratulated for their 10 years of active service. They were: Mary B. Barger, Cecily Bradshaw, Edna Dayton, Eleanor Fitzgerald, Leslie French, Phyllis Gleason, Jacquelin Hefferman, Ruth Tunnicliffe and Jane Twichell.

Agnes Sarmanian and the buyers for the gift shop displayed some of the new items now available at the shop. Meanwhile, new cabaret chairman gave a preliminary report on the next show, which will be titled "Celebrate".

Carol Johnson gave the report of the nominating committee. Named president was Eleanor Fitzgerald, vice president, Ann Marie Anderson, secretary, Janet Jones and treasurer, Patricia Harte.

The following committee chairmen will also serve: membership, Ruth DeSanctis; nominating, Mary Vitka; cabaret, Maryalyce Norris; activities, Joan Johnson; gift shop, Agnes Sarmanian; gift shop volunteers, Margaret Otis; and coffee shop volunteers, Nancy Haskell.

Toastmistress Group Plans Last Meeting

Winchester Toastmistress Club's last meeting of the season will focus on the color coordinated dress for success program called "Color Me Beautiful," with Lois Hamilton of Malden.

The program will be at 7 p.m. on Monday, June 10, at the public library, 80 Washington st.

Following a brief business meeting, presided by Beverly Malatesta of Watertown, president June Pietrantonio will introduce new member Patricia Dacey of Brookline.

The Toastmistresses will introduce guest speaker sandia Francour, who will tell members and guests about "Color Me Beautiful."

Officers of the Winchester Toastmistresses were elected at the last meeting. They include: president, Beverly Malatesta of Watertown, vice president, Gail Harris of Melrose, secretary, Marilyn Hillman of Everett, treasurer, Anne Swenson of Melrose and council delegate, Madeline Murray of Somerville.

The installation dinner meeting will be at 6:30 on June 17 at the Cafe Escadrille on Route 3 in Burlington. Carol Johnson of Melrose will lead the installation ceremony. Members and their guests are invited to attend.

For more information, call Carol Johnson at 665-1796 or Madeline Murray at 625-9503.

Holyoke Club Plans Picnic

On Sunday, June 9, the Mount Holyoke Club of Mystic Valley will hold its annual picnic from 3 to 6 p.m. at the home of Kate Leen, 751 Main st., Woburn.

The club, which has numerous Winchester members, welcomes all alumnae to attend the 1984-85 season finale.

To help a national Girl Scout fundraiser, Winchester Troop 1496 presents a donation to fundraiser Chairwoman Mary Lou Eugley. Patriots Trail Girl Scout Council wants to raise $2.5 million to renovate campsites. Contributors are: (first row) Rachel Gallery, Jennifer Arnot, Jennifer Deering, Lisa Boutwell, Mary Lou Eugley, Pamela Taylor, Heather Murphy, (second row) Jennifer Russo, Melanie Dunlop, (third row) Connie Ann Fumara, Kerry Oliver, Nampiera Liguira, Lindsay Schlorff, Lauren Rotondi, and Sundry Johnson.

For reservations or arrangements for transportation, call Barbara MacLeod at 39 Westwood rd., Stoneham.

Democrats Will Meet

The next meeting of the Winchester Democratic Town Committee will be at 8 on Monday, June 10, at Town Hall.

At the meeting, a draft of a housing statement will be reviewed for approval by the committee. Also on the agenda will be a report on the results of the committee's activities at Town Day.

New members are always welcome to attend the meetings of the Democratic Town Committee.

Local Women's Network Plans Luncheon Meeting

The Middlesex Community College Women's Network will hold a luncheon meeting at the Lord Bedford Inn, 340 Great rd., Bedford, on Thursday, June 13, from 11:45 a.m. to 2 p.m. The featured speaker for this meeting will be Joan Nyman, a business consultant to small businesses and professional practices.

Nyman will discuss dealing effectively as a businesswoman in a businessman's world. Topics to be included are games your mother never taught you and how to handle them, why women are at a disadvantage, avoiding common mistakes, chauvinism, professional equality and achieving career goals.

In addition to many years of practical experience as a business consultant, Nyman has conducted workshops and seminars for the First Bank, the Small Business Administration and Northern Essex Community College. She has been a guest speaker at various professional groups, including the Merrimack Valley Women's Network.

The cost of this meeting and luncheon is $8 for members and $10 for non-members. For further information or reservations, call Middlesex Community College Division of Education/Community Services at 275-8910, ext. 291.

WHS Girls Win By 3-2

By DAVID DEMARCO

On Thursday, May 30, the Winchester High girls tennis team was involved in a very close tournament match with Newton South. The Sachemettes had a good day, coming away with a 3-2 victory.

In first singles, Karen McCall was defeated by Mimi Kauffman 6-1, 7-5. Winchester received a victory in second singles as twin sister Linda McCall beat Nicole Jackson 6-2, 6-0. Kathy Gray of Winchester was defeated in third singles, by Newton's Kyla Upshaw 6-4, 6-1, 1-6.

First doubles was all Winchester — as Mary Pat Fussy and Lulu Kermond were victorious over Stacey Millender and Lisa Teascher 6-2, 6-3.

Second doubles, also belonged to the Sachemettes, as Kristen Rothman and Kelly O'Callaghan won easily, beating Amy Freedman and Wendy Goldenberg 6-3, 6-0.

Winchester was set to face Concord/Carlisle on Tuesday, June 4, for the Eastern Mass. Finals.

Sachems Stopped In Final

By DAVID DEMARCO

The Sachems ended the regular season on a poor note, as they dropped a night game to Lowell High 6-2 on Wednesday, May 29.

Winchester High has already made the tournament, however they have lost their last two games in a

The Runner's Eye

By Steve Norton

Dear Readers,

The "Runner's Eye" has a new assistant. Amy Collins, grade 7, wrote me a note about her Dad — her running Dad. So, with a little help from me I'd like to present Amy Collins' first article.

My Dad, The Runner

When Eric Collins was a football player and wrestler at Winchester High School a decade or so ago, he didn't enjoy running. In fact, he avoided it as much as possible at practices.

Now he spends as much time as he can running. He works it into his busy schedule, between his family and his job working with handicapped people.

He sometimes takes his 4-year-old daughter Victoria (Vicky) for short runs through the Pond area.

Collins started out running four miles every other day and was running 6.2 mile road races (10K's as they are known) in 48 minutes. Now he is up to 30 to 50 miles a week and his personal record for 10K's is 40 minutes and 18 seconds.

Besides running, the other important things in Eric Collins life are God and family. He tries to combine these interests however and whenever he can.

"I like to think and clear my mind when I run. I try to pray and devote attention to God or meditate," he said.

He plans to step up training for his first marathon, maybe in the fall sometime.

Swimming The Channel

By STEVE NORTON

(NOTE: Jeff Sheard and his wife accompanied Kumar Anandan, the first man to die attempting to swim the English Channel. Sheard wrote me when he returned to the United States — the following is his letter.)

I find myself struggling to find the right words as I recollect my experiences in Dover, England leading up to my attempt at the English Channel.

Little was I prepared for what would happen during my three week visit to this strange country.

Having completed several 26.2 mile marathons, as well as the "Ironman Triathlon" (2.4 mile swim, 124 mile bike ride, 26.2 mile run), I took to swimming when a severe knee ailment left me half lame.

In Kona, Hawaii, following the 1982 Ironman, a few of my friends had discussed the English Channel. A year later, I would begin my training.

My hours of running and cycling were immediately translated into swimming, swimming and more swimming.

Soon after, I contacted the best Channel coach of them all, Tom Hetzel, a retired New York Cop now living in Corpus Christie, Texas. Hetzel had swam the Channel on seven different occasions. Tom is extremely particular about who he coaches and only after months of writing to him did he finally agree to take me on.

My appointment with the English Channel was scheduled sometime between August 5 through 9, 1984. During this time, the tides were the lowest and more suitable for a successful attempt.

Throughout the course of the summer the channel waters are suitable for a successful attempt about five or six times. I chose August, hoping the frigid channel water might be a bit warmer.

After hundreds of miles of intense training Hetzel and I were to meet in Dover two weeks prior to my attempt. Up to this time my only contact with Tom was through mail or by phone. We trained in Dover, gradually climatizing to the water. On day one, Hetzel instructed me to swim for two hours, day two I swam for three hours, and gradually increased to six hours.

Because the channel tides are so unpredictable, one never really knows just what day an attempt will be made. It is strictly an exercise in patience. The Saturday before I was to attempt the swim, I encountered the man who will go down in channel history — Kumar Anandan. He had just checked into the hotel with his cousin and brother, who were there to witness his channel attempt.

A gentleman, Kumar stood about 5'6" and weighed about 140 pounds — not the ideal physique for swimming the channel. Kumar told us he was from Sri Lanka, a small troubled island off the coast of India. Kumar told us of his training in the warm waters of the Indian Ocean and how he hadn't had time to properly train in the Channel waters. Despite his lack of cold water training, Kumar would attempt the channel.

The more he talked, the more insecure I felt about his upcoming challenge. I could tell by Brigid's and Don's eyes that Kumar had little chance of beating the frigid waters that separate Dover from the Coast of France. Kumar, although 36-years-old, had the youthful look of innocence and could easily pass for a man ten years younger.

I tried to relax Kumar by explaining to him that like many endurance events, the channel is a mind game and that he could think his way through the cold water. Besides, the channel grease consisting of lanolin and paraffin would protect him from the cold.

Sunday, August 5, proved to be a bad day for an attempt. Winds were expected to be 5 to 6 on a scale of 1 to 10. Kumar decided to chance the waters.

Hours later, as I lay in my room trying to relax, trying to catch up on sleep, I heard a quiet knock on my door. Hetzel entered and sat on the end of my bed. He reported the news to me. Kumar was dead. A victim of his dreams.

Two hours into Kumar's swim he developed problems and was struggling in the chilling 59-degree water. It was quite apparent he could not continue.

Efforts to rescue him were unsuccessful as Kumar would swim away from the boat out of the grasp of the crew members. The grease on his body made him almost impossible to grab. After several minutes of cat and mouse, Kumar was finally aboard. He was given emergency treatment, but was pronounced dead soon after.

My immediate thoughts were the advice I had given Kumar about thinking through the cold water. Was it this advice that led to this terrible tragedy? After Kumar's death, I never did make an attempt to swim the channel. It just didn't seem that important anymore.

The death of Kumar Anandan has made me a better person, a better athlete. I will never forget the image of a man struggling to cross the channel, refusing to be pulled in — relentless in his quest to conquer his lifelong dream.

Opportunity For Summer Adventure

You can be part of the action this summer, as part of the Winchester Recreation Department's Adventure Connection.

At this time, there is still space available in all of the programs — from the action-packed day trips to intense week long programs. The day trips will take residents from Wingersheek beach to Whalom Amusement Park and Aquaboggon Land in Maine. You can also enjoy a canoe trip down the Charles River and an exciting day of deep sea fishing. Then, if you want real action, come to a Red Sox night game and watch them dismantle the Chicago White Sox.

In addition to the day trips, there will be three overnight trips (3day/2 nights). You can spend 3 days canoeing down the Saco River in Maine and/or hiking Eastern United States Highest Mountain: Mount Washington. If Canoeing and hiking isn't right for you, spend a few casual days bicycling around Martha's Vineyard.

There are also four, week-long programs that may be of interest. Residents can learn the finer aspects of acting and theatre, learn proper camera techniques and film developing in the photography workshop.

Become part of America's fastest growing sport as a member in our lacrosse clinic. You could also enter the world of fame if you enroll in the television production class, where you can experience the world of television with hands on experience.

Lacrosse Team Bows In Final Contest

By DAVID DEMARCO

On Tuesday, May 28, the Winchester lacrosse team ended a difficult season, losing to Billerica 7-5.

The game was close, as Billerica only lead 2-1 at the half. Mistakes cost the Sachems again, as they could not get close enough to Billerica to take the lead.

The Sachems were lead by Jim Campo who had two goals on the day. Mike Murray and Rob Murphy each netted one for Winchester.

Scott Hughes finished the scoring for Winchester, with his first goal of the season. A frustrated Jim Campo commented, "They were the worst team we saw all year. We just overestimated them and couldn't recover."

Coach Gene Bouky summed up this year with "I was upset, it was not what I expected. I feel we never really

Spring Tourney Success

The Winchester Tennis Assoc. recently conducted a successful spring tourney, tipping off before a crowd of 175 participants under sunny skies during Memorial day weekend.

The finals were played on Monday, along with an awards ceremony, to wind up the open house celebration at the Winchester tennis club on East St.

In the women's doubles, Diane Intravia and Diana Khabbaz strode past Judy Harrington and Janice Frisoli in three sets. The family doubles, meanwhile, featured winners Lou and Gloria Desmarteaux.

The Desmarteauxs also won the Memorial Draw Trophy, beating John and Hank Lynch.

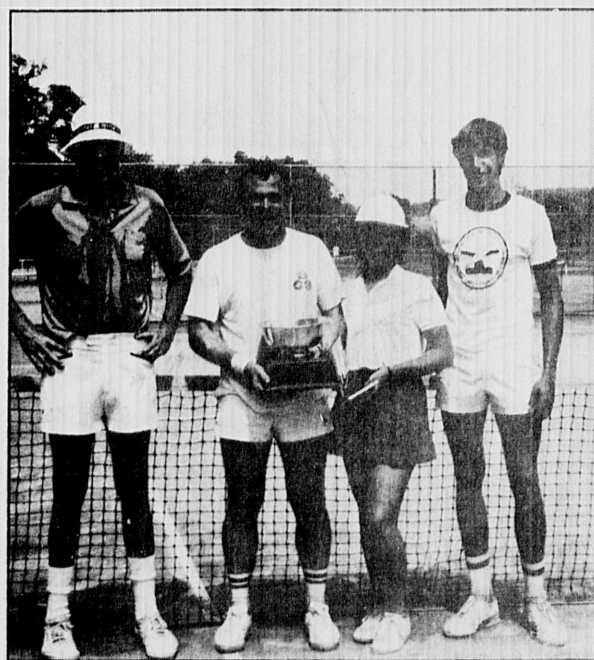

The men's doubles was won by Glen Ciotti and John Minniti, who beat Mark Totman and Al Samoiloff to win the Deb Bellows Trophy.

Ciotti also teamed up with Gloria Desmarteaux in the mixed doubles, to beat Patty Lavin and mark Totman in three sets.

The co-chairmen, Pat Bonnell and Patty Levin, have extended their appreciation to all who attended the Memorial Day events, and especially Rich Rowe, who helped out at the board during play.

row, to finish the season at a 14-6 mark.
The Sachems seemed as if they weren't able to bounce back after the Woburn loss, as errors hurt them again.

The team just did not seem up for this contest. Brian Carroll started for the Sachems and pitched four innings, giving up six hits, three runs on seven walks and four strikeouts.

David Koffman came on briefly, with no ill results. Tim Budrewicz made his first relief appearance of the spring and pitched nearly two innings of uneventful ball.

At the plate, the Sachems were stale, as they could manage only five hits on the night.

Gareth Kenton never had a bad day, as he produced two RBIs on an infield hit. Brian Carroll was strong at the plate, as he went two for four on the evening.

Winchester has a week off now, as the tournament berths are decided.

The Sachems will likely play on Friday, June 7. However no time or team had been decided as of press time.

Summer Tryout

The Winchester Summer Sachems, members of the Northeast Summer League, will conduct a tryout on Saturday, June 8 at Manchester Field at 11 a.m.

Anybody between the ages of 14 and 18 may try out. Any questions, call coach Larry Crowley at 729-6593.

Chokesaving Class Set For Eateries

A chokesaving class for restaurant personnel will meet 7 to 9 p.m. on June 11 at the Winchester Public Library.

The course is designed to help restaurants comply with a state chokesaving law. The law says restaurants seating 25 or more must have someone trained in chokesaving on duty at all times.

Noncompliance can result in a $50 per day fine.

Space is limited for the program. Applicants should notify the Winchester Board of Health by Friday, May 7 to reserve a place.

Winchester Fire Dept. Lt. John Nash will conduct the chokesaving training session.

Breast X-Ray Risk May Be Lower

Mammography, or x-ray of the breast tissue, allows physicians to diagnose breast cancer at an extremely early and highly curable stage.

Evidence shows that mammography can detect very small, localized breast cancers in women 35 to 49 years old and consequently gives these women a better chance of long-term survival, said doctors at Boston University Medical Center.

Mammography has made significant contributions to the diagnosis of breast disease in symptomatic women and in the detection of breast cancer in women without symptoms age 50 and older.

However, in younger asymptomatic women, the role of mammography is less clearly established. Many have questioned its use and have been concerned about the hypothetical risk from exposure to radiation during the mammography.

In 1983, the American Cancer Society provided new guidelines to physicians for younger asymptomatic women. These guidelines are based on improvement in the quality and diagnostic accuracy of mammography in recent years, coupled with a marked reduction in the radiation dose.

The risk of inducing breast cancer with modern equipment is determined to be negligible, the society said. Because one-third of breast cancers occur in women between the ages of 35 and 49 years, and most cancers are detected by mammography, the American Cancer Society believes asymptomatic women 40 years and older benefit from mammography.

Last year breast cancer dropped from the position of number one cancer killer of American women to number two, replaced by lung cancer.

Unfortunately, there are no fewer cases of breast cancer; rather, there are more cases of lung cancer. Nearly 120,000 new cases of breast cancer will likely be diagnosed in 1985.

The American Cancer Society recommends that asymptomatic women between the ages of 40 and 49 should have a physician examine their breasts annually and that mammography should be performed at intervals of one to two years.

Other guidelines recommended by the American Cancer Society are:

- Women 20 years of age and older should perform breast self-examination regularly.
- Women 20 to 40 should have a physical examination of the breast every three years, and women over 40, as stated above, should have one every year.
- Women between the ages of 35 and 40 should have a single baseline mammogram.

- Women over 50 should have a mammogram yearly.
- Women with personal or family histories of breast cancer should consult their physicians about the need for more frequent examinations or about a periodic mammography before age 50.

HEALTH BEAT

Free Skin Cancer Tests Offered

Lawrence Memorial Hospital and five area dermatologists will run a free skin cancer screening on Saturday, June 22, to fight the most prevalent form of cancer in the United States.

The screening will be in the Ambulatory Care Center of the hospital, 170 Governors ave., Medford from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

"Our screening program is part of an intensive, nationwide effort by the American Academy of Dermatology to educate Americans about ways they can protect themselves from skin cancer, the incidence of which is rising at an alarming rate," said screening chairman Herbert White, M.D., Senior Clinical Instructor at Tufts Medical College.

According to the National Cancer Institute, melanoma and other skin cancers affect approximately one in seven Americans; between 30 and 40 percent of all cancers diagnosed are skin cancers.

Dermatologists are particularly alarmed that the number of reported melanoma cases has doubled every decade since the 1930s. Melanoma is a relatively uncommon, but very serious, form of skin cancer. The American Cancer Society predicts that in 1985 the number of reported melanoma cases will climb by nearly 25 percent.

If the present trend continues, one in 100 Americans by the year 2000 will suffer from the disease during his or her lifetime.

"We are offering the screening in hopes that early detection of skin cancer will save the lives of many area residents who are unaware they have the disease," said White. "Our goal is to encourage people of all ages to watch for and recognize the telltale signs of skin cancers and to sensitize them to the need for regular self and physician examinations. Almost 100 percent of skin cancers — including malignant melanomas — are potentially curable if we catch them in their early stages," White added.

At the screening, dermatologists will examine skin for any suspicious moles, blemishes or sores and will review results of the screening with the participant. If any suspicious skin lesions are noted, the participant will be told on site and notification will be sent to his or her physician.

"We are just one of hundreds of free skin cancer screening programs that will be offered by the American Academy of Dermatology and various dermatologic societies at locations throughout the U.S. this year. It is our hope that the screening programs will be successful in saving lives and will become an annual event," White said.

Area residents interested in participating in the screening can call

Lawrence Memorial Hospital at 396-9250, ext. 1633 for further information and registration.

Heart Care Talks To Start Friday

A cardiac lecture series for heart patients and their families will meet from 10 to 11:30 a.m. for five consecutive Fridays starting June 7 in the hospital's Kingsbury Seminar Room.

Topics to be discussed include coronary artery disease, heart disease risk factors, nutrition, exercise and stress control.

A fee will be charged. Registration should be made by calling Winchester Hospital's Education Dept. at 729-9000.

Visiting Nurses Plan 10th Party

Winchester Visiting Nurses will celebrate the 10th anniversary of their merger with Arlington and Lexington at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 10 at Pleasant Street Congregational Church, Arlington.

The party will be combined with a quarterly meeting of members and directors of Visiting Nurse and Community Health Inc. The meeting is open to the public.

Following the social, the agency's 1985-86 plan will be presented, and marketing consultant Gerry O'Connor will speak about fund-raising.

Winchester residents involved in running the agency include: Marta Frank, Peggy Keefe, Helen Dame, Gertrude Rooney, Mary Henderson, Dorothy Roemer and Maureen Looney.

Serving on the Visiting Nurses' professional advisory board are: Austin Broadhurst, Phyllis Fernald, Pauline McQuigan, Barbara Reed, Elizabeth Kenny and Jeanne Thomas.

Visiting Nurse and Community Health Inc. has served Winchester for 85 years.

Coordinator Joins Hospice Care Inc.

Brenda Boschetti recently joined the staff of Hospice Care Inc. as patient care coordinator. She is responsible for overall supervision, direction and coordination of clinical services provided by Hospice Care staff.

Prior to joining Hospice Care, Boschetti was employed by Visiting Nurse Hospice, Stoneham, where she was the hospice coordinator for three visiting nurse agencies. She has worked as a nurse for the Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex-East and was a staff nurse on a medical oncology floor at Tufts New England Medical Center Hospital, Boston.

Boschetti received a Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Lowell.

She is second vice president of Hospice Federation of Massachusetts a service committee member of the

Growing Up Talks Set For Teenagers

For parents who have difficulty explaining adolescent growth and discussing decision making in regard to sex, drugs and alcohol, Choate-Symmes Health Services in Woburn offers a pre-teen/teen series.

"Growing up Female" and "Growing up Male" address adolescent growth and development, physical and emotional changes, male and female reproductive systems, menstruation, hygiene and good nutritional habits.

"Growing up Female", recommended for girls ages 10 to 13, will be on Friday, June 14. "Growing up Male", recommended for boys 11 to 14, will be on Friday, June 21.

"Rights, Responsibilities and Peer Pressure: The Teen's Choice," a discussion group for males and females, 14 through 17, will be on Friday, June 28.

This program will deal with issues such as teen rights, responsibilities, understanding peer pressure, the need to be assertive, developing friendships, identity and self-concept development.

Components of responsible decision-making will be discussed in relation to sex, drugs, alcohol and cigarettes.

All three programs will be at the Choate Hospital Division, 21 Warren ave., Woburn from 3:15 to 5:30 p.m. Instructors for the programs are Bridget M. McCane and Richard W. Silveria, community health educators. Both have extensive experience working with teens.

Pre-registration is required by calling 933-6700, ext. 377.

American Cancer Society - Middlesex Junction Chapter, and a member of the National and Boston chapters of the Oncology Nursing Society.

Hospice Care Inc., based in Arlington, provides support to terminally ill patients and their families in Winchester and the Greater Boston area.

Diabetes Assn.

To Meet Tuesday

The Choate Symmes Area Chapter of the American Diabetes Assn. will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 11, in the basement of Symmes Hospital in Arlington.

"Stress and the Diabetic" will be addressed by guest speaker Susan Kierr Wise, head of the Movement Therapy Dept. at New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn.

The group will also discuss a road race and health fair planned for November, national diabetes month.

Following the June meeting, the group will not convene again until September.

Elderly Program Helps Families

Respite Care, a temporary relief service for families housing a frail elderly person, is being offered by Minuteman Home Care Corp.

The service is designed to help families needing a break from home elderly care. Respite Care can also provide short-term services in an emergency, including homemaking, personal care, social day care or companionship.

Both institutional and home care is available.

Anyone taking care of a person aged 60 or older who requires daily help is eligible for Respite Care services. Fees are on a sliding scale according to income, and hours are limited.

Minuteman case managers and nurses will assess each situation to develop a Respite Care plan.

For more information, please call the Aging Information Center at 862-6200 or 263-8720.

Blood Pressure Checks Planned

The American Red Cross will run a blood pressure clinic from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, June 22, at the Zayre store on Elm st. in Woburn.

High blood pressure threatens the health of more than 60 million Americans. The condition, which often has no symptoms, can lead to heart attack, stroke and kidney disease.

For more information, please call the Red Cross at 665-1351.

Scholarship Foundation Seeks Donors

The Winchester Scholarship Foundation this year is awarding aid to 27 graduating seniors who are going on to colleges, universities, and technical training institutions.

The foundation is distributing $40,000 among the students in amounts varying from $400 to $4,000. This initial aid is designed to help them bridge the gap between what is available from other sources, their own savings, and what their parents can afford to contribute to their education.

The foundation will be awarding aid to continuing students later in the summer and is now seeking funds from the Winchester community.

Annual contributions are the principal source of funding for the Winchester Scholarship Foundation and this year the Winchester Star is supporting this effort by devoting a page in the June 20 issue to contributors to the foundation.

A number of contributions have already been received from local organizations and individuals, and Foundation President David Mortensen urges Winchester residents to join in rewarding merit in Winchester students by supporting the Foundation.

'Annie' Brings Memorable Theater

By MARY C. FIORENTO
Special To The Star

The magic of Broadway descended upon Winchester last night as McCall Junior High School students presented the opening night performance of the long-awaited "Annie."

Under the direction of Wally Gagel and Mark Jacobs, the "Annie" cast sings its way into the memories of Winchester theater-goers. The sophisticated performance is on par with what the town has come to expect from students led by the Gagel/Jacobs team. And choreographer Marion Quinn creates incredibly professional dance routines to complement the score and script.

Produced by Jo Ricciardelli, the show is a mix of eye-catching and clever costuming, ingenious sets recalling the 1930s, designed by Brian Milauskas, and countless props. The audience is transformed into observers of a Depression-era drama.

Shelley Curtis, a seventh grader, and Hilary Drummond, an eighth grader, lead the cast in the role of "Annie." The part is double cast, with each girl performing on alternate days. They not only look the part but their characterizations are truly superb, lively, cheerful, and in true "Annie" fashion, unfailingly optimistic. With clear, wide-ranging voices, they deliver their songs and lines with rare stage presence.

All the roles are filled by junior high students, with a few exceptions. Those of three adult males are filled by three members of the McCall faculty, an indication of the support which "Annie" has received from the school.

The roles of Molly and Kate, whose parts are double cast, are filled by Muraco School primary graders, Sarah Rotondi and Alexis Cregger. A town-wide search in early January netted these two spunky youngsters. Their endearing interpretations as the littlest orphans lend realism to the orphan scenes. Their big voices and perfect diction command audience attention, as they win every heart.

The sweetness of Molly is a convincing foil to the worldliness of the floor orphans, played by Andrea Fiorentino, Kathryn Colson, Kathleen Hall, Lori Perritano, Joanna Alexander, Sarah Ciotti and Colleen Raymond. Each has a distinct personality. They open the show with a lively repartee as a lead-in to Annie's song about what her lost parents might be like, "Maybe."

Miss Agatha Hannigan, the mean-tempered spinster in charge of the orphans, is played by Katie Daggett. Her menacing sternness and swaggering strut never falters. She goads the orphans into the furious lament that they are leading "The Hard-Knock Life."

A second group of orphans joins the floor orphans and together they present as lively a production number as has ever been presented on the Winchester stage. The "A" and "B" ward orphans are Lisa Carter, Jori Cutler, Amy Doe, Tania Giambro, Beth Gray, Stephanie Keefe, Jessica Knight, Kathy Lake, Jennifer Lee, Laurie Locashio, Jenna Machonochie, Julie Olivieri, Sarah Power, Justine Setnik, Liza Stevens, and Heather Walsh.

Determined, Annie escapes from the orphanage to search for her parents with the unwitting help of Frank Curtis as Bundles McCloskey, whose name gives clue to his role: Annie is bundled off in his laundry cart. She meets an interesting array of characters in her wanderings: Michael Queenan as the apple vendor who shares his wealth for the orphan's picnic; Christian Adanlian, the unsuccessful dog-catcher, and his assistant, Sean Lake.

And then she meets Sandy, the sad-faced mutt whose obedience is put to the ultimate test in "Annie." He passes with flying colors! Annie encourages Sandy to "hang on 'til Hilary Drummond plays 'Annie' and Sarah Rotondi is 'Molly' in the McCall Junior High Production, which runs through Saturday.

Tomorrow."

Brandon Macneill as Officer Ward manages to be tough-talking and kind-hearted at the same time.

Underneath the 59th Street bridge is a shanty-town called Hooversville. It is home to a wide assortment of unemployed New Yorkers, including Kathleen Hall as Sophie, Steven Buttacavoli, John Cabral, Kathryn Colson, Beth Crawford, Frank Curtis, Richard Elliott (faculty), Phoebe Goodwin, Lorie Ann Itrato, Laura Jacobs, Donald Latham (faculty), Liane Mouradian, Marc Nash, Liz O'Donnell, Eugenie Prior (faculty), Colleen Raymond, John Segota, Robyn Shaw and Heather Walsh.

They sarcastically castigate Herbert Hoover in the staccato production number "We'd Like to Thank You, Herbert Hoover" and are hauled to the police station by Brandon Macneill and his fellow policeman, Jim Dever.

Back at the orphanage, Miss Hannigan's nerves are at the breaking point from having to put up with "Little Girls" when Officer Ward arrives with Annie in tow. The young and beautiful secretary of billionaire industrialist Oliver Warbucks appears.

Allison Price gives a sophisticated and chic performance as the efficient Grace Farrell, who is never too busy to be sensitive to the needs of Orphan Annie. With a voice suited to her role, Allison portrays Grace Farrell with cosmopolitan flair.

Soon afterward, at the mansion, Annie is sure she's "Gonna Like It Here." She is treated as a guest by a retinue of servants who assure her "She Won't Be An Orphan For Long." Headed by the ever-correct Drake, played by John Segota and the fastidious Mrs. Pugh, played by Julie Olivieri, they are ably assisted by Justine Setnik as Cecile, Sarah Power as Annette, Robyn Shaw as Mrs. Greer and a host of maids and butlers who do their chores with purposeful concentration.

They are played by Joanna Alexander, Amy Doe, Stephanie Keefe, Liane Mouradian, Stephanie Geoghan, Steven Buttacavoli, Sean Lake, Marc Nash, Michael Queenan, Chris Buttacavoli, and John Cabral as the Chauffeur.

The stage is now set for Aaron Stevens who takes exactly the right stance as he assumes the role of the self-assured, pompous Oliver Warbucks. Stevens' strong voice and presence lead the production number "NYC" as he and Grace take Annie on a tour of their favorite city. Later in the show the ballad "Something Was Missing" and the Warbucks-Annie duet, "I Don't Need Anything But You," are also enhanced by Stevens' powerful voice.

A high energy level is projected by a spirited group of New Yorkers which includes Michael Queenan, Steven Buttacavoli, Lisa Carter, Kathryn Colson, Beth Crawford, Frank Curtis, Jori Cutler, Jimmy Dever, Amy Doe, Andrea Fiorentino, Jenna Machonochie, Marc Nash and Tania Giambro as the usherette.

In a most creative setting these city-dwellers are suspended in time when Liz O'Donnell, as A Star to Be Born, gracefully takes center stage and sings several choruses of "NYC" in a sweet voice.

Bill Weylman and Lydia Cooper swing into their roles as the ne'er-do-well brother Rooster and his floozy girl-friend, Lily St. Regis. Lydia perfectly masters her Jersey City accent as a counterpoint to the fast-talking Bill. With a catchy melody and precise dance routine they dream of better days for themselves and the nasty Miss Hannigan on "Easy Street."

Act Two opens in Rockefeller Center with the Bert Healey Show and a bid for the return of Annie's parents. An appropriately exaggerated performance by Steven Buttacavoli as the toothy Bert Healey and Shawn Phillips' funny enactment of the ventriloquist Fred McCracken leads the way to the toe-tapping, gum-snapping harmony of the Boylan Sisters, played by Lydia Cooper, Julie Loivieri and Robyn Shaw.

Jimmy Johnson, the Masked Announcer, played by Frank Curtis, and the Sound Effects Man, played by Michael Puma complete the antics of the zany group who inhabit the Oxycident Hour of Smiles. This scene is mirrored by the floor orphans who take to the stage again in imitation of the madcap Boylans.

The serious demeanor of Jay Moore as the radio announcer changes the pace of "Annie" and the next scene finds Annie and Warbucks at the White House. With a blend of officious conservatism and concern, Don Latham as FDR and his political associates, Richard Elliott, Eugenie Prior, Steven Buttacavoli, Frank Curtis and Lydia Cooper become aware of Annie's plight.

But Annie's infectious optimism leads them to join her in a rousing reprise of "Tomorrow." Even the honor guards played by smartly uniformed Jimmy Dever and Brian O'Connor join in enthusiastically.

The play concludes in a glorious Christmas scene complete with a lighted Christmas tree and Santa, played by Eugene Prior. Justice Brandeis, played by David Ducharme, officiates at the adoption of Annie and all agree that this Christmas is the beginning of a wonderful new life for not only them but for everyone in America as the entire cast sings "A New Deal for Christmas."

Winchesterites will be delighted by this memorable production true to the Broadway score and script.

Performances will be Thursday at 1:30 p.m. and on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. Call 729-1474 for ticket information.

born. But she has been simply remarkable."

Taeushe, meanwhile, explained that Helen had to be extra careful this winter, to avoid contracting a potentially fatal cold.

"Her immune system is very vulnerable," said Taeushe. "The risk for her is very great. Many premature babies — especially those with major respiratory problems — wind up back in the hospital several times after they go home."

Helen, however, has not been hospitalized since she spent the first few months of her life there. It's a little triumph that means a great deal to the Storys.

"She has been such a fighter," said Keith. "At first, we tried not to get too close, emotionally, to her.

"We didn't want to make it any harder to accept if she didn't make it. Besides, she had so many tubes in her, you couldn't even get close to her if you wanted to. You couldn't hold her."

He added that after a few months, as she stabilized, they were allowed to hold her for short periods of time.

"It was like a holding a newborn kitten. She was just so tiny, she barely fit in the crook of your arm," he recalled.

"It was kind of funny. People in town who had heard we had had the baby would ask us how much she weighed and we'd say '15 ounces'. Then they'd say 'But how many pounds?' We'd just keep saying 15 ounces."

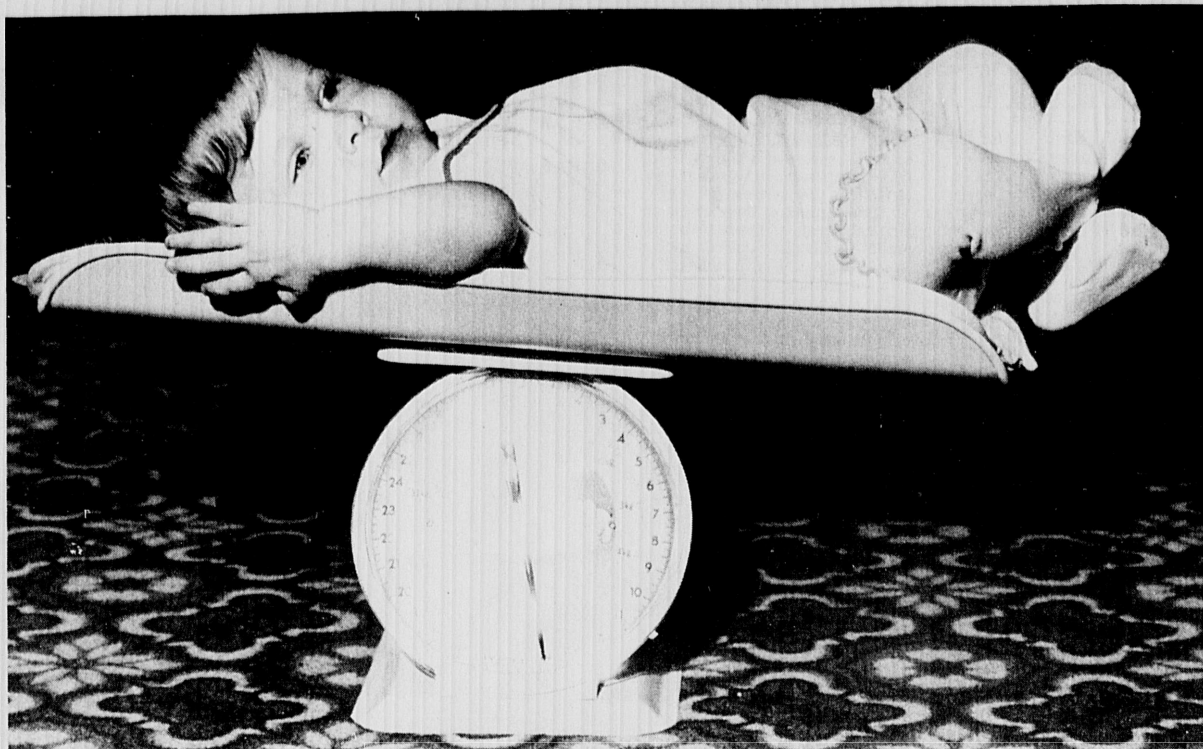

In the past year, the Storys have accumulated a healthy share of memorabilia, including miniature stuffed toys that once dwarfed baby Helen.

Ruth pulled out a tiny aqua colored outfit that has been neatly tucked away with other mementos.

"Even though Helen weighed 4 pounds, 4 ounces, when she came home, she fairly swam in this outfit," she said. "A friend of ours knew Helen was so tiny, so she knitted her some doll's clothes."

Now, weighing 14 pounds, Helen is a bundle of curiosity. She takes time to warm up to a visitor, but she readily breaks into a grin as reaches for her dad's glasses.

"She's learning new tricks every day," said Keith. "She's still a little

Born three months early, miracle baby Story weighs in today at a hefty 14 pounds.

ABOUT TOWN

Anderson Reappointed

Winchester resident T. J. Anderson, has been reappointed Fletcher professor of music at Tufts University for the 1985-86 school year.

Anderson, who has been with Tufts since 1976, is well known throughout the nation for his musical compositions. Along with teaching at several major universities, Anderson has worked with both the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and the music school at Indiana University.

Anderson holds a bachelor's degree in music from West Virginia State College, a master's degree in education from Pennsylvania State University and a Ph.D. from the University of Iowa.

Lewis Promoted

The Air Force has announced the promotion of Michael F. Lewis to the rank of technical sergeant. The son of Winchester residents George L. and Theresa M. Lewis, he is a weapons control systems technician with the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N.C.

Lewis received an associate degree from the Community College of the Air Force.

Providence College Graduates

Five Winchester residents were among 863 graduates of Providence College who received their undergraduate degrees during the 67th commencement exercises on May 20.

Graduating from the liberal arts college were: John C. Annino of Oxford St., who majored in American studies; Christine M. Donnell of Cross St., who studied marketing; and Patrick A. Harrington of Cabot St., who studied painting.

Joining them were Mayflower rd. residents Mark Ockerbloom, who majored in English, and Diane Uglietto, who studied economics and math.

Fitzgerald Graduates

Susan Fitzgerald of Ravine rd., daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Fitzgerald, was granted a degree of Doctor of Dental Medicine at the 129th commencement of Tufts University on Sunday, May 19.

Fitzgerald is a graduate of Winchester High School. She attended Wheaton College and received a bachelor of arts degree, cum laude, from Tufts.

She expects to join her brother, Dr. Daniel Fitzgerald, and her father, Dr. Paul Fitzgerald, in their Stoneham dental practice.

Stoddard Graduates

Winchester resident Ellen Stoddard, daughter of Larry and Joan Stoddard, received a bachelor's degree in music on May 19 at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.

Stoddard, who majored in theoretical studies, was among the 200 students participating in the Conservatory's 114th commencement. Key note speaker for the exercises was John Williams, composer and conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Wein Graduates

At the recent commencement ceremonies at Fisher Junior College in Boston, Lori Wein received an associate of science degree.

Wein is the daughter of Joel and Judith Wein, and a graduate of Winchester High School.

Lawton Commissioned

On Wednesday, May 23, President Ronald Reagan presented Pond st. resident David S. Lawton with a diploma from the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, MD. Lawton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Lawton, received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering and was commissioned an ensign in the Navy.

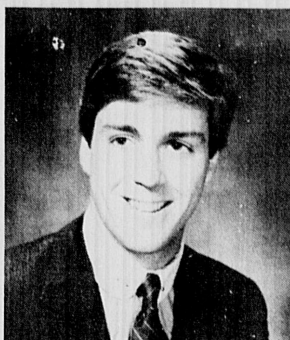

In order to graduate with distinction, Lawton went through intensive academic, physical, military and professional training, both on shore and at sea.

★ Air

carbon dioxide generally exceeded the level that health experts consider comfortable.

"The state says the carbon dioxide level cannot exceed 600 parts per million without the room being considered 'uncomfortable,'" said Tabbi. "With a meter, we tested six rooms at the high school, both on the second and third floors. The readings ranged from a high of 1,000 parts per million to a low of 400," he added.

Tabbi said that while the levels of carbon dioxide do not necessarily mean students and school personnel are endangered, the air quality is not as it should be.

"It's not exactly a health hazard, but it's not the most healthful situation either," said Tabbi. Dominic Serratore, superintendent of Winchester's Department of Public Works, said he does not believe the high level of carbon dioxide is dangerous.

"You have ventilation problems, but I don't think they are threatening anyone. It's not a new problem, it happens every spring and fall, when we switch over," said Serratore.

Serratore said the school is in "no violation of anyone's code." He said that while the situation is considered to exceed state comfort levels, it does not represent a significant health hazard.

Serratore said the DPW has monitored the air quality at least three times since 1983, adding that work crews have doubled the amount of available fresh air at the school. "There is nothing we can do, at this point, except recalibrate the system," said Serratore. He said workers would probably adjust the controls to alter circulation. School Superintendent Charles Mitsakos, meanwhile, said on Monday that last week's critical state report "came as a surprise" to many school officials. "We thought the problem had been taken care of when we spent $6,000 last year to get the situation solved."

Last year, the School Department doled out about $6,000 to an energy consulting firm, Johnson Controls Inc., in an effort to correct the problems.

"What we don't want to do at this point is to spend a big sum of money and wind up with the same problem next year. We'd like to get a better idea of exactly what is wrong, before we go out and spend money on a problem that we're not even sure of," said Mitsakos.

He said he believes the work ordered last year was done as expected, adding that "things went rather smoothly until now."

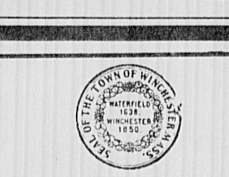

Mitsakos said the school department's main concern is to maintain a healthful environment for students and school personnel.

"I just want to identify the real problem. How bad it is depends on where you are in the building. If you have a cooling problem on the second floor, then you may have more of a circulation problem on the third floor," said Mitsakos.

"The bottom line is that we don't want the kids in any place where the comfort level isn't what it should be," he added.

Story and photos By Susan Lyon

When Doris Huber first came to the United States last year in September, she was a go-getter in almost every sport.

A native of Innsbrook, Austria, Huber had lived near a mountain where she could ski to her heart's delight. The countryside and lakes made the area a haven for horseback riding, windsurfing and swimming.

But the one thing people generally did not do as a sport was run or jog.

"Austria," she says, "is not modern. You don't see people running there."

Now as a foreign student learning English and attending international politics courses part-time at the Harvard Extension School, Huber, a Ravenscroft rd., Winchester, resident, has become an avid jogger. She runs three or four miles a day, three or four times a week.

Despite this rigorous regiment, the 21-year-old views herself as "more of a hobby runner" than a serious runner. She has not competed in any races, nor does she intend to.

"I run," she says with a light accent, "to just do it for me." There are no specific weight goals involved, she says, just "the feeling that I did something good."

Part of her desire to run is her desire to clear her head. Huber maintains that she runs a lot, especially when she is depressed or in a bad mood.

"If I'm in a bad mood, it's hard to start; but once you start, it's easier," she says. Before she knows it, she really feels good.

Arlingtonian Sam Coplon, a Kimball rd. resident, believes that he, too, is just a "recreational" runner.

The man who wears a "Dump Watt, Friends of the Earth" T-shirt calls his running "recreational," despite the fact that he runs seven miles daily, and has run in five marathons, including three Boston Marathons.

But those years of gearing up for the 26-mile race are gone, according to Coplon. He says he used to put in four to five months of serious training — running 80 to 100 miles a week — for each marathon.

Back then — he stopped running the marathons a couple of years ago — Coplon says he was "very compulsive" about running. "You know," he says, "if I didn't run one day I'd feel awful."

At one point, Coplon had to cut back on his running because he had severe knee problems — not an unusual occurrence in a runner who greatly increases his distance over a very short period of time.

These days, it seems the 31-year old, a landscape architect at an architectural environmental firm in Harvard Square, has eased up on himself and his demanding attitude towards his own running.

"Right now," he says, "I just really run for the enjoyment of it."

Coplon can even forfeit a few days now and then without berating himself, although, he maintains, he doesn't feel as well physically or as fit if he skips his run.

For those of us who have a hard time making running a habit, Coplon says, "sometimes you never get into it."

Running is not a religious experience for Coplon.

Generally, he spends his running time "doing a lot of thinking or no thinking. I turn it [his brain] off, and just get into the physical exertion."

Paul Santos of 48 Elizabeth rd. in Belmont, like Coplon, regards running as a means to better overall health.

Unlike Coplon, however, Santos, a "highly placed" technical contributor at the consulting firm Bolt, Baranek, and Newman, emphasizes that running "wasn't and still isn't my primary exercise."

Yet, Santos puts in five miles a day during the week, in addition to the half-to three-quarters mile he swims every day before work. (The weekends, he insists, are for his wife and children.)

Indeed, Santos ran five miles a day when he first took up running, a feat in itself, since most people usually begin with much shorter distances.

Running, together with swimming, is what has kept Santos healthy, he says. He can't remember when he had a sick day in the last six or seven years, he says.

But exercise is only a part of Santos' total health plan, which, he says, would "probably fit a perfect profile of a corporation's health plan."

Santos is careful about what he eats — or, rather, his wife is. He calls her "the family dietician from way back." The family is not vegetarian, he says, but when they do eat meat, they make certain it is not fatty.

Santos also has belonged to two anti-smoking organizations, ASH (Action for Smoking and Health) and GASP (Group Against Smoking Pollution) for the past six or seven years.

Santos admits that he is health-conscious because he likes to think of himself as "keeping up, not deteriorating any more than is biologically required," for his 42-year-old body.

Running, in particular, allows him to believe that he can "do it as well as 'x' percent" of his peers.

"I guess that's the competitive

Mary Fahrendorf

Like It Is

side of me," says Santos. In fact, he first began running as a team member for his company in corporate challenge cups.

Santos recommends teams for the beginning runner.

"It's very useful when you start running, to have a mentor," he adds. It helps to have someone who will help set a good pace, suggest what kind of shoes to wear, and tell where and when to run. Santos' choice is the Fresh Pond Reservoir path during his lunch hour.

The area a runner chooses, he adds, is especially important for its footing and safety. Santos has been impressed that he's never been molested, even by dogs.

Running has not always been such a pleasant experience for 27-year-old Mary Fahrendorf of Elmwood ave. in Winchester, a personnel manager at a contractual engineering company in Woburn.

She is quick to point out that "drunken teenagers" in the Mystic Lake park make her the most upset. "One guy tried to hit me on my head with a stick," as she was completing her run around the lake one day, Fahrendorf says. She "tried to be cool," but that was difficult because they really intimidated her.

Despite the harassment from teenagers and the few times people came close to hitting her when they made turns with their cars, Fahrendorf continues to run. She still feels guilty when she misses a day.

The story behind Fahrendorf's running began four years ago when she quit smoking.

Although she wanted to keep her weight down — "I love to eat," she says — quitting smoking was the extra impetus she needed to make running a habit.

Paul Santos

"Now," she says with a sigh of relief, "My legs give up before my lungs give up... Just being able to inhale — it's a whole different story."

She says she's progressed from the time when it was an effort to run just a mile to being able to move at an easy pace for three miles. Fahrendorf, who considers herself a serious runner, says she might even do the Bonne Bell race next year.

But she will never run a marathon, she says emphatically. That, she says, is more "self-punishing" than self-disciplining.

Smoking also used to be a habit of James Bobrick several years ago, but Bobrick stresses his first experience with running didn't really have anything directly to do with smoking. Bobrick said that he even used to have a cigarette after a run.

Instead, the 40-year-old Bobrick, who lives in Belmont, maintains that he began his jogging career six years ago primarily out of curiosity and to work off tension.

The head of the liberal arts department at Swain School of Design, Bobrick still builds up tension. But, now, it is "partly out of vanity, partly to jar loose some of those endorphins" that he runs an hour a day, he says.

Bobrick also adds that he feels "rather restless" when he does not run because he is "reasonably addicted" to a certain amount of exercise.

James Bobrick

On the other side of the coin is Chalanta O'Connell, a 35-year-old runner who says that he feels lethargic when he misses one day of running.

That is a response many dedicated runners have. But for a man who has spent 11 years combining mind-body discipline under the auspices of Bengali Sri Chinmoy, a meditation instruction, it is unexpected.

One might have expected guilt feelings, as in the case of Fahrendorf. But not such feelings are involved, because for the staff administrator at M.I.T., running is more than just a sport.

For O'Connell, running is part of his "spiritual discipline," a discipline based on Sri Chinmoy's philosophy that being fit in the mind means being fit in the body as well.

O'Connell explains that Sri Chinmoy believes running "is the perfect analogy to spiritual life.... (the runner) is always moving and going forward."

Perhaps the slogan on his Sri Chinmoy T-shirt explains it best: "Run and Become. Become and Run."

O'Connell certainly has put in his time working on this concept. A runner for nine years who averages five to six miles a day, O'Connell is also a marathoner.

But he did not run in a marathon this year, nor has he ever run in the Boston Marathon, much to his own surprise. O'Connell generally keeps to autumn races, such as the New York Marathon, which he has run three times. His "personal best" was 2:59. (O'Connell says that the average time for someone his age is 3:20).

O'Connell is a man of confusing responses. While he says he is not "an ultra-distance runner," he runs marathons, and once even ran — and finished — a 50-mile race. He states emphatically, however, that 50 miles "was enough."

O'Connell, however, will return, as the others, for this daily run the next day. They will run in the beautiful sunshine around the Mystic Lakes or Fresh Pond, resting only when an ailment flares up. Some are dedicated runners. Some are simply people who enjoy a run. But they inspire imitation: they even made this writer want to jump into sneakers and take off in the good May sunshine for a run.

Where To Go

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

Spring fever — or the fear of bulging bathing suits — periodically prompts non-runners to think about digging out their P.F. Flyers and taking to the streets.

But, often, the question is not whether to run, but where?

While most daily joggers do pound the pavements, and even the world's best-known races use major roads for their routes, there are hazards to be considered: bicycles, wear-and-tear on joints and feet, and conflicts with cars.

Admittedly, it is easy to map out a one-mile or two-mile run on the streets around your home. And it is certainly convenient.

But there's a lot to be said for getting off the blacktop, too.

Except for bicycle paths — which generally are wide enough to share, if both runner and biker are polite — off-road joggers are not as likely to risk collisions with their two-wheeling athletic brethren.

Finding a dirt path or a track actually designed for runners may make running healthier, too.

Many sports medicine practitioners recommend running on non-paved surfaces.

Knees, hips, ankles and feet were never designed to absorb the jolts of running on unyielding and unforgiving asphalt and concrete, they say.

And, again, getting off the streets takes runners out of the paths of cars — not a small consideration, when you compare the sheer bulk of even the smallest cars with the largest of runners.

In addition, it's at least more aesthetically pleasing not to have to breathe in exhaust fumes while exercising.

Many runners who support getting off the road and back to nature say there is an even better reason: relief of boredom.

"When I'm feeling really good, I take a run around the Mystic Lakes," says one transplanted Southerner. "The scenery is just beautiful."

A native New Englander recommends trails through the Fells: "All you have to do is avoid the posted areas, and there's no place that's more peaceful."

And a transplanted Bostonian says a run along the Charles River provides the best of both worlds: a park-like path, and a view of the city's skyline.

The following are just a few suggestions for runners who'd like to get off the streets:

Arlington

Many Arlingtonians use the VITA course at Menotomy Rocks Park on Jason st. for a one- or two-mile loop through wooded, slightly hilly terrain. There are exercise stations along the trail, too. It's recommended for use in daylight only.

The quarter-mile track at Arlington High School was resurfaced just a little more than a year ago. The scenery isn't spectacular, but it's easy to gauge the distance. Tracks are especially good for running at dawn or twilight, when tricky light conditions make streets especially hazardous.

Other Arlingtonians recommend a run around the Reservoir Beach area in the Heights: wooded, scenic, and secluded.

Belmont

Payson Park Reservoir, along Cushing ave. and Payson rd., is one of the prettiest spots in Belmont for a run, say several sources. It's part of Cambridge's water supply, so runners can only circle the reservoir outside the fence, on a path that measures .435 of a mile, according to Belmont Town Engineer Richard Betts.

Clay Pit Pond, in front of Belmont High School, offers another pretty spot to run. Once around the pond is about .6 of a mile, Betts says.

Winchester

Many Winchester runners recommend the Middlesex Fells, owned by the Metropolitan District Commission, for a woodlands jog. And it is one of the most beautiful spots for miles around.

There are several marked trails through the mostly pine forest, some hilly, some flat. Runners can make a short loop through the woods, or link several trails and run into Stoneham or Medford sections of the Fells.

One of the most popular places in the Fells, however, may cost joggers more than it's worth.

Runners who choose to jog along the smooth fire lanes around Winchester's water supply are risking arrest and a $50 fine — and the word is the restrictions will be heavily enforced this summer.

It's easy to avoid this problem: reservoir limits are clearly posted.

The gravel track at Manchester Field in the center — behind McCall Junior High School — is popular with lunchtime and evening joggers.

In fact, when the crabapple trees lining the sidewalk along the field are in bloom, the view's not bad, either.

And parents whose youngsters are old enough to amuse themselves but not old enough to run along can keep an eye on the kids on the playground equipment at one end of the track while they put in their distance.

The Mystic Lakes provide joggers with a spectacular view, and for most of the length of the Mystic Valley Parkway side, an off-road path to run along.

On the Route 3 side, private homes block the view of the lakes in some spots, and force runners onto a heavily travelled road.

Because of traffic considerations, neither side of the lakes is a good choice for low-light (dawn or dusk) running. But both are very popular routes, and lengthy enough that they rarely seem crowded.

Area

Cambridge — Fresh Pond Reservoir is one of the most popular routes for runners in the area. Circling Cambridge's main water supply is quite soothing; it's hard to imagine the traffic streaming by a few feet away.

It's secluded to the point of desertion: take a running buddy, or at least run in mainstream hours, before or after work, or at lunch.

Boston — All along the Charles River from Charles River Park to Brighton are jogging and bicycle paths.

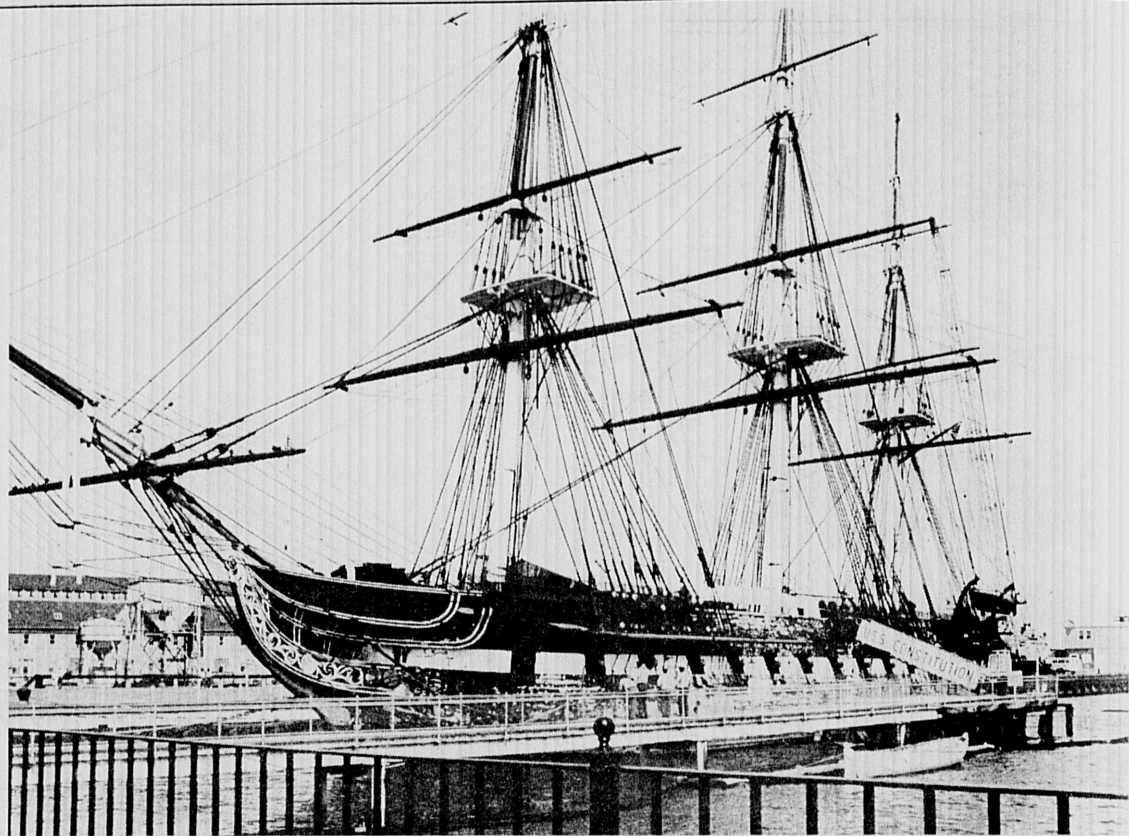

The view of the view of the river and the skyline are spectacular; however, those who jog there regularly say it is not the place to be after dark.

On the other side of the river, Memorial Drive is closed to cars on Sundays. Runners, bicyclists, roller skaters and others can have a field day, once a week.

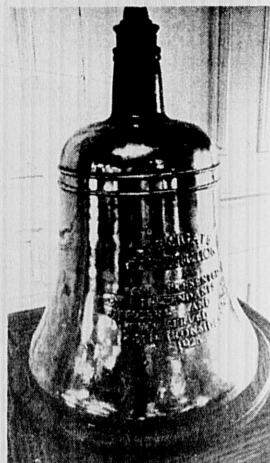

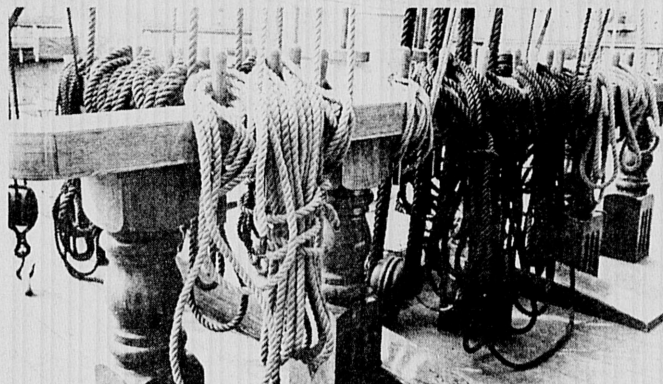

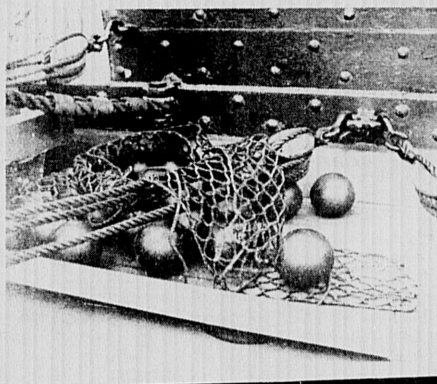

In Chestnut Hill, on the Boston/Newton border, joggers enjoy the path around the MDC reservoir next to Boston College.

BC students have reported a few assaults while jogging in the last few years. As at Fresh Pond, take a running buddy.

U.S.S. Constitution: Step Aboard To Step Back In Time

The swabbies are scraping and painting the venerable old ship, just as they have for nearly 200 years.

Lines dangling from the main deck support working platforms, and the ship's sides show the scars of scrapers, but the USS Constitution is open for business as usual.

Business as usual today means free guided tours 9:30 a.m. to 3:50 p.m. for anyone who asks. The traditionally uniformed sailors explain no charge is made for the trip through this United States Navy vessel lying at Charlestown Navy Yard in Boston.

The tour leads visitors through the main deck, past rows of cannons and gleaming brass fittings, huge lines and anchors.

Conditions aboard the ship were cramped and primitive.

The sick bay in the least comfortable part of the ship discouraged malingering. Officers bedded down in tiny quarters luxurious compared to the canvas hammocks of the seamen. Even the captain's cabin, complete with private head, is far from roomy.

The 2,200-ton Old Ironsides is the oldest fully commissioned warship in the world, authorized and laid down in 1794 to counter attacks of the Barbary (North African) pirates.

She was built by Col. George Claghorn at Edmond Harri's shipyard in Boston. Only about 10 percent of the original live oak, red cedar, white oak, pitch pine and locust remains after many restorations and refittings.

The Constitution slipped down the ways three years from the start of construction. Her first task was to search for pirates.

But the pirate searches were best left to smaller, lighter ships, and the Constitution's finest hour awaited the War of 1812.

The Constitution, one of only 17

U.S. war vessels arrayed against more than 1,000 British ships, won her nickname in a battle against HMS Guerriere. In a broadside attack, the Constitution crippled the British ship while cannonballs bounced off the Constitution's sides. "Huzza," shouted a British sailor. "Her sides are made of iron!"

As well as the name, the tour brings to light the sources of words like swabbies, powder monkeys and midshipmen.

Water pumped from huge bilge pumps sprayed onto the cannon deck. It was the job of the lowliest seamen to pick up the water with mops called swabs, and chase it overboard. These men were dubbed swabbies.

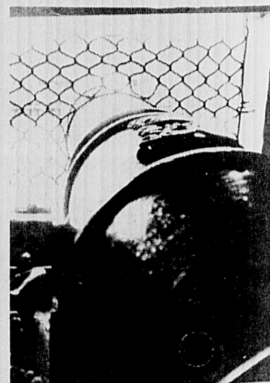

Powder monkeys also earned their name because of their work. The powder monkeys were small boys who scamped through the small space carrying powder charges from the powder room to the cannons.

Midshipmen were in training to become officers of the ship, learning their trade by doing and watching. Their quarters were in the middle of the ship, where they waited in order of seniority to gain an officer's cabin further forward.

In addition to the Constitution, the Charlestown Navy Yard walking tour includes a slide show at the Visitor Information Center, the USS Constitution Museum, Boston Marine Society and Commandant's House.

Also available for viewing is the USS Cassin Young, a destroyer launched in California in 1943 for action in World War II. Main deck is open 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, weather permitting. The Navy Yard also includes Pier 1, established in 1800, and Dry Dock Number 1, one of the first dry docks in the United States.

Renuka O'Connell: "Meditation actually is diving deep within."

'Silence The Mind. . . Learn Hidden Talents' Through Meditation

Story by Anne Marie Reidy

A course to teach handling stress, focusing energies, improving concentration, and bringing hidden talents to the surface? Seems too good to be true.

But that's exactly the kind of course Renuka O'Connell offers at the Winchester library. She gives a three-session introduction to meditation.

O'Connell says meditation really can do all of the above — but it's not magic. It takes some work.

"Meditation actually is diving deep within, where everything is calm and tranquil, and trying to silence the mind, so you're more in touch with your spirit," she explains.

It's a useful skill for people who feel frazzled and baffled by the hectic pace of life, O'Connell believes.

"Your mind is finite," she says. "Your thoughts just kind of go around in circles; they're very limiting, in fact."

It's not that thinking in itself is bad, O'Connell just believes people can think themselves into a box.

"Thoughts are the things that make us suffer from fear, anxiety, loss, insecurity — these are things the mind mulls over," O'Connell explains.

"Emotions are often connected with the mind; we work ourselves into things," she adds. "But in reality, the spiritual heart, the soul, is free from that kind of stuff."

"So you can imagine," she says, "if you can sit quietly for about 20 minutes and try to just clear your mind, then you'd have no obstacle to knowing what's going on inside you spiritually."

O'Connell teaches several approaches to meditation in her three-week workshop.

"Each week, we learn about two different ways of meditating," she explains. "During the week, you can try them, and see which methods you prefer."

"The next week, you can come back and talk about any problems or questions you have with it," she says.

Very little is needed beyond an open mind, O'Connell adds.

"Sitting in a chair is fine; you don't need any special mat or anything," she says. "Just try not to eat a big meal before the class — you can fall asleep, because you're using your energy for something other than what you're doing. And loose clothing is a good idea."

Setting aside time for peaceful reflection, for listening to what's buried deep inside the soul, has been part of O'Connell's life for the last six years.

She is a student of Sri Chinmoy, who taught her to meditate. The name she goes by, Renuka, was given to her by Chinmoy; in ancient Sanskrit, it means "the most soulful pollen to radiate the heart's beauty's fragrance."

Teaching others to meditate is her way of passing along Chinmoy's gift to her, she says.

"He taught me, free of charge," she explains. "And I benefitted so much, myself, that I wanted to share with other people what I gain from meditation."

"And, when I do the classes, I actually gain a lot from my students," O'Connell adds. "I usually try to hold the classes every two months or so; I think I've had thousands of students."

Teaching meditation doesn't fill all of O'Connell's time, however.

She owns and runs a gift shop in Arlington specializing in fine handcrafts, "Divinity's Splendor Glow." And, like meditation, she got into that at her teacher's suggestion.

"I had an art background, I like people, and I like things like accounting which go with running a small business," she says. "One day, Sri Chinmoy suggested a gift shop would be good for me; he was absolutely right."

Although O'Connell is a firm believer in Sri Chinmoy's teaching, people of all beliefs are welcome at her classes, she says.

And, she believes, everyone can benefit from some quiet, reflective time each day.

"As long as we have a spiritual heart — a soul — we might as well learn to use it," O'Connell says. "It can offer so much."

"It helps you to feel oneness with other people," she explains. "And, naturally, if you love yourself more, you'll love other people more."

"Meditation helps bring out hidden talents you have," O'Connell says. "It helps you to concentrate better, gives you more energy, and helps give you better insights into life."

"That's really a service to humanity," she believes. "If each person worked on himself, and kind of cultivated these qualities, I think we'd have a better world."

"You can't go out and change people," she adds. "But people can change themselves. And meditation can help."

O'Connell's next meditation workshop at the Winchester Public Library is June 12, 19 and 26.

For more information about the workshops, call O'Connell during the days at her Medford st. shop: 648-7100.

A Weekend Away

It's Just The Berries

By MAURA MULCARE
ALA Auto & Travel Club

Strawberry festivals, a "fly-in," a Laurel Festival and a fishing derby headline weekend attractions throughout New England, June 14-16.

It's the time of year for sampling ripe strawberries, and New England offers plenty of opportunities for some great eating.

The 16th Annual Strawberry Festival on the common in Topsfield, Mass., will be June 15 with 2,000 servings of strawberry shortcake available. Only fresh whipped cream will crown each cake. In addition, 120 crafts people from throughout New England will sell their wares.

Hours are 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Call (617) 887-5625.

Berry Nice

In Lincoln, R.I., a Strawberry Festival will be June 15 at North Gate, where a ham and bean supper with potato salad, cole slaw, beverage and strawberry shortcake will be served. Hours are 4:30 - 7 p.m. Admission: $4 adults; $2 children under 10. Call (401) 725-6034.

Berry Good

At St. John's Episcopal Church in Bridgeport, Conn., the 15th Annual Old Fashioned Strawberry Festival/Flea Market will be June 15. Numerous booths will sell collectibles, white elephants, plants and home-made delectables. Antique dealers will also be present, selling small furniture, jewelry and crafts. Of course, strawberry shortcake will be available too.

Hours are 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Call (203) 335-2528.

Berry End

In Hampstead, N.H., the Congregational Church will host its annual Strawberry Festival June 15.

The premiere feature of the day will include strawberry shortcakes and strawberry sundaes. Other gastronomic treats will be sandwiches, salads and beverages.

Professional craft displays, ranging from stained glass to soft sculpture, and numerous treasures for bargain hunters will be available for purchase. For children, games of croquet and face painting will take place throughout the day.

Admission is free. Hours are 10 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Call (603) 329-6985.

Fly Times

At Plum Island Airport in Mass., an 11th Annual Fly-In will be 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. June 15, sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association. Each plane will have been specially built and designed.

Fiberglass, aluminum, wood and fabric, will be used to build the planes that will be displayed. Some aircraft owners will fly in from New Jersey, and up-state New York.

Antique automobiles will also be displayed on the grounds of the airport. Admission is free. Call (617) 465-7167.

Fine Kettle

For individuals interested in sporting events, the Fourth Annual Lake Champlain International Fishing Derby will be in the Burlington, Vermont area, June 13-15.

Tagged fish will be released into Lake Champlain.

Cash prizes totaling $100,000 will go for netting tagged fish. Basic registration is $15. Call (802) 863-3489

First Impressions

A High Old Time

The 9-year-old girl walked past older children in a playground and said in hushed tones, "Guess what happened."

"We were playing in there the other day, and there were these teenage girls playing, and there was this boy all dressed in black. . . . And all of a sudden, the girls fell down on the ground and the boy ran away. . . . And the hospital car had to come and take them away. And you know what they said?" she murmured.

"They said it was drugs."

And so, maybe, finally, children are unwittingly doing for each other what we as adults have been unable to: they are teaching each other the fear of using drugs.

It is a fear unknown to the "flower child" generation. In conversations with my own peers, we were unable to remember ever hearing the word marijuana in high school. We were too busy deciding if it was all right to kiss on the first date, or fighting for the right to go to a drive-in movie.

And then, in college, I had no idea what one friend regularly sniffed up his nose. I thought his habit peculiar, but didn't think too much about it. Again, too busy balancing school, work, friends. It was years before I realized it must have been cocaine. Perhaps I was more naive than most.

My peers took to drugs like ducks to water, justifying their experimentation and use as enlightening, broadening, deepening.

And the flower children who turned on, tuned out, then grew up, now have children of their own. The adults snort coke and smoke hashish while they push natural foods and macrobiotics. They still use drugs to get up, get down, wake up, fall asleep, slow their appetite, build their bodies.

It is the adults with money to burn who have become the connoisseurs of the drug culture. Just as they have moved from Bali Hai to Chateau Neuf Du Pap, they have shifted from home-grown to a silver spoon.

And today's child — their children — knows not just the words. Today's child knows the symptoms and the sources. And the highs? Maybe familiarity is finally breeding contempt. I think today's child will be smarter than her folks.

Our Children Spouse Is Troubled By Wife's Actions

By Willard Abraham Ph.D.

Q. I was brought up in a home where my mother was a homemaker who baked, cooked, sewed and seemed to love every minute of it. My wife is exactly the opposite, believing that all of that (even sewing on a button) is menial labor and far beneath her. In fact, she frequently ridicules other women who even only occasionally get involved in household activities.

I'll admit that she does put in a lot of time on her job, but so do many other women. She doesn't give that as an excuse. It's just that she doesn't like the home activities.

The reason I'm concerned is because I'd like our children to grow up knowing that keeping up a good home can be enjoyable for both men and women.

I've often offered to help out by cooking and baking (it probably could be a lot of fun), but the answer is usually, "No way," "Forget it," or just plain, "No." She prefers bringing home prepared food or having all of us go to a restaurant.

Your suggestions would be so welcome.

A. It sounds like you're trying to remake your wife in your mother's image, and the strong odds are that it won't work. Not only that, but your efforts can lead (if they already haven't) to much unhappiness for all of you.

So perhaps it is best to back off, and think more of the capabilities and interests she does have. If you really might enjoy the kitchen scene, once in awhile you could involve yourself in it and take your children along with you. A nice surprise may evolve as your wife notices the enjoyment shared by you and them.

Q. No, I don't have any serious problems with our own kids, but the issue is our neighbor's youngsters — and the parents themselves.

They are nice enough in all ways except one, and that is their belief that running around in the house "in the buff" is a healthy thing to do. When I say they don't wear a stitch, that's exactly right; nothing at all — Mom, Dad and three kids including an adolescent son and two little girls.

Maybe we're a little prudish, but it just doesn't strike us as the way our children should see a family live.

I've never brought up the subject to them (guess I'm just too embarrassed) and my husband hasn't either. He disposes of the whole thing by saying it is none of our business.

I think it is, but perhaps he's right. What do you think? A. I suppose that out of consideration for your family and other neighbors they could pull down the shades or blinds, but that might deprive them of sunshine, air and a view of the outside. You could do the same, of course, but that's punishing yourselves, perhaps unnecessarily.

So there are two other possibilities: (1) A friendly comment to them if either of you can bring yourself to offer it, stressing a desire for them to use shades or blinds on the side of their house facing yours, or (2) adopting your husband's live-and-let-live attitude.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — If you get some "inside information," be careful how you use it. Go for your goals energetically, but don't neglect a loved one. Your timing is great — you could get another chance at something you thought was a lost cause.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — You get a positive answer on something you've waited for and your confidence is restored. Midweek you're particularly gullible, so don't believe everything you hear and read the fine print. By week's end all signals are go.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Your prestige soars when your accomplishments are praised. You could end a rather draining relationship now and your popularity soars. Accept invitations and make some new contacts that could help you achieve your goals.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — You can do an outstanding job of work and receive recognition for your efforts now. Release something or someone that is making you insecure, take the lead and move toward your goals. A dynamic new romance could blossom.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Display seriousness and responsibility to get the backing you need. Think big and display your original creativity. Trust your intuition in making an important decision but also get the advice of someone close to you.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — A financial decision may require the courage to risk in order to gain more profitable opportunities. Trust your instincts and intuition, dig out all the facts and don't ask for advice. You may get some good news from a distance.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — An unusual opportunity for more personal importance is available if you'll take the initiative. Maintain a positive attitude and resist the urge to be critical or impatient. You have renewed support from a loved one.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — You can resolve a problem with a mate or partner now. Your confidence soars when your grand plan at work is implemented — you were right all along! It may be time to get tough with an overly dependent associate.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Your happy, high spirits return but there's still a trace of hypersensitivity. You may get an unexpected chance to rebuild something that was pretty shaky — good for you! Better avoid speculative ventures just now.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Get out and about, open lines of communication and make new contacts. Good time to entertain in your home, too. Open up and make amends to a loved one who has seemed rather distant or upset — be willing to compromise!

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — All communications are favored but especially writing, so get your thoughts down on paper. You could get a pledge of support and commitment from an important person now. Let go of the past and make your new beginnings!

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Pay attention to your personal appearance and look your glamorous best. You can impress some powerful people now. Keep a tight rein on your purse strings. Count your change and don't fall for "pie-in-the-sky" schemes.

Arthritis Formulas Get Praise

By John T. Watts

Dear John: In reading your column in one of our local newspapers, your honey and vinegar formula appealed to me. And as your kind and friendly offer is to send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope to receive a copy of the Certo and vinegar formulas, well, what could be simpler and cost so little?

The honey and vinegar never can cost as much as a visit to our doctor's office. And if it will do, as some folks claim, what am I waiting for? After all, neither my wife nor I ever will see 75 again. — Joseph M.

Dear Joseph: What more can be said?

Dear John: Enjoy your column very much. Got a problem. I am a senior citizen who is losing his sense of smell and taste. Is there anything that can be done? — Bob S.

Dear Bob: I've always understood that these were a couple of the infirmities of growing old, but it wouldn't hurt to consult an expert.

Dear John: I have been in California for only a short time, but I've been reading your column and it is fantastic.

Please send the recipe for vinegar and honey, and also on Certo. Keep up the good work. — Mrs. E.M.

Dear Mrs. E.M.: Thanks for the kind words, but you don't have to live in California to read the column. It appears in papers from coast to coast and in Canada. Don't forget the self-addressed, stamped envelope when you write for the leaflet.

Freebies Do-It-Yourselfers Get Free Plans

By Judith Harlan

Spring is a handyman's season — time to get things built, remodeled and redone. But before you get those tools into the hands of the one who knows how to use them (even if that's yourself), you need a nudge. And that's what I've compiled here — a few plans and ideas to get your spring doings on the way to getting done.

Cedar Closet

There are many ways to keep the moths away from your woollens over the summer months. You can stand guard with a flyswatter and whack each one that comes around. You can pick them off with a bow and arrow. You can use mothballs (but everyone knows how awful they smell).

Or you can build a moth-free cedar closet.

The nice thing about a cedar closet is that it makes an ideal bedroom closet as well as a storage closet for woollens. And it always smells great, to humans anyhow. Moths despise cedar fumes and stay away from such places.

So by now you're thinking, great! How do I build one of these moth discouragers? The answer is in How to Build a Cedar Closet.

This fold-out brochure is brief but complete, with 16-step instructions for building a freestanding, full-size cedar closet, and another few steps to convert all that empty attic space you're wasting overhead into moth-free storage that will serve you summer after summer.

If you're lucky enough to have adequate storage space already, and just want to moth-proof and cedar-line a closet, there are instructions here for that, too.

Directions: Send a postcard. Ask For: How to Build a Cedar Closet.

Mail To: Home Closet Planning Service, 221 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, IL 60601.

Entertainment Centers

Looking for a project that will make you King For a Day on the home front? How about something the whole family can enjoy, like an entertainment center for your television, stereo, tape deck, video recorder, toys and games?

Plans and Ideas for Do-It-Yourself Home Entertainment Centers will get you going on this family project. A 13-page booklet, it includes two plans for compact television cabinets as well as two full wall system plans.

One compact unit is vertical, the other horizontal, and each is large enough (custom-fit by you) to hold your TV set and video recorder, and includes a closed cabinet area for tape and game storage. Step-by-step instructions are accompanied by plan diagrams.

The wall systems are modular units. One is long and low, built in three parts. You mix and match the units that you need for your records, books, tapes and equipment.

The other wall system, also modular, is a four-part plan, and includes closed cabinet areas below stereo and video shelves. It's 84 inches high, and if all four parts are constructed, is 11 feet long.

Directions: Send a postcard.

Ask for: Plans & Ideas for Do-It-Yourself Home Entertainment Centers.

Mail To: Plans & Ideas for Do-It-Yourself Home Entertainment Centers, William Shanahan, The Stanley Works, Department FB, P.O. Box 1800, New Britain, CT 06050.

Wood Deck

Can you see yourself this summer lounging under the warm sun rays, a soda in one hand, a magazine propped up with the other, the odor of coconut butter wafting over the summer breezes — and all this on your own sun deck?

You say you don't have a sun deck? Then now's the time to get busy and build one. And here's an offer of wood deck plans to get you started.

It's a fold-out brochure that outlines general plans for building decks. The basic construction plans here cover decks from 6 by 6 feet to 12 by 14 feet, both four-post and six-post support systems, using Douglas fir-larch or southern pine.

Step by step, the plans take you through construction, from staking out the area to nailing down the deck. You'll also find helpful advice on three methods of constructing stairs (so you can walk gracefully up to your deck once you've built it).

Directions: Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with 37 cents postage.

Ask For: Wood deck plans.

Mail To: Department 3 — TECO, 5530 Wisconsin Ave., Chevy Chase, MD 20815.

"Freebies" is compiled by Freebies Magazine, a national publication that features free (or postage-and-handling-only) offers you can request through the mail. To receive information about FREEBIES, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Freebies Magazine, P.O. Box 20283-CP, Santa Barbara, CA 93120.

Nature Walks

Arnold Arboretum — This 265-acre botanical garden in Jamaica Plain designed by Frederick Law Olmstead has 7,000 kinds of trees and shrubs. More than 400 kinds of lilacs bloom mid-May. At the intersection of Route 203 and Route 1 in Jamaica Plain: admission free; open daily from sunrise to sunset. Handicapped people may arrange to drive through the park. For more information, call 524-1717.

Olmstead Homestead — The Frederick Law Olmstead National Historic Park, at 99 Warren st. in Brookline (just off Route 9), is the home of the famous landscape architect who designed Boston's "Emerald Necklace" of parks. Tours of the home and the grounds of the estate are offered Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, 12-4:30. Group tours arranged. Admission is free.

The staff also offers guided walking tours of sections of the "Emerald Necklace" on Sunday afternoons. Call 566-1689 for more information.

Garden in The Woods — This 45-acre preserve in Framingham, owned by the New England Wildflowers Society, offers wildflowers growing in their natural habitat. Open Tuesday-Sunday from 9-4 through Oct. 31. Admission $3.50; seniors and children, $2.50. Call 877-7630 for information or directions.

Walden Pond — Walden Pond State Reservation (Routes 2 and 126 in Concord) surrounds the kettle pond that Henry David Thoreau surveyed, swam in, lived beside and wrote about.

Community Calendars

"Thoreau Rambles" — one-hour hikes, with readings from his writings — are conducted at 1:30 p.m. Sundays.

Middlesex Fells — Trails marked by wooden posts (and detailed on small brochures available at Henderson's Stationers in Winchester) will lead you through the Fells — and through meadow, forest, marsh and pond shore, past trillium, jacks-in-the-pulpit and other wildflowers. Park at the old Girl Scout cabin lot on South Border rd. to pick up the Long Pond trail.

Winchester Town Forest — Park at North Gateway rd. if you're touring the Brooks-Parkhurst Town Forest, 28 acres of grand old hemlocks and oaks, lady's slippers and other flowers, with a section of wetland swamp, and several huge granite hunks, remnants of the 18th century Middlesex Canal.

Smith Pond — Winchester's Smith Pond is a conservation sanctuary where walkers can see cattails, low-bush blueberries, sumac, ferns, sassafras trees and many birds. Enter from Ridge st., near the Arlington line.

Menotomy Rocks Park — Arlington's Menotomy Rocks Park on Jason st. offers the standard swings, seesaw, and playing fields, and a one-mile "Vita course," a jog/exercise trail through the woods. No charge for the workout or the scenery; the park closes at dusk.

The Great Meadow — The Great Meadow, 183 acres of wetlands, grassy meadows and woods, walkers a variety of wildflowers, bushes, trees, muskrats, frogs, turtles, foxes and birds.

It belongs to Arlington, but is actually in Lexington. Fottler ave. and Maple st. in Lexington border the meadow. Entrance to the Great Meadow is easiest by taking Route 2A to Lexington Christian Academy, and walking in through their parking lot and soccer field, or by taking Mass. ave to the Waldo School — also in Lexington — and walking through their parking lot.

The Habitat — Belmont's most beautiful walk, The Habitat, on Juniper rd., is also private, and open to members only, although non-members can take workshops and courses. Memberships cost $12 for individuals, $18 for families.

Hammond Pond Woods — On either side of Hammond Pond Parkway in Chestnut Hill, it offers 64 acres of hills, several miles of gently rolling paths, and a deer park for wildlife observation. Open dawn to dusk; free. Enter through the Chestnut Hill Mall's lower parking lot; for a map, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Newton Conservators, Box 11, Newton 02159.

Broadmoor Sanctuary — The Audubon Society's Broadmoor Sanctuary, just under two miles west of Natick center on Route 16, has nine miles of trails through wetlands, woods and fields. Open dawn to dusk, Tuesday through Saturday. Donation, 50 cents. For information, call 655-2296.

Boston By Foot 77 North Washington st., Boston. Telephone 367-2345. Guided tours from May 1. The Heart of the Freedom Trail: Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays at 10 a.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Meet at statue of Samuel Adams, Congress st. near Faneuil Hall. Beacon Hill: Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays at 10 a.m., Wednesdays and Fridays at 5:30 p.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Meet at foot of State House steps, Beacon st. Copley Square in Back Bay: Wednesdays at 12 noon, Saturdays at 2 p.m. Meet on steps of Trinity Church, Copley Square. The North End: Saturdays at 2 p.m. Meet at statue of Samuel Adams, Congress st. near Faneuil Hall. Tours last ninety minutes and cost $4. Rain or shine, reservations not required.

Carol Goldman of Watertown, and a member of Beth El Temple in Belmont, will show her paintings in two shows. Art From The Inside: Three Women opens June 9 at Heterick Gallery, Lesley College, Welch Auditorium. Her art also will be included in the Cambridge Art Association Annual Class and Workshop Show opening June 16 at 25R Lowell st. Cambridge.

Sailing/ Boating

Community Boating, Inc. Boston's best-known learn-to-sail program, located on Storrow Drive along the Charles River, offers programs for juniors (11-17) and adults (18+) that include instruction and the use of a fleet of 100 small boats, including 85 Mercuries.

Juniors can sail from the last week of June until the Friday before Labor Day for $1; adults have a choice of a 30-day membership ($40) or all season — now through Nov. 1 ($120).

Facilities are open 1 p.m. to sunset, Monday -Friday, 9 am. to sunset weekends. All sailors must be able to swim. For more information, call 523-1038.

Coastal Sailing School

Bert Williams, a Coast Guard-licensed captain, teaches "a cruising kind of sailing for adults" on 26-foot sloops off Marblehead.

Taught on-board ship, his 20-hour courses ($225) can be done in one five-day week, two-and-a-half weekends, or over five weeks.

Williams also rents the large boats by the day or half-day — call for rates and further information: 639-0553.

Boston Sailing Center

Behind The Winery on Lewis Wharf in Boston, this private center offers courses from beginners' "Learn to Sail" ($255) — including a 35-day membership — to ocean cruising, and 20 percent discounts when more than one person signs up at once.

Open now through November, every day, 9 a.m. till sunset — and memberships run a full year. For more information, call 227-4198.

Charles River Canoe Service

For those who prefer a peaceful paddle down the river, this private organization offers instructions and canoe rentals from their base on Route 30 in Newton. Canoe rentals are $5 an hour weekends, holidays, $4 weekdays; discounts for group rentals.

Hours: 10 to 6 now, noon to dusk (around 8) in summer. For more information, call 965-5110.

Europa Windsurfing

Windsurfing or board sailing is the latest water sport to sweep New England. The Mystic Lakes and Spy Pond are often dotted with board sailors skimming the water on what look like sailboats built on surfboards.

Europa Windsurfing, in Porter Square on Upland rd., offers lessons in handling the tricky boards, at Upper Mystic Lake in Winchester, beginning May 1. ($24 for a two-hour lesson.)

Sail boards — and wet suits, for protection against the still-chilly wind and water — can be rented now (off-season) for $10 a day each. In season, a day's board rental is $24 — and reservations are a must. For more information, call 497-0309.

Father's Day a "second Christmas"...

American dads: The world's most "gifted"

Of all the dads in the world, America's are the most "gifted," because Americans are the "givingest" people on the face of the earth.

If you want proof, just tally up what happens on Father's Day! Then you'll get a good idea of why our fathers call it their "Second Christmas."

There are just about 70,000,000 dads in this great country of ours, and research done by the Father's Day Council shows that the "median father" will be getting two and a half gifts! Some will get more, some will get less but, all in all, it will total up to about 180,000,000 gifts showered on America's dads on June 16th.

Given an average total gift value per dad of about $70 (up from about $40 just five years ago), that's not far from five and half billion dollars, projected by the Father's Day Council research, for Father's Day gifts.

In fact, the expenditure per father is just a shade over what he gets for Christmas, when he has to share the charge account payments with gifts for mother, sisters, brothers, children and friends.

The first choice

The gift option favored by a margin of almost two and a half to one is "something to wear." Shirts, ties, sports shirts, slacks, jewelry, socks, underwear, robes, swimwear, pajamas — often things he put off buying for himself because someone else in the family seemed to have a more urgent need. Come Father's Day, dad is king and the gifts shower down on him.

And who knows what he needs better than mother, who probably sorts out his laundry and, if she doesn't do it, she at least stashes it away when it comes back from the cleaners. She knows best — when collars become frayed and socks develop holes.

"The more the merrier"

Next in line as a gift favorite is "toiletries" — colognes, after shave lotion, and skin care products, a wide range of male cosmetics that have become increasingly popular in just a decade, and right behind these comes spirited beverages.

All of them are easy to buy because there is no size or color question (one size "fits all" — and if the size is too big, who cares? It's just a case of "the more the merrier.") These gifts come pre-packaged and can be picked up at the last minute, ready-gift wrapped for the next day giving.

Not too far behind are hobby gifts, including photographic equipment, games and tools for the do-it-yourself man-about-the-house, as so many dads have to be today.

In the same vein come sports gear for active participation. Golf clubs, golf balls and all kinds of accessories, tennis racquets and balls, and the countless accessories needed to keep dad's game in top form. Then there are fishing dads, swimming dads, boating dads and gardening and "cook-out" dads. Add them together and the number of gift choices is almost unending.

Jewelry comes and goes with fashion swings. But standbys include ID bracelets, cuff links and collar pins or clips, distinctive rings, money clips and wallets, running the gamut of useful and prestigious accessories that set your dad off from the rest.

Leave it up to dad

If you're still stumped after all these ideas, you can always solve your gift quandary with a gift certificate from his favorite store. That way you can leave the responsibility of choice up to him and know that you can't go wrong.

The best gift of all is your love and affection. After that, anything your pocket-book can stand will be on the plus side — for you and for dad. But don't forget, whatever you do: This year, Father's Day is Sunday, June 16th.

Reminders of the good times spent together are the best gifts for dads

It's the good times we share with them that make our fathers so special. The many things that dads do... rooting loudest at sports events when their kids are performing... discussing a child's problem with totally adult concentration... roughhousing and playing with patience as a child learns to master some skills of his own... all these make us grateful on Father's Day.

But the best times as a kid were probably those when we felt we were on the same wavelength as our dad, enjoying something with him as we could with no other person in the world. And the best Father's Day presents bring back some of that magic.

Gone fishin'

For lots of kids, there's one activity that will always be associated with dad: The first time that they went fishing. Whether the sport has been abandoned or has bloomed into a passion, childhood memories of fishing with dad are still precious.

The very activity lends itself to quiet times together, and catching up with what's on each other's minds, coupled, of course, with the anticipated thrill of actually catching something.

An enchanting way of bringing it all back this Father's Day is made possible by Goebel of West Germany. A new introduction this year is the M.I. Hummel figurine, "Just Fishing."

The collectible is of a child with pole in hand, pulling in a boot caught on his hook. The figurine is perched on the edge of a bowl decorated as a pool, with rippled water sculpted in its base. Handsome enough to display anywhere, the bowl can even be used to hold a ring or other jewelry on a man's dresser.

Cooking up a special gift

There are other gifts that can evoke those special times. If making weekend breakfast together is an important event (an increasingly popular daddy activity, with working mothers on the increase), then a special gourmet apron would do the trick.

Any dad who loves hiking with his kids would delight in a woodsman's knife or snazzy new knapsack. While dad and child may have outgrown the hours they once enjoyed of throwing a baseball or football, tickets to a local game might be a welcome alternative that will rekindle the memories. If nothing immediately comes to mind, the wide range of M.I. Hummel figurines alone provide ample gift-giving ideas.

Whatever the shared experience, there is a gift that can bring back those special times with a laugh, a sigh and that same sense of closeness so unique between father and child.

Since it's these memories that Father's Day is all about, make sure that dad's gift, whatever you choose, captures and passes on some of that underlying feeling.

Greeting cards and telephone calls convey messages of appreciation on Father's Day

Remember your dad on Father's Day! It's as easy as sending him a greeting card, or picking up the telephone and wishing him "the best" in your very own voice.

When Mrs. Dodd brainstormed the idea of Father's Day, she foresaw writing dad a special note or letter to mark the occasion. Something sentimental and respectful, to express love and appreciation, was what she had in mind.

The idea of greeting cards, in such a vast array and created for every taste and mood, had not yet been thought of, and the telephone was an arcane instrument of business, and telephoning from coast-to-coast was a dream yet to be realized.

This year, well over 125,000,000 greeting cards will pour out sentiment, warm and appreciative, friendly and funny, as the postmen lace across the country with their bundles of remembrance.

You can take your pick from a selection of cards that are serious and reverent, humorous, arty, nostalgic... whatever! And easy as falling off a log, you can buy your greeting card at any one of hundreds of thousands of store counters, put on your own 22¢ stamp and, for less than a dollar, make your favorite dad the dad you remembered!

One wise caution, though: Be sure to mail your card no later than Sunday, June 9th, a week before Father's Day. That helps your friendly postman, and practically guarantees that your greeting will arrive before Father's Day.

Then, you can either call him again on Father's Day, just to emphasize your love, or, if you've neglected to send him a card, you have until midnight, Sunday, June 16th, to call dad, locally or long distance, to give him your greeting in person. It is no wonder, then, that Father's Day is one of the biggest telephone calling days of the year, rivalled only by Christmas and Mother's Day, which top the list.

Be prepared for some wait. The long-distance lines get a lot of extra use on Father's Day.

Whatever you do, don't forget dad on Father's Day, Sunday, June 16th.

Your fond remembrance is only a greeting card and signature, or a telephone call away.

Fatherhood through the ages is now back where it started

The more things change, the more they remain the same! And certainly, it's true of the role of father, the strong right hand of the family, its guardian, protector, a tower of strength in times of duress and hardship.

Up to the 1750s, when the Industrial Revolution tore dad away from home to eke out a living for his family in the burgeoning factories of the exploding world, dad literally raised the children from the time they were weaned from their mothers' breasts.

When they had the self-sufficiency to partially take care of themselves, they went with their fathers to learn his trade: To the smithy, to the Guild Hall, to the shop or pub, to the fields or mines. They were their fathers' children from then on, while mother kept house.

But with the change of social and economic norms, when father had to leave home early in the morning, and return from his source of livelihood (in some factory or office far from home) late at night, mother gained responsibilities. Now, she not only bore the children, kept the house, but became disciplinarian, and assumed the father-role when dad was away earning a living.

The remains of this reversal—or enlarging—of the role of motherhood still persist. But as more and more women join the work force, dad has come to share in all the household responsibilities. He is now helping to guide his children on a day-to-day basis and supplementing the authority of mother. He is helping them more with their studies, is more involved in the elementary educational processes and vastly more responsive to sharing the burdens of running the household, from doing the laundry to doing some sophisticated cookery.

Today about 55 percent of our young moms are out there in the job market! But, in another decade, the demographers predict that fully 80 percent of the women under 45 will be running homes and working to keep our economy oiled and functioning smoothly. (Keep in mind that the child-bearing years are largely in the under-45 age group.)

Unlike any other nation in the world, the United States created 13½ million jobs over the past decade, and many of them (particularly in the service industries) demand the skills and aptitudes of women.

So dad, be prepared. Even if there is no role-reversal in your future, chances are you will be sharing more responsibilities for child-rearing and home-management with the mom and you'll like the new "shared-ness" that enriches life for the family and encourages togetherness to make the most of leisure time that will become a scarcer and scarcer commodity.

"Something's gotta give"—and dad, you'll be giving while getting a better quality of life with the family than ever before.

A thumbnail history of Father's Day

An occasion for celebration...

Special gifts for 75th Father's Day

Because this year marks the diamond anniversary for Father's Day, the usual gifts honoring that special man seem somewhat commonplace. Neckties, leather goods, scarves and aftershave lotion are given every year. This, the 75th Father's Day, calls for something different.

Especially appropriate to a longstanding and happy tradition are gifts that keep on giving all year long. Reusable glass decanters holding a favorite whisky, for example, make handsome additions to home or office bars and serve as lasting reminders of a thoughtful giver.

Choosing the whisky to fill a special decanter is a serious decision. One choice, available this year in a limited edition, handcrafted decanter, is Ballantine's 12-Year-Old Scotch Whisky. It tied for first place among several blends and single malt scotches in a 1984 tasting conducted by a panel of writers whose subject is distilled spirits.

Other choices to make this year's Father's Day special can include Ballantine's 17-Year-Old, 30-Year-Old and Finest. Gifts that become traditions in their own right can turn the day into a truly memorable occasion for the man it honors.

"Honor thy father..." sayeth the Bible, and honor her father she did!

Mrs. John Bruce Dodd was a child of the west, whose mother passed away when she was still quite young, and the responsibility of rearing a family of five sons and a daughter was vested in their Civil War vet father, William Smart.

Out of her love and admiration for what her father did to keep the family together, united, industrious, dedicated to the American lifestyle, Mrs. Dodd, after she became a young mother, conceived of the idea of a Father's Day, to honor her own beloved father and the American fathers who had assumed responsibility for carrying the torch of democracy.

In 1909, when Mrs. Dodd brainstormed the idea of Father's Day, we were a nation just out of swaddling clothes. The specter of World War I had not yet loomed on the horizon, and there were not yet 100,000,000 Americans spread across the vast three million square miles of continent. (In fact, the 48th state had not yet been admitted to the Union.)

It took a year of dedicated effort to gestate the notion of Father's Day, a year in which Mrs. Dodd developed her concept with the ministers of Spokane, the YMCA and civic leaders.

Then, in June of 1910, the first Father's Day was observed in Spokane, Washington, where the Dodd family resided. Mrs. Dodd's hope was to give the first Father's Day to her father on his birthday, which in 1910 was the first Sunday in June. But, there was red tape even 75 years ago. The ministers of Spokane just couldn't get their special sermons prepared in time, so a compromise was agreed upon, designating Father's Day as the third Sunday in outdoor barbecues, an avalanche of greeting cards and gifts in such profusion as to rival Christmas.

Father's Day has also assumed international importance, and is now observed in more than 30 lands around the world! In nearby Canada, in far-off Australia, in Japan, Hong Kong, England, and throughout Western Europe and down into Southernmost Africa.

William Smart, in whose honor the first Father's Day was conceived, died in 1919, but he lived to see the growth and acceptance of a day to honor and respect all fathers for the responsibility that they have accepted for their families, their communities and their country. After only 75 years, almost as many families observe Father's Day as observe Christmas and Easter: Proof of its importance.

This year, remember your father on Sunday, June 16th, the Diamond Anniversary of Father's Day.

June in Spokane in 1910.

The tradition took hold and is still with us. Father's Day, now, by Congressional resolution is a national holiday, to be observed the third Sunday in every June, and to be proclaimed as a national holiday by the President.

Although the resolution was made official long after Father's Day was popularly accepted by nearly the entire country, William Jennings Bryan long ago noted the significance of a day set aside to honor our fathers. Later, Presidents Wilson and Coolidge added their voices of support to the growing institution that gained in meaning and observance, year by year, because Americans "took" to the idea.

Now, Father's Day, being observed for the 75th year in 1985, is a part of our social fabric, participated in by over 96 percent of the American public. Father's Day has become a day of fun and good feeling, characterized by family get-togethers,

WORKING DADS AND WORKING MOMS MAKE FAMILIES WORK BETTER

It takes "two to tango" — and these days it takes two to work to give the average American family the standard of living that our free society can offer.

It's a phenomenon that is sure to grow, as more and more women (many of child-bearing age) take their rightful place in our work force.

There was a time when it was dad who "brought home the bacon," but that cliché is getting less and less true with every passing year. Today as many as 55 percent of the mothers of the country are out there working full-time or part-time while running households, with all the responsibility that involves, too.

Over the past decade, about 13.5 million of the new jobs created by our exploding economy have gone to women. Many of them are jobs in the service industries, and skills of these are just as useful and important as those of their husbands. As we shift ever more to service-oriented vocations, mothers will be in there helping dad make ends meet.

Demographers predict that by 1995 (only 10 years away), fully 80 percent of the women in the country under 45 years of age will be working.

Over the past 20 years, the number of families earning over $25,000 has increased from 28 percent of the total family population to 46 percent, or about 29 million families. The reason is not just because dad earns more, but because what he earns is now supplemented by what mother earns, and our standard of living shows it. Better housing for many. Better education opportunity for most. Better jobs for all at the end of the economic rainbow.

Need a mortgage?

Alexandra Holton
Mortgage
Representative

Alex can help.

Applications and paper work don't help people get loans. People help people get them. And that's why Alex is a good person to know.

Getting a mortgage can be a complicated procedure. You need someone who knows the ins and outs of mortgage lending. A person who can guide you through the process with the attention and concern of someone who genuinely cares about other people. Someone who will do his or her best to help you get the money you need at the best possible rate. And Alex is just that kind of person — she's an expert in real estate and the best ways to finance the purchase of it.

So if you need a mortgage, you know who to call.

FOR SALE SIGN — PRO & CON

The debate on For Sale signs in the front yard go on and on. The decision as to whether a yard sign will go up is yours. Yard signs are not appropriate or necessary for marketing all homes and in all locations. However they do have some positive elements when it comes to marketing your home. For example:

1. When a prospect makes an inquiry in response to a sign, he or she has already approved of the location.

2. The prospect calling in response to a yard sign has already seen part of the grounds and exterior of the house and is calling for more information.

3. A yard sign has advertising endurance. It stays up until the property is sold. A newspaper ad loses its impact in one day.

4. The Realtor's name and phone on the sign will direct all inquiries in that direction — not to you.

Listen to your Realtor's input when it comes time to decide on the use of a yard sign. It could make a positive contribution to your sales effort.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shrouded oldest time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 58 cal. rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb. full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York - but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Borjeson at 1-815-3102 for further information. 11/3/TF

BONNELL FORD—A GREAT STORY

Sixty years ago, Ralph Bonnell Sr. opened the doors of his brand new Ford dealership, selling the impressive Model T automobiles. He worked diligently through the Depression to build a reputation for honest, courteous and dependable service.

Today, Bonnell still has faithful customers from those early years. In fact, Eleanor and Frank Sweeney of Malden recently purchased a 1985 Ford Crown Victoria some 60 years after their first purchase of a 1925 Model T at Bonnell Ford.

Today, Bonnell sells hundreds of cars a year, making it one of the largest dealerships in New England. The service department at Bonnell has 50 service bays, certified mechanics, computer engine analyzers and alignment and balance testing equipment. And Bonnell's daily rental fleet is second to none! To this day, Bonnell is still building on the reputation of honest, courteous and dependable service.

SEE THE LIMITED DIAMOND EDITION CROWN VICTORIA

Now that we have reached our 60th year, Bonnell Ford would like to thank you for helping us get here. We have just taken delivery on a limited number of the outstanding Diamond Edition Crown Victorias. This car is a customized version of America's best full-sized car, the Ford LTD Crown Victoria. ....

14.99 Arrow
Paddock Club
dress shirts
Reg. $19-$20

Is Dad lean and trim? The tapered fit of Arrow's BRIGADE oxford-cloth is designed for him exclusively. He'll get the comfort and look of cotton in an easy-care blend of 60% cotton / 40% polyester with a classic button-down collar and short sleeves. Choose from white, blue or ecru. Sizes 14½-17.

Arrow's DOVER is a 60% cotton / 40% polyester oxford-cloth shirt cut for a regular fit. With a button-down collar and short sleeves, Dover is the shirt preferred by most American men. Choose from white, blue or ecru. Sizes 14½-17.

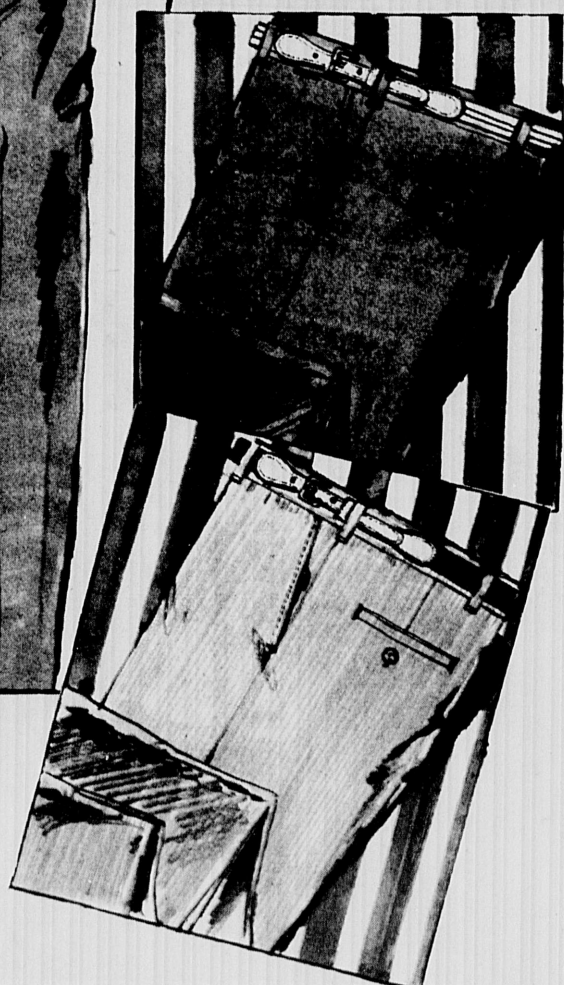

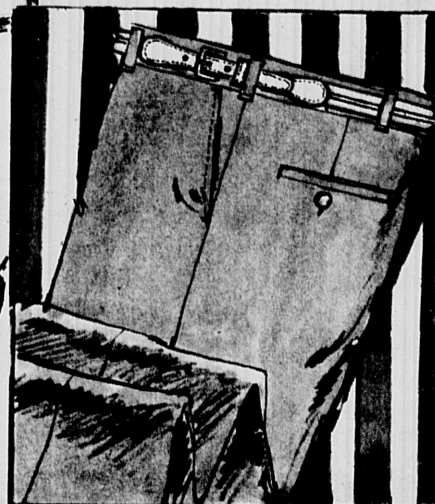

One of Arrow's most popular dress shirts is the short-sleeve broadcloth called JOSH. It's still an easy-care blend of 60% cotton / 40% polyester and is distinguished from the Dover and Brigade by its regular collar. Choose from white, blue or ecru. Sizes 14½-17.

American Express, MasterCard, Coop Charge and Visa welcome. For prompt TOLL FREE ordering call 1-800-792-5170 in Mass.

Sale prices in effect through June 15, 1985.

Save 25% all Haggar dress and casual slacks

Does Dad already own a light blue, lavender, pink, red pinstripe or pale yellow shirt? Haggar's lightweight polyester / wool blend dress slacks in versatile tones of grey or heather grey are ideally suited for day-to-day business activities and easy to coordinate with any shirt he owns.
Reg. $30

NOW $22.50

When it's hotter 'n blazes outside and Dad promised to walk the Freedom Trail with his visiting in-laws, Haggar's featherweight poplin slacks will keep him cool and comfortable. These too are an easy-care blend of 80% polyester / 20% cotton in his choice of navy, khaki or medium blue.
Reg. $30

NOW $22.50

When it's a night game at Fenway and a little cooler than Dad expected, it's the right time for Haggar's sailcloth slacks. They're an easy-care blend of 60% cotton / 40% polyester and available in navy, teal, khaki, pewter and white.
Reg. $28

NOW $21

If you've decided to pack a picnic basket, take Dad by the arm and head to the Charles River, maybe even catch a film later, then Haggar's pincord slacks of 75% polyester / 25% cotton will take him in or out of town in style. Pinstripes in white and navy or white and grey.

The Leadership Difference
By Tom Peters and Nancy Austin

This practical work on the art of leadership shows how managers at every level can achieve superior performance by fostering pride in one's organization, using a technique called "naive customer listening", assessing employee commitment, championing intrapreneurs and more. It is an invaluable addition for dedicated and innovative business leaders and courageous public servants.

POLICE LOG

Tuesday, June 11

• At 2:15 a.m. police arrested a 21-year-old Lincoln man in connection with traffic warrants from Framingham state police. The man was stopped while walking across the Town Common.

Monday, June 10

• A 20-year-old Plato terr. woman suffered cuts and scrapes on her left side when her bicycle collided with a motorcycle on Main st. at 5:25 p.m. She was taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment.

The motorcycle driver, a 28-year-old Woburn man, was uninjured, police said. No charges were filed.

• Two hours later, at 7:15 p.m., a 56-year-old Winchester man was taken to Winchester Hospital with complaints of back and hip pain following a two-car crash at the intersection of Wildwood st. and Cambridge st.

Police cited the other driver, a 24-year-old North Reading man, on charges of failing to stop for a red light. He escaped uninjured from the collision, police said.

Both cars were badly damaged in the accident.

• A Washington st. resident told police he found his 12-speed bicycle, reported stolen May 28, in a neighbor's yard.

• A Lawrence st. woman told police a wicker swing was stolen from her front porch during the weekend. She estimated its value at $200.

• A Ginn rd. man found a pressurized soft drink canister in his back yard, police said, and turned it in at the Lynch School police station.

Sunday, June 9

• A 20-year-old Winchester man suffered cuts above his left eye at 2:30 a.m. when his car slammed into a wall of McCall Junior High School. According to police, he lost control of the car while "doing doughnuts" in the school parking lot.

After being treated at Winchester Hospital, the man was cited on charges of reckless driving.

Neither of his passengers was injured in the crash, police reported. No damage was done to the school.

• A 23-year-old Woburn man was arrested at 2:50 a.m. in connection with traffic warrants from Woburn police.

Police stopped him when they saw a car traveling at high speed on Main st.

• A 16-year-old Winchester youth told police he was bitten by a dog on Main st. at 6:45 p.m.

• Police investigated an attempted break-in on South Border rd. at 5:20 p.m.

Although a kitchen window had been pried open, the house's interior appeared to be in order, police reported. No one was home at the time.

• A Winchester man was taken into protective custody at the Christopher Columbus Club at 9:50 p.m.

• At 1:30 a.m., police found a Pine st. youth spray painting a Navy recruiting poster in front of the Winchester Post Office. No charges were reported.

• A Salisbury st. resident told police at 7 p.m. she wanted the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to remove a rabbit seen on her lawn.

Saturday, June 8

• Vandals smashed 30 window panes and a picture window at a Westland ave. home sometime Friday night, police reported at 10:45 a.m.

The windows were broken with rocks wrapped in small plastic bags, police said.

The homeowner told police she has previously been the victim of similar acts but has no known enemies.

• Police investigated a report that a Ridge st. youth had been missing from her home since Friday afternoon. She was found in Woburn, police said, and returned home.

• Police arrested six people on trespassing charges at Winchester drinking water reservoirs last weekend.

A 75-year-old Winchester resident was arrested, as well as residents of Cambridge, Allston, Melrose, Somerville and Medford.

Police said four people were caught fishing.

Friday, June 7

• Vandals cut a tennis net at McDonald Field and strung it the length of the basketball court during the night, a Public Works employee told police.

The net's value was estimated at $80.

Thursday, June 6

• At 6:15 p.m. a car driven by a Thornberry rd. woman collided with a car driven by a Nassau dr. woman, police reported. The crash occurred at the intersection of Thornberry rd. and Wincrest dr.

Both drivers escaped uninjured, police reported.

Kids' Corner Offers Scholarship Aid

Kids' Corner, the after-school day care program run by Winchester Child Care Inc., is seeking applicants for tuition aid for the 1985-86 school year.

Thanks to the generosity of the EnKa Society, the Winchester Unitarian Society, and fundraising by Kids' Corner parents, money is available for partial or full tuition assistance.

The purpose of the scholarship money is to permit one or more low-income families to obtain high-quality after-school care for their kindergarten or elementary school age children. The scholarship committee is particularly interested in assisting the single parent who requires after-school day care in order to work or undergo job training.

Winchester Child Care Inc. is a parent-organized, non-profit organization which employs a staff of professional educators to provide a secure and enriching after-school environment. Transportation is provided from the Winchester elementary schools to the program center at McCall Junior High School. The program is in operation until 6 p.m., Monday through Friday. Children may be enrolled on a full- or part-time basis, and coverage is provided during February and April vacations.

All applications will be treated in strict confidentiality. To obtain a copy of the short and simple application form, write to: Kids' Corner Scholarship Committee, in care of Philip Conley, 33 Lloyd st. The first round of selections will be made by June 30.

Star Publisher Is Elected To Channel Seven Board

At a recent stockholders' meeting three new members were elected to the board of directors of New England Television Corporation, parent company of WNEV-TV, Channel SE7EN, Boston. The announcement was made by David G. Mugar, chairman of the board of the corporation.

The new members are Palmer Davenport, Steven S. Fischman, Esq., and C. Peter Jorgensen, owner of Century Publications, which publishes The Arlington Advocate, The Belmont Citizen and The Winchester Star.

In addition, Jorgensen is president of National News Service Inc. of New York City, publishers of "The Commercial and Financial Chronicle" and "The Bank and Quotation Record," weekly and monthly compendiums of stock market activity. Jorgensen also serves on the board of the National Newspaper Association, is treasurer and a director of the Massachusetts Newspaper Publishers Association, and is a member of the board of the New England Press Association.

He is a director of the Trustees of the Esplanade and serves on the executive committee of the Campaign for Boston University, from which he received his bachelor of arts and master of science degrees in journalism. He and his wife, Kathryn, live in Arlington.

As president and co-founder of the diversified Cape Cod-oriented firm of Davenport Realty Associates, Palmer Davenport's business interests include seven resort inns; alarm, construction, fence, telephone, and mortgage companies; a golf course, shopping centers, apartments, and real estate development.

Davenport is a director of The Cape Cod Bank and Trust Company, a trustee of the Kelley Foundation, and has served in the past as a director of both the Cape Cod Hospital and the Bass River Savings Bank.

He is a graduate of Colgate University and the Harvard Business School. Davenport and his wife, Jane, live in Dennis and have two children.

A graduate of Kenyon college in Ohio and the Pennsylvania Law School, Steven S. Fischman served in the Peace Corps for two years. He specializes in real estate finance and development. Fischman has been a member of the Boston law firm of Goulston & Storrs since 1968, and one of its senior partners since 1976.

In addition, he is a director of Greater Boston Legal Service, a member of the steering committee for the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights, a Boston Bar Association organization, and a member of the corporation of the Winsor School in Boston. Fischman and his wife, Nancy, live in Newton with their two children.

Saltmarsh Files Tough Drug Bill

In an effort to stem the flow of illegal drugs to school children, Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh recently filed legislation which would impose stiff mandatory sentences for first-time convictions of adults caught selling drugs at public and private schools.

Saltmarsh noted that drug dealers caught on school premises do not now face mandatory sentences until their second conviction. The proposed legislation calls for minimum mandatory sentences ranging from two years for the sale of marijuana to 10 years for the sale of heroin.

In a recent state survey, 83 percent of secondary school children responded that it would be "easy" to obtain marijuana.

McCall Students Plan Graduation

On Wednesday, June 19, at 6 p.m. members of the class of '85 will meet in the McCall auditorium for a brief ceremony marking their graduation from the junior high school. Each graduating student will receive a Certificate of Achievement and there will be a presentation of special awards.

Following the ceremony, a family picnic will be held outdoors, weather permitting, on the school grounds. In the event of rain, the get-together will take place in the school gymnasium.

Italian Eatery Gets Two Local Licenses

By NANCY PICK

Pasta lovers rejoice.

An authentic Italian restaurant is coming to Winchester.

On Monday, Selectmen approved liquor and restaurant licenses for Zia Maria Inc. to open on Mt. Vernon st. in place of Randall's Restaurant.

Owners Filippo and Anna Frattaroli also run Luccia's restaurant at 415 Hanover st. in Boston.

However, the restaurateurs' lawyer, Ralph J. DeVito, said the Frattarolis will move to Winchester to operate the new restaurant, leaving the Boston eatery to the direction of a brother.

Following a public hearing Monday night, Selectmen voted 4-0 to grant the licenses. Selectman Mark Lombardi abstained from voting, arguing the Frattarolis should not be allowed to use their liquor license as collateral for a loan, and that too many entities — including a realty trust and Zia Maria Restaurant Inc. — were involved in the legal agreements.

However, Town Counsel Douglas Randall said companies often name a real estate trust as property owner.

Lombardi also said a bank loan from Capitol Bank and Trust Co. was mislabeled as a construction loan, not a loan for an existing building. The Frattarolis are paying $600,000 to purchase an existing Mt. Vernon st. building.

However, Selectman Wade Welch said he believes the loan could be considered a development loan for renovations, not strictly for construction from the ground up.

Also, Selectman Alan Macdonald said he was satisfied the agreement granted a liquor license solely to the Frattarolis. In the case of a transfer of ownership, the entrepreneurs would have to re-apply to the Selectmen.

Zia Maria's got the OK from Winchester Police Chief John P. McHugh. Fire Chief Robert W. McElhinney and Building Commissioner Anthony F. Zagzoug.

According to the agreement with the town, Zia Maria can keep maximum hours of 11 a.m. to midnight, seven days a week.

In other action, Selectmen Chairman Michael Saraco nixed a citizen's request that the board draft a new letter to the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) regarding a housing development proposed by Winchester lawyer Samuel Rotondi.

Daniel O'Connell III of Bellevue ave. asked Selectmen to send the letter. He said the town's Conservation Commission ruled the building site off Forest st. could qualify for protection under the Wetlands Act. O'Connell told Selectmen they should write to the MHFA to give them the news.

Saraco, however, said drafting such a letter was the responsibility of the Conservation Commission, not the Selectmen.

"I am not going to get into a debate with you," he told O'Connell.

wielding his gavel. "I, as chairman, am not going to amend what was sent."

Also Monday night, Selectmen voted to accept $2,100 in donations for parking lot plantings by the town's Beautification Design Review Committee.

The money is slated for the lots across from Town Hall and next to the Winchester train station.

In other action, the board voted to renew membership in the state's Commercial Area Revitalization District program, which sets financing and construction goals for downtown renovations.

At the meeting, Selectmen heard complaints from Malcolm Masters of Ginn rd. who said he has been unfairly arrested on trespassing charges at town reservoirs.

Selectman Chairman Michael Saraco said he will talk to Police Chief John P. McHugh to seek a resolution to the ongoing conflict.

ABC Honors Director, Graduates

By Sandy Thompson
Special to The Star
Approximately 125 people gathered Saturday to honor Mary-Jo Nealon, retiring resident director of Winchester's A.B.C. and the graduating seniors Jose Calero, Bucket Godfrey, and Neville McKenzie.

Nealon, who is leaving the "A Better Chance" program after seven years, spoke about the program's strengths and of the rewards of watching underprivileged students grow during their years in Winchester.

Many former board members attended to wish Nealon well, including many from out of town. The Barnaves, parents of student Sean Barnave, who graduated two years ago, drove to Winchester from New York to honor Nealon.

Former students Brian Perry ('84) and Blair Bradley ('81) also were special guests. Perry came in from Columbus, Ohio and Bradley arrived from Cleveland for the occasion.

Seniors Godfrey, Calero, and McKenzie each expressed their appreciation for the opportunities afforded them here, and made a special point of thanking their host families, as well as Nealon.

"I've liked it here," said Godfrey, "and I'll definitely be back." Godfrey served as house leader during his senior year in the program and will be attending Penn State next year.

Calero, who was elected president of the Winchester chapter of the National Honor Society, warmly thanked those present for the support and affection he has felt. He will be attending Williams College in September.

In concluding the afternoon's festivities, vice-president Joe Harris said that after participating in the events of the day "no one should have any doubts about the great value and intrinsic worth of the A.B.C. program."

Firms encourage early retirement

A strong trend toward early retirement is continuing across the nation, according to a recent study of 363 companies. The study shows that the vast majority of firms are encouraging retirement before age 65.

Over 60 percent of the surveyed firms have early-retirement inducements in their pension plans, but only 3 percent offer incentives to continue working beyond 65. In 51 percent of the companies the average retirement age is 62 or younger, up from 23 percent in 1972.

A BOUQUET FOR OUR ANNIVERSARY

We're celebrating our 125th Anniversary. Come join us during our week-long anniversary party. Beginning Monday, June 10.

125 years ago, in June of 1860, our bank opened for business as the West Cambridge Five Cents Savings Bank. Seven years later, we became known as the Arlington

Five Cents Savings Bank. Our purpose was to serve the growing needs of the community. Over the years, as Arlington grew, our bank grew along with the town.

Recently, we expanded the scope of our services into the communities of Bedford, Burlington, and Woburn, along with a change of our name to Bank Five.

Today, we're a strong, stable bank, with roots that still extend to all corners of the communities we serve. Our 125th Anniversary is a time to celebrate our growth, and look ahead to an even brighter future.

Join us for the fun.

A CARNATION FOR YOU

Visit any of our offices during our 125th Anniversary celebration week. There'll be fun and free gifts for everyone. 125 carnations will be given away each day at our main office.

MEET KEVIN McHALE

Friday, June 14 from 1 to 3 p.m., Kevin McHale, Boston Celtics Star will be at our main office in Arlington, 626 Mass. Ave. Come and say hello, and pick up your signed official Celtics photograph showing Kevin in action. Join the fun. Bring your friends and your camera.

PICK UP A PIECE OF OUR CAKE PUZZLE IF YOUR PIECE FITS, YOU WIN A PRIZE.

The Anniversary Cake Puzzle in each of our offices has missing pieces. Do you have one?

If you do, you may win one of our special Anniversary Gifts. Puzzle pieces are available at every office while supply lasts. Get yours, and see if it fits the missing space in our anniversary puzzle.

MOUNTBATTEN

A PASSION FOR EXCELLENCE
The Leadership Difference

By Thomas J. Peters
& Nancy A. Austin

A biography
by Philip Ziegler

He was born in 1900. His Serene Highness Prince Louis of Battenberg, great-grandson of Queen Victoria, nephew of the Tsar and Tsarina of Russia, cousin of the King of England. He became Lord Louis Mountbatten, the young idol of the British Navy and eventually one of the three Supreme Allied Commanders of World War II. He was the only British officer to be awarded the Victoria Cross twice. He was the last Viceroy of India, who orchestrated the independence of India. He was the architect of the total reorganization of Britain's armed power in the postwar world, and her First Sea Lord. Assassinated at the age of 40 by the IRA, he was a 20th-century hero — the last warrior prince.

A Passion for Excellence examines basics of managerial success ignored in most textbooks on management: pride in one's organization and enthusiasm for its work; vision; values; customer listening; employee commitment and ownership; internal corporate entrepreneurship. And it offers new insights into that central leadership concept: MBWA (Managing By Wandering Around) — what it means and how to do it. Dedicated to innovative business leaders ("skunks") everywhere, A Passion for Excellence will be invaluable for anyone concerned about the pursuit of excellence in the business world and in public service.

This McGraw-Hill book is one of the most popular series of contemporary fiction — the beach bum savant whose adventures, through twenty best-selling novels, have thrilled and delighted millions of readers around the world — returns in an explosive new novel charged with action, surprises, and suspense. The disappearance of a lavishly appointed custom built yacht — the brutal murder of a Peruvian doctorate — the sloppy "accidental death" of a Florida real estate tycoon — These are the pieces of the puzzle that Travis must fit together to save his own life.

Winchester Kernels

It's post card season again. You know — that time when your neighbor mails you a photograph of the sun-tanned bodies of California and writes "wish you were here" . . . Well, this week, we received the post card to beat all. No, it didn't show half nude men or women dancing up and down a beach somewhere.

And it didn't show picturesque sunsets from East Over-shoe, either.

But this one did come straight from the ray — Flynn, that is. Yep, Boston's Johnny-On-The-Spot mayor sent his wishes direct from Italy, where he had gone to watch Bernard Law become Cardinal.

"Said he was honored to represent Boston at the elevation of Bernard Cardinal Law, and wanted 'to share this proud moment with you.'"

It did seem kinda' funny getting a postcard from someone I've never met before. Then again, it wasn't really sent to me anyhow. It came addressed to an editor from the past.

You'd think that Ray's public relations staff would at least check to see that they had the current editor's name. I mean, it seems like they went to a lot of trouble — sending off all those postcards.

"Wonder if they knew what 'Tanti Saluti da Italia' meant????"

Speaking of trips, a 1982 Winchester High grad will be spending the summer in Africa as part of a student exchange program.

Leanne J. Buehler, of the Buehler family on Girard Road, will work in Africa as part of Operation Crossroads Africa Inc. She'll be helping out — but first she needs a hand to get there.

As part of the commitment, she must get pledges from her local townspeople in order to make the trip. She must raise $2,750, and she's hoping Winchesterites will come through for her.

She leaves for Africa this month and would appreciate any financial backing she can get.

By the way, all donations are tax-free, she says. . .

Just when you thought it was safe to come out from the "Cabbage Patch" craze, somebody's gone and made it worse.

Now there's a summer camp for those costly little rag-gamuffins.

Imagine! A summer camp for dolls! Two women in Connecticut came up with the idea — to keep vacationing youngsters happy, they say. For $25, each "Cabbage Patch mom" can rest assured that their doll is happy "at camp" while the family is off traversing Disney World.

The dolls are shipped off to Connecticut, where they are washed up, given a camp T-shirt and sent merrily on their way.

Co-owner Jacqueline Corso says they have received dolls from across the country, and that the idea is really catching on. "This is kind of a fantasy thing for kids," she was quoted as saying on Sunday.

Talk about your snake oil salesmen — make that saleswomen.

Winchesterite Jerry O'Sullivan is back in the headlines again. O'Sullivan, a lawyer who in 1982 helped put former state Sen. James A. Kelly Jr. behind bars, is up against Genaro "Jerry" Anguilo, the suspected underworld heavyweight.

O'Sullivan, chief of the Justice Department's New England Organized Crime Strike Force, was the focus of a Boston Herald story on Sunday.

Anguilo faces a life sentence on charges in connection with Boston's alleged Mafia group. The FBI says Anguilo and four of his brothers are part of a multimillion dollar criminal enterprise — complete with gangland slayings and the rest.

It was interesting to hear that a big gun like O'Sullivan lives right here in quiet little Winchester. Imagine that. . .

Summer Resorts Can Be Sleazy — Or Sybaritic

When you stay in a resort or hotel, or any kind of home-away-from-home, you want to feel pampered and cared for by a staff of people who perform their work with good will and certain alacrity.

For this reason, it's usually better to stay in a successful, if not necessarily plush place, than in one that's slowly sinking into moldy-rugged, empty-roomed bankruptcy. I've stayed in both kinds, so I know what I'm talking about.

There's nothing sadder than staying in a resort that's going down the tubes. The soap always smells funny, and there aren't enough towels.

But it gets worse. The help, idled by the dearth of business, sit around in slovenly postures, gossiping about the boss. They don't care if you hear them or not. They know very well they'll be looking for other jobs before long.

I was the help at a place like this once. I had the crummiest job available in the crummiest motel west of the Mississippi.

It was owned by a crabbed and arthritic old hen who had dedicated her life to sin and pleasure, or so she told me, and was now dying of heart disease, slowly and with a great waving of chiffon.

The manager, a sly and oily fellow whose sparse strands of hair were glued by spray to a shiny skull, was stealing from her. She said so, out of his hearing; he said so, out of hers.

The only guest was a burned-out hippy dedicated to studying Zen, keeping a diary of his out-of-body experiences, and living in a maelstrom of dirty laundry and rolling papers.

The chambermaid was me, an Irish Catholic girl from Boston, 18, overweight in the way of all college freshmen, and one heck of a long way from home.

I was reminded of this ancient memory just recently, when my husband and I were guests on a business weekend at a resort off the coast of South Carolina.

It would be the wildest sort of understatement to say that this place fell at the other end of the spectrum.

It was one of those hotels where every possible need you might even think about having is anticipated, identified, and filled for you.

The unit we stayed in was on the beach; I mean it was ON the beach — sand blew past the porch furniture and on into the living room. Surf pounded just yards from the color TV.

We had a complete kitchen, a dishwasher, two full baths, and a bedroom the size of your average Burger King.

I was bowled over by the luxury. We'd brought some apples and things with us on the plane; I tried spreading them around on different shelves in the refrigerator, to make use of the thing.

I washed clean clothes. I took a shower I didn't need in one bathroom while my husband was taking one in the other — just so two such sparkling tile-palaces wouldn't be wasted on us.

And that was just in our room.

At the resort's central facility, you could ride a bike or go snorkeling. You could arrange horseback rides along the beach. You could swim in the sea, or take your pick of any one of three contiguous swimming pools. A few other guests and I chose lounge chairs anchored high on a seawall overlooking the surf.

We read, and slept, and watched the ocean burble and spew while our skin was toasted and then cooled by sun and salt spray. An attendant circulated among us, distributing Pina Colodas and telling us when to turn over.

It was, as they say, a supreme experience.

And it doesn't take a genius to see that staying in a place like this is nicer than staying in the kind I'd worked in so long ago.

If you've got to be away from home and rent accommodations, you want to feel safe and cared for. You don't need much more than the basics in the way of sleep, food and grooming needs to feel this way.

On the other hand, if they do approach you with the Pina Colodas, for heaven's sake don't turn them down.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Residents Outline Criticism

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This week, the Winchester Planning Board Meeting brought to light many of the serious problems with the Rotondi land proposal for a 70-unit housing development on Forest Street. The board members were extremely pertinent and relevant and, at times, the Rotondi family and its experts seemed unprepared, flustered and unable to answer the board's questions either directly or adequately.

Some of the key issues covered were zoning, parking, buffer zones, financing, the brook that runs through the property, management, and potential residents.

As concerned citizens, we would like to review a few of the outstanding issues and problems with this development as we see them.

• Zoning — The land is zoned for single family residents. If a zoning variance were granted, not only would town residents' rights be violated, but the variance would go against an earlier town decision to keep apartment complexes closer to the center of town.

• Ecology — The Winchester Conservation Commission has determined that the site is subject to the jurisdiction of the Wetlands Protection Act.

• Traffic — Currently, Forest Street is extremely busy and already hazardous. The addition of 70 units will over burden the entire area streets and potentially increase traffic accidents in an already dangerous area.

• Population Density — Within one-fourth of a mile, there are currently more than 500 rental or condominium units.

• Isolation of Site — Since the proposed development will be on an extremity of the town (a fact which Mr. Sam Rotondi thinks is an asset to the development), and since there is a lack of public transportation, the residents will be isolated from needed facilities and cut off from town life. There are no supermarkets, pharmacies, schools, playgrounds, recreational facilities, churches, town department buildings, libraries, banks or post offices within walking distance.

• Lack of Appropriate Studies — Studies are needed to answer questions on traffic impact, drainage, health concerns, safety, population density and other pertinent issues. The Rotondis are in the process of conducting their own traffic study and may do other studies.

However, we feel the town should do its own studies in the interest of fairness, objectivity and thoroughness. To base a decision regarding this development on the private developer's own studies would be ludicrous and not in the best interests of the Town or neighborhood.

• Cost to the Town — To date, no one is considering the real costs to the town in terms of the added services that will be needed. It is very possible that the low tax figure that is being estimated for the development will not be nearly enough to cover the costs of waterlines, schools, plowing, street maintenance, and police and fire protection just to name a few.

• No Detailed Plan — The Rotondi family has yet to produce any detailed plans. At meeting after meeting, all they have shown are some exterior drawings. We have yet to see even such rudimentary things as whether and how 70 units fit in these buildings. The building materials, number of parking spaces, (which are grossly inadequate) and even the placement of buildings, roads, etc. changes continually.

If the same lack of careful planning, indecisiveness, and disregard for detail and town regulations persist, we shudder to think what the end result will be. Without specific plans which the developer must adhere to, we are afraid all the "promises" and "good intentions" would disappear like the morning mist should actual construction be allowed.

• Not Good For Town Commerce — In recent years, much attention has been given by the town to the development of the downtown business district. The recent downtown beautification project is a good example.

Placement of such a large development with the potential of hundreds of consumers at the outskirts of the town is contrary to the interests of Town businesses.

Such a development should be located closer to the Town center where local businessmen would benefit from the thousands of dollars of business that will instead go to Stoneham.

communications occurred between WHA member, Mary Meader, and Bellevue ave. resident Daniel O'Connell.

I find it logical to conclude that Mr. O'Connell did not need Mrs. Meader to help him make the assumption that an artificial housing need has been created and that the Forest Street proposal may be a "bag job."

These assumptions would be made on the following public information: (1) statistical study has been disclosed to prove that there is a housing crisis in the town of Winchester; (2) that the Selectman who was the chief negotiator between the town and E.O.C.D. was also an attorney for the M.H.F.A.; (3) that the Forest Street proposal appeared before the town just a short time after the "covenant" with E.O.C.D. was signed. How coincidental!

If the writer is so concerned about exchanges of information between town officials and private citizens, why did he not take offense to the fact that Selectman Alan Macdonald admitted to an intimate conversation with Mr. Rotondi regarding the proposal, prior to public disclosure?

To continue on the line of assumptions, I invite you to make one. In an article entitled "Cronyism rampant at M.H.F.A.", written by Warren Brooks for the "Boston Herald" on Nov. 6, 1984, Brooks states that "M.H.F.A.'s 'sharp' program has become merely a way to reward politically well-connected developers with generous, taxpayer-financed interest subsidies to build market rate and luxury apartments."

Later in the article he states that "20, possibly 50 percent, of all MHFA loans have been made to developers connected with Gerard Doherty, former democratic state committee chairman." The Forest Street proposal is being represented by the Doherty law firm! Yes, I agree, the "Cat is out of the Bag!"

Town Day Chairman

Thanks All

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Town Day '85 was an enjoyable and fun-filled day for everyone. I wish to thank the committee of volunteers who tirelessly gave of their time and energy to achieve a very successful event.

They are: Bruce Brown, Dick Malcolm, Ralph Johnson, Bill Jervy, Ed Esposito, Scott Anderson, Charlene Peterman, Allan Eyden, Cathy Alexander, Noreen Arcari, Sandy Rodgers, Lloyd Franke and Dave Pywell.

There also were many who gave of their time or financial resources to whom we wish to extend our appreciation. They include: Town Manager Chad Maurer, Chief McHugh, Chief McElhinney, Dom Serratore, Priscilla Miller, Dave Kon-tauk, Bill Swiger, Dick Young, Winchester Interact, Cambridgeport Bank, Winchester Savings Bank, Ann Blackham, Scandia, Winchester Co-operative Bank, Wilde Insurance, Shawmut Bank, Calumet Trust and Bonnell Ford.

Also, the Winchester Rotary Club, Bank of Boston, Loftus Plumbing, Fells Hardware, Woburn Times, Baybank, Winchester Chamber of Commerce and a special thank you to Paul Mahoney of Mahoney's Rocky Ledge.

From the beginning of the road race to the last boom of the fireworks display, the combined efforts of all involved made Town Day 1985 truly a day for the people of Winchester.

Bob Deering
Chairman, Town Day '85

"Annie" Was A Top Show

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The entire cast, production crew, choreographer, set designer, orchestra, costume people and last (but certainly not the least important) the dramatic and musical directors of "Annie" deserved the standing ovations that were given to them after each performance. It was truly a professional production from beginning to end and overflown with incredibly talented people.

To Wally Gagel — a special word of appreciation for setting such high standards for our students in your classroom each day and for requiring the same from all those involved in your productions. Your dedication, devotion and talent is a gift that you have given to so many of our students over the years and for which we will be forever grateful.

Sincerely,

McCall Mom Lauds Jr.High

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As my child completes eighth grade, I feel I must write to extol the virtues of McCall Junior High.

I always used to hear that the junior high years were "the pits". One's child went off to this conclave of adolescence daily as if into battle, while bewildered parents, hearing little of what went on there from their newly incommunicative offspring, only hoped they would emerge unscathed two years hence.

Fear not, ye sixth grade parents. The McCall experience is a real treat. The curriculum, in my opinion, is very challenging, very strong. Marvelous communiques from principal Vandy French's office regularly detail the many goings on of teachers and students. Thanks in part to several parent groups, culturally enriching programs enhance the school's offerings.

Most of all, however, I am impressed with the staff. It seems clear that many, many of these teachers, counselors, and other staff really care a lot about their age group. The variety of field trips and after school activities is a tribute to them.

What a pleasant two years it has been! Those who know how (ahem) difficult this adolescent period can be can feel especially lucky Winchester has such allies in its teachers and staff.

Sincerely,
Marjorie Estridge

Principal: Good Prom

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to inform the community that the senior prom held on Friday evening, May 31, was a resounding success. We accomplished our goals and because so many assisted, I want to thank everyone from those who actively took part to those who gave all of us a great deal of moral support.

Thanking people singularly can be a hazardous undertaking, as so many contributed. However, without the outstanding contributions of our senior class president, Jean Benincasa; Mr. John Pirani of our High School staff; Mr. Ralph Johnson of Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery; Mr. Kenneth Binding and all the others, what occurred would not have been possible.

It was extremely gratifying to see the community come together through decorating assistance, chaperoning, a police presence that was extremely low-key and from others a multitude of contributions both by presence and necessary services.

To the parents and students of the class of 1985, you also have my thanks. Your cooperation and understanding have been superb. I will always remember Friday, May 31, as a highlight of an educational career that now covers some 29 years.

Sincerely,
Vincent E. Larooco

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

This week's column records local senators' and representatives' votes on two roll calls from the week of June 3-7.

• FOSTER KIDS — Senate 28-6, approved resolutions stating it should be the policy of the Department of Social Services to place children in need of foster care exclusively in the care of persons whose sexual orientation presents no threat to the well-being of the child. Supporters said the resolutions will clearly state the sense of the Senate that it is immoral and irresponsible to place foster children with gays. Opponents said the resolutions are anti-gay and unfair, and said gays can make good foster parents and should not arbitrarily be eliminated.

A "Yea" vote is for the resolutions. A "Nay" vote is against them. State Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

• VIETNAM VETS (S 922) — Senate 19-15, gave initial approval to a bill allowing Vietnam veterans convicted of certain violent crimes to be eligible for parole after they serve one-third, rather than two-thirds, of their sentence. Supporters, noting the bill only allows these veterans to be considered for earlier parole, said this will give special consideration to veterans who have been psychologically affected by their Vietnam experiences. Opponents, claiming the bill sets a bad precedent, said it was unfair and unwise to single out one group for preferential treatment.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. Kraus voted yes.

• PRIT (H 1063) — House 132-11, rejected a bill allowing members of local retirement systems to decide if their system will participate in the Pension Reserves Investment Trust (PRIT). PRIT is the system established by the state to allow local systems to pool their resources which would be managed by the Pension Reserve Investment Management Board (PRIM). Currently, a three member board in each local system decides whether to enter PRIT and that board's decision must be ratified by the local government body.

Supporters said the individual members should have the power to decide and claimed the three member boards are controlled by narrow groups of local officials who refuse to join PRIT because it will result in their losing control over millions of dollars.

Opponents said the boards have the right to make decision and that some board members are elected by the system's entire membership. They noted the bill also removes the safeguard provisions requiring local governing bodies to ratify the decision to join.

GUEST COLUMN

Women Voters' League Pushes For Housing

(Editor's Note: The following position on Winchester housing policies was submitted as a guest editorial by the Winchester League of Women Voters. The Star welcomes guest editorials. All inquiries should be directed to Star editor Jill M. Higgins.)

"Housing" binds us together as a community. If Winchester is to remain a community of which we can be proud, it must offer a housing environment that is fair, equitable and responsive to the needs of its people. "Housing" is an issue still to be addressed in Winchester.

The town signed a housing agreement with the state Executive Office of Communities and Development in February, outlining a plan of action that would place us in compliance with state requirements.

The agreement requires a June 30 progress report on our efforts to comply with the stipulations. Our progress to date is negligible and we could be found to be "unreasonably restrictive of housing growth."

In that case, Winchester could stand to lose much of its state funding (which is considerable), discretionary funding for any developmental purposes, and federal funding which is funneled through the state agencies.

Unfortunately, the reluctance of the responsible town officials to address the housing play forthrightly will hurt us more than just the possible loss of state funding.

The Winchester League of Women Voters has long been interested in the housing needs in Winchester. Our interest lies in the fact that housing decisions that we in the town make today will affect our town and its residents for years to come; and that informed and responsible housing decisions can only be made through study and active citizen participation.

Since 1973, the League of Women Voters has conducted three separate studies on Winchester housing needs. The outcome of each of these studies has shown that Winchester is a diverse town with many needs, and the only way that we as a town can address the needs of our own people is to promote flexible and diverse housing policies.

Reviewing real estate notices makes it clear that housing is limited. Costs in this town are high and housing is of a uniform nature. Available housing consists mostly of single family dwellings for sale with few rental opportunities.

Many times we may be apt to forget about those in our town who have housing needs different from our own.

For example:
•The elderly who have lived in Winchester for years and want to continue living here, but do not or cannot live alone for health or financial reasons in the large dwellings that they raised their families.

•Young adults who grew up in Winchester and who want to continue living here, but cannot afford to buy a home in Winchester and there are few rental units available.

•Any family without a substantial combined family income.

For these groups of people, we use buzz words to describe them such as "low" or "moderate" income people, but many of us know such people who have added to the quality of life in Winchester but have had to move elsewhere due to limited housing availability.

The Winchester League of Women Voters supports action at any level of government that will provide appropriate housing for these people in our town.

Our first study in 1973 showed that there was a real need within Winchester for mixed income housing. We urged that existing buildings be converted to subsidize housing for our elderly and handicapped and supported any actions by the Winchester Housing Authority to subsidize low income housing.

Another study in 1981 emphasized the needs of our older residents and the continued, growing issue of developing flexible housing policies.

Again in 1983, the Winchester

League of Women Voters studied Winchester housing. The results of that study were to: 1) reaffirm our position to support actions that will provide housing in Winchester for low and moderate income people; and 2) strongly urge the Winchester Housing Authority to be more active in seeking remedies for the housing problems that effect the elderly and less-economically advantaged.

We in the League, are still concerned, especially as the June 30 date approaches on which the Town must submit a progress report to the State housing authorities. Winchester will be remiss if it allows the loss of substantial and meaningful state funds.

Winchester will also be remiss because we have allowed ourselves to be blinded by emotional arguments that ignore that the Town of Winchester needs to provide housing assistance for low and moderate income families. These needs have been recognized in the Housing Agreement although no meaningful action has been taken.

The responsibility of implementing our Housing Agreement lies with the Winchester Housing Authority, the Planning Board, and the Board of Selectmen, and it is the responsibility of us, the citizens of Winchester, to insure that these officials meet their mandate.

Winchester Gets $169,000 For Downtown Renovations

By NANCY PICK

The state awarded Winchester a $169,000 grant on Monday, fully restoring downtown renovation plans after high construction bids threatened to constrict them.

State Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh was instrumental in securing the funds, saying he used political clout and Winchester's renovation track record to win over state authorities. Saltmarsh is senior member of the legislature's Joint Committee on Transportation.

Meanwhile, state officials said Winchester got the money based on the project's merits. The renovation plan "met all the guidelines" for funding, said Joseph Sgarano of the state's Executive Office of Transportation and Construction.

Originally, the town got $740,000 in state funds for center improvements, including brick sidewalks, new crosswalks, landscaping, park benches and new street lights.

However, according to town Economic Development Coordinator John Connery, not a single contractor offered to do that work within the budget. He still refers to April 12, the cutoff day for bidding, as "Black Friday."

So Connery approached the Selectmen, who helped cut back renovations designs. Connery said he was resigned to the scaled-down plans.

But State Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh wasn't so easily appeased. With Connery doing the paperwork, Saltmarsh brought a funding request to Frederick P. Salvucci, secretary of the state's Executive Office of Transportation and Construction. Saltmarsh kept pushing for the grant in private conferences.

Much to Connery's surprise, the state granted the money. Said Connery, "I frankly consider it a minor miracle."

The extra funds will allow Winchester to redo 10 crosswalks in Winchester center, put in brick sidewalks on Church st. up to Dix st., and build a scenic overlook at the Converse pl. bridge over the Aberjona River. All those improvements would have been axed without the latest funds.

Saltmarsh accepted credit for the grant. "I handled this personally from beginning to end," he said Tuesday. He said he helped draft legislation that made the grant money available in the first place.

According to Saltmarsh, Winchester earned a good reputation for renovating. Last year, he said, Winchester "did the first part of the project on time, on budget and did a good job."

Saltmarsh also said Winchester has been successful at revitalizing. Prior to renovation work, he said, Winchester shops downtown had a 14 percent vacancy rate. Said Saltmarsh, "People didn't have any interest in the downtown. People felt we couldn't revitalize."

Now, however, nearly every Winchester store is rented, two new restaurants are coming in and two major office buildings are going up.

"We have a much more viable downtown than we had five years ago," Saltmarsh said.

At Monday's Selectmen's meeting, Saltmarsh also announced that Winchester's two train stations will be painted with funds from the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

Also, he said the bridge over the Aberjona River near Wedgemere train station may be rebuilt by the Metropolitan District Commission.

The MDC, now hiring a consultant for the job, will pay for the $250,000 job, Saltmarsh said.

The state representative also told Selectmen he believes the town could obtain Ginn Field from the MDC at no cost, instead of leasing it from the commission. Winchester is responsible for the field's maintenance anyway, he said.

The land transfer would require state legislative approval.

Also, Saltmarsh said he has asked the MDC to investigate improvements for Mystic Valley Parkway. He said parts of the road needs new sidewalks, resurfacing and new drainage.

Saltmarsh also urged the town to apply for a grant from the Energy Grant Program, which promotes fuel efficiency for town-owned buildings.

He said Winchester has "a good chance of possibly getting $100,000."

SENIOR SCENE

Summer Programs

Line and ballroom dancing continues through June, with a break in July and starting up again on August 5 from 1-3 p.m. Interested people are invited to participate on June 17 and 24.

The Book Club will continue to meet through the summer on Thursdays, from 10 a.m. to noon.

An informal painting group will meet weekly on Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m. An instructor will not be present, but individuals will have an opportunity to paint subjects of particular interest, according to choice.

Exercise classes will continue three days a week throughout the summer on Mondays from 9 to 9:40, and on Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. under the direction of June Cannon.

The monthly movies will continue throughout the summer on the third Friday of the month at 1 p.m. The following films will be shown: July 19 - "Roberta"; August 16 - "You Can't Take It With You." All are welcome to attend.

Bridge meets weekly on Thursdays from 12:30 to 3:00 p.m.

The calligraphy program will meet during June until June 28. Anyone with previous calligraphy instruction can join to make Christmas cards until the class closes for the summer.

Crafts and Stitchery

There will be a display of articles made by the crafts class at the Strawberry Festival on Wednesday, June 19. Group members have made many pieces of creative work. Each month a different project has been introduced by instructor Jane Norberg. Many residents have participated enthusiastically. After a summer break, the class will resume again in September.

Discussion Group

At least a dozen professionals have been meeting every other week at an informal discussion group. The meetings, which have been discontinued for the summer will resume on September 11 at the Jenks Senior Center.

Well Clinic

The health clinic will meet once a month during July and August, but will begin again with the first and third Thursdays in September.

With the service of Meals On Wheels, patients can leave the hospital sooner and senior citizen may stay in their homes independent. Meals On Wheels, a non profit organization, provides one hot dinner and a cold supper five days a week, except holidays, to homebound Winchester residents at a modest charge. The kitchen staff at the Winchester Hospital, working under the direction of Edward Ray, plans, prepares, and packs the meals.

Volunteers use their own cars to pick up the meals at the hospital and deliver them to the clients. Doctors' recommendations, as well as personal preferences are accommodated in the meal planning.

The program is financed by recipients who pay only the cost of the meal and by donations from individuals, businesses, civic groups and churches, including the EnKa Society, Church Women United, and Rotary Club.

Marilyn Georgis, program coordinator, said there are some openings to accommodate a few more clients.

With the approach of summer, more volunteers are needed to carry out the distribution of meals. Contact Marilyn Georgis at her home before 10 a.m. daily.

Strawberry Festival

At 1 p.m. on June 19 seniors and others will celebrate the annual "Strawberry Festival." The shortcake served will be provided by Helen Hodgdon, while Jan Norberg's crafts and stitchery class will exhibit articles made this past season. Guest speaker will be Chadwick Maurer, the new Town Manager.

Boat Trip

On June 26, a bus will leave the Jenks Senior Center for Portsmouth, NH at 10:15 a.m. After having lunch at Hector's Country Kitchen in Rye, NH, there will be a 2½ hour cruise to the Isle of Shoals, sailing out of Portsmouth. Although the trip is all signed up, names can be placed on a waiting list to be called in the event of any cancellations.

Monthly Dance

A "Senior Prom" dance will be held at the Jenks Senior Center on June 15, organized by Ann Feuss and the Ways and Means Committee of the Winchester Seniors Assn. Dick Brogna's Band will provide the music from 8 p.m. to midnight. Those without partners will find a number of dances for everyone. Refreshments are available.

Canoeing

Malcolm and Claire Masters are opening the canoeing season with Saturday trips to rivers and lakes. No prior knowledge of canoeing is required, but participants should be able to swim. Masters owns a small fleet of canoes and shares them generously with interested seniors. For more information call Masters.

Clinic Help Needed

The vital health services offered to seniors under the direction of Ann Ciampa, R.N., is in need of volunteer nurses. The clinic is held on the first and third Thursdays of each month. Potential volunteers should call the Jenks Senior Center if they can devote some time to taking blood pressure and giving individual health counseling to seniors.

Desk Receptionists

The information/referral desk at the Jenks Senior Center is the contact area for the Winchester Seniors Assn. and the Council on Aging. Volunteers are needed to serve at this important hub of communication with the public. Louise Kelly, chairman, will welcome all to this important group of volunteers.

Volunteers Needed

The Senior Center, in cooperation with Channel 19, will offer a course on the use and application of TV equipment for four 90-minute sessions on August 6, 7, 20 and 21 from noon to 1:30 p.m. The training course will prepare seniors to use the equipment at the Jenks Senior Center. Call Jenks Senior Center for more information.

Film Is Set

The monthly movie on Friday, June 21, at 1 p.m., features Charlie Chaplin in "City Lights." The public is invited. The film focuses on a lonely little hobo's affection for a lovely blind girl. Although produced during the early sound period, Chaplin rejected dialogue, preferring to continue silent screen pantomime. It was written, produced, and directed by Chaplin with Virginia Cherrill and Harry Myers.

Line dancing and ballroom dancing meet at the Jenks Center on Mondays from 1 to 3 p.m.

Minuteman Details Plan

Title III of the Older Americans Act, passed by Congress in 1965, created a nationwide network of Area Agencies on Aging. The Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs designated Minuteman Home Care Corporation (MHCC) as one of 22 area agencies on aging in September 1977.

As an area agency, MHCC is required to create an annual area plan on aging which identifies unmet needs of older people, examines the resources available to meet those needs.

This network is composed of all agencies serving elders in the planning and service area, including councils on aging, health, housing, transportation, and social service agencies. Minuteman serves residents of Acton, Arlington, Bedford, Boxborough, Burlington, Carlisle, Concord, Harvard, Lexington, Lincoln, Littleton, Maynard, Stow, Wilmington, Winchester, and Woburn.

Goals and Objectives

The Older Americans Act, revised in 1978, calls for the development of a three-year area plan. The FY 1984-86 plan is the second three year plan published by MHCC. Copies of this plan are available at the MHCC offices.

This summary contains information on how the goals for the next year will be met. Fiscal Year 1986 begins on October 1, 1985. The overall goal statement is: In the context of limited resources, MHCC will give priority attention to the task of promoting a wider range of choices for those individuals 60 years of age and older who have limited options.

Older Population

According to the 1980 census, 38,120 individuals age 60 and older live in the Minuteman Home Care Corporation. This represents an 18.6 percent increase in the 60 plus population, compared to 1970 census figures. While the number of older residents increased, the total population of the region (all ages) decreased from 273,943 in 1970 to 252,746 in 1980.

Significantly, the fastest growing age group is comprised of those over 75 years old. In 1970, there were 8,843 persons over 75 years old; in 1980, this had increased to 11,433. The 85 plus group is also increasing rapidly; 2,820 persons or 7.4 percent of the elderly population were 85 and over. Studies have shown that persons over 75 years old tend to have a greater need for support services than the "young" old, i.e., those aged 60 to 74.

Priority Services

Twelve areas of the needs of elders were designated by the Area Agency Advisory Council. In order of priority, the identified needs are as follows: (1) Income (2) Transportation (3) Health (4) Information re: Resources and Issues of Aging (5) Home Care (6) Housing (7) Nutrition (8) Social and Emotional Support (9) Legal Services (10) Employment/Volunteer Opportunities (11) Institutional Advocacy (12) Protective Services.

These areas are perceived as components of a comprehensive and coordinated system of community based long term care being developed in our region.

Projects Funded

The budget for FY 86 was developed assuming funding at the FY 85 level, but not assuming the receipt of an additional state supplement. Increased demands upon our transportation budget coupled with decreasing resources have resulted in an overall decline in the level of Title III-B funds available, particularly for community programs.

Final decisions on specific projects to be funded will be made following review of proposals submitted. The recommendations reflect a continued effort to focus resources on those elders with few options. Each service provider receiving Title III funds will be encouraged to seek private funding to sustain their efforts in the future.

Public Hearings

All are invited to attend Public Hearings on the area plan which will be held on June 24 from 10 to noon at the Harvey Wheeler Community Center, 1275 Main St., West Concord and on June 25 from 10 to noon at the JFK School of Religion, Robert Kennedy Auditorium, St. Brigid's Parish, 1997 Massachusetts Ave., Lexington. Copies of the area plan are available upon request from MHCC. Councils on Aging and public libraries will also have copies available for review.

The area Agency on Aging is initiating a modified Request for Proposals (RFP) process this year. RFP's for medical transportation, legal services and the Ombudsman Program will be issued late spring and summer. However, the Community Programs category will be delayed until January 1986.

WINCHESTER STARS

Giggling at action on the street, Elizabeth Newell relaxes in her motorized wheelchair. Powered by two car batteries, the chair can go a full day before recharging. Newell travels up to an hour away on her shopping expeditions.

More Power To Wheelchairs!

Elizabeth Newell travels in style on Town Day, with balloons flying high from her power wheelchair. As a special favor, she sometimes lets children hitch a ride.

Local Woman Breaks Down Handicapped Barriers

By NANCY PICK

Elizabeth Newell is an expert in sidewalk geography.

She has no choice. For her, a curb can make the difference between smooth sailing and danger.

Newell, a Winchester resident, travels by motorized wheelchair. Dependent on wheels, she can negotiate slopes — even steep ones — but stairs and curbs stop her cold.

Newell knows which sidewalks have a ramp on one end, but end abruptly down the street with a tall curb. In a case like that, Newell has to take to the road, where traffic looms and rushes by her.

She sticks close to the sidewalk, even in the street. Explains Newell, "I figure if I had to, I could throw myself out of the chair, which would be easier than getting hit by a car."

She's no stranger to car accidents, for it was a crash that robbed her of the use of her left arm. Years earlier, she suffered nerve damage to her spine, neck and legs in an industrial accident while working at a Wakefield electronics firm.

For Newell, Winchester has its limitations. She can't get into Town Hall. Or into her drugstore. And when she wants to mail a package, she has to go in the post office's back entrance and whistle for help.

Only the Jenks Senior Center has a bathroom equipped for the handicapped.

Although downtown renovations brought new ramps, the brick sidewalks cause trouble. Says Newell, "They shake me all the way through my back."

And sometimes, even when curbs have been lowered, they remain treacherous. At the corner of Church st. and Waterfield rd., Newell's chair totters at an angle as it heads down a slanted ramp to the street, its wheels spinning and squealing.

Yet, for a handicapped person, Newell has great independence. She lives on her own. She does her own shopping, balancing her goods on the chair's foot supports. She travels miles at a time.

Her motorized wheelchair gives her that independence. Powered by two car batteries and recharged each night, it supplies a full day's mobility. She directs it one-handed, using a small "joystick," like a video game control. She even gives rides to people in the under-75 pound range.

Her knowledge of sidewalks takes her amazingly far. Not satisfied with the commute from her Palmer st. apartment to Winchester center, she covers downtown Woburn and the Redstone shopping center in Stoneham, nearly an hour away.

When her close friend Margaret Lynch passed away last month, Newell couldn't get into St. Mary's Church. But she didn't miss the burial.

It took her 20 minutes to ride to Calvary Cemetery, and she arrived an hour before the other mourners. "The wind was whipping around, but I didn't care. I stayed. They didn't believe I'd ride all the way up to Calvary."

Newell, who turns 62 on June 16, has a soft face, silver hair, a ruddy complexion. She enjoys talking and she radiates energy.

Newell can stand on her own for five minutes, no longer.

Yet her handicaps don't get her down, she says. She's too busy.

Newell leads both a local Brownie troop and Girl Scout troop. As Cookie Chairman this year, she boosted the troop to sales of 3,902 boxes of goodies. Newell says she sold 200 of them singlehandedly.

Newell also teaches Sunday School at Winchester's First Baptist Church. She babysits. And she's president of the tenants' association for Mary Murphy Apartments, part of Winchester's housing complex for the elderly and handicapped.

In her apartment, Newell has gadgets that give her added independence. A special steak knife, for example, lets her cut meat with one hand, using a one-handed rocking motion.

She also has a simple but ingenious gadget for cutting fruits and vegetables: a cutting board with nails to hold the food in place and suction cups to keep the board from slipping.

But what she needs is a better can opener, Newell says. With one hand, "You can't hold a can and use a can opener at the same time."

In her spare time, Newell has worked out a smart arrangement as babysitter for church kids. She keeps an eye on them, and they help her around the apartment. "I can cook spaghetti, but I can't lift the big pot," says Newell. So the children drain the noodles for her.

Cracking an egg one-handed is a skill that fascinates the kids, she says. Like a chef, she cracks an egg with one hand on a glass cup, and, she says, "hardly ever do I get egg shells in it."

Children are her specialty, says Newell, the proud owner of six Cabbage Patch dolls. A stack of games — Yahtzee, Chinese Checkers, Parcheesi — sits on her card table, waiting for the next young player.

When Lynch School sponsored a handicapped education week, Newell spoke to the students about her lifestyle.

"When I got through," recalls Newell with a smile, "70 children came running up to me, asking me to autograph their book about the handicapped." Newell signed every one.

Born in Whitman, Mass., home of the Toll House and its famous chocolate chip cookies recipe, Newell spent several years taking care of children. In 1952 she joined the food service staff of Winchester Hospital and put down roots in the town.

After her accident 11 years ago, Newell needed help and a place to live. Luckily, Winchester's first elderly housing had just been completed, and Newell moved in as its first resident.

Today, she has close friends and a support network at the Baptist Church. Despite her handicaps, complicated by heart trouble and diabetes, she stays optimistic.

And she keeps planning for the future.

This winter promises an ambitious trip across the country, all the way to Pasadena, Calif.

Don't worry. She's flying.

Republicans Hear Rep. Matsios Speak

The Winchester Republican Town Committee drew its largest attendance of the year recently, when Rep. Andrew S. Matsios of Holliston spoke.

Natsios, chairman of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee, lauded the local committee for being one of the most active Republican Town groups for several years.

"Although the unenrolled (Independents) and Democrats have the highest number of voters, the numbers of their voters who have switched to the Republican Party has increased in recent years," said Natsios.

From 1932 to 1984, said Natsios, Republicans lost some of the younger voters, but won the votes of the older voters.

Since 1984, however, said Natsios, they have gained the votes of younger voters.

Winchester Chairman H. Rushton Harwood Jr., led the business meeting, during which Richard A. Duffy was elected to the office of recording secretary. Duffy, a former president of the Winchester Young Republicans Club, is one of the youngest elected members of the present Town Committee.

Local newcomer Mark Smith was elected to associate membership.

Kiwanis Hold 30th Fishing Derby

The Winchester Kiwanis Club successfully conducted its 30th annual fish derby for Winchester schoolchildren on June 1, Town Day. More than 100 youngsters competed for 27 prizes in such categories as sun fish, bass perch, eel and trout.

To celebrate the 30th anniversary of the event, the Kiwanis also awarded boys and girls bicycles to raffle winners. The winners were Michael Fiorenza of Pickering st., and Christen Kupjian of Leslie rd. The Winchester club has extended its thanks to the following for their assistance in holding the traditional event: Ruggles and Bowker Sports Center, Mystic Valley Wheelworks, the police and auxiliary fire departments, Fells Hardware and the Winchester Police Department.

Starting Up Again

By STEVE NORTON

Ok, you say, I used to run, I used to be active — how can I start again? If you are a beginning runner, or one who has been recuperating from an injury, or just thinking seriously about getting back into shape, the nice spring weather is probably drawing you back out to train for the summer runs.

Here's some advice on how best to prepare yourself for the upcoming races without getting sick or injured.

First of all, however, it is important to realize the only way to achieve your best, or your true potential, is to run year 'round. This is when your foundation or "base" is laid down.

The better conditioned you are coming into spring, the faster your recovery will be from these races.

Also it will decrease the probability of your getting injured.

But I realize, that for a variety of climactic and motivational reasons, only a small percentage of runners train consistently year round. Here then, are the guidelines which should be used as a checklist while "getting back into it."

Physical Checkup

Before you start your running program, give some thought to getting a physical checkup or treadmill stress test if you fit some of the following criteria. Some people have a tendency to ignore these important signals. (Remember Jim Fixx...?)

Risk Factors

If you are over 30 and can identify with two or more of the following, your risk factors are considered high.

- (1) You have not exercised for a long time.
- (2) You smoke.
- (3) Your family has a history of heart disease.
- (4) You are overweight.
- (5) You experience chest pains or shortness of breath with light exercise (i.e. climbing stairs).
- (6) You have fainting spells.
- (7) You are inexplicably fatigued.
- (8) You feel heart palpitations.
- (9) You have a high stress job.

I recommend the cardiology department at your local hospital for a checkup.

Equipment

Pull your old jogging shoes out of the closet and give them the once-over. Are they old and battered? Are the heels worn down? Do you get black toenails from your shoes? Has the stitching disintegrated?

If you answer "yes" to any of these questions, get some new running shoes. Wearing old, worn-out shoes is a prime cause of injury to runners.

Go to a shoe store which specializes in running shoes.

Clothing

Ensure that you have light-weight, light-colored running clothes for summer running conditions. If you've heeded all the above steps, now you are ready for a summer running program.

First Steps

First, patience is the greatest virtue you can nurture in these early stages.

Women, for some reason, seem to be more patient with their early runs. They don't push themselves beyond their capabilities.

Men, on the other hand, have a tendency to start out these early runs around the block as fast as they can, timing themselves and trying to beat their best times each day.

The results of this impatience, is usually sore muscles, tender tendons, and loose ligaments.

Don't forget, all have not been exercised for several months, and thus are weak.

Your first week or two of running might be done as follows:

	1st Week	2nd Week
Monday	20 mins.	27 mins.
Tuesday	10 mins.	0 mins.
Wednesday	15 mins.	20 mins.
Thursday	20 mins.	30 mins.
Friday	0 mins.	15 mins.
Saturday	15 mins.	35 mins.
Sunday	0 mins.	0 mins.

One or two days per week of non-running such as bicycling or swimming provides excellent relief for the muscles and tendons while still giving the heart and lungs a good workout.

Also, try to keep your heart rate between 130 and 160 beats per minute. Any slower and your aerobic gains are minimal. Vary the distance you run each day.

Stretching

It is also important during these early stages that you stretch briefly before your runs, and even more on completing your runs. This keeps the connective tissue pliable and helps you run freely without that "tight" syndrome.

Injuries

The importance of adequate conditioning and stretching cannot be emphasized enough as preventative measures. People do too much too soon. Let's assume that you get injured. Here are simple steps to follow:

- As soon as you feel the pain; stop.
- Put ice on the injured area at once.
- Apply the ice for 20 to 30 minutes.
- Move the ice about to prevent frost-bite. Ice will reduce the pain and the swelling by constricting blood and lymph vessels.
- Compression also helps to limit swelling.
- Elevation. Elevate the injured area above the heart level to help drain excess fluid from it.
- Rest. Within a few days the injured area begins to repair itself. But do not stress the injured part for a day or two.
- Rehabilitation.

Do's & Don't's

Finally, here are a few of my favorite recommendations and pet peeves:

- Do set goals
  - Do be consistent in your training
  - Do monitor your body signs
  - Do enjoy your running
  - Do have days off from running
  - Don't be discouraged by early lack of success
  - Don't ignore chronic pain
  - Don't worry about bad training days
  - Don't forget to stretch before and after running
  - Don't buy cheap equipment
- Good luck at the races and hope to see you on the roads.

The Runner's Eye

By Steve Norton

Dear Readers,
Amy Collins, the 7th grader who contributed heavily to last week's "Runner's Eye," and I were sitting in Brigham's last Thursday celebrating her first piece of writing on running. I suggested to Amy a few ideas for this week's column. She listened patiently and in a motherly sort of way patted my shoulder and extracted from her Tom Selleck binder an article on her 18-year-old mother's helper.

With very little assistance in the re-write, I proudly present the second article by Amy Collins.

By AMY COLLINS

Cheryl Hammond is an 18-year-old student at a nearby high school. She is the youngest of five children. Her father, Don, is a good runner in his own right and occasionally runs with her.

At 5'4" and weighing 97 pounds, the vivacious runner is the star of her high school track team. Her times are very fast — her personal record in the mile is at 5:17.

In addition to her regular routine of running 8 miles, five days a week, Cheryl likes to do her long run, of 15 miles, on Sunday — when she isn't competing in a road race.

Saturday is her day of rest. Cheryl enjoys softball — she has won about 23 races — every race in her age division she has entered.

One of this young star's future ambitions is to run a marathon.

Sachems Fall To Newton

By DAVID DEMARCO

On Saturday, June 8, the Winchester Sachems were eliminated from post-season baseball play by Newton North, 7-3.

The first four innings belonged to Winchester, as they charged out to an early 3-0 lead. Peter DelVecchio opened the scoring with an RBI single, scoring Jimmy Budrewicz in the second. Catcher Mike White had a deep drive into left field for the only home run of the game, giving Winchester a 2 to 0 lead.

Scouter Binding had the final RBI for the Sachems, as he doubled to center field, scoring Pete DelVecchio in the third inning.

Tim Budrewicz was the Sachem starter. Budrewicz pitched well, going nearly 6 innings, and allowing only three earned runs.

However, errors cost the Sachems once more, as four unearned runs crossed the plate between the fifth and seventh innings.

By the time senior Brian Carroll came in to complete the final 3 innings, the damage had been done.

The Sachems seemed frustrated at the plate, as Newton's Greg Larson was masterful, striking out 10 Sachem batters and causing Winchester to strand 11 baserunners.

Sachem second baseman T. J. Della Sola had this to say on the Newton ace hurler, "Our first goal was to win the league. We didn't but we did well. We felt good going into the playoffs. We just ran into a hot pitcher. He kept us off guard all day."

The Sachems didn't have too much to say on Saturday, as the last few weeks have been difficult, losing four out of the last seven they played.

"We had a great year, what can you do? I personally have no regrets," commented Scott "Scooter" Binding.

Senior Mike White kept it short and sweet in his summary, "We were successful. We just could not get it together in the end."

A visibly disappointed Gareth

Kenton seemed to be very hard on himself, "It just wasn't there today. I whiffed with three men on base."

"I know one thing — we'll miss the seniors a lot next year," said senior Tony Vozzella. He added, "Hey, it could have been a lot better. We should have won, but we just died."

The Sachems finish the year at 14-7. A second-half slump and some fielding problems hurt Winchester as they entered the playoffs.

By far the best comment of the afternoon and the sad summary of the season was made by the often articulate Winchester centerfielder, Peter DelVecchio, "We lost..."

Falcons Complete A Good Year

The Winchester Falcons (boys under 14) soccer team completed an outstanding season in the MYS league by dominating the Bedford 1 team en route to a 5-0 victory. The win was a total team effort and allowed the Falcons to complete the season with 8 wins and only two losses.

During the first half of the game, the Falcons, lead by the excellent mid-field work of Dave Rice, Paul Marshall and Ben Lombard controlled the ball and kept the play on the Bedford half of the field. At the minute mark, the Falcons got on the scoreboard as Andre Behrmann beat the Bedford goalie on a great shot, after taking a perfect pass from Tom Dichiappari. This made it 1-0 at the half.

The Falcons came out for the second half strong and began to roll up the score. First, Chris Cooper lofted an indirect kick from outside of the penalty area off the tip of the Bedford goalie fingers and Danny O'Grady put it in for the score.

... beat the goalie.

on a shot to the corner of the net after receiving a pass from Behrmann. The fourth score came on a shot by Ray Donlon, which was set up by a pass from Cooper. The final score was made by Connolly as he carried the ball past several defenders and beat the goalie on a kick.

Outstanding on defense for the Falcons were Doug Clarke, the Falcons' goalie, who made several great saves, and Piyum Samaraweera, Jay Moore, Marc Schwitters, Bill Weylman and Terry Slater who played superb games at fullback and halfback.

The win not only capped an outstanding season for the Falcons in the MYS league but continued the team's outstanding play for this year. Earlier in the year, during February, the Falcons won the indoor soccer league annual tournament at Hockeystown USA in Saugus, beating a tough Billerica team in the finals.

The next challenge for this team will be over the July 4 weekend when (Please turn to FALCONS - Page 20)

Summer Is Time To Train

Summer is a time when many athletes in track and field, train on their own without the incentive of an up-coming meet and, the chance to win. Whether as a serious competitor or as a recreational athlete, training in the months of July and August takes a lot of self-discipline.

The Bay State Games, to be held July 11-14, are Massachusetts' largest summer track and field competition. They provide athletes with a state-wide sports event when all of the college and high school seasons have ended.

"Many of the athletes are looking for something to do in the summer. The games are an outstanding way for younger athletes to continue to improve, and, for more experienced athletes, they are a great motivator," says Larry Newman, editor and publisher of New England Track & Field.

Open to all high school, college and experienced track and field athletes, the games provide a team environment in a sport that highlights individual performance.

The athletes have the opportunity to consult with experienced coaches from across the state.

"It is so important for an athlete to be able to have a coach they (the athlete) can talk with," says Newman. "The coach-to-athlete relationship which is apparent at the games is a necessary key in the future development of the sport."

According to Jerry Gravel, the track coach at Westfield State College, "The Bay State Games are an appropriate addition to further track and field competitions in Massachusetts."

Gravel, also the western representative for the Bay State Games Sports Information Council, has already seen a good deal of enthusiasm for the up-coming tryouts which will be held throughout the state. "Many of my college athletes are very interested in the games and, this interest is spreading rapidly."

The games' track and field competition has grown significantly in the three years that they have been in existence.

From 1983 to 1984 the Games saw an increase of 50 percent in the number of track and field participants. This year, Doug Arnot, the Executive Director of the Bay State Games, expects participation to double.

With the added events of Triple Jump and Steeple Chase, the Bay State Games track & field competition will include 20 events.

"There has been a tremendous amount of support and participation for track and field at the Games," says Arnot. "We've seen this event grow to the point where many of the state's finest track & field all-stars will compete on regional teams against athletes from across the state. As previous regional competitors, these athletes will work together to form a showcase of local talent."

Interested athletes can still enter the Bay State Games track and field qualifying meets by obtaining an entry form from all high school track coaches or, by calling the games office at (617) 727-3227.

The track and field qualifying meet schedule is as follows:

Northeast: June 15, Reading High School, 9 a.m. start.

Metropolitan: June 14, Boston College Alumni Stadium, 5 p.m. start.

Central/Western: June 15, Fitchburg State University, 9 a.m. start.

Southeastern/Coastal: June 16, Norwell High School, 9 a.m. start.

Athletes may compete in two track events and one field event, in addition to one relay.

The regional relay teams will be chosen at the qualifying meets. All pre-registered athletes will receive a Bay State Games T-shirt and the top three finishers in each event will advance to the Finals in Boston.

The shotgun will be 12 pounds for Boy's Scholastic, 16 pounds for Men's Open, and 4 kilograms for Women's Open and Girl's Scholastic. The hurdles will be 39 inches for Boy's Scholastic and 42 inches for Men's Open. The Women's Open and Girl's Scholastic 100 meter hurdles will be 30 inches.

Youth Hockey Signup Set

Registration for the 1985-86 Winchester youth hockey teams will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Monday, June 17 and Tuesday, June 18 at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Mt. Vernon st.

Players must register on either of these dates in order to play in the fall, according to league president Bill Terry Jr. For more information, contact Terry.

ARTS &amp; ENTERTAINMENT

Stained Glass, Weavings, Paintings Will Debut

Stained glass, hand-woven rugs and paintings will contribute to a colorful art show open from noon to 4 p.m., June 23 to July 11, at Winchester Art Assn. Gallery, 585A Main St.

Also, an open reception will be held for the show's artists, Lynette West, Deborah Cary and Dorothea Jeffery, from 4 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, June 23 at the gallery. All three are Winchester residents.

West, an artist and craftswoman specializing in stained glass, will display glass compositions inspired by the outdoors. She has also won commissions as a photographer and illustrator.

A graduate of Becker Junior College, West attended the DeCordova Museum School and has studied under local artisans. She has participated in craft shows throughout New England.

Cary has been weaving wall and floor rugs for more than 10 years. She also weaves fabrics for pillows and creates off-loom wall hangings. Usually she works in wool, often dying it herself to obtain rich colors.

Cary studied under Arturo Alonzo Sandoval at Haystack Mountain School of Crafts, as well as with New England weavers and dyers. Besides her Winchester Art Assn. membership, she is a juried member of Clever Hand II, an artists' cooperative with a shop in Acton. She also belongs to the Weavers Guild of Boston.

Jeffery, by contrast, is a painter who has mastered both oils and pastels. The upcoming exhibit will display her landscapes, still lifes and pastel portraits.

A graduate of New England School of Art and Design, she has studied with Ernest Major, King Coffin and nationally-known portraitists Constance Pratt, George Augusta and Daniel Greene.

Jeffery is a member of Winchester

Art Assn. and Lexington Arts and Crafts, and has won many awards in community shows.

McCall School Plans Concert

The Spring Concert at McCall Junior High will be at 8 p.m. on June 13 in the school auditorium. The McCall Band, the Jazz Band and the Chorus will perform.

Prior to the concert, from 7 to 8 p.m., the McCall Art Cycle Program will present an exhibit of student projects in the school gym. Work from art, home economics and industrial arts classes will be on display.

Treble Chorus To Sing Tonight

The first of this summer's Cloister Garden Concerts will be presented next Thursday evening, June 13, at 8:30 in the garden of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St., Winchester.

The concert, featuring the Treble Chorus of New England, will be devoted to music of the British Isles, from madrigals to Benjamin Britten. The program will include songs from "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "Pirates of Penzance" staged in costume.

Based at South Church in Andover, the 70-voice children's chorus is a regional organization with concerts throughout the Greater Boston area and New England to its credit. Members include Winchester residents Matthew Behnke, Megan Brady, Michael Callahan, and Emily White.

The Treble Chorus' busy schedule has included performances at Hammond Castle, on WGBH-FM's "Mor-

Dorothea Jeffery, Deborah Cary and Lynette West convene around a hand-weaving loom. The three artists' works will be on display at Winchester Art Assn. Gallery starting June 23.

The group recently completed a spring concert tour of New England colleges.

Movies, 'Twogs' Set For Library

Winchester Public Library has a series of summer events planned for youngsters.

The Walt Disney film "Pinocchio" will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on July 10 in the library meeting room.

Then, on July 24, the Little Red Wagon will bring puppets, story theater and music to the library lawn at 2 p.m.

Finally, Nadine Suhrbier of "Zuglesnook" fame will lead a creative stuffed animal workshop on August 7, where children can make their own "Twogs." Two sessions will be offered, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m.

Signups for "Twogs" workshops begin July 1. The event is open to children entering grades 2 through 6.

Four-Hand Organ Concert Planned

Carl-Hermann Schroder and Gunter Seggermann will perform four-hand organ works at 8 p.m. on Saturday, June 15, at St. Mary's Church, 155 Washington St., Winchester.

The musicians, who hail from Hamburg, Germany, have performed as a duo in Virginia, Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania and New York.

At the Winchester concert, sponsored by St. Mary's music forum, they will play works by Albrechtberger, Merkel, Beethoven and Schubert.

A $2 fee will be collected at the door. For more information, please call James Moritz at 729-0055.

Youth Chorus Set For August

Musical Winchester youths may audition for the ninth annual Singers' Workshop at South Church in Andover, planned for August 12 to 16.

The workshop meets daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., culminating in a concert Saturday evening. Classes will be offered in voice, theory, music appreciation and classical choral repertoire.

Spaces are limited. Interested youths should make an appointment with Choir Manager Jeanne Thomases in Reading at 944-1876.

Andover is also the summer home of the Treble Chorus of New England, which includes Winchester members Matthew Benke and Mike Callahan. Students attending the Singers' Workshop may audition for the chorus's 1985-1986 concert season.

Also, Winchester students Megan Brady and Emily White sing with the chorus's training choir.

The Treble Chorus's past season included concerts at Hammond Castle in Gloucester, an American premier of a Vivaldi "Gloria," and an original show called "Pirates," based on Gilbert and Sullivan operettas.

In May, the Treble Chorus collaborated with Boston Musica Viva and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a premier of Paul Earls' contemporary opera "Icarus." It featured a laser display, computer-synthesized music and giant inflatable sculpture.

Native Pottery May Carry Risk

Tests by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in Seattle have revealed a lead hazard from some ceramic pottery from Mexico, according to the Winchester Board of Health.

FDA continues to be concerned about lead contamination of foods from a wide variety of sources. The agency recommends caution in using imported handmade ceramic products, or earthenware, for foods or beverages.

The hazardous Mexican pottery apparently was produced by native craftsmen using primitive techniques in homemade kilns. Even though no reports of injury have been received, it appears that ceramic products capable of releasing dangerous levels of lead continue to be sold commercially in the United States and used by consumers.

The products FDA is concerned about typically are purchased at roadside stands and shops and at urban marketplaces by tourists. But they also are available from art fairs and import and gift shops in the United States after being imported by shop keepers or by distributors who make buying trips to Mexico.

Pottery with lead glazes is suitable for ornamental purposes but poses a hazard when it is used for food preparation, storage or service. In contact with food, especially acid foods such as fruit and vegetable juices, the lead from improperly fired glazes dissolves into the food and is consumed.

Lead poisonings produces a wide range of confusing symptoms including constipation, diarrhea, high blood pressure, low blood pressure, sleep disturbances, nausea, dizziness, muscle weakness, total body pain, trembling and tiredness.

The most common signs of lead poisoning are lack of muscle coordination, atrophy of the most used muscles, ulcers, blue or gray discoloration of the gums, trembling of the extended tongue, abdominal cramps and personality disturbances.

Children experience disorders typical of minimal brain dysfunction, such as restlessness, short attention span, impulsive behavior and difficulties with visual-motor coordination. In children, the harmful effects may easily be attributed to other causes and are known to occur in the absence of other obvious clinical signs.

Lead poisoning is most likely to be misdiagnosed as acute intermittent porphyria, a rare genetically transmitted disease. It has also been known to be responsible for symptoms mimicking carpal tunnel syndrome, a constricting of muscles in the hand and wrist.

Reading Program Offered To Kids

Puzzled about what to do this summer?

Put it all together at Winchester Junior Library's reading program, "Jigsaw Summer."

Children who know how to read can register by reading one book after school closes. Registration opens June 24, and students can also pick up a free glow-in-the-dark button.

Children who finish 10 books by August 16 qualify for a "Jigsaw" awards party August 21 with refreshments and entertainment.

Besides the reading club, the Junior Library will offer drop-in story hours. At special "Pajama Storytimes" children can attend in their P.J.s and bring a favorite blanket or stuffed animal.

Special guest Barbara Anthony will perform twice this summer with her "Flannel Board Storytelling."

Story hours are for children ages 2½ to 5. Schedule is: July 9, 23 and August 6 from 10:30 to 11 a.m.; and July 18, August 1 and 15 from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

McCALL JUNIOR HIGH Presents

"At Sonny & Sons Auto Body, Our Aim Is To Satisfy the Customer."

By ROBERT CAPOZZI

If the long grueling New England winter has taken its toll on your car or truck, it's time to take it to Sonny & Sons Auto Body Shop at 26 Garden st., Arlington.

Whether your vehicle has fallen victim to the slippery roads and is dented from an accident, or the salt and snow had made it look old before its time, bring it in to Sonny & Sons and let them make that body and paint job as good as new.

Sonny has seen many harsh winters and their effects on area cars and trucks. And, for more than 30 years, he has been entrusted to repair the dents and deterioration that inevitably occurs.

Sonny & Sons is a family-type shop where the customer receives personal attention by Sonny Pochini and his sons, Michael and Scott.

For 29 years, Sonny made old or dented cars look like new at Arlington Ford's body shop. When that dealership closed its doors in 1981, Sonny decided to set up shop here in Arlington where he and his family have lived their entire lives.

With the reputation Sonny had built up in Arlington through his work at Arlington Ford, local residents already were familiar with the high quality work, and attention to detail that is Sonny's trademark.

"Nothing goes out of the shop that isn't done right," explains Sonny. "We pay meticulous attention to detail. We strive to make our customers happy."

Not only has Sonny passed on to his sons his expertise in auto body repair acquired from his years of experience, but he has also taught his sons the importance of satisfying the customer and striving for perfection in every job.

It is no wonder that many of their customers are faithful repeat clients who come to Sonny & Sons to get the high quality workmanship they have received and have come to expect.

"Word of mouth has also attracted a lot of new customers," explains Sonny. "We are adding to our list of clients by attracting new customers. We also do a lot of dealer work."

"We also pride ourselves on getting work out on schedule," Sonny adds. "The customer comes first."

Treat yourself and your car to the auto body expertise at Sonny & Sons that has made the name Pochini a name that is respected for its quality and expert work.

RELIGION

Local Minister Is Regional Leader

By CYNTHIA FRADO CHETWYND
Special To The Star

There has been much news of late about the new religious leadership emerging from the ranks of Winchester clergy. We are fortunate to have among us men and women whose professional and personal interests reflect a commitment to educational excellence, religious tolerance, and the preservation of human dignity.

As leaders in our community, they attempt to create an environment conducive to spiritual growth. As catalysts in our nation, they constantly challenge us to direct our energies and resources toward a more peaceful planet. We are enriched by their presence and are always amazed by the abundance of their giving.

Among this group of distinguished people is the Rev. Charles Reinhardt, senior minister of the Winchester Unitarian Society. Recently Reinhardt was elected to serve as president of the Massachusetts Bay District of the Unitarian Universalist Assn.

The Mass. Bay District (MBD) is an organization comprised of more than 60 Unitarian Universalist congregations in the greater Boston area. The goals of the district are to "cultivate cooperative relationships among the member societies and their constituencies, promote the religious life of these societies, assist member societies to carry on active and effective programs within their respective communities, and facilitate cooperation between the societies and the Unitarian Universalist Association on matters of common concern."

A president of the Mass Bay District Reinhardt will assist the board of directors in goal setting for the coming year. In the past the MBD has directed a broad range of programs which included a fall conference with workshops, lectures, displays and activities centered on a theme of particular interest to district members.

The organization has also sponsored seminars on development, needs assessment, leadership styles, motivation and change; roundtables for church leaders in the district; couples enrichment programs, cable TV; and many other projects.

Moving to Winchester in 1979 while a chaplain at Harvard-Radcliffe, Reinhardt's previous professional and avocational pursuits have afforded him many opportunities to serve diverse groups of people while continuing with academic endeavors.

Ordained in 1952 after receiving his STB degree from Harvard, Reinhardt has served Unitarian congregations in New York, New Jersey, and Washington State. For brief periods he has had pastorates in Saugus, Atlanta, Ga.; Red Hill, N.C.; and Lake Wobegone, Minn.

Along the way, two strong avocational interests have been broadcasting and free-lance photography. In radio, he has done newscasting, music programs, and in 1978 and 1979, Reinhardt formed a national network for "Cambridge Forum", a radio program originating from the First Parish in Cambridge and supported by the Lowell Institute, the Broadcasting Foundation of America, and the chaplaincies of Harvard and MIT.

His television work began with KUOM-TV in Seattle and continues in Winchester with "Aberjona Roundtable" — providing the community with a variety of provocative dialogues not previously available to area television viewers.

Currently, Mr. Reinhardt is co-producing a 19-hour TV documentary featuring two Harvard professors emeritus noted for their experiences with German church leaders and other anti-Nazi figures in the 1930s.

Long active in denominational organizations, Reinhardt is at present serving as trustee for the James Luther Adams Foundation and the Mass. Bay District of the Unitarian Universalist Assn.

He has been trustee of the Star King School of Theology in Berkeley, salist Ministers Assn. chapters in New York, the Middle Atlantic States, York, the Middle Atlantic States, and in the Pacific Northwest, as well as serving on the Continental Executive Committee of that organization.

His community work across the country. Most recently, he has served as president of the Winchester Ecumenical Assn. during the year it enlarged its scope and became two interrelated Winchester Interfaith groups the Association, for laity and clergy, and the Council, for clergy and other religious professionals.

As senior minister of the Winchester Unitarian Society, Reinhardt has been responsible for bringing to the pulpit a number of noteworthy national and international figures — believing that the exchange of knowledge through shared dialogue can only enhance the personal growth of his congregation.

With his wife, Ruth MacLeod Reinhardt, and their six children, he shares interests in sailing, skiing, hiking, and the fine arts — all pursuits which have enhanced both family life and his ministry.

As newly elected president of the Massachusetts Bay District, Reinhardt brings to this organization an administrative and pastoral expertise.

The Unitarian Universalist Association and the town of Winchester can only be enriched by his professionalism, spontaneity, dedication, and warm sense of humor.

Bartlett School Fetes 8th-Grade Graduation

Bartlett School Grade Eight graduation exercises were held in the school auditorium on Monday, June 10. After a flag salute and singing of "America the Beautiful", principal Norine Casey greeted graduates and guests.

Paul Athanasiadis introduced the student program, which consisted of the play "Shakespeare Streamlined" directed by the English teacher Jacqueline Skolnick. Karen Mahoney, music teacher, directed musical members geared to the theme "We are the World" and Marsha Gleason, art teacher, arranged students art work around the room, also noting this same theme.

Kathleen Kehoe then gave the valedictory address and Dan Basken and Cheri Heywood gave class prophecies. After Casey presented diplomas, students and guests adjourned for a social hour. Parents, faculty and students had previously enjoyed a graduation dinner at the Winchester Country Club.

Graduates include: Paul Athanasiadis, Dann Basken, Minh Dang, Marc Grimaldi, Nathan Heck, Cheri Heywood, Kathleen Kehoe, Nicholas Miliaras, Richard Mix and Melanie Weiner.

Kathleen Kehoe, who is going on to Buckingham, Browne, Nichols, is the daughter of Mr. William Kehoe of Swanton st., and Nicholas Miliaras, who is going to Winchester High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miliaras of Mt. Pleasant st.

Student-Built Home Will Be On Display

Public viewing of a new home built by the construction trade students at Northeast Regional Vocational School will be held on Sunday, June 16, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The eight-room Garrison style house consisting of kitchen, dining room, living room, family room, four bedrooms, 2 car garage, and 2½ baths is located at 89 Jasper st., Saugus. The owners, selected by lottery, are Mr. and Mrs. John Forbes of Saugus.

Students in the carpentry, cabinet-making, electrical, plumbing, and sheet metal shops began working on the project last September. This is the 11th house to be built by Northeast students. Others were constructed in Stoneham, Woburn, Saugus, North Reading, Wakefield, and next fall another will be built in Melrose.

The construction of a house each year is part of the vocational training program for students in these trades. Applications are invited each January from among the residents of the 12 communities in the regional school district, and the final selection is made by lottery.

Instructors and other school officials will be on hand to greet visitors at the public viewing of the newly completed student-built house at 89 Jasper st.

St. Eulalia's Blood Drive Gets 122 Pints

St. Eulalia's Church sponsored a successful bloodmobile on May 20, at which 122 donors provided blood for area hospitals.

Mary Carey coordinated and supervised the volunteer staff, who worked diligently to assure the smooth operation of the drive.

The following volunteers were on duty: receptionist, Edna Kaplan; typists, Rita Jacques, Amy Hinton, Bernice Chambers, Mary McGowan, Bianca Della Sala and Doris Fitzmaurice.

Temperature takers were: Mary DeLisle, Mary Catanzano, Lorraine Gatto, Mary Nawn; donor room aides, Mary Guarino, Catherine Rossetti, Ginny Tocio, Jean Hogman, Marilyn Jones, Helen Leonard, Linda Greco; canteen workers, Louise Madeiros, Diane Couture, Eileen Doweett, Clorie Becker, Mary Thayer, Ann Sicard.

Registered Nurses Pauline Barkalow, Sr. Emmanuel O'Connell, MMM., Florence Gosselin, Denise O'Neil, Christine Doherty, Charlene Donahue and Hilda Zerwekh assisted the Blood Services staff by taking medical histories.

Blood Pressure Check Planned

The Red Cross monthly Blood Pressure Clinic will be at from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday, June 15, at the Winchester Chapter House, 39 Church st.

The service is free and no appointment is necessary. The clinic is open to all residents of Winchester and surrounding communities.

Two registered nurses will take blood pressure readings, assisted by Red Cross volunteers.

No clinics are scheduled for July and August, but they will resume on Saturday, Sept. 21.

Cancer Program Wins Approval

Winchester Hospital has been awarded a three-year Certificate of Approval from the American College of Surgeons' Commission on Cancer.

"A cancer program takes close cooperation, long hours and sincere dedication to quality cancer patient care," wrote Dr. Oliver H. Beahrs in the letter of notification. "The staff of Winchester Hospital, its doctors, nurses, administration, [tumor] registry and medical records personnel are all to be congratulated."

The hospital has twice before received the certification for its cancer treatment program, established in 1978.

The program provides inpatient and outpatient treatment, including surgery, chemotherapy and referral for radiation treatment.

The Oncology Suite, one of the busiest patient care units of Winchester Hospital, is visited by about 3,000 patients per year, of which 2,500 are outpatient visits.

The Cancer Commission also cited the quality of the hospital's tumor registry, where cancer patient records are kept, and the tumor board, which coordinates treatment.

Emergency Help Available Fast

Lifeline, a service of Symmes Hospital in Arlington, makes emergency help available at the touch of a button.

The service, designed for people at high medical risk who live alone, can insure peace of mind and the independence for the patient and the family.

Lifeline subscribers wear a small, remote-control unit on their belt, in their pocket or around their neck. In an emergency, the subscriber pushes the "Help" button, which signals the Emergency Response Center at Symmes Hospital in Arlington.

The center then calls to determine the nature of the emergency.

If there is no answer, a friend of relative is called. That person rushes to the subscriber's home and activates a button which dials the response center and says that help has arrived.

If an ambulance is needed, the hospital nurse then dispatches it.

Cost of the Lifeline program, including installation, is nominal. Financial aid is available.

For more information, please call coordinator Ann Cooper at 646-1500 ext. 1403.

Charity Sought For Bangladesh

The American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay is collecting donations to aid victims of the recent cyclone disaster in Bangladesh.

Checks may be made out to Red Cross and earmarked "Bangladesh Cyclone Relief." Donations should be sent to the Red Cross, 99 Brookline ave., Boston 02215.

The Red Cross has already made an initial $150,000 contribution to the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies. All funds will be immediately forwarded to the League for disaster relief.

Funds will provide food, medical aid, clothing, basic utensils and other emergency supplies. The Bangladesh Red Cross plans to aid an estimated 4,000 families.

For more information, please contact Jennifer French at 262-1234.

Museum Hours

The Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett rd., Lexington, is open Mondays through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sundays from noon to 5 p.m. Admission and parking for the museum are free; there are facilities for limited and handicapped persons.

★ Loop

Abutters include Parkview Apartments, State Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh, and Housing Authority member John J. Regan.
Saltmarsh said the land behind his Main st. insurance agency could be used to expand his parking lot. However, he said, the town should "get first crack" at the land, which also abuts the high school athletic field.

Meanwhile, Regan said he would be interested in buying Woburn Loop land, after living next to it for 42 years. He said he has no specific use in mind for the property.

Periodist Jerome D. Murray, a partner in Winchester Main Trust, said part of the Loop could be suitable for a parking lot behind the new office building at 555 Main st.

But Ralph Marchesi, a Main st. resident, took a different stance. He sent Selectmen an angry letter in March of 1983 demanding the land be returned to the abutters, not sold off.

"If this proposal goes through, it will be a criminal injustice to human rights," wrote Marchesi. "The land was taken by the railroad from the abutters with the understanding that it ever [abandoned] it would go back to the abutters."

"The plan you have proposed is inequitable. You are proposing and playing God," he wrote.

Anthony M. Bellino, president of Bellino's pizza shop on Main st., also expressed interest in the land. So did the trustees of Parkview Apartments on Swanton st., abutters on the Loop land.

Albert D. Russo owns 4.2 acres off

Russell rd., property next to the old track. He wrote Selectmen in 1983, "with the acquisition of this land I could develop [it], and then it could be put on the town's permanent tax rolls for a much greater and lasting return to the town of Winchester."

The owner of Andrea's House of Pizza, Christos Eliopoulos, sent Selectmen a letter of interest in the land next to the property. So did Steven J. Poulos, a managing partner of Winchester Associates at 1017 Main st.

But, according to Clarence Borggaard, the land could be better used as a highway. "We could eliminate that terrible bottleneck in the center of Woburn," he said.

The Loop "is straight, level and ready to be paved," Borggaard said. "All we need are 50 [or] 75 loads of hot top and we got a highway."

Selectman Alan Macdonald said the idea should be discussed with Woburn Mayor John Rabbitt. However, he said he feared backlash from Winchester homeowners concerned about adding traffic to residential streets.

Town Meeting members approved $125,000 to purchase the land at spring Town Meeting in 1983, but negotiations with the MBTA took a year and half before the sale.

Then, last November, Town Meeting members approved another $25,000 to fund an engineering study of the property.

According to the sales agreement, the town of Winchester is responsible for tearing down an abandoned railroad bridge at the intersection of Lake st. and Skillings rd. However, no definite plans have been made to remove it.

Local Red Cross

Elects New Heads

Newcastle Diane Willis of Winchester was guest speaker at the recent annual meeting of the local Red Cross chapter.

Following the talk, which focused on Willis's experiences in Africa and relief programs there, new officers were elected.

They are: Chairman, Dr. Robert Smith; Vice Chairman, Evelyn Trageser; Secretary, Patricia Heuchling; and Treasurer, Fred Zappala.

The meeting was dedicated to the memories of longtime Winchester volunteers Walter Armstrong and Emily McDavitt.

The 1985-1986 Board of Directors will be: Jerome Burdulis, Cheryl Curtin, Lloyd Franke, Patricia Heuchling, Robert Keefe, John Sexton, Robert Smith, Evelyn Trageser, Gustave Wunder, Martha Bett, June Cannon, Gabriel Fryklund, Edward Goodwin, Hubert LeFever, George Littlell Jr., Sheryl Norris, Sue Porter and Hilde Zerweck.

Also on the board are: Lucy Cavanaugh, Diana Dornelan, Mary Livingston, Thomas Maher, Carol Minotoli, Robert Penna, Barbara Potter, Helen Quinn and Fred Zappala. The evening's event ran smoothly thanks to the work of Annual Meeting Chairman Evelyn Trageser, Lucy Cavanaugh and Gabriel Fryklund.

June Cannon arranged for Willis to be guest speaker.

feared the defendant is preparing to move out of the Commonwealth as soon as he makes his $50,000 bail," said O'Malley.

Perritano also acknowledged that police, acting on tips from several Crescent rd. neighbors, have observed moving trucks being loaded from DiVito's home.

"We have received several anonymous tips," said Perritano. "There have been people moving boxes and cars from there."

Chapman, however, called the reports "Nonsense," saying DeVito has no intentions of moving.

"That is absolute nonsense! Maybe his wife has been seen taking off in one car headed in one direction, while his daughter heads off in another, but nobody's moving out," he said.

Chapman also discounted charges by O'Malley at the Woburn hearing about a stolen property case involving DeVito.

"It was a minor charge. Apparently he bought a car not knowing it was stolen. The charge was dismissed after six months, to the best of my recollection. I think it was out of Boston," said Chapman.

Tanglewood: A Tingling For Music Lovers Of

By LESLIE KANDELL

This season's Tanglewood weekends are a comfortable combination of conservative programming and noteworthy scheduling.

The major change is the expansion of the season, which now begins June 27 and runs through Sept. 1 — the day before Labor Day.

To make sure the opening and closing concerts attract crowds, the programs are solid Beethoven: piano trios including the Archduke, performed by the Beaux Arts Trio June 27, the Emperor Concerto (with Andre Watts) and the Fifth Symphony with Seiji Ozawa and the Boston Symphony orchestra June 28, and the Seventh Symphony and Violin Concerto with Itzhak Perlman and Ozawa Sept. 1.

It had been rumored last summer that an extended season would necessitate a week's vacation for the BSO, while another orchestra filled in.

But time off for the musicians has now been arranged differently.

Quite a number of concerts — particularly those of works by pre-Romantic period composers — have a small orchestra.

One example is the all-Mozart program Sunday, Aug. 11.

Many orchestra members will be excused for that performance — and attendant rehearsals — in exchange for playing another split-orchestra concert.

Also for the first time, some concerts are being replaced by recitals in the Shed; duo-pianists Katia and Marielle Labèque will perform Sunday July 14th, and Itzhak Perlman Friday Aug. 30th.

Additional time off for musicians is created by the innovation of double performances of Handel's Messiah and Bach's St. Matthew Passion.

These pieces also fit neatly with the composer's tercentenaries.

The Messiah has been performed at Tanglewood before; records show it drew a large audience, and nobody minded a July re-run of Advent. The two performances, both at 8 p.m., are July 26th and 27th, conducted by Christopher Hogwood.

The St. Matthew — Aug. 16 and 17 at 8 p.m. — is not only a first for Tanglewood, but an experiment in the kind of staging and costuming that has been reserved for operas in previous summers.

The same crew, headed by the imaginative David Kneuss of the Metropolitan Opera, has conceived and will produce the mise-en-scene.

Ozawa will conduct, and the Tanglewood Festival Chorus, prepared by the peerless John Oliver, will be on hand for this as well as the Messiah, and may even sing from memory.

Ozawa will appear for eight concerts. The guest conductor roster is headed (alphabetically and probably otherwise) by Leonard Bernstein, who will lead the BSO in an all-Brahms program for the Koussevitsky Memorial Concert July 20.

The soloist in the Piano Concerto #1 will be Marek Drenowski, whom Bernstein selected.

Those who can't get seats can attend the open rehearsal at 10:30 a.m.

Dame Kiri Te Kanawa and Tatiana Troyanos will be among the vocalists this season.

Recently seen on public television in a documentary of the recording of West Side Story with Bernstein, the soprano and mezzo are now back to the business-as-usual repertory: Te Kanawa sings Mozart's "Dove Sono" and "Porgi Amor" as well as Canteloube's Songs of the Auvergne under Ozawa July 5, and Troyanos sings Nuits d'ete in an all-Berlioz program led by Charles Dutoit July 19th.

String-playing stars include the wildly popular cellist Yo-Yo Ma in the Schumann concerto conducted by Kurt Masur Aug. 9, and violinist Shiomu Mintz in the Dvorak concerto July 13.

The new BSO concertmaster, Malcolm Lowe, makes his Tanglewood debut June 30, playing Bruch's Violin Concerto #1 with

Time All Ages

Ozawa conducting.

Contemporary music is again sparsely programmed this summer, concentrated in the Festival of Contemporary Music, Aug. 1-7. There is, however, a 20th-century evening August 23, when Michael Tilson Thomas conducts Aaron Copland's Appalachian Spring (commemorating the composer's 85th birthday), Gershwin's Rhapsody #2 (in which Thomas will also play piano) and Bartok's concerto for Orchestra, which the BSO usually does very well.

The July 4th weekend is a cute departure from the regular fare.

Wednesday, July 3, the King's Singers, a male sextet which shows up on the Johnny Carson show again June 27, will sing an evening of fugues, madrigals, Jerome Kern and — as their fans know — much, much more.

July 4, pianist William Bolcom accompanies his wife Joan Morris in an all-American evening of Gershwin, Kern, Rodgers and Hart and George M. Cohan.

Some day someone will get the brilliant idea of scheduling the annual appearance of the Boston Pops on the date, but as now planned, the Pops will perform July 10, with John Williams conducting.

As a rule, the Friday concerts start at 9 p.m., and are preceded by a short solo recital at 7, included in the ticket price.

Saturday concerts are at 8:30 p.m., Sundays at 2:30 p.m.

The Messiah and the St. Matthew Passion, both on Fridays and Saturdays, begin at 8 p.m.

Picnicking on the grounds is welcomed.

Food may be bought there or brought in. Those who don't want to make their own will find a complete range of foods and prices in the surrounding towns.

Tickets may be obtained by mail at the ticket office in Lenox, Mass. (01240), in person from the box office, and by phoning Chargit.

Chamber Music Heralds Special Summer Series

By LESLIE KANDELL

Tanglewood is best known for the weekend concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; less well publicized are chamber concerts and recitals in smaller theaters all week and at odd times during the weekend.

Though nowhere as expensive as the Shed concerts, these weeknight and afternoon events are of equal caliber.

A case in point is the concert by the Beaux Arts Trio, which opens the newly expanded season Thursday June 27 with the same all-Beethoven program as 30 years ago, when it made its debut there: the Archduke, the Ghost, and Kakadu Variations.

Other weekday concerts devoted to the work of just one composer are an Aaron Copland 85th birthday celebration Tuesday, July 9, with his original 13-instrument version of Appalachian Spring and a Haydn evening Thursday, July 25 with members of the BSO and conductor-cum-host Christopher Hogwood.

The Bach tercentenary is acknowledged Wednesday, Aug. 14 when pianist Andras Schiff performs Book One of the Well-Tempered Clavier.

Featured weekend artists often give Prelude recitals Fridays at 7 p.m., but an occasional performance precedes the weekend, as does that of Yo-Yo Ma and Emanuel Ax, whose cello and piano concert of Beethoven, Franck and Brahms is Thursday August 8th.

Contemporary music on the orchestral programs is definitely sparse this year; the new music public will find it concentrated in the Festival of Contemporary Music Aug. 1-7, when there are daily afternoon and evening performances.

This is the scene for premieres, golden oldies—like Stravinsky—and also presentation of works by Tanglewood's composer-in-residence, who this summer is Leon Kirchner.

The only concert listed in the general brochure is Tuesday, Aug. 6: pianist Gilbert Kalish, mezzo-soprano Jan DeGaetani and the Boston Symphony Chamber Players (comprising BSO first chairs) will perform works by Kirchner, Robin Holloway and Charles Ives—whom we still regard as contemporary even though he was born in 1874.

Another category of performance is presented by the Tanglewood Music Center and fondly known as "Friends" concerts.

This is because they are available at no charge to those who have contributed to the orchestra, and to others for a nominal door fee.

The performers are experienced musicians in their 20s who come from all over the world to study at Tanglewood for the summer.

These concerts have nothing in common with amateurism—their fans sometimes prefer them to the establishment weekend events.

Conductors who arrive to lead the BSO often rehearse and perform with the students during the week: so far Ozawa is scheduled to conduct Monday, July 8, Leonard Bernstein Wednesday, July 24 and Kirchner Aug. 7.

The young professionals of the TMC perform frequent chamber concerts, and because they are always on tap, they can present compositions which because of their unusual combinations of instruments are unfeasible for regular concert hearings. These concerts take place on weeknights and Sunday mornings.

Sunday and Monday evenings—very popular—are often for vocal recitals. Art songs past and present are presented by resident vocal fellows dressed to the nines and accompanied at the piano by members of the vocal coaching faculty, and sometimes by additional instrumentalists.

Two weekday events special enough to rate their own color ink in Tanglewood's flyer are the annual Boston Pops concert with John Williams Wednesday, July 10, and Tanglewood-on-Parade Tuesday, Aug. 27, when non-stop TMC recitals begin at 2:30 p.m., ending with a joint evening performance of Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture played by the BSO, the TMC, and students from Boston University—who also give concerts and recitals during the bustling weekdays.

The TMC (formerly called the Berkshire Music Center) puts out schedules of its concerts a couple of weeks in advance.

They are available from Tanglewood to those who 637-1600 or write, TMC, Lenox, Mass. 01240.

The recitals by famous soloists are listed in the BSO brochure available now.

Love In Bloom:

Marissa and Aaron

First Place

By PAMELA BAILEY POWERS

It was pouring rain. . . still. It had been for days, or so it seemed to Marissa as she pulled into the parking space nearest to the entrance to her office. Darn, she'd parked in a puddle. Now her feet would get wet. . . and she'd be a mess for her board meeting presentation. Irritably she pushed open the door of her aging Chevrolet and poked her umbrella out into the rainswept morning. "Good grief," a deep, rumbling voice growled.

Aaron. It must be. His face she recognized from THE WALL STREET JOURNAL photos. His voice she knew from their now frequent phone conversations. Big, sandy-blond, deep, deep voiced Aaron Goodman. There he stood, holding a beach ball striped umbrella and sporting foul weather gear. He looked every inch a Maine lobster man — rubber everywhere: olive rubber boots, yellow rubber slicker and brimmed hat.

Marissa laughed. She'd expected to meet him up in the board room, not sloshing through the rain.

"Good grief!" he repeated, still with a growl. "Move over, woman." He grabbed her unopened umbrella and flung it into her jalopy's back seat. She moved aside, fast, then she watched as he released the tension, slid the lock down his umbrella's blond shaft and tossed it too, in the back. In two swift moves, he'd slammed the door and was seated at the wheel, revving her motor. Introductions weren't needed.

"We can't have you pussy-footing through the puddles, now can we?" His growl shifted into a grin as he teased her.

"Oh, you mean to say you're not off to batten down the hatches of the Flying Cloud?" countered Marissa with her own sharp wit.

Aaron grinned again and grabbed her knee and shook it, "Ah, lassie, 'tis home I am from the sea."

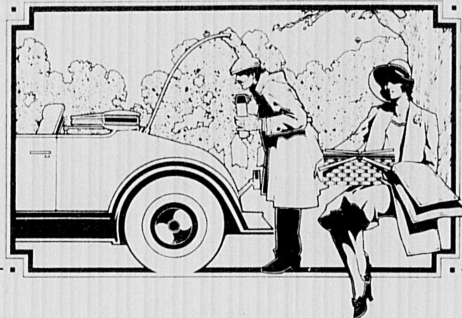

She didn't pull away. Instead, she rolled her eyes and bit her bottom lip in an effort not to smile too broadly.

He slipped the gear stick into reverse and teased her again. "When are you going to drop that notorious thrifty streak of yours and get a real car?"

It was true, she was frugal. She could well afford to pay cash for any

It was pouring rain. . . still. It had been for days, or so it seemed to Marissa as she pulled into the parking space nearest to the entrance to her office. Darn, she'd parked in a puddle. Now her feet would get wet. . . and she'd be a mess for her board meeting presentation.

Irritably she pushed open the door of her aging Chevrolet and poked her umbrella out into the rainswept morning. "Good grief," a deep, rumbling voice growled. Isn't that the biggest puddle you've ever seen.

It was George, the Chairman of the Board of Directors meeting. George had been with the company for over 25 years and although he was 50 years old he kept himself in good shape. He had what you might describe as an athletes body.

Divorced for 5 years he spent a great deal of his personal time working overtime in his office. Because of his long hours of work he never dated another woman since his divorce.

Marissa was one of his staff assistants and also worked long hours for the firm. She had passed up opportunities for courtship and romance to become one of the most highly paid and successful females in the company. She had class in every sense.

At age 40 she was convinced that romance was not part of her life and that being successful was the only thing.

Just as she was about to step out into the puddle in her toeless shoes, George yelled out, wait, let me help you.

How are you going to help me, she said. I'm going to carry you across the puddle. That is crazy, she said, you'll be a mess for the meeting. Its only my feet he answered and they will be under the counter where no one can see them and at that he reached to pick her up.

As he carried her, she lay against him and their contact was somewhat different than it had been during their past 15 years of working together.

Now for the first time since the divorce other thoughts quickly crossed his mind and before he had walked the five feet across the puddle as they looked into each other's eyes they both dropped their eyes and focused on each other's lips and without hesitation they quickly kissed.

As he put her down neither one said anything about what had just happened and they continued to their meeting.

At the meeting they both performed as if they were injected with some magic adrenalin.

No one suspected anything between them as everyone knew how devoted each was to their career. After the meeting George said Marissa may I see you in my office, which was not an unusual request.

Only this time when she came into his office, instead of saying Marissa you did a superb job as usual, he said, about what happened their by the puddle, I enjoyed that. She answered by saying, so did I. Then will you have supper with me tonight. She answered by saying, I'd love to.

After a very enjoyable supper that followed with cocktails and dancing they headed out to the parking lot arm in arm kissing each other on the cheek along the way.

Advertising Pays

Third Place

By LOUISE van AGT

It was pouring rain. . . still it had been for days, or so it seemed to Marissa as she pulled into the space nearest to the entrance to her office. Darn, she'd parked in a puddle. Now her feet would get wet and she'd be a mess for her board meeting presentation. Irritably, she pushed open the door of her aging Chevrolet and poked her umbrella out into the rainswept morning. "Good grief" a deep rumbling voice growled. Not only had she delivered a severe jab into a man's ribs, but she had left a mark of soot paint on his car door. She mumbled her apologies to him, catching a glimpse of bright blue eyes and a heavy swatch of brindled brown hair. She hurried inside, for she had to get her demonstration ready and she was late. She worked for an advertising agency that made TV commercials, and had been assigned a new non-fattening food product, a cracker of sorts, to tout. Imagine her dismay when she entered the board room: the man she had offended in the parking lot was her client!

Marissa kept her dignity, and displayed some of her ideas around the table, but the client, Caleb Chandler, wasn't pleased with them. "Then what DO you want?" she asked, forcing down her irritation, and looking into his handsome face. "Well, I can tell you what I DON'T want," he said, "if that's any help. I don't want a commercial that has dozens of wet teenagers on the beach, or a dancer in tights and leg warmers dancing to an electronic instrument accompanied by a woman with a hoarse voice, or any young earnest housewife with a kid in her lap, speaking authoritatively. I don't want any naked flat torsos, or any 'I'm good to me' messages. That narrows it down," she said wryly, "what about any message that has the word 'emollient' in it?" With that, they both broke down and laughed. They arranged to meet for lunch and discuss new possibilities, and their first lunch extended into a good many more, nearly every day. By the time they had decided on a "classy" commercial, one that crossed all the barriers of age and weight, of an elegantly set table with candles and the crackers on a silver salver, she had fallen in love with him, and, she thought, he with her.

As time went on, Marissa couldn't understand why he would only see her at lunch, or the time before and after, and in spite of their new intimacy, she didn't dare ask him. Then her boss let it slip out that Caleb was engaged, which explained all the filled evenings. She was devastated at once with what she thought was his heartless duplicity, and in her anger and spite, had a commercial made by one of the agencies most lissome models popping one cracker after another into a big, redly-painted wet mouth, with the camera cutting off the eyes, and a voice-over of little ecstatic cries. It was cheap, even obscene, but striking in its simplicity, the very last thing that Caleb wanted. When the commercial was run, he showed up at her office, inasmuch as she refused to answer his car Europe could peddle, Italian, Scandinavian, German or English. Her Chevy was old, but solid. Like her heritage. And, like her forebears, she'd seek adventure elsewhere — in her land dealings, her travel and her men. Aaron.

Marissa liked Aaron. They'd been tossed together as part of her newest business venture. He was self-made, a Harvard PhD in biochemistry and Chairman of the Board of CORPSTRONICS, the Northeast's hottest land brokerage house. His company dealt exclusively in properties for high tech industries: computers, lasers and biotechnics. And she was a buyer, backed by six generations of inherited wealth — China trade money, whaling money, land money, old money, guilt money. Marissa wasn't rule the world rich, but her assets were good. She was a visionary. She assigned herself a mission — to use some of that cash garnered from the hard work, sometimes the slavery of others, to help victims of genetic illnesses. It wasn't going to be easy to convince her board to purchase the land and build a Recombinant DNA Research Lab.

Aaron was behind her 100%. During their last telephone conversation, he told her he'd found a piece of prime property in an enlightened community where town meeting members were supportive of such research. He'd organized a consortium of top scientists to head her budding and noble enterprise.

But, she'd have a fight on her hands. Richard Burnsome was Marissa's stepfather. He became president of her parents corporation when her widowed mother died three years ago. Burnsome was money mad. He'd invested large amounts of the family money in a South African diamond mine. He'd praised apartheid — it fit his style to force that country's black men to separate from their wives and children for months at a time to earn a dollar or two a day to send back to their hungry families. It fit Burnsome's style to travel to Geneva and barter millions on the gems those same black men scraped from the dark continent's bowels.

In the past three years, Marissa and Burnsome had had many confrontations. He'd managed to pressure four of the six board members to always vote his way. Marissa suspected coercion, even blackmail, but could not yet prove the charge. Burnsome made it clear that he opposed the RDNA venture and that he would fight Marissa and Aaron. Burnsome fought dirty.

Today's board meeting would be the first round in Marissa's knock-out fight against Burnsome. She was a fighter, tough, smart. Aaron was the same. Impulsively, she placed her hand on Aaron's thigh as he stopped her car in front of the glass and brass revolving door that formed the entry to her corporate offices. No puddles here.

"Move it, woman! We've work to do. I'll park and meet you ringside in five," Aaron quipped. She squeezed his thigh, hopped out and turned back just long enough to promise "Nantucket, tonight. I'll get a jet. Oysters on the half shell and tequila. Off to the wars!" Aaron signaled "thumbs-up", gave her a wink and that luscious grin. Marissa blew him a kiss and was off.

They were both on cloud nine. He drove her to her home which was a fashionable house in the suburbs where they sat for a few minutes in the car exchanging kisses and hugs.

Finally Marissa said would you like to come in for a cup of coffee and he answered by saying I was hoping you would ask.

Neither one really wanted coffee and they knew it.

calls, whereupon they had a showdown, and wounded each other with hard words. Although Caleb seemed more baffled than angry, she was miserable.

By some twist of fate, her vulgar commercial, because it meant to provoke rather than wheedle, caught on, and the fame of Caleb's cracker was instantaneous. He sought her out and told her he loved her fierce spirit and her imagination, and that he had broken off with his finance after their showdown; he hadn't laughed once since Marissa had refused to see him. "And what does that mean?" she said, "that you love the success I bring you?" She left her building and escaped to her car. It was pouring again. He followed her. "It means this," he said and kissed her in the rain as she unheedingly stood ankle-deep in a puddle.

STAR STRUCK:

Planetarium Offering Summer Sky Programs

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

It is a blazing bright late spring day.

The sun is high; cars whiz by the small red brick building sandwiched between Concord ave. and Garden st. in Cambridge.

More than 120 scientists there are studying the stars — but not one is using the telescope that was the reason the building was constructed.

In fact, they never do — even at night.

Not because the telescope at the Harvard-Smithsonian Observatory and Center for Astrophysics is out of date — although it is, a little.

It's because it isn't dark enough at night around here.

"We don't do any research observations here on Garden st. anymore," explains Arlene Walsh, a spokeswoman for the Observatory. "It was built in the 1880s, when the skies here were very dark."

"Now, there's lots of light pollution: too many city lights," she says. "You can't see anything if it's not dark enough — and the telescope isn't very high, by today's standards."

Most of the astronomers and astrophysicists working at the center don't use telescopes at all, Walsh adds. "They work on computers, with data returned from satellites."

But the center does make use of its telescopes on a regular basis. On the third Thursday of every month, they hold an "Observatory Night," open to the public.

"We have a non-technical lecture in astronomy, usually given by a scientist on our staff," Walsh says.

"But, recently, we've invited other specialists, too, like Janet Mattel, who'll be speaking in August. She's from the American Assn. of Variable Star Observers," Walsh explains.

The scientists at the Observatory — which is jointly run by Harvard College and the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory — specialize in seven fields.

With divisions studying atomic and molecular physics, high-energy astrophysics, planetary sciences, radio- and geoastronomy, solar and stellar physics, theoretical astrophysics, and optical and infrared astronomy, it might seem like the lectures would be a bit overwhelming for laypeople.

Not to mention the outside experts...

"I usually remind the speakers that these nights are designed for adults and high schoolers who aren't astrophysicists," Walsh says. "They're so used to scientific colloquia; I tell them not to use diagrams and equations. Most of them do very well at making it clear and interesting."

After the lecture, a short film is shown.

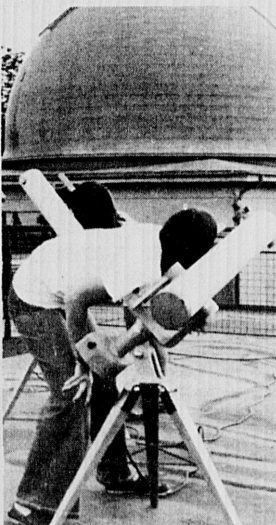

"We try to get something related to the lecture, but astronomy is changing so rapidly the film industry can't keep up," Walsh says.

Then — weather permitting — the visitors get a chance to go up on the roof and stargaze.

"The 15-inch telescope — which was built before the building was — isn't working very well right now," Walsh says. "There is a committee working on restoring it."

But visitors can still see the massive stone base on the ground floor, with its dedication plaque to Louis Agassiz.

Visitors to the Harvard-Smithsonian Observatory peer through portable telescopes on an early summer evening.

Up two flights of a winding, narrow staircase, the two-seater observation chair, worn red velvet with a handwheel crank to raise and lower it, still works well.

And the wood-and-brass length of the 15-inch telescope is imposing: it nearly brushes the edge of the domed roof.

The "15-inch" designation refers to lens size, not the length of the telescope.

But, even though visitors can't spy through the 15-inch telescope right now, the nine-inch Clark telescope — in a smaller dome on the roof — is still in use.

"And we bring up quite a few small portable telescopes, too," Walsh says. "You can see the rings of Saturn, star clusters, and quite a bit of detail on the moon, even with them."

When it's cloudy out, or raining, the stargazing isn't possible, Walsh says.

But even for those who miss stargazing that night, there's hope: the Observatory also runs a taped message, updated on Wednesdays, of all the sights that can be seen in the local skies that week. Call 491-1497.

The only other drawback, Walsh says, is that they have to limit their programs, because of facility and staffing limitations.

"The auditorium will only hold about 200 people," she explains — and there are not enough staffers to run more than the 12 monthly events.

So, admission to the free monthly programs is on a first-come basis, Walsh says, with the doors opening at 7:30 for an 8 p.m. lecture.

"You wouldn't think you'd have to worry about getting in — but certain lectures, like the ones on Stonehenge and black holes, have been packed," she says.

And — as this is the year the elusive Halley's Comet reappears — Walsh suspects some of her upcoming programs will be very busy.

The scheduled programs for the next few months are:

★ June 20 — "Newton, Halley, and the Comet," Owen Gingerich, Center for Astrophysics.

★ July 18 — "Astrophysical Sources With Energy of 10 (to the 58th power) Mosquitoes," Daniel Harris, Center for Astrophysics.

★ Aug. 15 — "Explosions in the Sky," Janet Mattel, American Assn. of Variable Star Observers.

★ Sept. 19 — "The Return of Halley's Comet," Daniel Green, Center for Astrophysics.

★ Oct. 17 — "Strange Matter," George Field, Center for Astrophysics.

All programs are held in the Phillips Auditorium of the Harvard-Smithsonian Observatory/Center for Astrophysics, 60 Garden st.

There is limited parking off the Concord st. side of the Observatory.

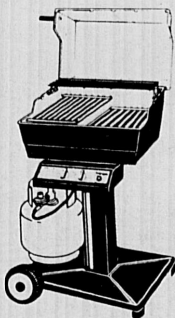

The center is also easily reached by public transit: take the Red Line to Harvard Square, and then any bus or trackless trolley going west on Concord ave. to Observatory Hill (about one mile west of the Square.)

For more information about the Observatory or its programs, contact Arlene Walsh at 495-7463.

This really might be the year to take up stargazing — Halley's Comet isn't due to return until 2061.

A Weekend Away Up, Up And Away

By Maura Mulcare

ALA Auto & Travel Club

New England will offer plenty of activities the weekend of June 21-23. A balloon festival, an annual crafts fair, a city festival, an antique and classic car show and a carriage rally number in the attractions, recommended by the ALA Auto & Travel Club.

Quechee, Vt., will host its 6th Annual Balloon Festival and Crafts Fair, June 21-23.

All three days, 12 giant hot air balloons will ascend, making the event a ballooning marvel! Balloon rides with and without tethers will be available.

On Saturday and Sunday will be a juried crafts fair, featuring 40 New England artisans.

Other attractions will include sky diving exhibitions, folk music, a 17-piece jazz band, a 22-piece chorus, fiddlers, guitar players, a lumberjack show, volleyball tournament and a frisbee contest.

Breakfast on the Village Green will be available on Saturday and Sunday at 6 a.m., and on Saturday evening from 6 to 9 p.m., an old fashioned barbeque will be held. Hours are Friday, 3 - 6 p.m.; Saturday, 6 a.m. - 9 p.m.; Sunday, 6 a.m. - 5 p.m. Admission is $1 adults; free children under 12. Call (802) 295-7900.

Crafty

The 20th Annual Craftfair by the American Craft Council will be at the Eastern States Exposition Center, West Springfield, Mass., June 21-23.

This professional craft fair is one of the country's most prestigious. Each of the 600 artists represented has been jury selected from thousands of applicants.

Among the variety of mediums exhibited will be ceramics, wood, glass, leather, fiber, metal, gold, silver and paper.

Hours are 11 a.m. - 7 p.m. daily. Admission is $5 adults; free children under 12.

Port Pageantry

The rejuvenated Old Port District in Portland, Maine, will present its 12th Annual Old Port Festival on June 22.

Festivities get underway at 11:30 a.m. with a dedication followed by a lively procession down Exchange Street to Moulton Street, and then onto Commercial Street. Throughout the afternoon, the Old Port District will hum with six square blocks of bands, skate board demonstrations, face painting, picture taking, puppet shows and story telling.

Admission is free. Hours are 11:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Call (207) 772-6828.

Classic Act

The 20th Annual Antique and Classic Car Show will be at the Rocky Hill Fairgrounds in East Greenwich, R.I., June 23.

Over 200 antique, vintage, classic, special interest and milestone category vehicles will be on display from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Admission is a donation. All proceeds to benefit the Rhode Island Special Olympics. Call (401) 738-1786.

Carriage Away

An antique and horse-drawn carriage rally will be held in New Preston, Conn., at the Inn on Lake Waramaug, June 23.

Dozens of entrants will compete in a variety of categories.

Spectators will view antique wagons, carts and carriages all pulled by horses and ponies.

Admission is free. Hours are 14 p.m. Call (203) 868-0563.

What Now?

will attend the 21st annual Barry's Corner reunion with Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Jr. as a member and host, V.F.W. Hall, 2103 Mass. ave. For more information call 646-2000.

Folk Concert

Cambridge — June 14. Alejandro Rivera and Alan Del Castillo with Cynthia Price at First Congregational Church, 11 Garden st. 8 p.m. $6 advance, $8 at door. For more information call 876-4169.

Y.A.A. Eastern States International

West Springfield — June 14-16. All Appaloosa horse show; youth activities, amateur classes, halter and performance classes, 7:30 a.m. - on. Eastern States Exposition, 1305 Memorial ave. For more information call 839-3322.

What's Free Gardening Tip Sheets

By Judith Harlan

Is gardening your passion? Are you eagerly inspecting all the trees in your path for spring buds? If you answer is yes, then here are some offers that you'll find are custom-ordered for you — seeds and gardening know-how to make the world around you burst forth in splendor this year.

Gardening Tips

Planning a vegetable garden? Looking for some bright flowers to brighten your landscape? Or some unusual ways of planting that will make ordinary blossoms seem rare?

Ideas and information are all here in this three-part offer. Gardening for Flowers is a packet of tips on flowering annuals, annuals that thrive in the shade, flowers that love patios and balconies, hanging baskets, geraniums and container gardening ideas, and suggestions for plants that grow together in theme gardens.

The second packet of tip sheets, Gardening For Food, contains information on vegetable gardening, garden planning, growing tomatoes, strawberries, herbs and peppers, plus a flyer especially for the beginning gardener.

Part three of this offer is a group of four full-color flyers on interesting and unusual flower-growing arrangements — a tier of three blossoming pots for a pyramid of flowers, a tower of clay drainage tiles, flowers in a bag and flowers on a fence post.

Directions: Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for each part requested.

Ask for: Four Color Tip Sheets, Gardening for Food and/or Gardening for Flowers.

Mail to: Bedding Plants Inc., 210 Cartwright Blvd., Department FB, Massapequa Park, NY 11762.

Drying Flowers and Fruits

Once you've grown your flowers and vegetables, what are you going to do with them — the surplus, that is? Dry them, of course.

And here's a freebie from Freebies Magazine that tells you how. It also includes instructions on making your own potpourris and sachets.

Directions: Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ask For: Dried Fruits and Flowers.

Mail To: Freebies Magazine, P.O. Box 20283-CP, Santa Barbara, CA 93120.

Vegetable Seeds

If you're a vegetable gardener, here's an offer to tickle the tendrils of your heart — a vegetable seed packet from a seed co-op.

The seeds are pure, open-pollinated varieties. They are not hybrids, and this means you can become seed self-reliant with the plants you begin. (Hybrids produce either sterile seeds or varying types of offspring; open-pollinated seeds produce a line of identical plants.)

Three packets of seeds will be chosen by the supplier of this offer. But all seed packets contain a standard content. Mine was a packet of about 250 cabbage seeds.

Along with your seeds you will receive a catalog listing other seeds and gardening guides offered by this farm.

Directions: Send 50 cents.

postage and handling.

Ask For: One packet vegetable seeds and catalog.

Mail To: Butterbrooke Farm Seed Division, 78 Berry Road, Oxford, CT 06483.

Activity Leaflet

A famous naturalist was asked how he had spent his vacation.

He replied, "I was traveling. I got halfway across my yard."

The naturalist had discovered what fun it is to explore the world around him.

And that's what Doing is Fun, as activity pamphlet, is all about. Whether you live in the city or the suburbs, whether you get the urge to explore in the winter, spring, summer or fall, there are activities here for you.

Most of the things would be fun to do with a young member of the family or kids in your neighborhood. And along with Doing is Fun, you'll receive a leaflet entitled How to Grow a Garden — some helpful advice on successful gardening.

Direction: Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ask For: Leaflets: How to Grow A Garden and Doing is Fun.

Mail To: Conservation Committee, The Garden Club of America, 598 Madison Ave., New York, NY 10022.

"Freebies" is compiled by Freebies Magazine, a national publication that features free (or postage and handling only) offers you can request through the mail. To receive information about FREEBIES, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Freebies Magazine, P.O. Box 20283-CP, Santa Barbara, CA 93120.

What's For Seniors Dry Eyes? Try Vitamin A

By John T. Watts

Dear John: I have a suggestion for Mrs. Pete who suffers from dry eye syndrome, as I do.

I remembered that vitamin A is for eyes so I purchased vitamin A (10,000 milligrams) and take my daily vitamin A. This might be just what Mrs. Pete needs. — Reader.

Dear Reader: Sounds logical. Hope she sees it.

Dear John: I just read your article in the Lodi News Sentinel and it seemed to describe exactly the trouble I am having. I take Motrin now and am active but still have muscles that sometimes lose all feeling — my leg just goes limp and gives away.

I would like for you to send me the article you wrote on arthritis and leg cramps. Would your Certo and honey and vinegar help? — Ruth P.

Dear Ruth: I've had no evidence of that. The accepted treatment is quinine. However, I got a letter today from a woman who swore that she just pinched her upper lip for a short time and the cramps went away.

Dear John: The person who complained of itching all over can stop it quickly, I believe — and for good. Take a raw onion, cut off the end and rub the body with it. If this doesn't work I sure would like to know, as I have never seen it fail.

Raw onions are also good for snakebites. Crush the onion and put it right on the bite.

I am part Cherokee Indian. If this fails to help the party that has the itching, please let me know. — S.J.S.

Letters may be sent to Mainly for Seniors, P.O. Box 1744, Hemet, CA 92343. Volume of mail prohibits individual replies.

Our Children Blowing Off Steam

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. With all the stuff that hits the press about physical and sexual child abuse, I wonder when we're going to become more aware of the more frequent kind of abuse that hits so many of our families.

A. All you have to do is walk through some of our supermarkets and you'll see what I'm getting at. Specifically, hang around the breakfast cereal, cookie and candy sections, and you'll be aware of the terrible nutritional child abuse that's going on.

Little kids in carts and others underfoot grab the packages of sugar-coated cereal off the shelves, and parents don't put them back. Even worse, the parents themselves often select ones that may contribute to tooth decay and general health problems. With so much written these days about diet and nutrition, you'd think more of them would know better.

Thanks for letting me blow off steam. This is a real pet peeve of mine.

A. I agree. One of the major tasks of parenthood is being a good model for our children. Another is to provide guidance for them in matters such as health and safety.

Sensible food selection fits in to both of these factors.

Q. My problem is related to my teenage daughter who always has been a good girl. She has done well with her schoolwork, has nice friends and never has been in any trouble — until now.

She is pregnant. Fortunately, she shared her situation with me early in the pregnancy so that there is at least a possibility that I can provide some guidance for her.

Her choices are obvious and we have talked about all of them, including abortion, adoption and keeping the baby. Marriage is out of the question because she is only 16 and so is the boy with whom she's involved. (Both of them are in high school.)

So what to do? I believe strongly that the decision has to be hers because she will have to live with it, and it would be terrible for her later on to blame someone else for the action she takes now.

Incidentally, she hasn't yet discussed this problem with her father, although both parents of the boy are fully aware of it.

A. First, you ought to feel good about a few things, like a relationship with your daughter that encourages her to be so open with you, and the fact that she didn't delay her sharing with you.

You didn't indicate why her father isn't in on the situation, so the wisdom of the family's involvement (both parents, but not necessarily other children if there are any) might be given full consideration.

It isn't wise for a stranger unacquainted with all of you even to comment on the alternatives available to you. (I can just imagine the letters I'd receive if I came out strongly in print either for or against abortion, for example.)

However, it could be helpful to discuss the pros and cons of your daughter's options with selected people who knew her, you and her father. You might consider your priest or rabbi, a professional family counselor, Planned Parenthood personnel and qualified staff members in other community agencies.

After all the facts and opinions are gathered, it's to be hoped that a suitable decision can be made, one that is appropriate for your daughter's present and future. You seem to be understanding of the reference Thomas Gordon makes in his writing to "ownership of the problem," a necessary factor in your family's approach to this matter.

It's out of family happenings like this that its members often become even stronger, within themselves as well as in their relationships with each other.

Are you the parent of a preschool child, 2 to 5 year old? Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, plus your request for information about a monthly service that may help, to Dr. Abraham, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

Letters may be sent to Our Children, Dr. Abraham, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.

The Swap Shop closes for the summer on Friday, June 14.

Midnight to 2 a.m.	Tenth sign following
2 to 4 a.m.	Eleventh sign following

ARIES (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Slow down, get organized and don't scatter your energies. Curb your temper, consider the source and don't retaliate if under attack. Check out the details of a project before proceeding — you could find significant errors.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Your judgment is good, especially about money matters. Rewards for past efforts could come in now and you have powerful allies. Responsibilities may be heavy but they're temporary. A loyal person from the past reappears.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — A delay or block is a blessing in disguise — be patient! Your popularity soars, your personality shines and a relationship becomes more solid. New support could break a stalemate and you move closer to your goals.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — A relationship could be at a turning point — be ready to move in new directions. In another area your confidence and assertion make a favorable impression on those in authority. Dress well and look your very best.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Use diplomacy to dissipate the recent opposition to your plans. If you're given secret information, be sure to keep it to yourself and get good advice from someone older or wiser than you. Restrictions are removed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — A career decision you're making now is very important, so give it careful clearheaded thought. Your ideas and ambitions will be well received by superiors. Fight for what you believe in and your dreams can come true.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Heavy pressure will only make you work better, so stick with it and you'll be incredibly productive. You have an important ally and your goals are within reach — go for it! You're making lasting impressions on others now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — A strong attraction may be only physical, so on that basis do you want to pursue it? Pay attention to detail at work to avoid error and don't get too many irons in the fire. Money may be in short supply now but it's temporary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Try to stay out of other people's disputes, but give a fair opinion if asked. If you handle it carefully a potential loss can be turned into profit now. Re-establish a friendship that has become rather distant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Follow through on promises you've made and maintain your reputation for reliability. Reach out in friendship and you can win over someone who has opposed you. A mate or partner may need your affection now.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Avoid impulsively giving your opinion now — give the matter careful consideration. Get to work on a chore you've procrastinated about and finish up projects in progress. Be considerate and loving with family members.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Take care of domestic and family chores yourself — don't delegate them to someone else. Don't deceive yourself about romance, you may only be in love with love! Host a beautiful and creative entertainment at home instead.

What Else

Nature Walks

Arnold Arboretum — This 265-acre botanical garden in Jamaica Plain designed by Frederick Law Olmstead has 7,000 kinds of trees and shrubs. More than 400 kinds of lilacs bloom mid-May. At the intersection of Route 203 and Route 1 in Jamaica Plain; admission free; open daily from sunrise to sunset. Handicapped people may arrange to drive through the park. For more information, call 524-1717.

Olmstead Homestead — The Frederick Law Olmstead National Historic Park, at 99 Warren st. in Brookline (just off Route 9), is the home of the famous landscape architect who designed Boston's "Emerald Necklace" of parks. Tours of the home and the grounds of the estate are offered Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, 12-4:30. Group tours arranged. Admission is free. The staff also offers guided walking tours of sections of the "Emerald Necklace" on Sunday afternoons. Call 566-1689 for more information.

Garden In The Woods — This 45-acre preserve in Framingham, owned by the New England Wildflowers Society, offers wildflowers growing in their natural habitat. Open Tuesday-Sunday from 9-4 through Oct. 31. Admission $3.50; seniors and children, $2.50. Call 877-7630 for information or directions.

Walden Pond — Walden Pond State Reservation (Routes 2 and 126 in Concord) surrounds the kettle pond that Henry David Thoreau surveyed, swam in, lived beside and wrote about. "Thoreau Rambles" — one-hour hikes, with readings from his writings — are conducted at 1:30 p.m. Sundays.

Middlesex Fells — Trails marked by wooden posts (and detailed on small brochures available at Henderson's Stations in Winchester) will lead you through the Fells — and through meadow, forest, marsh and pond shore, past trillium, jacks-in-the-pulpit and other wildflowers. Park at the old Girl Scout cabin lot on South Border rd. to pick up the Long Pond trail.

Winchester Town Forest — Park at North Gateway rd. if you're touring the Brooks-Parkhurst Town Forest, 28 acres of grand old hemlocks and oaks, lady's slippers and other flowers, with a section of wetland swamp, and several huge granite hunks, remnants of the 18th century Middlesex Canal.

Smith Pond — Winchester's Smith Pond is a conservation sanctuary where walkers can see cattails, low-bush blueberries, sumac, ferns, sassafras trees and many birds. Enter from Ridge st., near the Arlington line.

Menotomy Rocks Park — Arlington's Menotomy Rocks Park on Jason st. offers the standard swings, seesaw, and playing fields, and a one-mile "Vita course," a jog/exercise trail through the woods. No charge for the workout or the scenery; the park closes at dusk.

The Great Meadow — The Great Meadow, 183 acres of wetlands, grassy meadows and woods, walkers a variety of wildflowers, bushes, trees, muskrats, frogs, turtles, foxes and birds.

It belongs to Arlington, but is actually in Lexington. Fottler ave. and Maple st. in Lexington border the meadow. Entrance to the Great Meadow is easiest by taking Route 2A to Lexington Christian Academy, and walking in through their parking lot and soccer field, or by taking Mass. ave. to the Waldo School — also in Lexington — and walking through their parking lot.

The Habitat — Belmont's most beautiful walk. The Habitat, on Juniper rd., is also private, and open to members only, although non-members can take workshops and courses. Memberships cost $12 for individuals, $18 for families.

Hammond Pond Woods — On either side of Hammond Pond Parkway in Chestnut Hill, it offers 64 acres of hills, several miles of gently rolling paths, and a deer park for wildlife observation. Open dawn to dusk; free. Enter through the Chestnut Hill Mall's lower parking lot; for a map, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Newton Conservators, Box 11, Newton 02159.

Broadmoor Sanctuary — The Audubon Society's Broadmoor Sanctuary, just under two miles west of Natick center on Route 16, has nine miles of trails through wetlands, woods and fields. Open dawn to dusk, Tuesday through Saturday. Donation, 50 cents. For information, call 655-2296.

Boston By Foot 77 North Washington st., Boston. Telephone 367-2345. Guided tours from May 1. The Heart of the Freedom Trail: Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays at 10 a.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Meet at statue of Samuel Adams, Congress st. near Faneuil Hall. Beacon Hill: Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays at 10 a.m., Wednesdays and Fridays at 5:30 p.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Meet at foot of State House steps, Beacon st. Copley Square in Back Bay: Wednesdays at 12 noon, Saturdays at 2 p.m. Meet on steps of Trinity Church, Copley Square. The North End: Saturdays at 2 p.m. Meet at statue of Samuel Adams, Congress st. near Faneuil Hall. Tours last ninety minutes and cost $4. Rain or shine, reservations not required.

Sailing/Boats

Community Boating, Inc.

Boston's best-known learn-to-sail program, located on Storrow Drive along the Charles River, will accept new members from June 24th to August 30th. For only $1, 11 to 17 year old kids can learn to sail on the Charles River and sail on weekdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The only requirements are written permission from a parent or guardian an ability to swim 75 yards. Sign-up for the program begins June 25th at 9 a.m., and continues every weekday for the rest of the summer. The boathouse offers instruction for beginners, recreational sailing, racing, advanced instruction for experienced sailors and a variety of other activities.

Coastal Sailing School
Bert Williams, a Coast Guard-licensed captain, teaches "a cruising kind of sailing for adults" on 26-foot sloops off Marblehead.

Taught on-board ship, his 20-hour courses ($225) can be done in one five-day week, two-and-a-half weekends, or over five weeks.

Williams also rents the large boats by the day or half-day — call for rates and further information: 639-0553.

Boston Sailing Center

Behind The Winery on Lewis Wharf in Boston, this private center offers courses from beginners' "Learn to Sail" ($255) — including a 35-day membership — to ocean cruising, and 20 percent discounts when more than one person signs up at once.

Open now through November, every day, 9 a.m. till sunset — and memberships run a full year. For more information, call 227-4198.

Charles River Canoe Service
For those who prefer a peaceful paddle down the river, this private organization offers instructions and canoe rentals from their base on Route 30 in Newton. Canoe rentals are $5 an hour weekends, holidays, $4 weekdays; discounts for group rentals.

Hours: 10 to 6 now, noon to dusk (around 8) in summer. For more information, call 965-5110.

Europa Windsurfing
Europa Windsurfing, in Porter Square on Upland rd., offers lessons in handling the tricky boards, at Upper Mystic Lake in Winchester, beginning May 1. ($24 for a two-hour lesson.)

Sail boards — and wet suits, for protection against the still-chilly wind and water — can be rented now (off-season) for $10 a day each. In season, a day's board rental is $24 — and reservations are a must. For more information, call 497-0309.

Ties Can Match Dad's Image

By CAROLE JACKSON

Your tie can make or break your image. When chosen wisely it brings color to your face, style and class to your dress, and individuality to your business "uniform."

Yet many men shop for a tie as if it were to be worn by their shirt and suit alone. They bring the suit and shirt to the counter and start trying the ties on the items of clothing, not thinking to try each tie on themselves.

I have often demonstrated to my clients how much impact — or how little — a tie has by having them "try it on." The better men's stores where I live are quite used to seeing men holding shirts and ties under their faces in front of a mirror.

Naturally a tie must look good with your suit and shirt, but never at the expense of your face or personality. If possible, buy the suit first, then the tie, and then choose a shirt to match both.

There are eight basic types of patterns: Solid, Rep (Striped), Foulard (Ivy League), Club, Plaid, Geometric, Dots, Paisley.

• Solid: Solids go well with solid suits, patterned jackets, and all shirts. They are versatile, and can be either bold or conservative. Dark silk solid ties have a quiet elegance, while casual wools and knits bring either subtle or bright color to your wardrobe without being busy or loud.

Some solids have a same-color pattern — a red-on-red stripe, for example. These are considered solids as long as they are subtle. Silk solids have a sheen, which adds richness to the tie, but stay away from very shiny or brocade versions.

• Rep (striped): Striped ties are based on the old regimental patterns. These days any diagonal stripe is called a "rep." This is the classic American business tie. The stripes may be quite thin, of varying widths, or even wide.

Your selection will depend on your body proportions and personality. With clear-colored suits, keep the stripes crisp; with suits in muted tones, the stripes should be softer.

• Club: The club tie can be sporty or

The Four-in-Hand

The Half Windsor

The Windsor

conservative. It has a regular pattern of "club-like" motifs — such as heraldic shields, sporting insignia, or animals — against a solid background. The pattern should be small, subtle, and not instantly recognizable. A tie with big, bold figures on it is not a club tie — and it is generally considered tacky.

• Plaid: Plaid ties are usually considered casual. In heavy wool they are appropriate in the wintertime with tweeds and muted herringbone. They do not go with pinstriped suits or the sleeker worsteds.

They can go well with flannel suits, however and, when made of linen or cotton, plaid ties go with summer suits as well. Just remember to avoid garish or loud plaids at any time of year.

• Geometric: Geometric ties cover everything from the enlarged diamond pattern that is similar to an Ivy League tie, to criss-crossed or vertical striped patterns.

The large diamond shapes are more casual than the smaller versions, but either brings a pleasing angularity to your appearance — particularly useful for the large man.

• Dots: Dots range from polka-dots to pin-dots. Traditionally a very elegant tie, the polka dot is almost as versatile as a solid tie. Very small pin dots are even more formal, and are used for evening or with more elegant business suits for special occasions.

• Paisley: Paisley ties are useful because they combine so many colors that they can mix and match well. In stronger colors they are too sporty for a business look, but when the colors and fabric are restrained paisley ties are elegant and dressy.

How you wear the tie is as important as the tie itself. There are three standard knots: each one is suitable with different shirt collars and your overall body proportions. The tie knot should lie comfortably between your collar points with no gaps on either side and not pinching or crowding.

Both wide-faced and thin-faced men should avoid very thin or very wide knots, which accentuate any proportion problems by either repeating the line or offering too extreme a contrast.

• The Four-in-Hand: The four-in-hand is a longish knot and is proportioned for the button-down collar or the standard collar of average spread.

• The Half Windsor: The half windsor is more triangular, also proportioned for the standard collar.

• The Windsor: The windsor knot is wide and triangular and is specifically for European spread or any shirt collar with a wide spread.

What's Dad's Fashion Type?

According to one of the nation's top fashion authorities, men can be divided into three groups by their sportswear: The traditionalist, the curious and the adventuresome.

"The key to a man's best, most confident look," says Herb Goldsmith, head of design for the popular "Members Only" menswear, "lies in his determining which of these groups he belongs to. Today's leisure wear can reflect any of those three personalities and lifestyles."

"For this spring," according to Goldsmith, "the traditionalist is the man who will update his classic 'Members Only' racing jacket simply by selecting one of the new colors — perhaps brandy, honey or sky blue. He'll also appreciate the looser, even more comfortable fit of the spring styles."

Other features that will appeal to the traditionalist include side panels, contrast linings and reversible styles, reports the executive.

"The fashion-curious man, on the other hand, sees some of the fashion trends around him and wants to get into this new fashion picture," says Goldsmith.

For him, he notes, there are such sportswear treatments as scooped waistbands, pouch pockets and the asymmetrical closures on several of the new "Members Only" styles.

"You can identify the adventurous man," says Goldsmith, "by his determination to represent the high-fashion look. He'll select the new jackets with color-blocking in 'industrial' shades like petrol, concrete and steel.

"This avant-garde wearer will also seek fabric-blocking and the washed look in such materials as canvas and combed cotton. He'll also be on the lookout for styling touches like belted bottoms and zip-out sleeves."

No matter which of today's three fashion personalities a man represents, says this authority, this spring offers him a wider sportswear selection than ever before.

Cheery Coolers Brighten Dad's Day

The wine cooler is the "hot" summer drink choice among diet and fitness-conscious people this year. Wine coolers are lighter than Bloody Marys and they have fewer calories than Daiquiris and Margaritas. Schweppes Summer Coolers are much more fun than either a glass of white wine or club soda with lime by themselves.

Keep cool

Schweppes invented the wine cooler in 1798 when they suggested that people mix wine and citrus with their sparkling "aerated" waters. Here are some delicious new Schweppes Summer Coolers to keep you and your friends cool and refreshed all summer long.

CHABLIS TONIC

Schweppes invented Tonic Water in the 1850s to satisfy the demands of British military officers returning from duty in India where they mixed their medicinal quinine pills with citrus and water to dilute the bitter taste. Today, the dry tartness of the Tonic Water blends with the soft fruitiness of the wine in a curiously refreshing way.

- 2 oz. dry white wine like chablis or soave
- 4 oz. Schweppes Tonic Water or Diet Tonic Water
- Lemon twist for garnish

Fill a tall wine glass with cracked ice. Pour the white wine over the ice. Add the Tonic or Diet Tonic Water. Place the lemon twist on the rim of the glass and serve.

ROUGE COOLER

Summertime is usually an off-season for red wine drinkers who tend to eschew wine other than their beloved robust red. But this sultry season Schweppes has come to the rescue with a red wine drink that is dry and full of flavor.

- 2 oz. dry red wine like Burgundy
- 4 oz. Schweppes Ginger Ale or Diet Ginger Ale
- A dash of Angostura Bitters

Fill a tulip-shaped wine glass with cracked ice. Add the dash of Angostura Bitters to the ice. Pour in the red wine and stir slightly. Add the Ginger Ale or Diet Ginger Ale.

GINGER COOLER

Ginger Ale fans who have opted for its distinctively dry flavor will be cheered to taste the Ginger Cooler. The bright clean tang of the Ginger Ale, blended with the flinty earthiness of the wine, is deliciously accented by the sweet orange slice.

- 2 oz. white wine like California or Italian Chardonnay
- 4 oz. Schweppes Ginger Ale or Diet Ginger Ale
- An orange slice for garnish

Fill a tall glass with ice. Pour in the white wine. Add the Schweppes Ginger Ale or Diet Ginger Ale and garnish with an orange slice.

SCHWEPES SPRITZER

Schweppes is the original sparkling water company because they began bottling and selling seltzer and "aerated" waters in Europe over 200 years ago. Schweppes Seltzer and Club Soda are packed with those "tiny little bubbles" that add Schweppesness to the traditional spritzer.

- 2 oz. dry white wine like Sauvignon Blanc or Muscadet
- 1/2 oz. Galliano
- 4 oz. Schweppes Seltzer or Club Soda
- A tiny cluster of white seedless grapes

Fill a tall glass with cracked ice. Add the white wine and Galliano and stir slightly. Pour in the Schweppes Seltzer or Club Soda. Garnish the rim of the glass with the grape cluster and enjoy.

BRUT DE POMME

The most popular drink on the Paris café scene this year is Brut de Pomme, a sparkling French apple cider. Open your own café at home and serve this drink to your friends who love that wholesome apple flavor.

- 2 oz. dry white wine like chablis or vin ordinaire blanc

- 2 oz. Mott's natural apple cider or apple juice
- 3 oz. Schweppes Seltzer or Club Soda

A thin fresh apple slice

Thoroughly chill all the ingredients beforehand. In a tall, thin wine glass or whisky glass, blend the Mott's apple cider or juice and the white wine. Pour in the Schweppes Seltzer or Club Soda and garnish the rim of the glass with the fresh apple slice.

Grooming Checklist For Today's New Men

The new man of today wants and seeks a total groomed look, but doesn't generally know what to do. While this is a year-round pursuit, it is particularly evident as summer approaches and good grooming habits are brought into focus.

To assist the American male in his search for the right image, the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association have developed a total grooming checklist for men.

The list starts with muscle toning recommendations and hair care hints, ending with a suggestion that a pedicure will get the new man "off on the right foot."

With special attention on hair, the 52,000 member association has created a male hair design, dubbed the Neon Cut, to coordinate with the latest male fashions.

The male Neon Cut is designed for adaptability to different facial features.

Its overall length varies from approximately one and one-half inches to two and one-half inches, with the options of extended length at the nape or at the front of the head.

The cut was created to help today's male make easy transitions from daytime to fun time and to special evenings, says Jack Duckworth, HairAmerica Chairman.

Mousses, sprays, gels and fixatives are as important to the male in making styling changes as they are to the female, Duckworth said.

The HairAmerica fashion group of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association offers the following total grooming checklist to today's new man:

- Do at least five minutes of stretch exercising daily (twice daily if possible).
- Use of weights helps to improve muscle tone.

- Use professionally recommended shampoo and daily conditioner for your hair type. Once every two weeks, use a special penetrating conditioner to keep hair shiny and healthy. For a well-groomed look, get hair cut at least every three weeks, according to the HairAmerica Fashion Group of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

- Keep eyebrows slightly trimmed. Remove hairs between eyebrows to prevent the one eyebrow look. (Also remove excess ear and nasal hair.)

- An array of bronzers is available to add healthy color to your appearance.

- Fashionable sideburn length ends at the top arc of the ear. For large ears, sideburns should have more length.

- To clean the face, use liquid facial soap or complexion bars with water. Try a professional facial at least once a month.

- Shave after showering when skin and beard are best prepared for a close shave. Then, use a skin moisturizer, sometimes called skin conditioners or day creams.

- Use deodorant daily together with the right cologne for the occasion.

Need a mortgage?

Alexandra Holton
Mortgage
Representative

Alex can help.

Applications and paperwork don't help people get loans. People help people get them. And that's why Alex is a good person to know.

Getting a mortgage can be a complicated procedure. You need someone who knows the ins and outs of mortgage lending. A person who can guide you through the process with the attention and concern of someone who genuinely cares about other people. Someone who will do his or her best to help you get the money you need at the best possible rate. And Alex is just that kind of person — she's an expert in real estate and the best ways to finance the purchase of it.

So if you need a mortgage, you know who to call.

Helpful tips for your garage sale.

1. With the time and effort involved in planning and running a garage sale, it's important to make the most of it. Here are some helpful hints to make your sale a success.

2. Plan your sale carefully. Choose a date and time that will give you the best chance of success. Consider the weather, the time of day, and the location of your sale.

3. Make a list of the items you are selling. This will help you to organize your sale and to make sure you have everything you need.

4. Price your items carefully. Make sure you are getting a fair price for your items, but also make sure you are leaving yourself a profit.

5. Make sure you have enough help. Ask friends and family to help you with the sale. This will make the job easier and more fun.

6. Make sure you have enough parking space. If you don't have enough parking space, you may have to turn away some customers.

7. Make sure you have enough signs. Put up signs in the neighborhood to let people know about your sale.

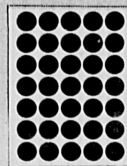

8. Make sure you have enough cash. Have enough cash on hand to make change for your customers.

9. Make sure you have enough to eat and drink. You and your helpers will need to eat and drink during the sale.

10. Make sure you have enough to clean up. Have some bags or boxes ready to take away the items you are selling.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 38 cal. rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York - but more are from eastern Massachusetts. ### Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit - alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts - is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department.

Balloon Beauty

Jane Rogers, 3, of Chestnut st. tagged along to the Lincoln School balloon launch last week, a contest to see which balloon could travel the farthest. But long after the other balloons had become specks on the horizon, little Jane hangs on to her buoyant friend. (Photo by Nancy Pick)

Local Cocaine Case May Go To Grand Jury

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

Crescent rd. resident John DeVito may face a grand jury indictment on drug trafficking and other charges "in the near future," according to assistant District Attorney Kevin O'Malley.

O'Malley said he could not specify what other charges he would present to the grand jury because of the secret nature of grand jury proceedings. But, he said, he expects to be before the grand jury in Cambridge Superior Court soon, probably before July 10, the date of DeVito's next appearance in Woburn District Court.

DeVito appeared Tuesday in a Woburn District Court hearing with attorney Alan Chapman of Chelsea on charges filed by O'Malley and Winchester police.

The District Court charges stem from DeVito's June 6 arrest in Marlboro for allegedly selling drugs to an undercover agent, and the subsequent search by Winchester police, armed with a search warrant, of his Crescent rd. home.

Officials from the Worcester Regional Drug Task Force accuse DeVito and suspect Tim Marie Wing of Marlboro with selling eight ounces of cocaine to undercover drug agents.

Task force officials notified Winchester Police of the arrest, who then secured DeVito's home and obtained a search warrant.

Police said that after an extensive search of the home, they seized 13.2 ounces of cocaine, more than $15,000 in cash, videotape equipment and drug paraphernalia.

In addition, police confiscated a Marlin 30-30 rifle, three Ninja knives, a wireless listening device, videotape equipment, and some handgun ammunition.

Report Cites Asbestos Leaks

By NANCY PICK

Despite a frightening contractor's report describing asbestos in Winchester schools, local officials say any cancer-causing fibers are safely sealed in.

The report says $28,000 in asbestos removal should be done "in order to protect students, faculty, etc., and also to protect the school from possible future [law] suits."

"In some areas pipes are continually being hit," reads the letter. "Each time something smacks the open asbestos wound, minute dust particles are released into the air."

The letter was drafted April 25 by G. S. Maloney Jr., president of G. S. Maloney Co. Inc. of Brookline, an asbestos treatment contracting firm listed by the EPA.

The language in that report is strong and can easily be misinterpreted," said Supt. Charles Mitsakos. "I don't want to alarm people unnecessarily."

"I think the problem is being overstated," said Director of Public Works Dominic Serratore. "I don't think any of the items are serious." Serratore ordered the study done, at a cost of about $800, as a long-range budget guide.

Said Serratore, "I'm not trying to pussyfoot around the problem. [But the contractor] is looking for work. That company's in the [asbestos] removal business too."

Charles Ford, an engineer for Maloney, said the asbestos in Winchester schools appeared to be well contained. Ford spent two days in inspecting classrooms and creeping through basement crawl spaces to prepare the contractor's report.

"Right now, outside of [two] little places, I don't think there's any great hazard," said Ford. He said Winchester's asbestos is in "pretty good condition."

Ford said one spot needing repairs is in the music room at Lincoln School. The other bad spot was in the McCall Junior High School boiler room.

DPW Director Serratore said work is already under way to fix the frayed asbestos.

Said Ford, "In general they've done a very good job of keeping up [the asbestos], it's just that it's there," he said.

Asbestos is "one of only 26 chemicals that have been unquestionably proven to cause cancer in humans," said Paul Heffernan, regional asbestos coordinator for the Environmental Protection Agency.

"Wherever there's asbestos, there's always a potential [health risk] if it's damaged," said Heffernan.

Ford also identified busy school areas, such as classrooms and hallways, where asbestos is present. Although he said no immediate action is required, he said those busy areas take top priority for eventual asbestos removal.

To remove that asbestos would cost an estimated $27,799, the report said.

Mitsakos said the contractor's report had been explained to School Committee members and would be distributed to them this week.

However, it appeared not all com-

Phase II Renovation Work Begins

By JILL M. HIGGINS

For the second time in as many years, Winchester center is being dug up for renovations.

Phase II of the downtown renovations began early Monday morning, as men and machines lined town common, where new brick sidewalks will be installed.

Last year the sidewalks on Church st. near the common were resurfaced with blacktop. After receiving roughly $900,000 in grant money, the town is replacing the blacktop sidewalks with brick-faced walkways.

The job is part of a major renovation project including work on downtown crosswalks and construction of a scenic overlook at the Abington River.

Local officials gathered at the project's cornerstone Monday as construction began. Meanwhile, Economic Development Coordinator John Connelly predicts the work may not be completed by the anticipated fall deadline.

"The contractor is having trouble getting the granite," said Connelly on Tuesday. "The kicker is that we're already into mid-June and the project was scheduled to be finished by the fall."

Connelly said a building boom nationwide has caused a shortage of some materials, including granite.

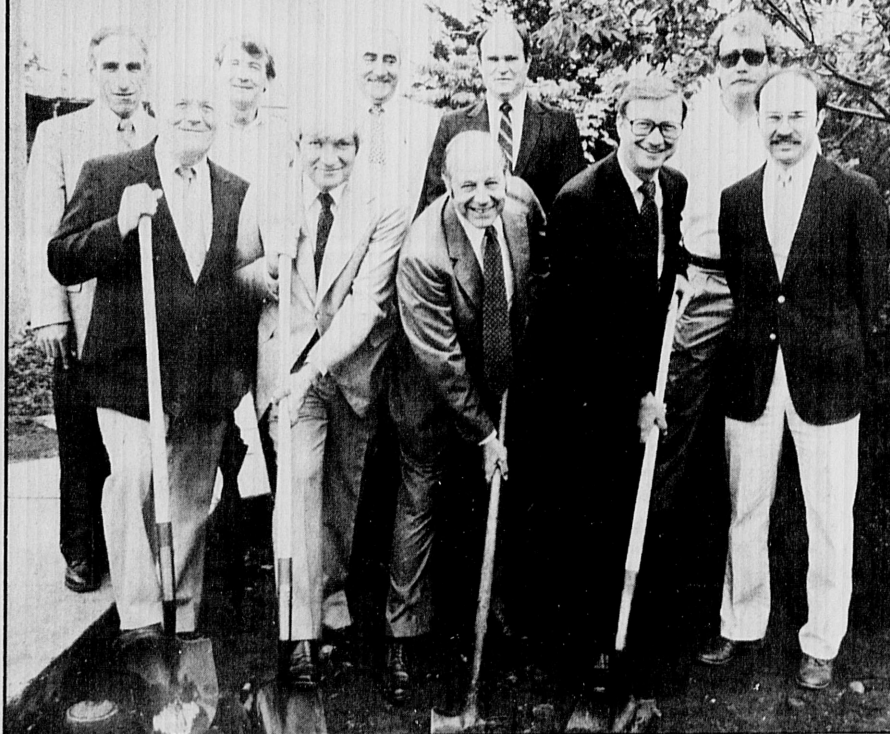

"If we were in Washington or someplace where they don't need granite curbs, we'd be all set. But we need granite curbs here, because snowplows bump into them. And granite is back-ordered for months in this area."

Connelly said the job would be finished in the spring if the contractors, Fleming Bros. of Braintree, can't complete the job by the mid-November deadline.

On June 10, the state awarded Winchester $169,000 to fully restore downtown renovation plans after bids came in higher than the town could afford.

Originally, the town received $740,000 in state renovation money for center improvements including the

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester resident Sam Rotondi says he will notify the Conservation Commission this week of his plans to file a legal notice on his proposed 70-unit housing complex.

Rotondi, who proposes apartments on about 4.5 acres of Rotondi land off Forest st., has received vocal opposition from several neighbors.

Some have complained about possible traffic backups, while others have charged there will not be enough parking for prospective tenants.

Last week, the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency did not include the $4.4 million project in its current round of funding.

However, Rotondi said he did not expect to get funding in this round. He said he had planned to meet with various town boards before securing MHFA funding in the fall.

"At the April 18 meeting with Selectmen, I said I was not rushing this thing. I fully expected to forego this round of MHFA funding," he said.

On June 5, the Conservation Commission ruled that water which runs through the property signifies that the site comes under the jurisdiction of the state Wetlands Protection Act.

"We think it is a stream," said Commission Chairman Maggie Howard on Monday. "And in that case, it comes under our jurisdiction, because we enforce the Wetlands Protection Act. That's our job."

Howard said that while the board's vote "was final," it did not necessarily kill the proposal. Instead, she said, it means the board will ensure the area will be properly protected.

According to the Wetlands Act, any removing, filling, dredging or altering of the area requires filing a notice of intent.

Rotondi Tuesday said he will inform the board of plans to file a notice of intent with them. According to law, Rotondi must notify the board of his plans within 10 business days after receiving a wetlands ruling.

Rotondi said he has waited to file the notice until he can provide the board with details about traffic and other issues.

He said he will provide information on pipes which carry the water before the property, noting that if putting pipes was acceptable further up it should also be acceptable at his site.

"It's encouraging that the Conservation people are looking to work with us," said Rotondi. "I don't see their ruling as negative at all. I'm glad they have taken an interest in this."

Rotondi said he would meet soon with the planning board to answer questions raised at a June 3 meeting. "I want to make sure I have all the information they want," regarding parking, traffic and the like," he said.

He said he would probably meet

The Winchester Star

POLICE LOG

Monday, June 17

• A Holton st. resident told police at 11:45 a.m. a lawnmower had been stolen. Tracks from the mower led across the home's lawn, onto the railroad tracks and out to Cross st., police said.

The lawnmower would cost $280 to replace, police estimated.

• At 12:30 a.m. police found a bucket filled with concrete and 12 feet of plastic pipe near the front door of Winchester High School.

Vandalism is suspected. Police said no damage was done to the school.

• A window was broken at Apex TV and Electronics on Washington st. Police said a 15-year-old youth told the owner he accidentally fell against the window.

• One tire was slashed on each of two cars belonging to a George rd. resident, police reported at 7:10 p.m. The resident said the vandalism took place sometime after 6 p.m.

• A Highland ave. boy admitted throwing an egg at the window of a Forest st. home, police reported at 4:30 p.m. The boy agreed to clean up the mess.

Sunday, June 16

• A rock was thrown through a bay window at a Lockland rd. home, police reported at 11:40 p.m.

A search of the area revealed a Hutchinson rd. man in Lockland Field. No charges were filed. Police said the investigation would continue.

• Two thefts were reported from Alden ln. cars sometime Saturday night.

One resident told police a tool box, jumper cables and battery charger were stolen. Total value of the goods was estimated at $675.

The other resident reported that four fishing rods, two tool boxes and tackle boxes, together worth an estimated $600, were stolen from a pickup parked on the street.

Saturday, June 15

• Four Winchester residents — two 17 and two 18 — were arrested at the South Reservoir on trespassing charges after police said they found them swimming in the town drinking water at 3 p.m.

Also, a 19-year-old Stoneham man was arrested on trespassing charges when police found him fishing.

• At 2:30 a.m., a Washington st. resident reported a woman screaming on the street. Police said the woman, a Somerville resident, was extremely upset following an argument with her boyfriend.

Police drove her to Winchester center, where a cab picked her up.

• The rear window of a car parked on Bruce rd. was smashed, police reported at 10 a.m. Nothing was reported missing from the car.

Friday, June 14

• Police forced open the door of a local home after Winchester Hospital told them a "Lifeline" medical emergency alarm had sounded.

The 91-year-old resident later returned home after being out with a neighbor, police reported. The alarm had been improperly set.

• Police reported a domestic disturbance at a Dunster ln. home at 10:30 p.m.

• A Pontiac Grand Prix stolen from a Cambridge st. parking lot was found in Roslindale, Winchester police reported at 7:20 p.m.

The car's owner, a Woburn man, was contacted.

• A bone which appeared to come from a human leg was found in the woods near Wildwood Cemetery, a Winchester man told police at 2 p.m. Police detectives said no other bones were found in the area and no foul play is suspected.

The site was formerly part of the cemetery, police said.

Thursday, June 13

• At 1:35 p.m. vandals lit a blaze on the hood of the car belonging to the Winchester High School Asst. Principal Thomas Budrewicz.

The fire, fueled with methyl alcohol, was extinguished by students in a nearby industrial arts class.

Damage was done to the car's hood, fender and grille, police reported.

• On Thursday morning police charged two youths with stealing a license plate and receiving stolen property, a pickup truck.

One youth, age 15, is from Woburn. The other is a 17-year-old who may have escaped from a Roslindale youth detention center, police said.

At 9:50 a.m., police questioned a youth in Calvary Cemetery after Lowell ave. workers told police he fit the description of a youth allegedly involved in a larceny case.

The youth gave police an alias, officers reported, preventing his identification as an alleged detention center escapee. He then agreed to go to the Lynch School police station for questioning about the stolen pickup truck.

As police drove him back to the Woburn line, the youth spotted the second suspect. Police then questioned the second suspect at Lynch station and released him to the custody of his parents. He received a court summons.

The detention center youth could not be found later Thursday. Police said Tuesday he was not being held, although he will also be summoned in court.

Drug Hotline To Aid Police

In a letter to the police chiefs in the 54 cities and towns in Middlesex County, District Attorney Scott Harshbarger announced the establishment of a toll-free hotline for the general public to call with any information they may have concerning narcotics.

The District Attorney urged citizens of Middlesex County to become involved with law enforcement efforts being made in this area and to call the hotline with any information concerning the use or distribution of narcotics.

The information received from the hotline will be disseminated to the police departments with jurisdiction over the illegal activity. The toll-free number is 1-800-445-4499.

In other measures to aid local narcotics enforcement efforts, Harshbarger has been addressing the problem of drug and alcohol abuse in the schools. Harshbarger said, "Education and prevention is a priority in dealing with this problem. To this end, I have been speaking to high school student bodies and have met twice with the superintendents of schools and high school principals.

"As a result of these meetings, we drafted and distributed a set of guidelines governing the investigation and prosecution of drug cases arising in the schools," added Harshbarger.

The State Police Narcotics Unit assigned to District Attorney Harshbarger's office is providing assistance to local police departments in investigations of drug related problems. One such joint investigation just completed in Lowell resulted in the arrest of 28 people and the seizure of 20 bags of heroin and 2 ounces of cocaine.

"Citizens should not live in fear of drug pushers and the threat they represent to their families, schools and neighborhoods. This cooperation between all law enforcement agencies is effective and essential in our ongoing commitment to ensure public safety," Harshbarger said.

Director: Report Will Be Done June 30

By NANCY PICK
Winchester's new Housing Authority Director Jeremiah Keefe says the town will meet a June 30 deadline to report on plans for subsidized housing.

The state expects to see progress towards a fair housing plan, said Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer. However, the state does not yet expect new housing to be available, he said. Maurer is responsible for drafting the progress report.

Housing Authority Chairman Joseph Riga said the town's housing plans are progressing. "Things have been percolating pretty steadily," he said. Advertising is expected to begin in July to find low-to-moderate income tenants for a town-owned house at 14 Reservoir st.

Also, the Housing Authority voted to hire an appraiser for four housing units in a new development on Cross st. Those units had previously been cited by the Housing Authority as potential sites for subsidized housing.

The Housing Authority also was eyeing three housing units at Parkview Apartments on Swanton st. However, those negotiations seem to have stalled.

Maurer said the town has been stumped because there have been no vacancies in the condominiums. Also, state funds to purchase the apartments have been insufficient, he said. "Things just haven't worked out," said Riga.

Winchester can spend $65,000 for a unit of subsidized housing, according to a state grant awarded in March. That sum, says Maurer, doesn't go very far in Winchester's pricey real estate market.

Riga agreed. He said $65,000 was "not a realistic figure." The EOCD program was implemented three years ago, he said, and "the real estate market has gone crazy in the last three years."

In all, the town has $455,000 to purchase seven units of subsidized housing. The funds came from the state's Executive Office of Communities and Development.

Keefe said the town may be able to negotiate with developers to lower their prices. In return, he said, the town might be able to give concessions on zoning or building codes.

Or, Winchester might choose to appropriate extra funds at Town Meeting to boost the town's buying power.

Winchester is supposed to use the $455,000 grant by September, said Keefe. However, he said, state officials often give funding extensions to towns making a positive effort to find subsidized housing.

In Arlington, where Keefe also serves on a housing board, he said the town once held a grant for three years before finding a suitable site.

Maurer said the Winchester Housing Authority is working on other sites for subsidized housing, but he declined to reveal specifics. The Housing Authority has not made public other plans, he said.

Keefe did mention one failed scheme. He said the Housing Authority considered moving a Washington st. house to a larger lot and converting it to subsidized housing. EOCD ruled the expense of moving the house unwarranted, however.

As for town-owned houses, Keefe says he expects all three to be rented out by the end of the year. Besides the renovated house at 14 Reservoir st., the town owns houses at 22 Highland ave. and 10 Alben st.

According to Maurer, Winchester has spent $15,000 renovating the Reservoir st. house. Work included removing lead paint, painting the interior, refinishing floors and repairing ceilings.

The four-bedroom house has a beautiful view of the town's North Reservoir. Rent will be about $600 per month, according to Riga.

The house will be advertised in local papers for a few weeks before the Housing Authority selects an eligible applicant.

To qualify for rent subsidies, the family must have a maximum net income of $20,680. Keefe said he expects the Housing Authority to select an applicant by mid-July.

Riga said the tenants in the other two town-owned houses have received eviction notices but have not yet moved out. "We're not going to put the people out in the street," he said.

Summer School Is Cancelled

By JILL M. HIGGINS
Summer school has been canceled due to lack of interest.

That's no joke.

Winchester summer school classes have been scratched because nobody signed up for the 25 classes set to begin within weeks.

"It's very disappointing," said director John Pirani on Tuesday. "Enrollment has been declining steadily over the past years, but it's never been cancelled in the five years I've been director."

Pirani said no one signed up for 14 classes, and only one or two persons signed up for several others.

"Typically, we double enrollment in the last two weeks of sign-up," said Pirani. "But it became abundantly clear that we just weren't going to get enough enrollments at all."

"The bottom really dropped out," he added.

Pirani said the several factors seem responsible for the drop, including the fact that youngsters are generally doing better during the normal school year.

"There is a lot of pressure on these kids to succeed and achieve much during the regular school year, which is one reason why there are fewer summer enrollees," he said.

He added more families are taking summer vacations, which means fewer youngsters are around to attend classes.

Also, he said, summer school competes with the town Recreation Department, which offers a vast array of athletic and educational programs.

TV Plans Change

By NANCY PICK
Staff changes for Continental Cablevision, owner of Winchester's cable television system, drew some sharp criticism Monday night as Selectmen heard the new plans.

Winchester needs a fulltime system manager but won't have one under the reorganization, said Lawrence H. Worthen, chairman of the town's Cable Advisory Committee.

"We're going to have to be sure that we're not short-changed," said Worthen.

Worthen said he was "bothered greatly" by the Cablevision reorganization. Under the plan, system manager Patricia Stigliano will be moving to Marblehead to set up a new cable TV center there.

She will be replaced by Glenn Oakley, who will divide his time between Winchester and cable stations in Saugus and Reading.

Also, the station's chief technician, Richard Cefalo, will be leaving. Worthen also said his committee was upset that there has been no local origination program director for more than a year.

Worthen said he could only hope for the best during the staff's transition. "I hope it's smooth, oh heavens, I hope it's smooth," he said.

Selectman Wade Welch suggested the cable system could improve viewership by advertising local programs in the newspapers. "I can never find out when your local access programs are on," he said.

On the brighter side, the station announced that three new channels are planned for late summer or early fall: a Disney channel, a sports channel and New England Sports Network.

Cable representatives said they plan to return to Selectmen in August with a detailed marketing plan for their new services.

Also, Continental Cablevision said repair service should improve with the addition of a new maintenance group this summer.

In other action at Monday's Selectmen's meeting, the board appointed two representatives to the town's Special Insurance Study Committee. The new members are Maurice F. Ahearn Jr. and Thomas Schmitt.

Selectmen appointed Jasper F. Asaro, a retired police officer, to a one-year term as Parking Clerk Hearings Officer.

Howard Chase was appointed director of fair housing by Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer.

Wreckers Will Raze Two Center Buildings

The Italian Fisherman Ends Carry-Out Sales

By NANCY PICK

The wreckers are expected to arrive by July to tear down two old wooden Washington st. buildings, making way for Murray and Quill's new brick, steel and glass law offices.

Last week, an empty can of clams, three dusty flour sifters and a wall menu were the last vestiges of The Italian Fisherman, a carry-out restaurant that must vacate for the new building.

Owner and cook Ron Cusato was still there last week, waiting for someone to pick up a fish-weighing scale.

Since he did not find another storefront in Winchester, his business folded and he has auctioned off his equipment.

"Auction prices are terrible today," he said. "You don't get anything for your stuff."

Although he says he regrets having to leave, he says Murray and Quill treated him fairly in negotiating his lease.

Two old buildings will tumble before the new offices go up. One housed the Italian Fisherman and Marcel's Beauty Salon. The other, next door at 165 Washington st., is a vacant house.

If contractors can start immediately, said Lawrence Murray, they will break ground this summer and race to make the structure weather-tight by winter.

If the contractors need more time, said Murray, construction could be postponed until next spring. He said the lawyers are not in any hurry to move from their Main st. office.

The new two-floor office building will feature "first-class construction," said Murray, using brick, glass and steel. The entranceway will be an atrium, and 29 parking spaces will be available both underneath and behind the building.

Murray and Quill's law firm will occupy most of the ground floor. Ideally, said Murray, a second tenant would rent the entire second floor.

Town Meeting members approved zoning changes for the offices by a narrow margin last November. Previously, about one-third of the lot was zoned for residential use.

Murray declined to talk about the cost of the building, saying bids were still out. The town Building Dept. said the lawyers have not yet filed for a building permit.

As for Cusato, he says he has no definite plans but probably will look for a job and consider opening another business of his own.

Belgium offers breaks

Taking advantage of incentives to industrial investment, more than 2,000 American companies since 1959 have established operations, including 500 plants, in Belgium.

Cross St. Construction

Construction has begun for a Cross st. development owned by George Whitten of Winchester. Also, the town has hired an appraiser to price four housing units there, in hopes of buying them for subsidized housing. Please see related Star story. (Staff photo by Amy Sweeney)

Deadline Is Moved Up For July 3

Because of the Independence Day holiday, The Winchester Star will be published one day early on Wednesday, July 3.

This means deadlines will also be early that week. The deadline for press releases will be 5 p.m. on Friday, June 28. The deadline for classified ads will be 3 p.m. on Monday, July 1. And the deadline for display advertising will be noon on Monday, July 1.

Under normal circumstances, press release deadline is 5 p.m. Mondays, the classified ad deadline is 3 p.m. Tuesdays, and the display advertising deadline is noon Tuesdays.

TVs Needed For Goodwill

Morgan Memorial needs TVs, radios, and stereos in workable condition for resale.

Residents of Winchester may leave donated goods at the Morgan Memorial trailers in Arlington, at the Stop & Shop, 905 Massachusetts ave., and in Lexington, at the MediMart Shopping Center, Bedford st. The trailers are attended Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tax receipts for donations are available from the attendant. Goods donated to Morgan Memorial are tax deductible at fair market value.

For more information, call Bella Denault, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, 357-9710.

WHS Classes From 1950s Will Reunite

The Winchester High School Class of 1953 will be participating in a "Grand Reunion Weekend" to be held in conjunction with the classes of 1954, 1955, and 1956 (or any other classes of the fifties who would care to join us) during the weekend of Sept. 20 - 22.

The Class of 1953 needs some help in locating missing classmates who are listed below. Anyone knowing of there whereabouts can contact Joan F. Bird, 8 Lawrence St., Winchester, 729-2019.

The following classmates are being sought:
Walter Barstow, James Callahan, Joseph Carty, Robert Clark (Smitty), Everett Combes, John Connolly, Diane Cooper, Connie (Corthell) Fallavolita.

Also, Richard Drohan, George Fudge, Garland Gray, Kenneth Hisco, Donald MacFeeley, Katherine McGoff, Ellen (McFarland) Shea, Mike Mitchell, Myrna (Monsen) Evens, Robert Nelson, Frank Procopio, Beverly Ryd.

Also Norma Skaling, Trevor Smith, Gail Watson, Dave Burke, John Curry, Louise Migliaccio.

Savings Bank Gives Check To ABC House

A check for more than $500 was recently presented to Carolyn Ward of Winchester ABC House by Robert B. Nickerson, president of Winchester Savings Bank.

Edward Famolare and Warren Russell, who served as chairman and co-chairman for Town Day Committee, joined Nickerson in awarding the check.

Winchester Savings Bank's booth at Town Day on June 1 was a success because of enthusiastic support of the community to ABC (A Better Chance) House. The house is in its 14th year in Winchester, as it strives to motivate minority students to achieve their educational goals.

The check will be used to launch the capital fund drive for repairs to the house located at 2 Dix St.

Winchester Savings Bank extends its appreciation to members of the Town Day Committee: Edward Famolare, Warren Russell, Barbara Ashley, Tammy Craft, Cynthia Whetstone and Don Miller.

A special recognition to Sheri Famolare from Buckley and Tovsky Sales Corporation in Burlington who donated the food.

St. Mary's Has Graduation

Graduation exercises for the 8th grade students of Saint Mary's School were held on Monday evening, June 10. The Graduation Mass was celebrated by the Revs. Reardon, Kelley, Butera, McMahon and Boyle.

Mark Giordano, Timothy Looney, Traci Macone, Joseph Magnifico, JoAnn Mangano, David Miles, Aaron Pratt IV, Mark Previte, Matthew Quill, Christopher Roche and Terence Slater.

Prizes for academic excellence were awarded to David Miles and Mark Giordano. The Father Bernard Hoy Award was given to David Miles, while the Barry Scholarship for diligence was awarded to John Alberts.

Winchester Savings Bank recently donated more than $500 to Winchester's "A Better Chance" program, which brings city students to Winchester High School. With students Jermaine Jones and Hector Rios are bank Assistant Treasurer Warren Russell; bank Assistant Vice President Edward Famolare; ABC President Carolyn Ward; and bank President Robert Nickerson.

From Mozart To Disney

Lincoln Students 'Become Famous'

Lily Palacios plays Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and the piano too.

Walt Disney, with his prize creation Mickey Mouse, is portrayed by John Geoghan.

By MARY ANN MCCARTHY

The music began and voices hushed as each youngster struck a silent pose.

"Let's see the characters. . . Right into wax, right into wax. Welcome, Mrs. Boyd's class, to the Wax Museum," intoned 6th grade teacher Mary Scharch.

"Go right up to the figures. They don't blink, they don't breathe. . . maybe you'll see a character you'll like to talk to later on."

The music faded and the figures came to life. "As the music softens, so does the wax. Go right up and shake hands. Shake hands and ask questions," Scharch encouraged.

The Lincoln School gym was transformed into a time machine last week as sixth-grade students assumed the identity of a favorite historical figure.

Students from kindergarten through grade five wandered about the gym, stopping at various exhibits to converse with the counterfeit celebrity of their choice.

Susan B. Anthony (Danielle Durrett) discussed her struggle for women's rights, while Queen Elizabeth I (Carla De Vrieze) stood nearby wearing a floor-length dress with a billowy skirt.

Bjorn Borg (Kevin Marshall) demonstrated his topspin technique, as Harry Houdini (Paul Beauchamp) chronicled his achievements from birth to the day of his tragic death.

Students made their rounds with small notebooks, collecting autographs from the assembled notables.

The combination of drama and biography, the seventh annual "Wax Museum," gave students "the chance to be a star," said Scharch.

She organized this year's event with 6th grade teacher Bernadette Golden and Acting Principal Robert Lynch.

"By giving them an opportunity to pick a character, do research and make costumes, we allow them to express themselves creatively and at the same time increase their knowledge," said Scharch.

The 56 students — who assumed identities ranging from Galileo to Fanny Farmer to Sir Winston Churchill — recited brief histories of their characters.

Amy Berry, dressed as Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, stood solemnly in a black dress with a stethoscope around her neck. "I was born in 1821 in England. . . I graduated from Geneva Medical College. . . I moved to the United States and started a small infirmary."

The first woman doctor described her motivation and the consequences of her pioneering decision. "I was inspired by a sick woman who didn't like having a man doctor. A lot of women scorned me and the men doctors I worked with wouldn't tell me about some of the patients. They were testing me," she said.

Berry, who wants to become a doctor, explained what she learned from her research on Blackwell: "I didn't really know that there would be that much meanness involved."

Would she have wanted to practice medicine during Blackwell's era? "I think I would have. But I'm not sure," she said.

Emily Lewis posed as dancer Marie Taglioni, the first toe dancer. Wearing pink toe shoes, a black net skirt and turquoise sweatshirt, she demonstrated the arabesques and pirouettes first performed by Taglioni.

Lewis, a dancer since age five, described Taglioni's contribution to dance. "If she didn't live, there would never have been a toe shoe. She was the first one to bring it to public attention," she said.

"She also was the first to wear a romantic-style (mid-calf length) tutu. Her father (a dancer and choreographer) created it for her because she had such a dainty figure. They were wearing them down to their ankles then."

The audience gathered in a circle in the center of the room. Scharch asked students to invite the celebrities to speak. Bjorn Borg, Shirley Temple Black and Harry Houdini were summoned by turns.

Queen Elizabeth I, at the audience's request, slowly traveled to center stage. The hoops under her skirt made the journey through the audience difficult. Mozart followed the queen.

Lily Palacios, wearing a silver-white wig, blue jacket and pink knee-length trousers, appeared as Mozart. Next to a music stand — with a piano keyboard in front of her — Palacios told the composer's story.

She explained why she chose to mimic the great composer. "My parents are really interested in classical music and since I take piano I thought it would be interesting to find out about him," she said.

"I wanted to know how he could play when he was crazy," said Palacios. "And I had heard so many stories about him that I wanted to know which were true."

Across the room — in a black suit with tails, clutching a black umbrella — stood Nat Cooper posing as P.T. Barnum. In front of a display of pictures and two Barnum biographies, the circus owner listed his accomplishments.

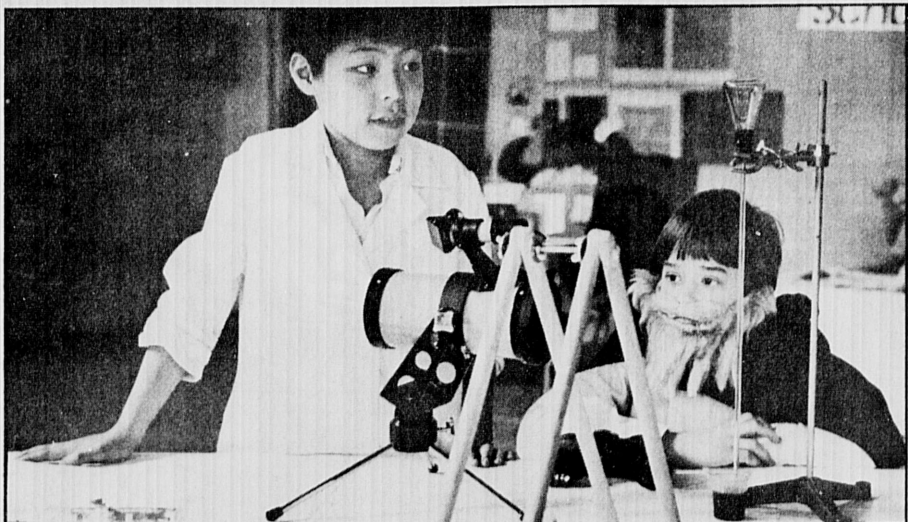

"I started the circus in 1871 with my partner Bailey. We began with Gargantua the ape and a large African elephant named Jim," he said.

"I am," he proclaimed, "P.T. Barnum!"

Winchester Kernels

The folks over at Vinson-Owen School are bidding a fond farewell to longtime teacher Norma Zettler.

Zettler has been a math specialist there for many, many years and will be sorely missed, we're told.

Even those who hate math can understand the sadness at the retirement of a good friend. Unless, of course, you happen to have flunked math.

Winchester resident Maureen Winn was pretty proud this week. Seems the driver of her handicap van took top spot in a 150 mile bike-a-thon for muscular dystrophy.

Winn was the picture of health until the disease struck her some years ago. Now, she says, it's at least exciting to know the winner of a race meant to help combat M.S.

So congratulations are certainly due to Peter Schlosser of Burlington, who made a friend proud and hopefully moved forward in the fight against MS.

This one's in from the hospital gossip line.

Ringo Starr and his actress wife Barbara Bach were in Cambridge recently, where Bach's brother works at Sancta Maria Hospital.

In a hospital blab, Ringo — near and dear in the hearts of Beatles fans — toured the place without incident.

Imagine that. Just a few years ago — well, maybe longer than that — he'd never have gotten away without throngs of heartbroken girls swarming over him.

Wonder if the all-white garb reminded him of his days as funky long hair Brit drummer???

By the way, the Democratic Town Committee sang a familiar song Monday night at the selectmen's meeting.

The group, led by chairman Paul Kelly, presented its views on fair housing to the board.

In a five-page letter, the committee urged selectmen to remember the town's obligation with the state to provide decent, affordable housing for low-to-moderate income families and the elderly.

"We come before you as Democrats concerned about the town and the issue of fair housing and we come before you as taxpayers concerned about the impact on our property tax rate of a failure to live up to our agreement," wrote the committee.

Let's hope the town can get together on this and live up to its promise to the state. After all, we got the brick sidewalk, didn't we?

Put this one in our "we goofed department." Last week we ran a picture of Unitarian Church minister Charles A. Reinhardt in our "About Town" columns.

Unfortunately, however, the outline underneath described a picture of Gerard Donahoe being honored as the Winchester's outgoing vocational school representative.

Sorry, folks. Yes, we know both of them. The mistake has been duly noted.

Do Cars (Like Kids) Crave A Little TLC?

For a long time I didn't realize what was going on between my car and me, but just lately I'm beginning to get the picture.

My car wants more attention; that's why it gets sick so often.

Kids do this too, of course. Any time they see a little sympathy being handed out, they get right in line for their share.

When one kid throws up, the other threatens to start doing the same. Place cool washcloths on the forehead of a child burning with fever, and you can bet his sibling will go right out into the driveway and scalp his knee just as neat as you'd peel an apple.

They have visions of good times to be had staying home from school and sipping milk shakes. They picture you bringing them coloring books, and pointy new crayons. They can't help it, I guess: they just like to see people hovering over them — carrying trays, if at all possible.

Well, my car has been keeping an eye on all this chicanery for some time, I guess, because just this year, it's started pulling some of the same stuff.

One day last fall, the alternator went on it. Then, a week before Christmas, it was the muffler. In the bitterest part of January, the window on the driver's side began refusing to close. It glided down, nice as you please, at the touch of a button, but up? No way.

That was the point at which my local Car-Care Professionals recommended I start carrying a rubber hammer. Give it a whack, they said, down here by the door handle, and see if that doesn't jolt her into closing for you.

Finally, when it looked as though

Christian faith that has caused us to be a nation that knows the value of every human being.

Paul and Mona Johnian

It cost nearly a cool half grand to put that one to rights.

You don't think of a car having intelligence at all, or being able to express any feelings beyond a general kind of high-octane hum. But I still remember the conversation we had, my car and I, as I accompanied it, in the ambulance as it were, to the garage that day. It had been snuffing piteously. Now its dirty windshield was streaked with tears.

"Pay the $450," the old boat blubbered. "Don't you love me anymore?"

"Of course I love you," I responded testily. "That is, I'm not sure I love you exactly, but we've had some good times together. Besides, as Tina Turner says, what's love got to do with it?"

"What indeed?!! My whole life I've given you — my youth, my beauty, a good front end — and now you turn and throw it all in my face."

"It's just that...well, it's just that you COST so much these days," I came back. "I'm beginning to wonder if I can afford to keep you anymore."

"Ah, but can you afford to replace me?" the car slyly ventured, thus raising the same argument advanced by our endlessly collapsing houses, our broken TVs, our disenchanted spouses, even.

I didn't know the answer to that one, so our conversation ended there. We arrived at the gas station.

The old bucket was hustled away for diagnosis. And, needless to say, in the end I coughed up the money.

Since that time, things have been going a little more smoothly between us. I'm trying to be nicer to it, and talk to it some the way you would to a plant.

I did get a ticket on the turnpike the other day though. My cruise control was set at 55, as I told the policeman, but he said I was doing 68. "Must be a faulty speedometer," I ventured.

"Sorry, lady. It's your job to keep your car in working order," he rejoined. "You let it get like this, you're not giving it enough attention."

The car hummed a little tune then in a told-you-so kind of way. Passersby probably saw it smile too, chromily and with the satisfaction of well-earned triumph.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Parent Questions Materialism

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have read many articles in The Winchester Star about teenage drinking, teenagers arrested for driving while drinking or driving recklessly. Recently, there has been great concern about the Winchester High School Senior Prom, where to hold the prom and how to control drinking before, after, and during the prom.

I wonder why teenagers so desperately need the use of alcohol to enjoy a prom or for that matter, to enjoy life? Teenage drinking has been a problem for a long time, but it seems to be getting worse. Despite all the TV specials on teenage alcoholism and the guest lectures in the schools, kids today are still lured towards alcohol.

Why would this happen: especially in a town like Winchester, where kids have far more than many other children? Or do they?

Winchester is an upper-middle class town, with the majority of home owners being one or even two professional families. (You need that type of income to afford a home in Winchester.)

Therefore, the parents of Winchester teenagers are high achievers, many of whom are not often home because of their jobs. Many kids in Winchester only see their parents at the supper table and that may often be one parent — depending on which parent is working late or on the road.

Limited time or weekends only spent with parents doesn't allow enough time to foster close parental relations and/or trust. Kids are less likely to be influenced by a parent they only see occasionally, than a peer whom they see every day.

In order to have a strong influence on your child, I believe you have to consistently be there for your child and show that child that you love him or her. You can't buy that love for your child with Ataris, day camp or a moped!

Therefore, when we look at teenage problems in Winchester, I think it's important to look at the family unit. Perhaps as parents, we're getting too caught up in materialism and upward mobility and we ourselves are forgetting how to simply enjoy life.

When teenagers feel the pressure to be the best, the smartest, the most popular, they don't have the self-confidence in themselves to realize they already are very important. They may not have that self-confidence because their parents haven't had the time to foster that confidence in them.

Unfortunately, it's these teenagers with low self-esteem who will often times resort to drinking, in order to feel better about themselves.

In conclusion, I think if we really want to help the children and teenagers in Winchester, we need to take a look at our own values and attitudes. As parents, we need to take the time and set the precedent that life should simply be enjoyed each day with our families, that perhaps it is better to minimize the materialisms of life and to take the time to enjoy being a family who care about each other.

"Annie"

Producer

Thanks All

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In every happening there is usually some good news and some sad news. In the case of McCall Junior High's "Annie," the sad news is that Annie's visit is over.

The set has been struck, the Christmas tree taken down, the stage is quiet and bare, and the cast and crew, who worked so long and hard, now have a huge void in their daily routine of activities.

The good news is that "Annie" was a great success! The hundreds of people who attended the musical were enriched by its excellence and professionalism. Surely, its effects will be felt for a long time to come.

As the "Annie" producer, I too am saddened that Annie's visit was so brief. I was very proud to have been part of such an outstanding production and a wonderful experience. Truly, the talents of our directors, Wally Gagel and Mark Jacobs and our choreographer, Marion Quinn are second to none.

But I would like to take this time to describe another dimension to the "Annie" good news. It is something which was felt by our entire staff throughout the months of production. That is the overwhelming support the Junior High musical received from the Town of Winchester. For this we will always be grateful.

To be staged properly, a show such as "Annie" is extremely costly, requiring unusual costumes, props and special effects. With budget cutbacks and Proposition 2½, our resources were limited. But Winchester came through for us!

It was not only students, teachers and parents who offered help, but scores of organizations and local businesses and hundreds of Winchester residents. Not only were we given financial support, but people called to loan us costumes, props, furniture. Others offered technical assistance and business expertise.

"Annie" was not just a McCall Junior High School production, it was also a Winchester production. And I feel privileged to be part of a caring and giving community such as ours. Thank you all!

Sincerely,

Jo Ricciardelli
"Annie"-producer

Johnians Talk About Freedom

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In January of this year, we wrote an article of concern about the fact that "Prophet Mohammed's" birthday — not Jesus' — was acknowledged at the Holiday Celebration at Lincoln Elementary School.

Because of our many visits to the Middle East and some basic studies of the Islamic faith, we understand the incompatibility of their mentality and logic, with the Judeo-Christian attitude toward the value of human life.

Remember the takeover of the American Embassy in Iran? The lost marines in Lebanon by a suicide-martyrdom automobile explosion? Then last week in Mobile, Ala., a Moslem made front page — all smiles — that he had succeeded in dealing a hammer blow to that state's desire to have a moment of silent prayer in public schools. One man's desire overruled the desires of an entire state.

Now, TWA's flight 847 was taking off from Athens, Greece but flew instead into a nightmare because Shiite Moslems were willing to become martyrs and murderers for Mohammed.

What Americans need to understand is that Islam is a political-religious ideology. Their goals are political as well as spiritual, and their determination is continually fed by fanaticism.

In this country, we defend every man's right to worship as he pleases. But we object loudly when the Islamic religion comes to this country, and begins to suppress the Judeo-

Christian faith that has caused us to be a nation that knows the value of every human being.

Paul and Mona Johnian

ConCom Appeals To Citizens

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Attached is a letter which the Conservation Commission has sent out to people who have indicated interest in our work. As it presents a very brief review of our aims and purposes, I hope it might also be of interest to readers of your newspaper; in fact, some of them may be encouraged to offer their help to us, and we certainly would welcome their assistance.

Sincerely,
Margaret Howard
Chairman

Dear Friend:

The Selectmen included your name on a list of Winchester residents who have indicated their interest in helping the Conservation Commission. As you probably know, we are charged with administering the Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act, which forbids anyone to remove fill, dredge or alter certain wetlands, land under water or land subject to flooding.

We are also concerned with conservation in a broader sense: in acquiring land, in preserving open space, in using our resources wisely. At this time we are working on priorities for land acquisition, and on updating the Town's open space plan. Both items are on the agenda for our next meeting: on July 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the town engineer's office. In addition we plan to establish committees to help us protect the present conservation lands.

We welcome your offer of assistance. Please plan to attend some of the meetings this summer, and tell us where you feel that you can fit into our projects, or help us to develop new ones.

Sincerely,
The Conservation Commission

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

This week's column records local legislators' votes from the week of June 10-14.

SHIELD LAWS — On roll calls of 121-27, 112-30, and 104-40, the House rejected three different detailed shield law proposals giving journalists varying protections against being forced to disclose confidential information or sources and prohibiting them from being found in contempt.

Supporters said journalists must be given some protection in order to do their job, cultivate sources and insure the free flow of information. Some opponents said it was unfair to give journalists special rights, while others said the Constitution already protects journalists.

Some said cases should be decided on an individual basis.

On all three roll calls, a "Yea" vote is for the shield law. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted no on all three proposals.

END SESSION (H 1026) — The House, 109-38, rejected a bill providing that legislative sessions automatically conclude each year on June 30.

Supporters, noting the bill does not prohibit emergency sessions after June 30, said the legislature can easily conduct its business in six months. Opponents said an arbitrary deadline is undemocratic and will dilute the power of the legislature and the voters.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

MDC STUDY (H 3317) — The House, 120-29, rejected a bill providing $100,000 for a 15 member special committee to investigate the workings of the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) and to consider a timetable for its eventual abolition.

Supporters said the MDC costs $26 million a year and claimed many of its functions are unnecessary and can be assumed by others. Opponents said extensive hearings and studies have shown the usefulness of the MDC.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no.

ALIENATION (S 1729) — The House, 84-62, gave initial approval to a bill abolishing causes of action for alienation of affection.

Supporters said the bill will abolish an archaic common law which allows suits against third parties for breaking up a marriage.

Opponents said the law goes beyond married couples and allows suits against a third party for breaking up any happy relationship. They claimed a person whose relationship is destroyed by a third party should be entitled to a day in court.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

HEALTH BEAT

Free Skin Cancer Screening Planned

Get you can't wait to hit the beach and get all that glorious, deep bronze tan you've been waiting for all winter. How relaxing. How healthy-looking. But days spent soaking up the rays may give you something you didn't bargain for...skin cancer.

To alert area residents to the dangerous effects of sun exposure, Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford, in cooperation with five area dermatologists and the American Academy of Dermatology, is sponsoring a free skin cancer screening on Saturday, June 22 from 9 a.m. to noon in the hospital's Ambulatory Care Center.

Doctors Richard Brown of Medford, Marilyn Capek of Winchester, Ronald Hamburger of Melrose, David Taub of Medford and Herbert White of Malden will examine patients and offer advice on sun protection.

Skin cancer has several different forms. The three most common types are basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma and malignant melanoma, the most serious.

In non-melanoma skin cancers, cumulative sun exposure does the damage, especially on the face, hands, mouth and the rim of the ear. The most common areas for melanoma cases are the hips and tops of the legs, since these areas are only exposed to the sun on the beach. Basal cell carcinomas usually appear as slowly growing, raised nodules that may crust and sometimes bleed. These occur most often on the head, neck, hands and trunk.

Squamous cell carcinomas, the second most common form of skin cancer, are usually raised, red or pink nodules or warty growths that ulcerate in the center. These cells can spread to other parts of the body if not detected early. Squamous cell carcinomas affect more than 80,000 persons each year.

Melanoma is responsible for more than 75 percent of all skin cancer deaths. These begin as a brownish, flat blemish or develop from a pre-existing mole and have irregular borders. Although relatively rare, the incidence of malignant melanoma is increasing at a faster rate than any other form of cancer, except lung cancer in women.

When the sun's rays hit the body, the skin tries to defend itself with the darkening of the pigment, melanin, under the skin's surface. This darkening, or "tan," may look healthy, but it is a sign of skin damage.

That healthy look today could create tomorrow's dry skin and wrinkles. Damage to the skin - and sun exposure does damage - never fades away like your tan does at the end of the summer. It builds. Years from now, you may find yourself with skin cancer.

The two kinds of ultraviolet radiation that sun worshippers should be concerned with are UV-A and UV-B is from sunshine. Although these rays tan, they also cause blood vessels to swell and lead to sunburn. Over time, UV-B rays break down the skin's elasticity, creates wrinkles and can lead to skin cancer.

UV-A are the rays emitted in tanning beds popular in health clubs these days. It is believed to be the safer of the two, but evidence is showing up that UV-A rays can also cause serious skin damage.

The American Academy of Dermatology encourages everyone to take certain precautions this summer to help guard against skin cancer.

•Minimize sun exposure, especially during the hours of 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

•Apply a sunscreen before every exposure to the sun and reapply it every two hours or after swimming.

•Use a sunscreen on overcast days. The sun's rays are as damaging on cloudy, hazy days as they are on sunny ones.

•Beware of reflective surfaces. Sand, concrete and water can reflect more than half the sun's rays onto your skin.

•Avoid tanning parlors. •Be aware that certain medications increase sensitivity to the sun. Consult a physician before going into the sun if using antibiotics, cosmetics or birth control pills.

•Teach children sun protection early.

Most skin cancers can be cured, but only if detected and treated early. Dermatologists recommend regular self-examinations to detect any changes in the skin's appearance, especially in existing moles or blemishes.

For more information or an appointment for the free skin cancer screening, please call Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford at 396-9250, ext. 1633.

Minuteman Sets Public Hearing

Minuteman Home Care Corp. will hold a public hearing about the Area Plan on Aging at 10 a.m. June 25 at the Kennedy School of Religion, 1997 Massachusetts ave., Lexington.

The hearing is designed to get feedback on the 1986 update to the Area Plan on Aging for Winchester and 15 other towns served by the corporation.

The information will help Minuteman set priorities for 1986 funding under the Older Americans Act Title III.

During fiscal 1985, Minuteman allocated $130,202 to programs such as Social Day Care, Friendly Visitors, Project Safe Home, Legal Services and medical transportation.

Copies of the 1986 Area Plan are available at Minuteman Home Care Corp., 83 Hartwell ave., Lexington.

For more information, please call Dianne Perlmutter at 862-6200.

Parenting Class Will Be Offered

A parenting workshop will meet from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays during September in the Kingsbury Seminar Room of Winchester Hospital, 41 Highland ave.

The classes, designed for parents, grandparents and guardians, will be led by staff pediatricians and a child psychiatrist.

The first session on Sept. 5 will be devoted to caring for children ages 4 to 8. The Sept. 12 session will cover dealing with children ages 8 to 11, and the Sept. 19 meeting will deal with youths 11 to 14.

The final meeting on Sept. 26 will address parental stress.

Registration is required in August. For more information, please contact the hospital's education department.

Stay Fit Despite Vacation Plans

New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham offers a summer fitness program for people who must plan around vacations; participants only pay for the days they will attend.

Courses offered include aerobics,

Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:30 p.m.; exercise for health, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:30 p.m.; women's fitness, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5:30 p.m.; and two karate classes, both on Tuesday evenings, one for adults and one for children.

Also, an exercise class will meet at 11:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays for people working late who want to unwind before going home.

All classes are taught by health professionals.

For information or to register, please call the hospital's education department at 665-1740, ext. 426.

CPR, First Aid Set For Summer

Courses in basic CPR, CPR recertification and first aid are being offered this summer at Choate Hospital, 21 Warren ave., Woburn.

CPR Basic Life Support techniques include mouth-to-mouth resuscitation for treating victims of heart attack, drowning, choking and other emergencies. Participants earn a one-year certificate from the American Heart Assn.

A CPR recertification course will meet Saturday, June 22, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.; and on Wednesday, July 10 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. CPR recertification is for people whose certificates expire within a month.

Standard multimedia first aid will be offered on Mondays, July 1, 8 and 15 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The course covers mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and treatment of broken bones, burns and other ailments.

Registration is required for all classes. For more information, please call the Community Health Education Dept. at 933-6700, ext. 377.

Winchester registered nurse Kathy Farley (left) was honored at New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn on National Nurses Day. Supervisor Judy McEwen gives her flowers.

Local Nurses Are Honored

Alda Tully of Winchester, a registered nurse, received highest tribute from Choate-Symmes Hospitals Inc. at a recent reception.

Tully was cited for showing "professional accountability and clinical expertise on a distinguished level." She was one of 15 nurses chosen for the distinction from more than 700.

Nurses Beverly Kennedy, Maryann Corrigan, Jean McDonough, Karen Webb and Pat McCarron were also honored at the reception, part of National Nurse Recognition Week.

ABOUT TOWN

Seven Students Graduate Harvard

The following Winchester residents were among the 393 seniors who received bachelor of arts degrees from Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges in commencement exercises on June 6:

Amy D. Anderson, 15 Herrick st.; Paolo S. Coppi, 30 Pilgrim dr.; Kathleen M. Durante, 29 Sargent rd.; James H. Ellis, 7 Dartmouth st.; James F. Herberich, 17 Sheffield West; Robert M. Lee, 70 Arlington st.; Edward D. Rosenthal, 40 Lake st.

Anderson, Ellis, Lee, and Rosenthal graduated cum laude. Coppi graduated magna cum laude with highest honors.

At the commencement exercises in Harvard Yard, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker delivered the commencement address.

Fitzer Cited

Winchester resident Susan Fitzer, was among 163 Mount Auburn Hospital employees recently cited for their service to the hospital. A 15-year employee, Fitzer was presented with a service award at a celebration dinner at which Thomas P. O'Neill III, a hospital, was a guest speaker. The ceremony honored personnel who have been with the hospital from 5 to 20 years.

Green, Kurker Are Graduates

In commencement exercises on June 16, two Winchester residents were among 560 seniors awarded bachelor's degrees from Union College. Collin W. Green, son of T. Brooke and Glenda Green, 17 Cox rd.; and Paul K. Kurker, son of George and Anne Kurker of 10 Pepper Hill dr. Green received a bachelor of science in physics and graduated cum laude. Kurker received a bachelor of arts in economics.

Sydney H. Schanberg, columnist for The New York Times, delivered the commencement address and received an honorary doctor of letters degree.

Welch Gets

UConn Fellowship

Winchester resident Kathleen E. Welch was one of 24 graduate students at the University of Connecticut to receive a graduate student fellowship.

The fellowships are awarded annually to students who have consistently maintained the highest academic standing throughout their graduate careers at the University. Welch, a student of psychology, will receive a $1,000 stipend.

Three Named To Dean's List

The following Winchester residents were named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Fitchburg State College: Mary Jane Queen, a special education major; John J. Ferullo, a business administration major; and Nancy M. Costello who majored in nursing.

Mangano Named All-American

Springfield College softball captain Kathy Mangano was selected first team Converse All-American by the National Softball Coaches Assoc. Mangano, a Winchester resident and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mangano, is a junior first baseman majoring in physical education. She was one of three players from New England chosen for the team, which represents the nation's NCAA Division II and NAIA Division I schools.

Mangano led Springfield in virtually all offensive categories. She was named junior "Female Athlete of the Year" at Springfield College and she earned first team All-New England honors for the third straight season.

Ades Graduates

Paul A. Ades, son of Mrs. Magda Ades of 51 Bacon st., graduated cum laude from Williams College with a bachelor of arts degree at commencement exercises on June 9. Paleontologist Stephen J. Gould was the commencement speaker.

Ades, who majored in political science, has plans to attend Columbia Law School.

Micciche Earns Varsity Letter

Babe Ruth All Stars Selected

The 1985 Babe Ruth League All Star Team has been chosen by the league manager, team officials announced this week.

A total of 23 players were nominated, as all coaches cast a vote. This was the largest number of youngsters nominated in recent years, officials said.

The team will compete in the District 2 double elimination tournament with eight other All Star teams. Teams will represent clubs in Bedford, Melrose, Methuen, Stoneham, Wakefield, Burlington, Lowell and Woburn.

The first game is at 5:30 on Friday, July 5, at Manchester Field against District 2 defending champion Methuen.

All Stars were also chosen for the 13-year-olds category. That team will compete in the District 2 prep league double elimination tourney. Preps open at 5:30 on June 27 at Manchester Field against Stoneham.

The following Winchester youths were chosen for the 1985 Babe Ruth All Star roster: Paul Capodanno, Michael Casalinovo, Dave Colozzi, Mickey Feeley, Vandy French, Frank Gianci, Gino Giangrande, Neil Harrington, John Kirkpatrick, Sean McElhinney, JR Morton, Al Nasson, Andy Sexeny, Greg Wyse, and Shane Wyse.

The team will be lead by manager, Bob Nutile, coaches Rich Lanzillo and Russ Wyse, and assistant coach Paul Capodanno.

The following 13-year-olds were chosen for the select All Star team: Ricky Mawn, Sean Curran, Craig Driscoll, Matt Rotondi, Matthew Pacione, Michael Queenin, Brooks Parks, Adam Howell, Eric Childers, Sean Donlon, Robbie Marshall, Mark Koffman, Stephen Tartarini, Matt Quill, and Ray Forcina.

That team will be lead by manager Rob Mistretta and coaches DJ Magee and Mitzi Mawn.

A Mini-Camp Is Scheduled

The Recreation Department's Mini-Camp, for grades 3-6 has planned many exciting and interesting activities for this summer. There are seven weeks of camp, each with its own theme, and children can sign up for all seven weeks.

The first session, starting June 24, is called "Illusionary Arts" and features performer Jim Vetter, who will teach the techniques and tricks of magic and the secrets of mime. Participants will conclude the week with a mime and magic show for parents and friends.

Session two, starting July 1, is called "New Sports Week". It will include a week of fun in the sun discovering new sports and enjoying old ones. The week will be topped off with a trip to Wallex for miniature golf, bowling, and roller-skating.

"Arts in the Parks" will be the theme of the third session, beginning July 8. Artist Candace Margles will lead group activities. During this week, youngsters will be able to make their own wire sculptures, design jewelry, draw a sidewalk mural, make mobiles and create masks.

July 15 begins a week of "Rec Fitnessers" for building muscles. The youngsters will travel to health clubs and Leonard's beach. In addition, specialist Mary Donlan will demonstrate the newest aerobic moves. Finally, there will be a trip to visit the U.S.S. Constitution to learn the history of sailing.

Session five, the week of July 22, is called "International Week." The campers will discover different games and customs of other countries.

The Runner's Eye
Steve Norton

Dear Readers,

(An informative and innovative Running Club is beginning in the coming weeks. The club, known as the Belmont East Track Club, under the head coaching of Frank Clax (1984 U.S.A. Olympic weightlifting coach) will meet the needs of the beginner, intermediate and advanced Track or Road Racers.

Individualized programs, nutritional analysis, sports medicine tips are just a few of the benefits to membership in this club. Clax's phone number is 522-4131.

Dear Runner's Eye,

What is better - to run 5 or 3 miles?
Joan Arsee, Winchester

Dear Joan:

Many people think that the further they run, the more they are helping their heart. It's not true. No additional cardiovascular benefits have been found to occur through running more than three miles per day.

Two Selected Boys And Girls Club Offers Summer Activities For Clinic

Two Winchester residents have been chosen to take part in a baseball clinic at Nipper Mier field in Waltham.

Chip Kelley and Alyssa Ewald registered at their local Star Market and will participate in the intensive baseball/softball clinic directed by former Red Sox third baseman, Eddie Pellegri.

The clinic focuses on baseball/softball basics including: throwing, catching, fielding and batting skills. Participants were winners in a drawing held at 40 Star Market locations and promoted on WHDH Radio 85.

Dave Henry at Star Markets said, "We sponsor the Red Sox on WHDH and we wanted to create a community oriented event that would tie in to that sponsorship, as well as benefit the towns we serve. Boys and girls will have the opportunity to learn from the experts, and who knows...we may help to inspire some future Red Sox players at the same time!"

The Star/HDH clinics will be held on Saturdays, June 22 and 29 at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at Nipper Mier field in Waltham. Spectators are welcome.

Registration Is Scheduled

The Winchester Soccer Club, for youngsters in the first through ninth grades, is continuing registration through June. Students should sign up for the fall soccer season before June 30 in order to avoid the $5 late fee. Registration forms can be picked up at the library or at the Recreation Department in McCall School. For more information, call the Recreation Department.

Students Must Have Physicals To Play Sports

In order to participate in fall sports at Winchester High School, all candidates must have had a physical examination by their own physician dated no earlier than May 1, 1985. The examination form from the physical must be given to their coach on or before the first day of practice, Monday, August 26, 1985.

The Arlington Boys and Girls Club's Summer Youth Program gets underway Monday, June 24 and will run for eight weeks through Friday, Aug. 16.

Youth programs are available to residents of all communities including Winchester, between the ages of 6 to 17 years of age.

During the summer, the club is open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays through Friday. The club includes an olympic size pool, a large parquet wood floored gymnasium, two spacious games rooms, a fitness room, several activity rooms as well as an outdoor basketball court.

It is situated on the shores of Spy Pond and across the street from a large field with baseball diamonds and tennis courts. A very modest yearly membership allows youths to participate all day long in a variety of activities.

Activities are divided into structured classes/leagues for which there is a slight fee and open programs which are available at no additional charge other than the initial membership. The club boasts a large variety of open programs which are always available during the day.

A staff of 17 adults and college students supervise each activity area. A featured summer activity is the sailing, canoeing, rowing and paddleboats which are available for use on Spy Pond. Youth participating in boating are first required to demonstrate a 100-yard swim and receive signed parental approval. After this they receive several hours of instruction. Once they are proficient, they receive a summer boating card permitting unlimited use of the boats. Boating is available every day 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Open swims are run daily from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. and afternoons from 2 to 4:45 p.m. On Monday, Wednesday and Thursdays from 2 to 2:30 p.m. swim time is reserved for 6 and 7 year olds. Swimming instruction is offered at four different levels: beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates and swimmers. Classes run five days a week for two weeks. New sessions start June 24, July 8, July 22 and August 5.

A large variety of indoor and outdoor sports and group games are held throughout the day. Prior sign-up is not required. These include paddleball, tetherball, bombardment, four square, baseball, one-man-dodge, big wheels races, kickball, superstar skill contest, one-on-one basketball, challenge mike, hot shot and capture the flag. Open free time in the gym is also scheduled for the different age groups.

Two large game rooms separately serve ages 6 to 11 and ages 12 to 17 years. Billiards, ping pong, bumper pool, knock hockey, arcade games, power hockey table soccer are offered all day during club hours. Game tournaments, penny carnivals, Guinness record breaking contests are also held at various times during the day.

Six through nine year olds have a special lounge area called the Sun-shine room open 12 to 4:30 p.m. daily. Reading, drawing, typing, table games, crafts, coloring are among the wide variety of activities available in this room.

The club maintains a good selection of outdoor sports equipment including tennis rackets, paddle balls, frisbees, bats and tetherballs. This equipment is available to use free of charge simply by turning in your club membership card at the main desk.

During the summer, the club runs numerous leagues and classes. Advanced registration is required. Class size is limited. A modest fee is charged.

Classes in computers will be held. These courses include introduction to computers, introduction level II, games/challenges/puzzles and logo. Youth learn on Apple IIE computers — using a variety of educational software.

Karate instruction is held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 5 to 7 p.m.

An intensive Summer Soccer Clinic begins Monday, June 24 and runs for five mornings. The club will also organize a Soccer League and Outdoor Hockey League.

Trampoline instruction is available for ages 6 to 9 years with classes starting July 8 and meeting on Monday and Wednesday morning from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Breakdancing is another of the class offerings. Youth will learn and practice the electric boogie, top rocking and bottom rocking. Basic techniques are then combined into short routines. Classes in Breakdancing are available in three age divisions and begin June 25. Archery instruction will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. beginning July 9 or July 30.

Sachemettes Lose Finals To Concord

By DAVID DEMARCO

It just wasn't meant to be. Winchester faced Concord-Carlisle in a rematch of the 1984 final and lost again. Concord-Carlisle was overpowering and trounced the Sachemettes 5-0, proving that they are the tennis powerhouse in Massachusetts.

In first singles, Karen McCall was beaten by Justine Higgins 6-1 6-1. Second Singles didn't fair much better, a twin sister Linda McCall went down 6-2, 6-2 to Concord-Carlisle's Betsy Keane.

Third singles saw Sachemette Kathy Gray make a strong comeback in the second set, but it was not enough, as she fell to Jill Slansky 6-0, 6-3.

The strong first doubles combination of Mary Pat Furey and Lulu Kermond ran out of gas Monday, as they were beaten 6-2, 7-5 by Allison Begner and Meghan O'Sullivan.

Second doubles put the icing on the cake for a Concord-Carlisle shutout, as Kelley O'Callaghan and Kristen Rothman were defeated by Beth Wickwize and Noriko Kuge 8-6, 6-4.

Overall, the Sachemettes had a fine season and progressed much further in another mostly-winning season. Now, the foundation is set for an even better season in 1986. Look out Concord-Carlisle!

He Has Run 11 Marathons

By STEVE NORTON

He is a familiar sight to the lunch hour crowd in downtown Boston: a short, skinny wisp of a man running through the pedestrian path of the Boston Common with a bowlegged stride and bent undulating arms sticking out at his sides. Some might even say he looks sick, but runners know that sometimes that can be a compliment.

Winchester's Ted Baxton, is also a familiar sight at road races and 26.2 mile marathons. The 54-year-old lifelong Winchester resident has run 11 marathons.

Running 11 marathons is an impressive statistic in itself. It becomes even more impressive when one considers that he did not run his first marathon until he was 42-years-old.

Baxton not only runs often, he also runs fast. His best marathon effort was a 2:45 effort three years ago.

Running as many as 20 marathons a year creates a need for traveling,

Baxton and his wife, Marjorie, turn many trips into mini vacations. Both say they enjoyed the Honolulu Marathon and would like to return there. They do have other favorites, however.

"Marjorie is always willing to go to Las Vegas or Atlantic City," Baxton says with a smile. "You make me sound like a gambler," Mrs. Baxton shoots back.

Baxton has run the Boston and New York marathons, but says he has no desire to run again. "There are just too many people."

Baxton began his running career at his high school in Winchester. He went on to run track and Cross Country at Ohio State.

Then he joined the Marine Corps during the Korean War and for two years did nothing but run track on the West Coast.

Baxton spent the next three years as an Embassy guard in Europe, a job he admits he would not want now. "Back then it was easy," he said, "now it's dangerous."

Baxton says some of the younger runners get upset when he beats them and that surprises him. "The younger guys still have to put in their miles to beat me," he says.

Running, though, is more than miles or minutes, more than marathons and trophies or who can run faster at what age or ability. At the peak of tremendous and victorious effort, while the blood is pounding in your head, it all suddenly becomes quiet within you.

Everything seems clearer and whiter than ever before, as if great spotlights had been turned on you. At that moment you have the conviction that you contain all the power in the world, that you are capable of everything, that you have wings.

Ted Baxton knows about this power of running. It's an uncommon — but attainable — pleasure.

Historical Society Picks Architecture Book Staff

The Architectural Heritage Book Committee of the Winchester Historical Society recently selected Kevin Stevens to write its book on the architecture of Winchester's houses. Jane Robbins was chosen executive editor.

Stevens, who received his secondary education in Montana, moved with his family to Ireland where he received his bachelor of arts in English from University College Dublin. He later received a master of philosophy there.

He came to the Boston area in 1981 and adjunct professor in the English department at Merrimack College and part-time English instructor at Northern Essex Community College. He has published poetry and essays.

Jane Robbins has 15 years experience in publishing and communications. She managed the development, design, and production of dozens of books and wrote books on classical ballet and on business writing.

Robbins is president of Boslego Corp., creator and provider worldwide of electronically distributed analytical tools and services to the petroleum industry.

The historical society book will trace the town's development and its many neighborhood areas with special focus on the diverse architectural styles. Where there were once tanneries, manufacturing industries, and farms, there are now suburban housing developments, parks, and playing fields.

Since there is no other book like this on Winchester, the Historical Society is pleased to be taking on this publishing venture. To make the book more useful and one that won't end up gathering dust on the bookshelf, it will include walking tour maps, highlighting houses that have an interesting history or that are architecturally noteworthy. Photos will accompany short histories on each of these houses.

Bob LaVallee, the project's photographer, began photographing last August and has taken hundreds of photographs throughout town. The book will also show old views of the town, its streets, and buildings chosen from the photograph files in the Archival Center.

The Committee also seeks to borrow old photos for possible publication. Anyone having such pictures of pre-1920 Winchester, should contact Randy Bairnsfather, 1 Copley St.

staff member of the Department of Gynecology at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and an assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Harvard Medical School/Massachusetts General Hospital.

Fuller noted that in the 1920s, a woman's life expectancy was far less than it is now. As a result of increased life expectancy to 80 years, women may live 30 years — or one-third of their life — with an estrogen deficiency. About 75 or 80 percent of women will develop some symptoms of estrogen deficiency.

Fuller added that doctors are looking to predict who will be affected and to what extent.

One of the other prime public health functions for the obstetrician-gynecologist is cancer screening. The leading causes of cancer death are now lung, breast, colon, and ovary. Doctors can make a significant impact in cancer prevention and screening in all these areas, said Fuller.

New Board For League

On Tuesday, May 21, more than 45 members of the Winchester League of Women Voters met for dinner at the home of Noor Spanjaard to celebrate the league's annual meeting.

After dinner, the league elected board members for one and two year terms, heard the treasurer's and auditor's report; heard the proposed budget for 1985-86; the president's annual message.

The slate of officers and directors proposed by the nominating committee and elected was: president, Gail O'Reilly (two-year term); first vice president, Carol Beals (two-year term); second vice president, Paul Donovan (one-year term); secretary, Jeannette Beard (two-year term); treasurer, Marlene Rothman (one-year term); voter service, Marie Yager (two-year term); public relations, Candace Margles (two-year term); membership, Susan Cutler (one-year term); bulletin, Susan Keats (two-year term); unit organization, Pat Wells (one-year term); publications, Paul Donovan (one-year term); hospitality, Ann Bailey-Berman (one-year term); natural resources, Marjorie Moore (two-year term); at-large (cable TV) Sandy Rodgers (one-year term); at-large, (WIC Representative) Marjorie McCann-Estridge (one-year term).

Other organization officers are: nominating, Noor Spanjaard, Finance (March Finance Drive) Maureen Terry; fiscal secretary, Eleanor DuToit; mailing, Anna Baylies.

The League thanked Marjorie Moore for serving as president for the past year. Moore spoke to the audience and especially mentioned the satisfaction of having the committee working on the "Inside Winchester" booklet, completing the latest edition while she was president. Elinor Walker was acknowledged for her support and long-standing membership with the League.

New president Gail O'Reilly was then handed over the gavel by Marjorie Moore and thus officially began her role as the new league president.

VFW Women Will Convene

On Monday, June 24, the Aberjona Ladies Auxiliary No. 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold its last social of the season.

The event will be held at the post quarters on River St. at 8 p.m. to benefit charity. Chairman Betty Carroll invites the public to attend; refreshments will be served.

Garden Club Makes Plans

The Winchester Home and Garden Club Board met recently at the Jaffrey, N.H., home of past president Louise Kell to make plans for the next season, and to confirm arrangements for the program submitted by Margaret Borggaard, program chairman.

Among the program topics scheduled: Russ Marchand will give a multimedia presentation entitled "Autumn Adventure," and "Reverence for Christmas" is the title of a talk and demonstration by popular lecturer, Clare Richards.

The traditional greens sale is set for Dec. 4.

Other planned programs are: Mrs. Norman Frost speaking on "Light — A Gardener's Delight"; Marian Dickey on "Birds in Spring"; and a special trip to Ken Steven's home in Westwood.

Rest Home Is Renamed

Winchester Mt. Vernon House is the official new name voted by the board of directors and corporators at their annual meeting recently. A private, nonprofit retirement home for 17 residents, the home was established in 1894 to provide for the care, comfort and support of the residents for their lifetime.

Open to men and women aged 65 and older, the home gives preference to Winchester residents who have lived in town for 10 years or more, but relatives of Winchester residents are also considered.

The home operates under the direct supervision of resident administrator Mrs. Grace P. Phillips and a volunteer board of directors. New officers for the year 1985-1986 are: president Ann McMay, vice presidents Dudley H. Bradley II, Edward C. Parkhurst, MD, and Thomas Worthen, secretary Austin Broadhurst, treasurer Charles W. Craven and assistant treasurer Robert G. Ingraham.

Local Players

On Soccer Team

Two local athletes were recently chosen to represent Winchester on the prestigious Massachusetts Select Soccer Team.

Julie Guarnotta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guarnotta of Myopia rd., and Jeanne O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Brien of York rd., will participate in the competitions.

Friends Meet For Hospital

The 35th Annual Meeting of the Friends of Winchester Hospital was held recently at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church.

Winchester's Partnership in Pride

- Our young people provide the talent and motivation
- Winchester Scholarship Foundation provides the financial aid

Individuals and organizations who have faith in the future of our young people join this partnership to support the WSF objective of assisting every deserving student from Winchester to continue his or her education.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT WSF

WSF is a voluntary, non-profit organization supported solely by the efforts of our community for the benefit of our young people. Winchester residents started it, Winchester residents manage it, and Winchester students benefit from it.

An outgrowth of the Mother's Association which had been awarding scholarships since 1933 in a program initiated through the Lincoln School, the Instrument of Trust of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation was signed in 1945 and the first awards made in June of that year. Since that time, WSF has awarded over half a million dollars in individual grants ranging from $100 to over $2500.

WSF aims to help students pursue their own educational goals. Institutions of higher learning being attended by recipients of financial aid for the 1983-84 school year range from large universities to small schools and include community colleges, state colleges and universities, nursing, secretarial, vocational and technical schools across the country. Annually, about 60% of the grants are initial awards to graduating seniors. The remainder is awarded as continuing aid to students already pursuing post secondary education through the third year.

In 1984 the schools of choice of students receiving financial aid were as diverse as the students themselves. These schools cover the entire range of four year colleges and universities, community colleges and training schools and extend over a broad geographic area.

WHO RECEIVES AWARDS

WSF awards financial aid to graduates of Winchester Public Schools based on three criteria:

- Acceptance for further education at an accredited school or college
- Character, which includes ambition, willingness to work to help oneself, extra-curricular activities and service to others
- Demonstrated need

WSF does not grant full scholarships. It does fill gaps which remain after all other sources are exhausted. Early each year, students and their parents determine the various scholarships, loans and work/study programs available to them for which they qualify. If additional funds are still necessary, the students and their parents then fill out applications which give details on the financial status of the student's educational plans.

Because detailed financial information is essential, parents send this confidential statement directly to the College Scholarship Service in Princeton, New Jersey where it is investigated and evaluated. Strict confidence is maintained, and the records are destroyed after two years, or as soon as the information becomes unnecessary for application purposes.

WHO DETERMINES THE AWARDS

The Scholarship Committee of WSF has the responsibility for making decisions granting awards. This committee consists of two men and two women residents and the Principal of Winchester High School. In addition, the Scholarship Committee is fortunate to continue to receive the advice of a Winchester resident who has served for many years as the financial aid officer of an area university.

Through the Scholarship Committee, WSF also fosters common standards and provides coordination for other clubs and organizations giving funds within Town. WSF extends to these groups and the Town this same service of selecting candidates and allocating aid to be granted based on established and fair procedures.

HOW WSF IS FUNDED

Annual contributions are the principal source of funding for WSF. As a charitable trust under Massachusetts law, all contributions are tax-deductible. The other sources of aid to students are from scholarships endowed by gifts from organizations or individuals and income from trusts left to the Foundation or the Town. These funds are in the custody of three trustees elected by the General Committee to serve for six-year terms.

The amount of aid WSF provides is largely dependent on the amount realized from annual contributions from individuals, organizations and businesses. In 1984, $64,000 was awarded to 47 students.

THERE'S A PLACE FOR YOU IN THE PARTNERSHIP

If you want to join in stimulating and rewarding merit in Winchester students, you will want to join in Winchester's partnership in pride by contributing to WSF. Won't you make your contribution today? Please be as generous as possible and send your gift to:

The additional $169,000 was awarded after officials, primarily State Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh, urged the state to consider the town's prior renovation efforts.

Saltmarsh has cited a 14 percent vacancy rate at downtown shops prior to initial renovations. Now, he said, nearly every store in the downtown area is occupied and two new restaurants are expected to open by fall.

Connery, meanwhile, said he will meet with town officials on a weekly basis to assess them of the project's progress.

with that board in late July, after which he would meet with the Appeals Board.

So far, the proposal, which includes 18 units for low-to-moderate income families, has drawn mixed reaction from various town boards and local residents.

On June 10, members of the Winchester Housing Authority appeared split on the issue, with members William McCarthy and Mary Meader among the most outspoken.

Meader, who lives near the proposed complex, complained the apartments would worsen an already congested traffic band.

McCarthy, meanwhile, charged that Rotondi had bypassed the traditional town channels for approval of a housing project.

Rotondi has so far met with Selectmen, the Fair Housing Committee, the Conservation Commission, the Housing Authority and the Planning Board.

Meanwhile, Rotondi said much of the local opposition "is based on the same fear that is the basis for the town's housing crisis to begin with."

"These are the same group of people who oppose almost everything in Winchester. And when it comes right down to it, these people just don't want low income families in their neighborhood."

Judge Francis Cullen, DeVito's attorney objected to the presence of news cameras, and asked the court to allow his client to stay outside the courtroom.

"This case has received an inordinate amount of publicity, much of which is inflammatory," Chapman said. "So much so, that [DeVito's] children cannot leave the house for fear of harassment."

Judge Cullen told Chapman the news photographers had a right to be in the courtroom, and ordered DeVito into the room.

Chapman then positioned himself between his client and the cameras in the front of the room.

O'Malley sought a continuation within 10 to 14 days, he told Judge Cullen, "because we're looking to indict."

O'Malley later told reporters he plans to seek a direct indictment by the grand jury, rather than waiting for the District Court to bind the case over to the grand jury through the "probable cause" hearing process.

"The District Court system is set up to handle criminal cases with penalties up to two-and-a-half years in the House of Corrections, or five years in state prison," O'Malley said.

"The statute as it reads currently would demand a minimum mandatory sentence of 10 years for each of the charges of trafficking in cocaine over 200 grams," O'Malley said.

"So, on the basis of the charges in Winchester — should DeVito be convicted, and he's presumed innocent until proven guilty — he would be facing a minimum mandatory sentence of at least 10 years," the assistant D.A. said.

"Superior Court is the only court with jurisdiction over one of the crimes Mr. DeVito is charged with — the trafficking," O'Malley added.

"And, to appear before the Superior Court, a person must be indicted by the grand jury."

Center Electricity
Temporarily Halted

For a few short hours on Sunday, Winchester center finally captured that "old days" aura.

There was no electricity. From 12:30 to 7:20 a.m. on Sunday, Boston Edison Co. shut off the electricity in the town center.

According to Boston Ed spokesman Mike Monahan, the company pulled the switch in order to replace about 200 feet of cable.

"We replaced four sections between 12:30 a.m. and 7:20 a.m. on Sunday," said Monahan. He said customers, mainly merchants and businesses, were notified before the shutoff so that they could prepare for it.

"As far as we know, there were no problems with the shutoff," said the Boston Ed official. He said the work was done on Sunday because there is less of a demand for electricity on that day.

He explained that workers replaced electric cables in four sections, installed an above ground transformer and removed one underground transformer.

He added that the most time consuming aspect of the work was to conduct the actual energy switchover, saying that the old cables were apparently worn and faulty.

Monahan said service will not be disrupted this Sunday, the alternate service date.

"It's all set and we were only 20 minutes off schedule. But I don't think anyone noticed we went past 7 o'clock on a Sunday morning," he added.

In a world where quality workmanship and door to door service seem like relics of the past, Faulkner's Cleansing, located at 437 Franklin St., Melrose, offers both of these to area residents.

For more than 38 years Faulkner's Cleansing has served the cleaning needs of Winchester residents and has built up a reputation for quality workmanship that has made them a trusted name in drycleaning and has made many Winchester residents lifelong customers.

Faulkner's not only drycleans all the usual items including pants suits, dresses, and coats, and cleans and presses shirts, but they also go one step further — Faulkner's inspects every article of clothing and replaces buttons or sews seams at no charge.

"We do all the basics that other drycleaners do, we just do them better," explains owner/proprietor Francis Hardy.

As far as service is concerned Faulkner's Cleansing offers something we tend to associate with past decades — door to door service. At no extra charge Faulkner's will pick up and deliver your drycleaning to your house.

Every Tuesday and Thursday their truck goes through Winchester for convenient door to door service. There is no extra charge for this convenience and customers can arrange for free pick-up and delivery by calling Faulkner's Cleansing at 665-6300.

In addition to cleaning all the usual items, Faulkner's also cleans various household items including slipcovers, draperies, and bedspreads. They are also experts at cleaning both suede and leather garments.

And, if you don't have the space around your home or apartment to store seasonal garb, Faulkner's offers storage for anything from furs to wools. Box storage is available in which you receive a large box to store your clothes which are cleaned and pressed just prior to pickup, and ready to wear when you retrieve them by calling Faulkner's Cleansing several days in advance.

For quality workmanship and the customer satisfaction which has been the trademark of Faulkner's for more than 38 years, or for convenient door to door service at no extra charge, come into Faulkner's at 437 Franklin St. Melrose, or just pick up the phone and call them at 665-6300.

Faulkner's Cleansing is open Monday through Friday, 7-5, Saturdays, 8-5.

SENIOR SCENE

Fall Fiesta

The Ways and Means Committee of the Winchester Seniors Assn., with Co-chairmen Anne Feuss and Helen Murphy, is meeting to prepare for the annual Fall Fiesta to be held at the Jenks Senior Center October 4 and 5.

Donations of saleable items will be appreciated. Needed are such saleable items as glassware, dishes, linens, jewelry, bric-a-brac, knit goods, electrical items, children's toys, white elephants, baked goods, men's boutiques and women's boutiques, antiques, and other items for the Gift Table. Articles for the holiday table, and handmade items are especially needed for the Men's Boutique booth.

A dinner will be served at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Friday evening. All are invited to attend.

Chairman Needed

A ticket chairman is needed for the dinner on October 4. Anyone interested should call Anne Feuss or Helen Murphy, or leave word at the Jenks Senior Center. The Knights of Columbus have been generously supportive through the years, allowing seniors to use the large hall to accommodate the annual dinner.

Bingo

The final bingo game for the season will be at 1:15 p.m. on June 28 at Jenks Senior Center. All are invited.

Hampton Beach

On July 10, an air-conditioned coach will leave Jenks Senior Center at 10 a.m., returning at 4:30 p.m. Lillian Monsen is in charge of arrangements. Those who take the trip will provide their own lunches.

Dr. Joseph Cuccia recently spoke about strokes at Jenks Senior Center.

Monthly Dance

There will be no monthly dance at the Jenks Senior Center in July. The next dance will be Saturday, August 24 from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Mt. View House

Reservations are being accepted for the trip on July 10-12 to Mt. View House in Whitefield, N.H. For more information contact Ray and Helen Murphy.

SPAN Efforts

The Senior Postal Alert Network (SPAN) is a free, cooperative effort of the Winchester Seniors Assn., the U.S. Postal Service and the Police Department. Participants register at the Jenks Senior Center, providing their name, address, and phone number and the phone number of a relative or friend who has access to your home. The project assures the registrant of assistance in case of illness or accident. A sticker will be placed on the mailbox to identify the resident who lives alone.

If the letter carrier notices that mail has not been picked up for a long while, he will ring the bell to determine if there is a need for help. If he gets no response, the postal supervisor, when notified by the letter carrier, will call the Jenks Senior Center to initiate action.

Seniors who do not have a SPAN sticker on the mailbox are invited to register at Jenks Senior Center 721-7136.

Movie of the Month

On the third Friday of each month, a free movie is shown at the Jenks Senior Center. Tomorrow afternoon, June 21, at 1 p.m., an invitation is extended to the public to see Charles Chaplin in "City Lights," a movie of the thirties, still enjoyed by those who find Chaplin's screen pantomimes entertaining.

Mormon Church Will Open

By CLAYTON CHRISTENSEN
Special To The Star

Winchester residents who belong to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, also known as the Mormon Church, got a big boost last week.

Their new meetinghouse, located along Route 2 in Belmont, was completed after seven years of planning and construction.

To introduce the new facility to the communities it will serve, the Church has announced an open house, Saturday, June 22, and Sunday, June 23, at the new church.

Residents of Winchester, one of the towns served by the new building, are invited to attend.

Until completion of the new meetinghouse, Winchester residents had to travel to the Mormon Church on Brattle Street in Cambridge to attend worship services and church activities. While that facility has served the church well since its construction in 1956, growth in membership forced church leaders to divide the congregations that met there.

Although the new church building is in Belmont, several Winchester residents hold prominent positions in the church. Unlike most other denominations, in the Mormon Church there are no full-time clergymen. Instead, responsibilities for teaching, service and administration are all assumed by members of the congregation.

Ron Williamson of George rd., is currently serving as a member of the church's Boston area High Council, a group of church elders which oversees the operations of the 10 congregations of the Mormon church in the Boston area.

Linda Hippel of Fairlane terrace serves as organist in the church choir, and served for several years as president of the Primary, the organization charged with teaching children. Hippel's husband, Ronald, works as scoutmaster in the boy scout troop sponsored by the church.

The church open house, according to High Councilman Williamson, will not only allow Winchester residents to view the building, one of the most beautiful Mormon churches in the northeastern United States, but also help them understand how the church affects the lives of its members. The church is one of the most rapidly growing denominations in the United States.

An important feature of the two-day open house will be a classical music concert, Saturday, June 22 at 7:30 p.m., and repeated Sunday, June 23 at 3 p.m. Talented musicians who belong to the church, as well as friends from other faiths, will perform.

The purpose of the concerts, according to Williamson, is to allow visitors to relax and enjoy the beauty of the building and its surroundings. The prominent Winchester chamber music group, Winchester Cathedral, will perform at the concert.

The entire building, including the chapel, recital hall, classrooms, media center and offices, will be open before and after the concert.

Several classrooms in the building will contain exhibits which explain key church programs. These programs are directed toward helping members better apply the teachings of Jesus Christ in their lives and toward strengthening families.

The new church is located along Route 2, which divides Belmont and Arlington, at 2 Ledgebrook pl., Belmont. Ledgebrook pl. can be reached by the road which parallels Route 2 between the Arlington and Park ave. exits.

SCHOOL NEWS

Summer officially begins tomorrow, June 21. With it, of course, comes summer vacation.

The 1984-85 school year's end also spells the end of The Star school page until the fall. As the last page is published today, we offer a camera's eye view of the events and people that made school news this year.

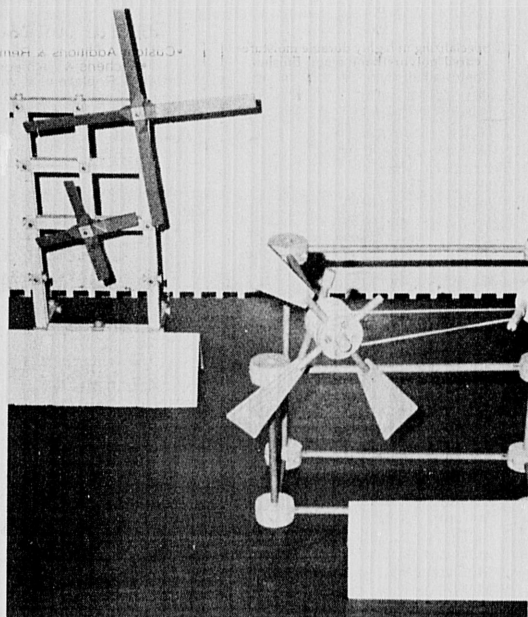

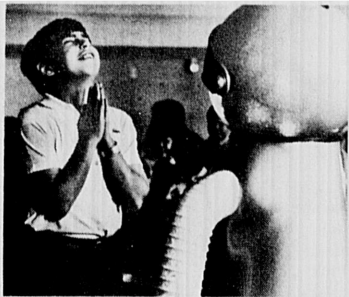

Directly below, St. Mary's School student Danny Feeney, 11, of Highland ave., prays that his test answer is right as he goes up against "K24," the anti-drug and alcohol robot. "K24" was a big hit at Winchester schools during teaching tours in the fall and winter months.

At left is six-year-old Sogin Kim dressed in Japanese garb during Bartlett School's International Day last month. Each class chose a different country to study, and youngsters donned the culture's native costumes. At night, the parents were even treated to ethnic food and dancing.

In the middle row are some of the inventions made this year by Ambrose School second graders. The youngsters made everything from grape juice makers to water wells and windmills as part of a special project on inventors and creativity.

To the right of the inventions are Vinson-Owen students at the annual tug-of-war during the school's spring field day. From left to right in that photo are: Matthew Paoella, Leigh Wagner, Patricia Williams and Siobhan Murray.

ASK THE EDUCATORS

Question: If a parent is really interested in contributing to the quality of public education in Winchester, what opportunities are there to do so?

Ellen Browning
President

Ambrose Parent Assn.

First, and most important, let us know you are interested! If a parent wants to be involved, there is plenty of opportunity and we would love to know of your interest. Parents may ease their way into the school by volunteering as a room parent or a library volunteer. A working parent could be involved in the "Fun Fair," always on a Saturday, attend the working parents coffee, or speak at Career Day. The school's weekly newsletter frequently asks for volunteers.

All parents and guardians of children attending Ambrose are members of the Parents' Assn. An interested parent should ask to be on the Parents' Assn. board. There are 17 different board positions, some require one person, others require two, three or four people. Not all board positions require daytime commitments, therefore, a working parent could become involved in Ambrose at a time convenient to his/her schedule.

In sum, there are lots of rewarding opportunities for interested parents to be a very real part of what makes Ambrose a very special school for our children. But you must let us know of your interest. Please feel free to get in touch with me.

Kamal Misra
President
Vinson-Owen Parents

The basic premise on which the VO Parents Assn. is organized is to promote understanding of school objectives and methods between the school and all parents or guardians of children attending VO. Since understanding requires a two-way communication, the association serves as a medium through which regular dialogues take place between parents and the school authorities.

For a parent who is really interested in contributing to public education in Winchester, there are at least two levels of participation opportunities available at VO.

Firstly, they may contribute ideas as well as time resources to the school on a voluntary basis by serving as volunteers. Here, they may use the parents assn. as a forum to bring their ideas in front of other parents, the school principal and other officials of the Winchester Public School system.

Second, they may serve as a member of the executive board (and/or of various committees of the board), contributing time as well as bringing their ideas to other parents, the Board and the school leadership.

As such, all association board meetings are open to interested parents who should come to these meetings to communicate with others as well as to make contributions to the public education in Winchester.

My own need to understand the school and the school system, and a desire to be of help, led me to participate on various parents' association activities. I encourage everyone to consider doing the same.

Diana Deering
President

Muraco Parents Assn.

Muraco Parents' Assn. strives toward being an open forum for the involvement of parents and faculty. In addition to the usual "fun" activities usually sponsored by parents for the children, Muraco encourages interaction of a more academic nature.

As an example, recently six volunteers from the Parents' Assn., three faculty members and our principal met to review and make recommendations on the Outdoor Education Program. Our field trips, arranged by parents with faculty input, are planned around the curriculum, i.e., Plimoth Plantation for second graders.

Parents who have an expertise in a field, which ties into a subject in the curriculum, are invited to come and speak to the class. This has always been a rewarding experience for the students, teachers and parents.

Dr. Charles Mitsakos
Superintendent
Winchester

There are many ways in which parents can contribute to quality education. Parents certainly know their child better than anyone else. It is important that they share the information they have about their child's interests, needs, and learning styles with classroom teachers. Any other observations of this type would also be invaluable.

At home, parents can provide a quiet area for study and make it a regular habit to review homework assignments and to discuss school experiences in general. Parents can contribute further by establishing guidelines for their child's behavior that support school regulations related to attendance and substance abuse.

Parents can also take an active role in their child's education by volunteering to assist in a school or classroom project during the school day or after school hours.

Any success that the Winchester Public Schools has had has come about because of the desire of parents and the administration to provide the best possible education for each child.

NOTES FROM THE BLACKBOARD

(Note: This is the last special edition of the School News Page for this school year and we would like to take this chance to thank those who have been so helpful. We appreciate the cooperation from all school principals, faculty and students — for without them there would be no school news.)

However, the page would not be successful if not for the tremendous efforts of the following publicity people from each school: Lincoln, Nancy Evans and Judy Dodge; Ambrose, Judy Myra; Muraco, Eileen Schlorff; Vinson-Owen, Helen Williams; Lynch Marie Landry; McCall, Agnes Connolly; St. Mary's, Catie Queen.

Thanks are also extended to Cathy Gatto for her work in setting up "Ask the Educators," which has been so amply taken over by Diane Thilly. We welcome comments and suggestions and look forward to working with the schools next year. See you in September. Rose Ann Gallery)

Flag Day At Muraco

On Flag Day, June 14, the kindergartners from Jane Martel's class, Marilyn DiMassa's first graders and Sue Bokil's second graders at Muraco School had a special celebration for their classmates. Wearing red, white and blue, and singing the songs they have practiced all year they performed for this patriotic event.

Ambrose Essayist

Congratulations are due to Tracy Beals, a fourth grader at Ambrose school whose essay appeared in the May edition of "The Ozark Mountain Visitor." She wrote about an amusement park near her grandparents' home in Missouri.

Field Day-Balloon Launch

Tuesday, June 11, was Field Day at Lincoln School. Youngsters in kindergarten through Grade 3 participated in morning events while Grades 4-6 participated in the afternoon. In conjunction with this annual event, the entire school went to Manchester Field for a Balloon Launch.

Outdoor Education

Ambrose School 5th graders spent an exciting week at the Stephen Greer Outdoor Education Center in Plymouth, N.H. recently.

The youngsters learned about plants and animals and about the implications of construction on the environment. They also visited The Flume and the Squam Lake Science Center.

Field Trip

On May 16, the 6th graders at Ambrose went on a field trip to the Boston Globe. The class enjoyed a tour of the plant, learning about layout, editing, photography and printing of a newspaper. Next, the class went to the Marine Science and Maritime Studies Center in Nahant. There the group learned about sea life.

St. Mary's News

St. Mary's school students were busy during the months of May and June with various field trips. The first and second graders packed picnic lunches and made the "Make Way for Ducklings" walking tour in Boston — which included a ride on the Swan Boats.

Grades 3 and 4 visited the New England Aquarium. They also toured Winchester's own Smith and Locke ponds. Grades 5 and 6 spent a day at the Museum of Science.

The 7th graders found the "Witch City" of Salem, a fascinating place. They toured the House of Seven Gables.

Swim Club party

The Vinson-Owen 6th graders had their Spring Swim Club Party on June 19 at the Winchester Swim and Tennis Club. The function is funded partly by the student's efforts and the VO Parents Association. The students were presented their yearbooks, coordinated by parent volunteers Ginny Germain, Carolyn Angeles, and Judy Bees. The cover was designed by 6th grader Heather Germain.

Penpal Picnic

The 2nd graders at Muraco School recently met with their Billerica penpals for a picnic at Leonard's Field. The picnic culminated a year-long correspondence between the classes. Also the annual 2nd grade Japanese Banquet was held at the end of the 2nd grade study unit on Japan. The children wore Japanese costumes and feasted on Japanese delicacies.

THE SPIDER

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Jazz Concert Will Swing Outdoors

Jeff Harrington will lead his jazz quartet in an outdoor concert next Thursday night at the Parish of the Epiphany.

The Jeff Harrington Jazz Quartet will play nostalgic music from the 30s, 40s and 50s at 8:30 p.m. on June 27 at the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church st., Winchester.

The concert, which will be held outdoors if weather permits, is the second of the 1985 Cloister Garden Concert Series.

Harrington, the quartet's leader and tenor saxophonist, teaches woodwinds for the Winchester Music Program. The program, in its fourth year, offers instrumental and voice lessons, theory classes and small ensemble lessons to students of all ages. Last year 225 students participated.

Other members of the jazz quartet are Dan Weiner on guitar, Stuart Zimny on bass, and Bob Christman on drums. All are free-lance musicians who have played at local clubs including the Willow Jazz Club, Turtle Cafe, Christopher's and Montana's.

Tickets will be sold at the door for $4 for adults, $3 for students under 21. Residents may also buy a package ticket plan for $32, usable at any of the three upcoming Cloister Garden concerts.

For more information, please call the parish office at 729-1922.

Suzuki Pianists To Give Recital

Eleven Winchester children will take part in a Suzuki piano recital at 3 p.m. on Saturday, June 22, at Clarke Junior High School, Stedman rd., Lexington.

Performing will be Anjali Koka, 8, and Rahul Koka, 10, of Pilgrim dr.;

Alenka Zeman, 6, and Jan Zeman, 8, of Marchant rd.; and Sean Margies, 6, and Samantha Margies, 8, of Grove st.

Also playing will be Caroline Cohen, 8; Adam Abatzis, 6; Michael Abatzis, 9; Clare Jacobs, 8; and Laura Jacobs, 12, all of Winslow rd.

The children are students of Elizabeth Landman of Lexington.

They recently performed in a Suzuki Piano Festival at the South Shore Conservatory of Music in Hingham.

Reading Program Offered To Kids

Puzzled about what to do this summer?

Put it all together at Winchester Junior Library's reading program, "Jigsaw Summer."

Children who know how to read can register by reading one book after school closes. Registration opens June 24, and students can also pick up a free glow-in-the-dark button.

Children who finish 10 books by August 16 qualify for a "Jigs Up" awards party August 21 with refreshments and entertainment.

Besides the reading club, the Junior Library will offer drop-in story hours. At special "Pajama Storytimes" children can attend in their P.J.s and bring a favorite blanket or stuffed animal.

Special guest Barbara Anthony will perform twice this summer with her "Flannel Board Storytelling."

Story hours are for children ages 2½ to 5. Schedule is: July 9, 23 and August 6 from 10:30 to 11 a.m.; and July 18, August 1 and 15 from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Comics, Artwork To Show Sunday

Three Winchester residents will show their artwork in an exhibit by the Art 'N' Facts Studio 1-5 p.m. on Sunday, June 23, at 498 Main st. in Stoneham.

In the children's division, Stephanie Ciano and Karen Peabody will show their work in acrylics, oils, watercolor and pencil.

In the adult division, Margaret Duca will exhibit her watercolors. Also at the show, comic book art drawn by students in the Art 'N' Facts comics class will be displayed before going to a publisher this summer. Each student submitted a three-page story for the book.

Rain date for the show is June 30. For more information, please call 438-2900.

Movies, 'Twogs' Set For Library

Winchester Public Library has a series of summer events planned for youngsters.

The Walt Disney film "Pinocchio" will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on July 10 in the library meeting room.

Then, on July 24, the Little Red Wagon will bring puppets, story theater and music to the library lawn at 2 p.m.

Finally, Nadine Suhrbier of "Zuglesnook" fame will lead a creative stuffed animal workshop on August 7, where children can make their own "Twogs." Two sessions will be offered, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m.

Signups for "Twogs" workshops begin July 1. The event is open to children entering grades 2 through 6.

Youth Chorus

Musical Winchester youths may audition for the ninth annual Singers' Workshop at South Church in Andover, planned for August 12 to 16.

The workshop meets daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., culminating in a concert Saturday evening. Classes will be offered in voice, theory, music appreciation and classical choral repertoire.

Spaces are limited. Interested youths should make an appointment with Choir Manager Jeanne Thomases in Reading at 944-1876.

Andover is also the summer home of the Treble Chorus of New England, which includes Winchester members Matthew Benke and Mike Callahan.

★EPA

mittie members were familiar with it. School Committee Chairman Edward O'Connell said Tuesday, "I wouldn't know the Maloney report if it were biting me on the leg right now."

Town Negotiates $19,300 Fine

Meanwhile, the town is striving to compromise with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) over a $19,300 fine imposed for failing to inform school parents and employees about asbestos in nine Winchester schools.

In the latest offer, due today at EPA offices, Winchester would pay $2,895 — or 15 percent of the original penalty — to the federal treasury, according to Supt. Charles Mitsakos.

The town is also asking for a $10,198 reduction in the penalty as compensation for work already done to coat the asbestos in the schools.

Finally, Winchester would agree to use the balance of the fine, $6,207, for additional work to keep school air safe from asbestos fibers, according to Mitsakos.

Town Counsel Douglas Randall, who is drafting the response to EPA, would not confirm the figures.

"I must confess that I'm disinclined to engage in discussion this week. We're hoping to keep this [case] within sensible bounds," Randall said Tuesday.

EPA regional lawyer George R.

Ciampa said the agency was not concerned with "gouging money out of some poor little town." Instead, the fine is designed to create "economic incentive for the town government to spend money on asbestos [treatment] in the schools."

Ciampa said he expected negotiations to continue beyond Winchester's latest proposal. He said Heffernan of EPA would inspect Winchester schools himself and bring his observations back to the agency.

Heffernan said he expects to visit the schools in early July to inspect the condition of asbestos insulation.

In June, 1983, asbestos was discovered in nine Winchester schools, including the seven public schools and two private schools, Agape Academy (formerly Mystic School) and Bartlett School.

According to EPA claims, Winchester did not notify school employees and parents about the asbestos until October, 1984, 15 months after the agency's deadline. The EPA announced Winchester's $19,300 penalty on March 26.

"We were faulted, not for a health hazard, but for having failed to send out notification," said School Committee Chairman O'Connell.

Mitsakos blamed the mix-up on the administration's state of flux in 1983, when two key figures left, both the superintendent and the assistant superintendent in charge of business.

"In that void, [asbestos testing] is one of the things that fell through the cracks," said O'Connell.

The EPA does not require schools to coat or remove the asbestos. But it does require schools to do asbestos inspections and inform school parents and employees of asbestos presence.

Heffernan said compliance with EPA rules does not ensure risk-free schools, since no asbestos removal is required.

"A school can be in compliance with the regulation and have a serious hazard," he said.

In the Maloney report, McCall Junior High School had the worst asbestos conditions, with $11,467 in 'priority 1' removal recommended.

'Priority 1' refers to busy school areas where asbestos could more easily come into contact with people.

Lincoln School had the next highest price for improvements, with $6,780 in work recommended by the contractors.

Bartlett School, a private elementary school, had $4,856 in asbestos work recommended. And Ambrose School had $4,500 in proposed work.

Four other schools had less than $200 worth of work proposed. No 'priority 1' areas were found at Winchester High School or Muraco School.

The EPA law, passed May 27, 1982, requires all elementary and secondary schools in the U.S. to identify asbestos in the schools, to maintain records about it and to tell school employees where any cancer-causing fibers are found.

Under EPA rules, asbestos contaminated schools must:

- Post notices in faculty, administration and custodial offices;
- Notify employees of the presence of asbestos;
- Distribute a one-page guide to custodians about reducing exposure to asbestos;
- Notify parent-teacher associations of investigations and analyses of asbestos done in the schools.

According to Heffernan of the EPA, asbestos risk depends on a number of factors, including its placement and its condition.

"If it's on the overhead of a stairwell, where kids rub their hands over it, that's a very serious problem," he said.

EPA officials suggested parents may refer questions about asbestos to Janet Oppenheim McMullen at the Asbestos Information Center at Tufts University, 381-3531.

Katherine Callahan

Elizabeth (Francis) Callahan died June 5 in Middlebury, Vt., after a long illness. She was 83.

Mrs. Callahan, born in Boston and a Winchester resident for more than 50 years, was married to the late James E. Callahan, a former Winchester fire chief.

She retired in 1968 from the Registry of Motor Vehicles, where she worked as a clerk for more than 30 years.

She was a member of the Guild of the Infant Saviour in Winchester and St. Mary's Church Sodality.

Survivors include a son, James E. Callahan Jr. of Middlebury; a daughter, Patricia Francis of Milford; a brother, John Francis of Cohasset; a sister, Mary Dolan of Newton; and five grandchildren.

Arrangements were by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home in Winchester and burial was Friday, June 7, at Wildwood Cemetery.

Leo Rosenfield

Leo Rosenfield of Winchester, a wholesaler in the liquor business, died June 12 at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He was 74.

The husband of the late Grace (Lipton), he is survived by a daughter, Kate R. Latta, and a son-in-law, William B. Latta, of Winchester.

He also leaves a sister, Irene Bloomberg of Revere, and a grandson, David H. Hambro of Winchester.

A funeral service was held at Levine Chapel in Brookline on Friday, June 14. Burial was in Sharon Memorial Park in Sharon.

Memorial donations in Mr. Rosenfield's name may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Frederic Abbe

A memorial service will be held Friday, June 21, for Frederic Eaton Abbe, who died June 16 in his Winchester home. A retired investment executive, he was 93.

Born in Fall River, he was the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Alanson J. Abbe of Andover. He attended Fall River schools and graduated in 1914 from Harvard University, cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa.

In 1922 he was awarded an honorary doctorate from Piedmont College.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Abbe served in France for two years in Harvard Base Hospital No. 5.

During his career, he served on the board of directors of Kinney Manufacturing Co., Mass. Northeastern Railroad, Stony Brook Railroad and Norwich and Worcester Railroad.

He also served on the board of directors of Eastern Mass. Street Railway, Parsons Paper Co., Millers Falls Paper Co., Vermont and Mass. Railroad. He was president of Bonanza Development Co.

He gave the Frederic E. Abbe Chair in Economics to Harvard University in 1980. In 1984, Winchester Hospital dedicated its new Surgical Suite to Mr. Abbe and his wife.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church in Winchester.

He leaves his wife, Hannah T. Abbe, a daughter, Margaret A. Gray, and a son, Robert T. Abbe. He also leaves five grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

A memorial service will be at 1 p.m. on Friday, June 21, at the First Congregational Church in Winchester.

Donations in Mr. Abbe's memory may be sent to the charity of one's choice.

William McCarthy

Funeral services will be held Friday for William H. McCarthy, a retired textile engineer, who died June 18 at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston after a brief illness. He was 80 years old.

Born in Fall River, Mr. McCarthy was a Winchester resident for six years. He was a graduate of Sacred Heart schools in Fall River, and in 1935 he graduated from the former Bradford Duffee Textile School in Fall River, where he later became a teacher.

Mr. McCarthy was superintendent of textiles for a Fall River manufacturer, and he also worked for Cohn-Hall-Marx of New York as a consulting textile engineer.

He was a member of St. Mary's Church in Winchester.

Surviving are his wife, Vivian (Marchio) McCarthy, and two daughters, Elaine Barron of Winchester and Pauline Pieta of Houston, Texas.

Mr. McCarthy was the brother of Thomas McCarthy and Mary Shannon, both of Fall River; Catherine Coelho of Westport; Elizabeth Cottrell of Cranston, R.I.; Jeremiah McCarthy and Helen McCarthy, both of California; and the late Daniel McCarthy.

A funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. on Friday, June 21, at St. Mary's Church, 158 Washington st., Winchester. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery in Winchester.

Lane Funeral Home, 760 Main st., is making arrangements.

Mary M. Barron

A funeral mass was set for this morning for Mary M. Barron of Somerville, formerly of Winchester, who died June 17 at Somerville Hospital after a long illness. She was 81.

A Winchester resident for most of her life, she was a homemaker.

The wife of the late Thomas J. Barron, she is survived by her children, Arlene Champoux of Winchester; James B. Barron of Braintree; Mary Staffier and John B. Barron, both of Billerica; Thomas M. Barron of Quincy; and Joan Connolly of Norwell.

Mrs. Barron is also survived by a brother, Ronald Murphy of Everett; and by three sisters, Ellen Moore of Winthrop; Kathleen Sandquist of Revere; and Julia Holden of Everett. She also leaves 28 grandchildren and a great-grandson.

A funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. on Thursday, June 20, at St. Catherine's Church, Summer st., Somerville.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

O Holy Spirit, thou who art all knowing, who brightens every path that I may reach my idea, thou who givest me this divine gift of forgiving and forgetting wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life art with me, I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all your blessings and reaffirm once again that I never want to part from thee though the illusion of material things abound. My desire is to be with thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank you for your mercy on me and mine. (Person should pray 3 consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days, grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be.)

Publish this prayer once grace attained. Grateful for grace attained.

What To Visit

"Thar She Sounds Love Affair

Nobody yelled, "Thar she blows!"

But the young humpback courted the big white boat, flirting with its bow and dancing in its shadow.

And on a numbing cold afternoon, the giant performed a half-hour water ballet to win the hearts of the 100 men and women on Greenpeace's second whale watching expedition of the season.

Massachusetts calls itself the whale watching capital of the U.S., with dozens of boats heading daily for Stellwagen Bank, and the hundreds of whales summering there.

This season is an especially good one, say veteran whale watchers, with practically all boats sighting a variety of humpback, minke, finbacks and right whales.

Stellwagen Bank, 35 miles long and seven miles wide, is "like a whale restaurant," says Dave Wiley, naturalist and director of cetacean education at Web of Life Outdoor Education Center in Plymouth.

"It's an area of upwelling currents. Where you get upwelling currents, you get high productivity," Wiley says.

"You get lots of nutrients, which is the basis of the food chain. Once you get lots of nutrients, you get lots of other life forms, from other fish to whales.

"Right now, the main reason for the whales is the sand lance, a small fish about six inches long and very thin — about as round as your thumb. They are out there in huge concentrations."

And because of those concentrations, he says, "It's been a real good season. We've seen whales on every trip — primarily humpbacks, which are the 'whales of choice.' If whales are going to come close to the boat and do acrobatics, the humpbacks are the most likely ones."

Naturalists from Web of Life accompany Greenpeace whale watching expeditions, explaining the habits and behaviour of the whales.

Fred Wasti, a naturalist with Web of Life and biology teacher at Brockton High School, kept watch on Greenpeace's first run of the year out of Plymouth.

As the Captain John cruise boat edges out of Plymouth Harbor, past a channel marker favored by seagulls and along the beach, Wasti and Greenpeace's Emily Sherwood provide a running commentary.

Sherwood explains the organization's continuing battle to halt the killing of whales worldwide. Only Japan, Norway and Russia continue to hunt whales.

Wasti talks about finding the whales, and explains what to expect. To spot the whales, the boat captain looks for birds, fishing boats and spouts.

"We keep our eyes open for unusual birds, and we'll point those out as well," Wasti says.

"This bay is an excellent feeding area for whales. The whales are here in the warmer months, and it's one of the few places in the world where whales feed close to shore on a regular basis.

"We try to be very careful around the whales. When we're not sure of the whale's location, we try and be gentle. Whale watching is a gift the whales provide us, and we certainly don't want to infringe on their rights out here," Wasti says.

More than an hour after leaving the dock, a murmur goes through the 100 people bundled against the cold on this lead-sky day.

"Where?" asks Wasti. "A whale at 10 o'clock, 11 as we're turning! There! A small whale! Let's get some ID here. . . . Now at 12 o'clock," his voice gathers speed.

"It's a humpback whale, with a menke whale out to the left. That's a humpback whale just to the left of the bow there. It looks like a fairly small humpback ahead of us."

As Wasti points and gestures, speaking into the microphone from the bridge of the boat, the crowd rushes out of the warm cabin and into the cold air rushing by at 20 miles an hour as the boat speeds in the direction of the first whales sighted.

"Right at the bow there," urges Wasti, "that slick spot at the right is called a footprint. It's the last spot the humpback was at the surface."

"The slick spot is where the tail flukes pushed up against the surface. Whales and dolphins — unlike fish — push their flukes up and down. The upstroke is the power stroke, so when they make a little deeper dive, they'll push the water up against the surface and create that patch of clear water as the water keeps spilling up.

"If you're wondering how long this whale can hold his breath, most can hold for 20 minutes but something like five minutes is more typical."

Wasti pauses. His audience continues to stare sightlessly into the depths. "This little guy might be going for the Guinness Book of Records here," he laughs.

"Whales don't always show up magically in front of us. At the speed we're going now, we cover a mile in four minutes or so."

"This seems to be a fairly small humpback here. Humpbacks are born during the winter in the Caribbean and during the first year of life they are always seen with their mothers here in the feeding ground," says Wasti.

The whales appear to commute year after year between the warm Caribbean, where they give live birth to their young, and the food-rich North Atlantic, where they eat enough during the summer to sustain them through the birthing season. The Caribbean offers them very little food.

Whales are identified by the tail flukes, and are named and tracked from year to year.

"They show various amounts of white and black underneath the tail flukes," explains Wasti. "We use those markings to identify individual whales."

"The dorsal fin on the back is a hump, and that's where the name humpback comes from. All other whales have dorsal fins."

"If you have a chance to see a snout, you may see a number of bumps on the upper and lower jaw."

"Those are hair follicles. They're arranged in rows, and are found only in humpback whales."

Again, Wasti's voice takes on a sense of urgency.

"Out behind us at 4 or 5 o'clock. That's a humpback there!"

"You can see the profile now. That varies in shape between the individual humpbacks," he says.

The whale appears to be asleep on the surface, rocking gently with the slight swell of the ocean.

"That behaviour he's doing now," continues Wasti, "that's called logging. And there's a spout!"

"You may be able to see when he raises his upper head to spout, there's a splash guard in front of the two blow holes."

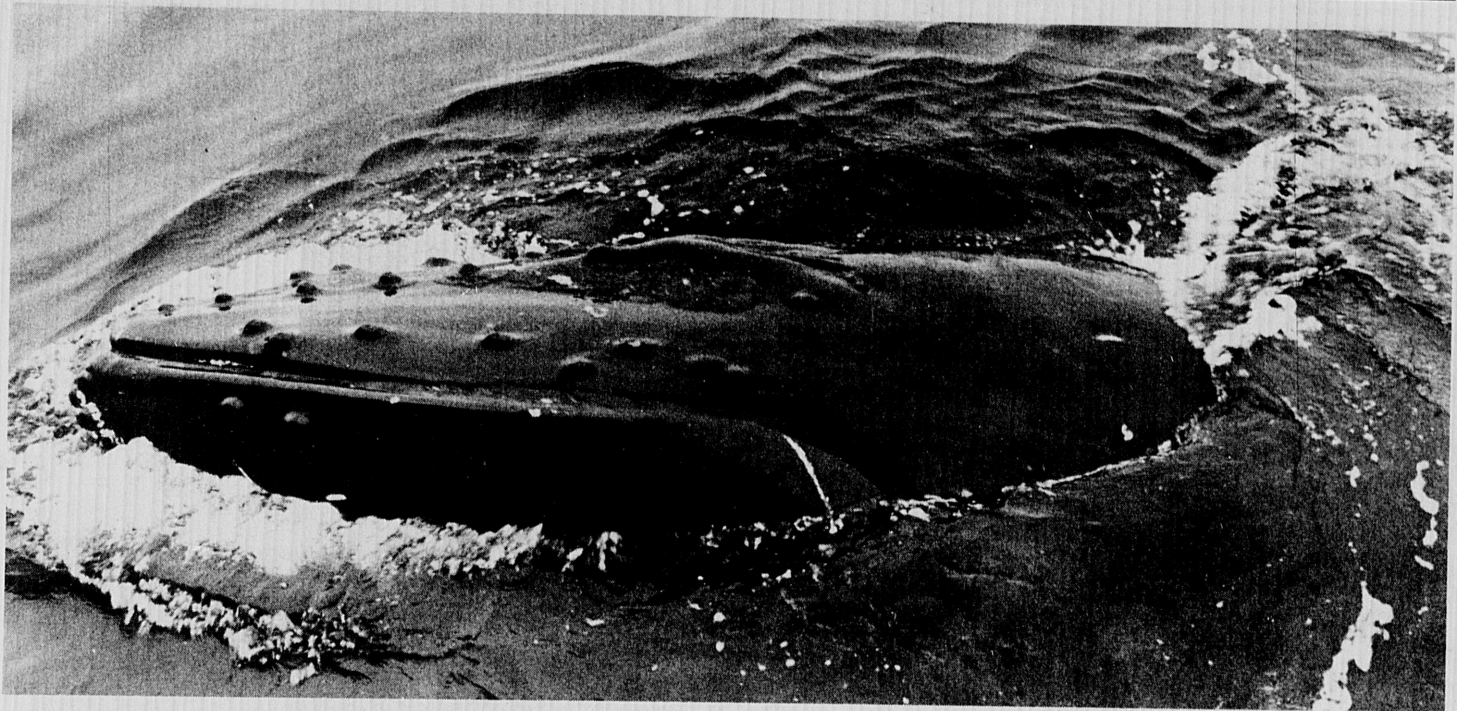

Baleen whales have two nostrils right next to each other, not one blowhole like toothed whales. Here's a spout now!"

By this time, the whale and boat have edged closer together, and the crowd elbows each other for a good look at the humpback 10 yards from the boat.

Suddenly, a smell like a thousand open cans of catfood envelopes the boat as the wind catches the whale's spouted breath.

"It's rather fishy," says Wasti. "But our breath wouldn't be all that nice if we fed on several hundred pounds of fish a day."

The humpback arches and heads for the depths, accompanied by a sigh of disappointment at his disappearance. But the dive was just a tease as the young whale emerges inches away from the boat, rolling over and eyeing the people looking down.

"He's turning over. See the right flipper in the water?" Wasti says. "One of the reasons we like to find humpbacks is they are very social creatures, including affection toward people oftentimes. He's gone back to the other side now. . . watch carefully. . . he's surfacing. Now you've got a good look at a humpback!"

"I've seen whales hundreds of times, but I never lose the thrill," says Wasti. "Here he comes. He's going to stay on the right side of the boat. Now he's rolling over for us. Oh, you beautiful thing, you."

In the next half hour, the whale gracefully rolls and pirouettes along both sides of the boat, waving flippers, spraying the audience and eyeing them from just below the surface.

It was a joyous welcome back from a creature of the wild to the creatures helping save them from extinction.

Where To Watch The Whales Play

Whale watching excursions are available out of Boston, Gloucester, Salem, Newburyport, Rockport, Plymouth and assorted Cape Cod locations.

Prices range from $14 to $20, and trips are generally four to five hours in length.

Warm clothing is strongly advised, with temperatures on the water about 30 degrees lower than on land.

Offering whale watches as part of the Spirit of 85 Whale Watch are:

What To Learn

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

In the 70s, whitefaced ragamuffins appeared on city streetcorners all over the country.

They pretended to be trapped in a box, or walking a lumpy treadmill — or chased passers-by with imaginary flowers to smell.

That explosion of interest in mime may have helped in some small way to make it familiar to the general public.

But it has also made it difficult, sometimes, for the public to take mime seriously as an art, says Trent Arterberry.

"Sometimes, when people think of mime, they think of some bozo on the street making a nuisance of himself," he says.

"Maybe that's too harsh," he adds quickly.

"But when you offer people a mime show, they'll say, 'Oh, mime — you can get that on any street corner,'" he explains.

Arterberry knows what he's talking about: he's made his living as a professional mime for the last 15 years.

Arterberry treats the rules of his profession the way he treats his body. He tries bending and stretching both in every direction he can think of.

"People are often surprised when I tell them I support a wife and two children," he says, with a wry smile.

Arterberry's played Radio City Music Hall, the Palais de Beaux Arts in Belgium, the Queen Elizabeth II liner — and more than 500 colleges and universities — to mention just a few.

He's done it by making himself into a miniature media conglomerate, with all the marketing that goes into a Broadway-bound show.

Yet, despite the high-powered packaging, he's kept his artist's soul.

The combination is no small task.

"Mime is a deceptively simple art form," he says. "There's a lot that goes into it."

For his mime pieces, Arterberry watches how people move — or hold still — in varied situations, and analyzes their motions.

"That requires an intuitive understanding of physics, and a sense of geometry," he explains. "And putting a piece together is not unlike writing a short story."

"You also have to have performance skills — a sense of stage presence — and you have to be in good shape," he adds.

Beyond that, Arterberry says, he designs his own make-up, masks and props, and his stage lighting for theatrical performances.

"And then, there's everything involved with getting the show sold," he adds: graphics, press releases, videotapes, and all sorts of promotion efforts, both to get bookings, and to attract audiences.

"When we go to a college campus, for example, we send out posters and flyers in advance," he explains. ("We" is Arterberry and his fulltime manager, Saul Drevitch.)

"When we get there, we come with banners and videotapes, and we'll do 'teasers' in the cafeteria," Arterberry says.

"I go through the cafeteria as a robot, and goof on the kids, and then I'll run out," he explains. "And then Saul will jump up and yell, 'That was TRENT ARTERBERRY! Let's hear it for him!' and gets them all pumped up."

"It's not unusual for me to get 500 or 600 kids at my show," Arterberry adds. "When the Pousette-Dart band was hot, it was easy — I was the guy on the album cover. But once that faded, I had to get busy on promotion."

By 1983, Arterberry's one-man show won him the National Assn. of Campus Activities' very first "Performing Artist Of The Year" award.

The 33-year-old has played dates at colleges in 31 states and Washington, D.C.; he just finished an 11-day tour of Arizona, California, and Alaska.

But he started his own career by dropping out of college.

"Originally, I went to UCLA as a pre-med student, but I was very confused, and dropped out after the first quarter," explains the California native.

"I went to San Francisco, took some acting classes, did some theater," he says. "Then I saw a mime show Don McLeod did."

"I apprenticed myself to him: did bit parts, held title signs, studied with him," Arterberry says. "I was with him about three months — I picked it up very fast."

"It was very natural to me — there was really this sense of, 'This is it!'" he says with a grin.

In spite of his background in acting, dance, and music, he says, "I never really considered being a performer until I discovered mime."

He hooked up with Melodie Hicks — a high school friend from La Jolla who'd been doing mime since she was 12, and had studied in Paris with Marcel Marceau's teacher, Etienne Decroux.

"Melodie and I put together a children's mime show in '71, and we played it at all the elementary schools around San Diego," he says. They also fell in love.

By 1973, their first child was on the way, and they were on their way east — to Boston. Arterberry signed on with the National Mime Theater, and within a year was a member of the performing company.

He and Melodie reworked their show into a children's participation program they dubbed "Pantomographs," and he taught mime classes at The Boston Conservatory of Music and Boston University.

In 1976, Arterberry got what he considers his best lessons ever in how to please a crowd of any kind, any time.

He became a street performer. He hooked up with two other street performers — Al Krulick and Steve Aveson — to form "The Shakespeare Brothers."

"It was terrific — 1976 was the Bicentennial Year, and we used to pull crowds that were just unbelievable," he recalls, with a smile that lights up his face.

"On the Fourth of July, on Boston Common, we must have had 500 people around us," he says.

The experience introduced him to some of the techniques he uses now, he adds.

"I use a lot of audience participation in my cabaret-format and children's shows, and I wear a wireless microphone," he explains.

He's adopted other things, too: dance, props — and sound, in a traditionally silent medium.

Arterberry treats the rules of his profession the way he treats his body.

He tries bending and stretching both in every direction he can think of, till it would seem they'd snap. Neither does.

But his approach is a bit different, he admits.

Learn Mime This Summer

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

If the idea of learning a new lingo — namely, body language — appeals, Trent Arterberry will be teaching a six-week course in mime this summer in Belmont.

A limited-enrollment class, beginning June 24, will meet on Monday and Wednesday nights at the Kendall Center on Beech st.

The class is designed to introduce beginners to mime performance, and allow students with prior experience to develop their skills, Arterberry says.

A background in acting, dance or mime is helpful, but completely unnecessary, he adds.

"One of my favorite students in the past was an architect," Arterberry says. "And I had an engineer from Brockton.

"I always get a few actor/dancer students who are studying mime for their careers, but I end up with a lot of professional people, because it just appeals to them," he says.

"They see it as a creative outlet."

"One time, I had a psychologist who was interested in body communications," he adds.

In the past, class size has been held to about 15. Arterberry likes to give each student individual attention, and uses videotape equipment so class members can watch their own development.

Tuition for the course is $150. For an application or more information, call Arterberry's studio at 489-3652.

What To Learn

TRENT ARTERBERRY: MIMING HIS OWN BUSINESS

'In its more fundamental form, mime doesn't even use facial expressions,' says Trent Arterberry.

"I'll speak during some mimes, although a lot are silent," he says. "A lot of my routines have music; some have voice and music."

"Sometimes I'll take suggestions from the audience, and I need to be able to speak to them for that," he adds. "And sometimes I'll do my own sound effects during a piece."

"But I consider myself a classic mime," Arterberry says. "I wear whiteface; my routines are usually five to 10 minutes long."

"By classic mime, I mean what Marcel Marceau does: classic French pantomime," he explains.

There are a few differences, Arterberry acknowledges.

"[Marceau] works alone on an empty stage, uses very little music, never speaks, never leaves the stage, and rarely uses props," he says.

Arterberry has broken every one of those "rules" at one time or another.

But even Marceau developed his own style of mime, Arterberry adds.

"In its more fundamental form, mime doesn't even use facial expressions," he says. "Etienne Decroux invented corporeal mime."

"He wears a scarf over his head, like a mask," Arterberry explains. "That way, the head becomes just another appendage, like an arm or leg."

"Decroux is very abstract," he says. "He approaches the geometry, the physics of the movement. It's probably the purest form of the art, but it's an art form, not an entertainment form."

And Arterberry considers himself, first and foremost, an entertainer.

"I'm an artist, too," he says quickly.

But his success as an independent performer is based on his grasp of what people really want to see, and how to tailor his talents to suit each audience — another thing he learned well in his street performing days.

"Most of my material is relatively universal," he says. "But there are choices you make for each group."

"You never do anything serious for little children, or in a nightclub," Arterberry says. "I have some pieces on war, and on loneliness, that just wouldn't work there."

"Part of it is the length of the show: you need material like that in a two-hour performance for pacing — but not in a 30-minute show," he explains. "And the serious pieces are more reliant on stage lighting — which you don't have in a school gymnasium or a nightclub setting."

Traveling — after more than 10 years on-the-road — is not the delight it might seem, But Arterberry says it's really quite limited.

The college dates and other performances take him out of town about 72 days a year — but he's rarely away more than a week at a time.

He likes to be home with Melodie and their daughters, Kate, 11, and Alice, 8 — and this summer, he's scheduled his bookings so they can be together.

"I'll be teaching two nights a week, and performing at some resort hotels around New England, and doing other local shows," he says. "I'll either be able to get home, or I can take the family with me."

"And we're going to take an extended trip back to California to see our families," he adds. "If I had a 'normal' job, we couldn't do that."

Besides resuming his teaching at his studio in Belmont's Kendall Arts Center, Arterberry has recently branched out — again.

The Watertown resident is working for corporate clients, both as a performer for conventions, and in in-house videotapes.

It's something he'd like to do more of, he says — and he and his manager are working up several proposals to send out — just like any other enterprising business owner.

And putting together his own livelihood suits Arterberry just fine.

"I never really liked auditioning and schmoozing and worrying about my next part," he says. "Mime allows me to write my own material, and produce it, and package it."

"It's a very eclectic job, because at times I am a videotape editor, release writer, set builder — and I get to play with makeup and masks," he says.

For all the control he has over his own destiny, however, he still has one "pet peeve."

"It's frustrating for me that some people find it hard to accept that I am a serious professional," he says, just a trace of aggravation creeping into his voice. "I have as much training as many other professionals..."

Then he stops himself, and a philosophical half-smile slips into place — almost like a mask.

"I guess that's part of being a performer," he says. "Sometimes you're treated like a star, and sometimes..."

What To Do

Have A Berry Good Time!

Berry Picking Time Means Summer Taste Sensations

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

Sunlight warms the backs of the pickers, bent over to reach for the next bright red wedge peeping out from under a leaf.

Near-bursting berries, riper than any trucked cross-country, quickly fill the buckets tucked next to their knees.

Children and parents cluster along the rickrack rows of strawberry plants, some filling their buckets, others, their mouths.

A scene from an old New England farmstead?

Well, yes — but with a twist.

Because it's not the pickers who own the farm; they aren't even working for the owners.

The pickers are on a family outing to one of the area's many pick-your-own farmsteads, spending an afternoon together in the sunshine. And they're paying the owners.

Picking your own berries — to freeze, preserve, or — best of all — eat right away — can make a summer memory for children and adults.

But, because berries and strawberry plants are easily damaged, some farms won't let younger children into the fields — and those who do ask parents to make sure the kids are picking, and not playing around.

However, many of the farmsteads offer other areas for kids to enjoy, either after picking or while the older members of the group pick: picnic areas, play space, or farm animals to watch.

And others, based on the popularity of the pastime, have filled in their seasons — between early summer's strawberries and fall's apples — with raspberries, blueberries, green beans, peas, broccoli, herbs, peaches, cucumbers, Oriental vegetables and zucchini.

The Middlesex County Extension Service offers a nine-page listing of farms all over the state. It's free; call 1-369-4845 or write to the service, 105 Everett st., Concord, 01742.

What follows is a partial listing of some of the picking farms closest to Arlington, Belmont and Winchester.

The Farm — 78 Ridge st., Winchester. Part of a farm that dates back to before the Revolution, the Hamiltons keep some fields in production.

Open Tuesday through Sunday, 9-4, but call ahead to see if fields are open — when ripe berries are gone, they close for the day. (729-8775) No children under 12, please, they say. Their strawberries are organically grown; no prices available.

From Summer st. in Arlington, go over Park ave. extension into Winchester to Ridge st.; from Cambridge st./Route 3 in Winchester, go right up High st. to Ridge st.

Verrill Farm — 415 Wheeler rd., Concord. The Verrill family still runs this farm at the corner of Sudbury rd. (Route 117) and Wheeler rd. They expect to have strawberries until about July 4, but call to check, first. (369-5952)

Besides strawberries, they also offer pick-your-own spinach, lettuce, bush beans, raspberries, carrots, chard, muskmelons, Chinese cabbage, yard-long and bush beans, parsley, basil, dill and coriander — and more.

Open now through mid-July, 9 to 6, daily; kids are welcome if closely supervised by adults.

Take Route 2 west, and left on to Sudbury rd./Route 117 (the next exit after Walden Pond); strawberry fields are a few miles down on the right hand side.

Berries at Verrill's go for 80 cents a pound (a quart is about 1½ pounds). Bring your own containers, or buy them there.

Parlee's Farm — 135 Pine Hill rd., Chelmsford. "The berries are ready, ripe and luscious, and 75 cents a pound, same as last year," Muriel Parlee says in her taped message.

The Parlees specialize in strawberries, and are open seven days a week, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., now. (Call to be sure fields aren't picked out: 256-2859.) Bring your own containers, or buy them there.

Children 12 and up may pick in the field; younger children are restricted to the edges.

Take Route 3 to Riverneck rd. (Route 110) towards Littleton. (It becomes first Billerica rd., then Littleton rd.) "Go about two miles past Chelmsford Center; follow the signs of the day at Hunt rd.," Ralph Parlee advises.

Sunshine Farm — 135 Kendall ave., Framingham. Right by the Sunshine Dairy, famished pickers can feast on strawberry shortcake or homemade ice cream after their labors.

Open now, 7 to 7, daily, Sunshine Farm provides containers for berries, which go for 75 cents a pound. Children under 10 must be accompanied by an adult.

Besides strawberries, Sunshine Farm will have pick-your-own peas, raspberries, and pumpkins: call 655-5022 for information.

Take the Mass Pike to exit 13; follow Speen st. to the end (towards the Natick line), then right on Kendall ave.

Wheeler Brook Strawberry Farm — 57 Jewett st., Georgetown. Bob Morehouse, an Agriculture Dept. employee and lifelong farmer, considers family berry picking the best sort of recreation, and offers picnic tables and farm animals as well. Children are very welcome, he says.

Open 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily during the three- to four-week season, "Farmer Bob's" berries go for $1 a quart — about 67 cents a pound. Call ahead to be sure of picking conditions; 352-8289. Containers are available.

Take Route 95N (Route 1) to Route 133; follow 133 to Georgetown Square. Take a right onto North st.; go 1.6 miles and take a right onto Jewett st. The Farm is .6 miles down on the right.

Marini Farm — 253 Linebrook rd., Ipswich. Strawberry fields open for picking 8 to 6 daily, through about July 4, but call for daily info: 356-3055.

Goodale Orchards — 123 Argilla rd., Ipswich. Just a few miles from Crane's Beach, this orchard offers farm animals for viewing, homemade cider and cider doughnuts and pies in addition to pick-your-own produce.

Owner Max Russell says he should have strawberries now through July 10; at that point, his raspberries begin to be ready, and when they fade in mid-August, the blueberries are ripe for picking. Apple-picking starts in September.

Supervised children are welcome; the farm has picnic tables near the barn. There's a working cider press to watch, too.

Strawberries are $1.25 a quart; containers are provided. Open 8 to 4 daily; call 356-0783 for information.

To get there, take Route 128 north to Route 1A north to the Argilla rd./Crane's Beach exit. Two miles past Ipswich Center, on the right.

Leonhard & Eldred Poultry Farm — 1000 Dale st., North Andover. "Just get out your old, comfortable clothes and a hat, get on your knees, and pick," advises the owner of this working farm.

The owners prefer not to have children under 10 in the fields: "they run around and trample the berries," one explains. But senior citizens get a 10 percent discount on the $1-a-quart price on Mondays and Tuesdays.

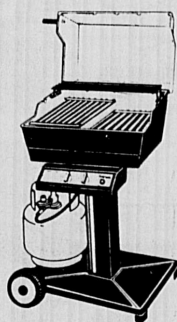

Open 8 to 8 weekdays, 8 to 6 weekends, the farm is picking now and expects to have berries for the next two or three weeks, but call to be sure: 683-1158.

Take Route 93 to Route 495; take the Mass. ave., North Andover exit. Take Mass. ave. through the center, past the Textile Museum and a long brick general store. Take the left where the road forks past the fire station; a left at the blinking light past the cemetery, and follow the strawberry signs.

First Impressions Killer Chemicals: Worth A Thought

Man's inhumanity to man is taking on staggering proportions. The current debate about allowing killer chemical testing just a breath away from a metropolis is staggering to the imagination. Have we departed our senses in the name of a profitable government contract?

Scientists' blind faith in their failsafe systems is appalling. Are dollar signs clouding their vision?

Concrete walls, epoxy paint, regulated air supplies — as well as the chemicals they are intended to shield — are all subject to the same failure, Human failure.

As officials from Arthur D. Little argue that accidental release of killer chemicals will never happen, the effects of other chemicals in other times make themselves known every day. How many lives are lost here because of water supplies contaminated 100 years ago? How many defects, disabilities, agonizing deaths can be counted after the chemical accidents of the industrial revolution?

Chemical spills are killing people every day. But those spills, seeping into groundwater supplies, and into foods and the environment, are from comparatively harmless chemicals.

The chemicals in use at Arthur D. Little's laboratory are far from harmless.

An infinitesimal amount released into the air could kill — is intended to kill — thousands of people. And how many thousands of people live near that laboratory on the Arlington-Belmont-Cambridge line? How many thousands more drive by every day?

And if a tiny amount can kill thousands in the immediate area, what happens to those in the periphery? Like other chemicals, would those victims wish they had been killed rather than simply maimed?

We read the testimony supporting and fighting a house bill allowing community option on whether chemical testing can take place within local boundaries.

Naturally, the laboratory opposes any further steps in the regulation process. Naturally, community residents are afraid of the possibilities.

We live in a world where the technology is light years ahead of our ability to comprehend it. We live in a world where the technology develops its own answers to the problems it creates.

But, in the end, we live in a world where man must still control that technology. Man must maintain the machines. He must keep the electricity running. And he must protect all that machinery and technology and power against alien forces, whether they be terrorists or bombs or infiltrators.

We have yet to witness infallibility. We have yet to see man create anything perfect.

And when the fault is found, when the unthinkable leak is plugged, what of the lives that are lost?

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Clean up chores or projects left unfinished and get back on track with diet or health routines. Open up communications in an important relationship and you'll gain greater security. Be willing to defer to partner's wishes.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Dare to risk and launch an adventurous project. Upgrade your personal appearance — it will do wonders for your ego! Be willing to make necessary changes that will strengthen the tie in an important relationship.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — You have solid support in a property matter — get a professional opinion from the experts. If you use the light touch you'll win out so don't be heavy-handed. Go back over a previous task and make needed revisions.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Come out of your emotional rut and look into educational opportunities to develop your talents. Look at your surroundings with a practical eye and make necessary changes. Do-it-yourself projects are favored.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Your financial picture is more secure but don't slack off work or neglect details. Get agreements in writing instead of trusting your memory. You're in the mood and a new romance with long-term possibilities could bloom.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Energy is high and you're filled with optimistic ambition. Make necessary agreements about money matters and be very direct. Don't be lured by deceptive advertising into making a major purchase — get all the facts.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Listen to your hunches and intuition about a get-rich-quick scheme. Success can come easily now but there will be demands later on. Recognition from important people who are impressed with your style will bring rewards.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — A fond wish could come true or a bonus of some kind. Some blocks are removed and you can move into new areas of activity. Your magnetism is irresistible — get intimately involved in a very promising opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — You may be closing a cycle in your life so don't dwell on the past — move energetically into the future! You're very persuasive now and something you've wanted is within your grasp. Trust your intuition.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Opportunity is around you — stay alert and you can take a major step toward your goals! Exchanging ideas with another ambitious person is mutually beneficial. Use your sense of humor to handle a touchy situation.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Use your originality, inventiveness and talents to develop a new source of income. Review and redo a project — use the best parts instead of tossing it out entirely. Be open and receptive to ideas and help from others.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Carefully evaluate your budget before making an extravagant purchase. You could get some good news about finances, taxes or a raise in pay. Change is in the air — make some long-term plans involving travel or communications.

Our Children Parents Plan Future

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Here are three letters received from future parents. I'd like to share them with you.

Q. Our baby is due in three months, and for some time I've engaged in an activity that I find very enjoyable. Others who are "expecting" also might want to consider it.

I've begun a kind of "book" dedicated to my child, telling him or her what I'm thinking about these days, and what's going on in the world and in our family. I'm including occasional letters from my folks and my husband's folks, newspaper clippings, and feelings about movies I've seen and books I've read. It all goes into a large three-ringed notebook.

I feel like I'm talking directly to my child, and probably will continue after he or she is born. Once in awhile my husband writes in a comment or two, but it is basically my book and my child's.

Do you think this is silly?
A. Of course not, but then why should I when I started this practice myself for each of our three before they were born? I really thought I'd stop long ago (they are all grown now), but I continue occasionally with written passages and events in their lives and mine and their mother's.

I'm now into the fourth thick one for each of them, including letters from them, school records and other items related to them personally, our family and world events.

Once in awhile when they are back home they go to my study, take one of their "books" off the shelf and enjoy it for a few minutes or more.

A "silly" practice? Not to me or mine — or to you, when it comes out of love for a child.

By the way, it's certainly not an exclusive activity for future mothers to start. Take this father's word for how enjoyable it has been for him.

Do you have some favorite parenthood resources in print to recommend to future parents to help them get through the years with a first child? After all, there is little enough (if any) formal preparation for parenthood, so my husband and I need all the help we can get in advance.

Don't mention too many, but one or two could certainly be helpful.

A. Among my favorite writers in this field are T. Berry Brazelton, Thomas Gordon and Haim Ginott, but there are many other fine ones.

Some deal with specific themes, like Virginia Apgar in her book "Is My Baby All Right?" and James Hymes on discipline and child development. And let's not leave out Benjamin Spock.

How about other parents mentioning some sources that have been helpful to them? I'll be glad to pass them on through this column.

Q. Maybe you'll think that I'm naive or foolish, but two friends have brought up a possible problem and it has begun to prey on my mind.

I'm pregnant for the first time, and I am also blind (since birth). It never occurred to me that my blindness could be carried down to my children.

My husband is sighted and totally unconcerned. He tells me not to worry, and so does my obstetrician. But still, I've begun to worry.

What do you think about this?
A. If there is a genetics center in your town or community, you might consult with them about this issue. Why be concerned unnecessarily?

Are you the parent of a pre-school child, 2 to 5 years old? Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, plus your request for information about a monthly service that may help you, to Dr. Willard Abraham, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

Letters may be sent to Our Children, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column as space permits.

What's Free Home For The Holidays

By Judith Harlan
Copley News Service

Indoors and out, the home demands a great deal of attention every spring. Beside cleaning, there are the hundreds of home improvement projects that tug on the householder's thoughts.

All these weeks of indoor living and long, dark nights have given us time to dream up new, sunny ideas. And there are some freebies and promotional offers to give those fantasies a practical boost.

Landscape Plans

There's more to landscaping than trees and flowers.

There are driveway and lawn borders, wood benches, backyard bridges, retaining walls, rustic steps, border fences, sign posts and planters.

And here's a freebie that shows you how you can construct all these landscaping structures yourself. Great Landscapes is a 16-page booklet complete with do-it-yourself plans for landscaping with lumber.

Have you been wanting to build a set of log steps up a steep portion of your back 40? Here's where you find out how it's done — with reinforcing rods. Also, there are suggestions here for a backyard sandbox and a playground fort.

Direction: Send a postcard.

Ask For: Great Landscapes.

Mail To: Osmose, P.O. Drawer O, Griffin, GA 30224.

Silver Polish

If you were born with a silver spoon in your mouth then you know how fast silver turns from a bright, sparkling glow to a tarnished, speckled brown.

The beauty of silver is only as spectacular as your regularity in polishing it.

Here's a freebie that says it can make living with silver a little easier. It's a silversmith's polish sample that is billed as "the world's longest-lasting tarnish preventive."

The company wants you to make comparisons between its product and your current silver polish. They're offered you a free sample so that you can do just that.

The sample is 5 grams, and will be accompanied by a flyer describing all the company's polishing products — a chance to try out a company's goods and also put some shine back into your silver.

Directions: Send a postcard.

Ask For: Hagerty Silversmiths Polish sample packet.

Mail To: W.J. Hagerty & Sons Ltd. Inc., Department FB, P.O. Box 1496, South Bend, IN 46624.

Storage How-To

As you sit and look out your back window can you imagine the yard shaded by summer trees, morning glories growing up the fence and pansies smiling daintily in the breeze?

No? Does reality intrude?

Garden Living & Storage, a 16-page brochure, tells you how you can make your backyard fantasies come to life. Included with these idea-packed pages are two major plans for backyard storage areas.

One is a tool shed made of cedar 2-by-4s and 2-by-6s. The finished building is an attractive structure that actually will double as a cabana. It'll hide all those mowers, tools, bikes and barbecue grills.

A firewood rack is the other major plan. It includes a lockable shed, a garbage can enclosure and racks enough to shelter over a cord of firewood.

Garden Living and Storage also features four pages of interesting arbors, screens and backyard deck areas — ideas to fuel a builder's fantasies.

Directions: Send 50 cents, postage and handling.

Ask For: Garden Living & Storage Booklet.

Mail To: Garden Living & Storage, c/o McQueen Western Wood Products Association, 1500 Yeon Building, Portland, OR 97204.

"Freebies" is compiled by Freebies Magazine, a national publication that features free (or postage-and-handling only) offers you can request through the mail. To receive information about Freebies, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Freebies Magazine, P.O. Box 20283-CP, Santa Barbara, CA 93120.

What Do You Say

By WILLIAM HAYNES

Gerry Sobkowicz, 37
Housewife
Winchester

"We took a vacation to Disney World in the Spring," and we were hoping to take one to Europe in the fall, so the summer is kind of in between. We hope to take long weekends this summer camping with the kids in the Poconos and in Connecticut."

John Bernardi, 41
Economics Teacher
Lexington

"I'm looking for a job in the Boston area, either teaching or doing economic research. I just finished teaching a semester at the University of Vermont as a visiting assistant professor. I taught at Stonehill and at St. John's in New York City as well. So I'll spend my time looking until I find one. If I could go anywhere though, I would go to Greece. I vacationed there before and I loved it."

Mark Gilman, 36
Truck Driver
Weymouth

"I went to Disney World in Orlando, Florida this Spring. It was the third time I have been there. I have as much fun there as my two girls. I have another week-long vacation in the fall where we'll go on day trips to Scituate or Cohasset when the beaches become less crowded, or we may go to Battleship Cove in Fall River."

Betty Bowker
Librarian, Winchester Public Library
Winchester

"My daughter Kathy and I are going to Paris for a week, and to London for a week. We are leaving in mid-August. We have never been there before, and we are both very excited to go."

Gail Barringer, 15
Student, Arlington Catholic Medford

"I'm going to get a job and go to the beach. I go to Revere Beach because all my friends go there and it's a lot of fun. I don't go in the water, I just get a tan, and I've got a good tan by August."

Frank Warren, 58
Driver/Salesman
Franklin

"I am going to Maine to Gabrielle or Goose Bay Harbor for the week of the 4th of July to go sightseeing and swimming."

Tony Bonhomme, 52
Firefighter
Burlington

"I'm going to work this summer. I'm building a shed in the back yard, but I'll take day trips to Gloucester and the Cape."

Phyllis Warren, 31
And Daughter
Housewife
Arlington

"We are going to my parent's summer house in the Berkshires to relax."

John Kozelian, 42
Proprietor Kozelian Arco
Arlington

"I don't get a vacation. I work every single day and night."

For Permanent Weight Management

Diet counseling for permanent weight management is offered at Diet Center of Belmont, 68 Leonard st., in the Center. "How to win at the losing game," is the center's motto.

A cheerful, comfortable, brightly lighted atmosphere greets clients who receive private counseling from counselors who have been through the program themselves and can relate to the dieters' problems.

Diet Center was founded by Sybil Ferguson in Rexburg, Idaho, in 1970, when she decided to do something about her weight problem. Her program worked so well that she began to counsel friends. Now there are 2000 Diet Centers throughout the U.S. and Canada, each independently owned and operated.

Working with Belmont owner-manager Shirley Kay is Nancy Goorno. Their program features a natural diet and regular food — no drugs, shots and contracts. Good nutrition, not counting calories, is the Diet Center way for lifetime weight maintenance — and for losing up to 10 pounds in two weeks without feeling hungry or deprived.

In addition to the balanced program which includes daily monitoring, Diet Center offers approved products for dieters and the general public in its displays. Hours are Mondays through Fridays from 7:30 to 12:30 and 3 to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 9 to 11. Free consultation available.

Lucky Lady Brings Back Memories

Antiques and estate jewelry are among the items featured at the Lucky Lady Boutique, 47 Church st., Winchester.

The shop owned by Jeannine Cassis also carries country crafts, both hand-made and antique. Cassis buys from local craftsmen, including a 76-year-old man who quilts baby blankets and an Israeli woman who crochets lace draperies.

She screens the crafts proposed for sale in the shop, being selective about what she will offer. Her wares include wooden replica weather vanes, welcome signs and goose and duck hangings and figures.

The antiques come from auctions and used furniture stores. Cassis has had pieces such as a Martha Washington sewing table, stenciled cabinet and Victorian dressing tables. Many of her antiques bring back memories for customers who share memories brought to mind by old pieces, such as muffs, sheet music and glassware.

Lucky Lady is open from 10 to 5 daily.

For All Your Carpeting Needs

Oriental rugs, wall-to-wall carpeting and area rugs are offered at Joseph G. Hamwey and Son's two locations in Belmont and Concord.

With more than 4000 square feet in each, Hamwey's stores are beautifully decorated with displays of Orientals and other carpets.

All wall-to-wall carpet is guaranteed for the life of the rug. In addition, Hamwey's has a 100 percent full upgrade credit for an Oriental purchase, provided the rug is not damaged. For a minimal charge Hamwey's will also appraise Oriental rugs in the home.

Robert Hamwey is owner of the business. Manager at 331 Pleasant st., Belmont, is John Welch. William Savini is manager of the 1237 Main st., Concord store. Both locations are open 9 to 5 every day, with Belmont open on Thursday until 9 and Concord open on Fridays until 9.

Hamwey's has been in business for more than 50 years since Joseph Hamwey founded the business. His son opened the Belmont store in 1977 and the Concord shop in 1982.

"Quality merchandise in relation to the dollar spent," is what Hamwey's offers. Says Robert Hamwey, "The overall corporate philosophy is that the satisfied customer is of utmost importance in our business life."

HOPE FOR FIRST TIME BUYERS

If you are looking to buy your first home, I have some good news for you. According to the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, 40% of last year's home buyers were first time buyers. That percentage is up from 13.5 percent just three years ago. Last year's first time buyers had an average household income of $34,000 and a median age of 29.3 years. About 35 percent were unmarried. About 9% bought condominiums, 16% bought new homes and the rest bought existing homes.

More people were able to buy first homes last year because of the drop in sky-high interest and inflation rates. The average home buyer spent $709 per month last year for mortgage payments, property taxes, utility and insurance payments. Three years ago, the monthly average was $100 higher.

Buyers and sellers of homes are positive about achieving their objectives this year. They know that if they wait, they risk paying higher prices and interest rates in the future. A good thing can't last forever in real estate.

Need a mortgage?

Alexandra Holton
Mortgage
Representative

Alex can help.

Applications and paperwork don't help people get loans. People help people get them. And that's why Alex is a good person to know.

Getting a mortgage can be a complicated procedure. You need someone who knows the ins and outs of mortgage lending. A person who can guide you through the process with the attention and concern of someone who genuinely cares about other people. Someone who will do his or her best to help you get the money you need at the best possible rate. And Alex is just that kind of person — she's an expert in real estate and the best ways to finance the purchase of it.

So if you need a mortgage, you know who to call.

Helpful tips for your garage sale

1. Select the items you wish to sell. Do not try to sell everything you own. Select items that are in good condition and have some value. Do not sell items that are broken or damaged unless you are willing to sell them at a very low price.

2. Do not overprice your items. Price your items at half of what you paid for them. This will attract more buyers and you will be able to sell more items.

3. Make your items easy to see. Put your items out in the open so that they are easy to see. Do not hide them away in a closet or under a bed.

4. Be sure to have enough help. Have friends or family members help you with the sale. This will make the sale run more smoothly and you will be able to handle more customers.

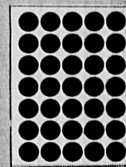

5. Have a good time. A garage sale is a great way to get rid of unwanted items and make some extra money. It is also a great way to spend time with friends and family.

6. Be sure to have a good time. A garage sale is a great way to get rid of unwanted items and make some extra money. It is also a great way to spend time with friends and family.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 58 caliber muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over — from Maine to Rhode Island to New York — but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Borjeson at 1-835-3102 for further information. 11.3/TF

COSTUME JEWELRY made before 1965. Can we talk? Call Rosemary, 861-6096. 6.14/TF

Audi Remanufactured Parts.
Built Like New.
Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts. * The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

* Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department.

Lightning Hits Three

By JILL M. HIGGINS

One man was listed in "poor condition" late Wednesday, while two others were released from hospitals after being jolted by lightning during Monday morning's violent electrical storm.

The three, all of Allston, were finishing a landscaping job at the corner of Amberwood dr. and Johnson rd. when lightning streaked into the hilly neighborhood.

James Gibbons, 20, and brothers Peter Dailey, 19, and Timothy Dailey, 17, were struck shortly after 10:30 on Monday, as they tried to finish mowing a lawn before the storm intensified.

Gibbons was released Wednesday morning from Winchester Hospital, while Timothy Dailey was scheduled to be released from Boston Children's Hospital late Wednesday.

Since Tuesday, members of the Dailey family, including father Timothy, who watched horrified as his sons were struck, have kept a vigil of hope for Peter, who was still listed in "poor condition" at Winchester Hospital Wednesday.

Meanwhile, a spokeswoman at St. Anthony's Church in Allston said parishioners crammed the 9 a.m. mass on Tuesday to pray for the recovery of the Dailey brothers and their friend, James Gibbons.

Fire and rescue squads from Woburn and Stoneham aided Winchester police, fire and rescue personnel Monday morning, when the call came in about 10:30 a.m.

Winchester assistant building inspector Arthur Gallagher was driving by the area when the accident occurred.

"It was raining hard and I saw this man waving his arms all around,"

(See LIGHTNING, Page 16)

He Felt Paralyzed

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Lightning last week struck fear in the heart of 20-year-old James Gibbons of Allston.

But it's not going to stop him from going back to work just as soon as he can.

"I'll be back to work next week, I think," he said Tuesday as he munched his vegetable salad during lunch in his Winchester Hospital room.

"I'll be back out there mowing lawns — as long as Peter's OK, that is. But I'll never be out again when it's raining."

Gibbons, 19-year-old Peter Dailey and Dailey's 17-year-old brother Timothy were trimming the lawn of an Amberwood dr. resident when they were struck by lightning Monday morning.

The Allston friends were trying to finish mowing a small patch of lawn before the rain became worse.

Ironically, said Gibbons, it was Peter, who was listed in "poor condition" at Winchester Hospital, who was pushing to get the job finished.

"Peter and I were the ones who were pushing to get the job done so we wouldn't have to come all the way back to Winchester just to finish that little bit," said Gibbons.

"I remember thinking 'we'll be OK, mowing in the rain. I mean a little rain's not going to kill us, right?' Boy, I wish I had known then what I know now!"

Gibbons said he believed he was struck by an offshoot of the bolt that struck Peter Dailey. He was hit only seconds after Peter.

"I think it must have been a piece of what hit Peter. It was attracted to me because of my ring, because it entered through my finger and exited through my ankle."

(See GIBBONS, Page 16)

How To Avoid Danger

The following tips on how to avoid being struck by lightning were compiled with the cooperation of the Winchester Fire Department and the Public Library.

Fire Department spokesman John Regan reminds residents to be especially careful in high, hilly areas and to remain calm in the event of an accident.

If possible, avoid the following places which offer little or no protection from lightning:

- Small unprotected buildings, barns, sheds, etc.
- Tents and temporary shelters (not lightning protected).
- Automobiles (nonmetal-top or open).
- Recreational vehicles (nonmetal or open).

Certain locations are extremely hazardous during thunderstorms and should be avoided if at all possible. Approaching thunderstorms should be anticipated and the following locations avoided when storms are in the immediate vicinity:

- Open fields, athletic fields, and golf courses.
- Parking lots and tennis courts.
- Swimming pools, lakes, and seashores.
- Near wire fences, clothesline, overhead wires, and railroad tracks.

Under isolated trees.

In the above locations, it is especially hazardous to be riding in or on any of the following during lightning storms:

- Open tractors and other farm machinery operated in open fields.
- Golf carts, scooters, bicycles, and motorcycles.
- Open boats (without masts) and hovercraft.

It may not always be possible to choose an outdoor location that offers good protection from lightning. Follow these rules when there is a choice in selecting locations:

- Seek depressed areas — avoid hills and high places.
- Seek dense woods — avoid isolated trees.
- Seek buildings, tents and shelters in low areas — avoid unprotected buildings and shelters in high areas.
- If you are hopelessly isolated in an exposed area and you feel your hair stand on end, indicating that lightning is about to strike, drop to your knees and bend forward putting your hands on your knees. Do not lie flat on the ground or place your hands on the ground.

Unsightly Sand Stirs Beach Lover's Complaint

By NANCY PICK

Leonard Beach is bustling again with swimmers, sunbathers and sand castle sculptors.

But Jane Lang, a tan, thin woman who goes to the beach daily from her Orient st. home, says conditions are not up to snuff.

Gritty, dirty sand is the worst problem, she told Selectmen Monday night. "It doesn't even resemble beach sand," she said, adding that the heavy grains stay wet and cold even when the sun is out.

Although new sand was added last year, it was of poor quality, she said, and should have been rejected.

Richard B. Toturi, grounds supervisor for the town's Dept. of Public Works, said that among the many tons of sand delivered last year, a few loads had silt in them.

Unfortunately, said Toturi, that unwashed sand ended up as the top layer on the beach.

At the time the sand was delivered, he said, the beach was hectic with machinery and clean up crews rushing to get the place in shape before the season began.

No one working at the site had the time "to go over every pile of sand with a fine-toothed comb," Toturi said. Also, he said, it's difficult to spot the quality of sand when it's heaped on a truck.

He said the sand came from a Newburyport contractor, chosen by the town because it gave the lowest bid. He said he thinks the bad sand came by mistake.

Toturi said there is only a small price difference between washed and unwashed sand.

To correct the situation now, said Toturi, several new truckloads of sand will be sent in next week, giving beachcombers a dry and clean surface to sit on.

But Lang had more complaints, including the muddy condition at the pond. On Tuesday at the beach she stirred up green clouds of muck near the shore with her hand.

People should demand better conditions, she said. "If they want a mud hole, OK."

Toturi of the DPW defended the water as normal for a natural pond. Unfortunately, he said, "People want a pool like they'd see in a swim club."

More than 100 gallons of water a minute pours into the pond from six deep Winchester wells, he said. So the water stays clean even if the sand isn't perfect, said Toturi.

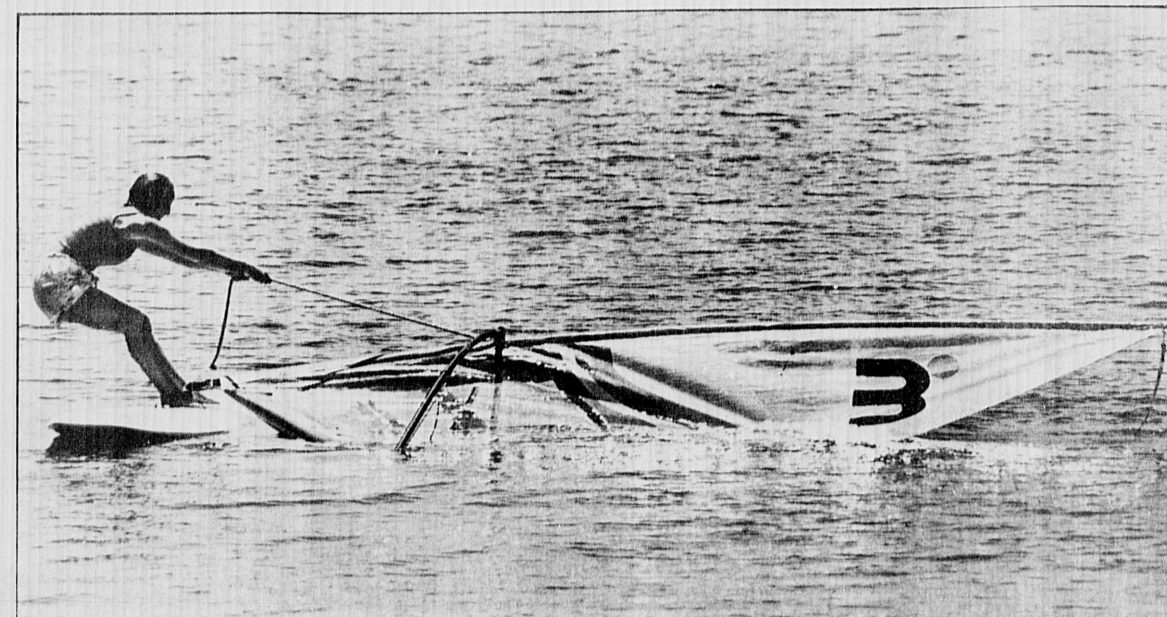

Besides, debris from trees in the area and rainwater runoff are bound to get into the pond, he said, creating natural silt.

Lang said Leonard Beach is a recreation spot for Winchester residents who choose not to join country clubs or who can't afford them. It's the spot for people who don't have Cape Cod cottages, she said.

She wants to see more picnic tables at the beach, in addition to the two in place now. And a wooden shelter could be built to provide some shade.

Also, on weekends Lang said the beach is mobbed with people, many of them from outside of Winchester. Some don't obey the lifeguards, she said. To keep the beach under control, she said, a monitor should be hired to check for Winchester residency.

POLICE LOG

Tuesday, June 25

Three police cars were egged sometime during the night, officers reported at 6:10 a.m. Two egg cartons were found on trail leading to woods near the Lynch School police station.

According to the police report, a clerk at White Hen Pantry on Main st. told police that two 10- or 11-year-old boys bought two dozen eggs at the store at about 12:30 a.m.

Monday, June 24

Vandals smashed the windshield, rear window and driver's side door of a car parked in a Clark st. driveway, police reported at 2:40 a.m. The car was defaced with white paint spelling "Happy Birthday Honey" and was also splattered with eggs.

According to the police report, police said someone known to the resident may be implicated. They advised the woman to file a complaint at Woburn District Court.

At 10:50 p.m. police reported another incident of car vandalism. A car parked in a Wildwood st. garage was found with a smashed windshield and obscenities scratched into it.

Richard D. Nohetty, 27, of Wagon Wheel rd. suffered a sprained left ankle and bruises on his arms, legs and head at 6:40 a.m. when his bicycle collided with a car at the intersection of Socrates Way and St. Augustine ct.

The car's driver, a 24-year-old Watertown woman, was not injured in the accident. Her car sustained damage to the front fender and hood.

Nohetty was treated at Winchester Hospital.

No charges were reported.

A construction foreman at a vacant Edwards dr. house reported that two microwave ovens and four garbage disposals had been stolen sometime during the weekend.

He told police the ovens were valued at $500 each, and the disposals at $80 a piece.

Sunday, June 23

At 5:35 p.m. a 20-year-old Woburn man was cited on speeding charges and issued a $100 fine, police reported.

Saturday, June 22

Police arrested an Arlington man at 1:10 p.m. on charges of driving with an expired license. He was arrested at the intersection of Church st. and Cambridge st. after police saw a car fail to stop at a red light.

At 5:30 p.m. police ordered a car towed from Clark st., where it sat abandoned for several days. The car's license plate was traced to a man in Enfield, N.H.

A Main st. resident told police he recognized an intruder at the parking lot of Wedgewood Condominiums on Main st. as the man present the morning his car was stolen.

Police advised the intruder, a 23-year-old Woburn man, to stay off the property.

Boston police had already found the car, reported stolen on June 18.

The fight broke out on Cambridge st. at 7:25 p.m., police said, and involved accusations of spitting, swearing and name calling.

No charges were filed, police said.

At 3:45 p.m. a Washington st. woman told police she was driven off the road by a reckless man in a Mercedes.

The man, a Winchester resident, told police he passed the woman's car as she was apparently going to make a right turn.

No charges were filed.

Thursday, June 20

A Boston Edison employee was injured at 10:30 a.m. when a passing trailer truck got snagged on a safety rope, dragging the man across a parking lot, over the trunk of a parked car and down to the ground.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Main st. and Lake st. while an Edison pole was being moved.

Police said the man, William K. Roche of Reading, was holding a rope carried by his partner, James Stone, who had climbed the pole. When the truck became entangled, Roche released a safety latch on the rope in an effort to try to keep Stone from being pulled down from the pole.

Roche reported a badly torn toe nail on his left foot, along with pain in his lower back and upper torso. His supervisor took him to the hospital, officers reported.

Wednesday, June 19

At 4:15 p.m. police arrested three men at Winchester's Middle Reservoir on trespassing charges. Arrested were a 20-year-old Winchester man, a 21-year-old Winchester man and a 20-year-old Woburn man, according to police reports.

Swords varied little in form from the 12th century to the end of the 15th century. The blade generally was two-edged and up to 40 inches long.

Expert Offers Tips On Safe Driving

"Independence Day drivers in the Commonwealth should be aware they are entering the most dangerous time of the year statistically, to be on the highways," so says Arthur Moriarty, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Safety Council.

National statistics show July to be the most dangerous month to drive in terms of fatalities (4,370 in a recent year). During any given month Saturday is the most fatal day of the week to drive. "As the day progresses there is an increasing percentage of your fellow drivers who are under the influence," Moriarty said.

"The later you are on the road on a Saturday night the greater the odds you will meet a drunk driver."

Twenty percent of all accidents occur on Saturdays — and Saturdays in July are statistically the most dangerous days of all.

The one bright spot concerning these figures is that this year's 4th of July falls on a Thursday. "Any holiday will generally push up the fatality rate by 1 percent. Independence Day on a Thursday means fewer lives may be lost than if the holiday were to be part of a weekend even though some will be making a 4-day holiday of it," Moriarty said.

"The fact remains, however, that we are now entering a period of increased vacation driving and awareness becomes the key to successfully travelling the highways."

Holiday Motorists: Beware Of Speeding

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, anticipating heavy traffic over the July 4th holiday, issued a warning to motorists that the 55 mile per hour speed limit and the enforcement of the drunk driving laws will be rigidly enforced along its 135 mile roadway.

Chairman John T. Driscoll said, "State police from Troop 'E' which patrol the turnpike, will augment regular radar teams in order to discourage excessive speeding." In addition, radio-equipped emergency service patrol vehicles will assist police in locating and assisting motorists in disabled vehicles. A full force of toll collectors will be at all interchanges across the commonwealth. He urged motorists to have the correct change at the interchanges so that it will help to speed up delays that may occur due to the heavy holiday traffic.

Chairman Driscoll also said, "Service stations and restaurants along the turnpike will be opened 24 hours a day."

Driscoll added, "It has been proven that compliance with the 55 mile per hour speed limit saves gas, but equally important has reduced fatalities by at least 10 percent annually along our nation's highways. It is equally important during this holiday, that all motorists without exception, limit their speed to this legal limit. We are determined to enforce this law. In doing so we will achieve a safer holiday for all."

CLUB NOTES

Local Man
Is Elected
Lodge Leader

A Winchester resident who serves as Clerk Magistrate of the Concord District Court was elected president of the Massachusetts Sons of Italy yesterday during the 71st annual state convention at Boston Park Plaza Hotel.

Elected state president was Charles H. Perenick of Winchester. He was state first vice president and has held other posts in the organization since he founded and was first venerable of the ITAM Sons of Italy lodge in Pittsfield in 1964, which was the largest local lodge in the country.

Perenick, a graduate of Norwich University, served on the staffs of governors Volpe and Sargent. He was appointed to Clerk Magistrate of the Concord District Court by Governor Sargent in 1972.

Born in North Adams, Perenick is a former Pittsfield school teacher and member of the Mass. State Police. He joined the National Guard as a private and rose through the ranks to his present position of colonel in command of all non-division troops. He is married and the father of four children.

The four-day Sons of Italy state convention concluded Sunday following a business session and installation of new state officers.

Junior Women
Plan Anniversary

On sale at the Book Ends Bookstore located in Winchester Terrace is the effort of the members of Winchester Woman's Club Juniors to celebrate their 10th anniversary.

The book is called "Celebration." The members of the club represent varied nationalities and have included recipes of the countries of their origins plus other gourmet favorites, ranging from hors d'oeuvres through soups, salads, entrees and desserts.

Mildred Cook of Book Ends has an ample supply of the cookbooks, the proceeds of which will support local programs; such as, the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, SEEM Program, Winchester School System, Special Needs Camperships and the Drug and Alcohol Abuse Program at Winchester High School.

Winchester Music Program, one of the programs helped by the Junior Women's Club, offers rhythm classes for children.

ABC Directors
Hear Reports

The ABC (A Better Chance) annual meeting took place recently bringing the 1984-85 year to a close.

For the past 14 years, the ABC program has brought promising minority students to Winchester where they attend the high school. Each year, up to 10 young men reside at the ABC house during the school year and, with the hard work of the ABC committee and a great deal of support from the community, come to find a better chance.

At the annual meeting, final reports were made by committee members, and out-going president, Carolyn Ward spoke about activities that had taken place during her tenure. Along with her thanks to Mary Jo Nealon who will be leaving the program after serving as resident director for seven years.

The election of committee members to serve next year was held with the following people on the executive committee: president, Sandra Thompson; vice-president, Edward Martin; clerk, Gretchen Racek; treasurer, John Moore; personnel, Donna Down.

The committee chairmen include: academic affairs, Ted Benton; community relations, Sandra Rodgers; events-Fall, Jane d'Entremont; finance, Allan Rodgers; health, Richard d'Entremont; host families, Jane McIntosh and Kathleen Bodie; housing, James Machonochie; legal, Ray Boulanger; tutoring, Marty Fuller; enrichment, Lois Anderson.

Enka Group
Holds Meeting

The EnKa Society of Winchester held its annual meeting in June at the Church of the Epiphany. A eulogy was read by Dorothy Wadsworth in memory of Evelyn Ritchie, a long time EnKa member.

After a luncheon served by Celena Bradlee and her committee, members heard reports from the various committee chairmen.

Lorna Tseckares, membership chairman, and Marcia Saltmarsh, advisor, presented last year's provisional members, who elected to become active members, with their EnKa emblems.

They are: Dorothy Beattie, Elizabeth Bruck, Cheryl Curtin, Mary Gay Deskin, Jean Dillon, Jean Kilker, Helen Longo, Mary Ann Magee, Cindy McCrystle, Carole McGeehan, Christine Murphy, Ann Norberg, Maria Signorino, Diana Svahn, and Deborah Dimes Traniello.

A 15-year membership pin was awarded to Carolyn Gunby and 25-year pins were presented to Sylvia Gustin, Mabs Harris, Ellen Kimball, and Marie Strout.

Anne Everett, social service chairman, announced the EnKa will send 60 Winchester children to summer camp this year.

Jacquelin Heffernan, co-chairman of the EnKa Exchange, presented president Mary Ann Crockett with a check from the exchange, indicating a very successful 1984-1985 year at the shop.

Street Fair Chairman, Aileen Barcus presented her report, citing excellent response from the people of Winchester. The proceeds will enable EnKa to continue to fund its many projects in Winchester.

Gifts Chairman Barbara Haddad announced the following organizations and agencies are to receive financial gifts from the EnKa Society at this time.

They are: Girls Summer Basketball, Red and Black (W.H.S. Newspaper), Winchester Youth Baseball, Winchester Summer School (Scholarships), Visiting Nurses, Patriots Trail Girl Scouts, (Winchester Chapter), Winchester Summer League (baseball), Winchester Historical Commission, L.S.W.W. Partnership Program, Winchester Hospital Health/Wellness Day, Winchester Police Dept. (radio No. 2) A.B.C. Inc. (Capital Fund Drive), and the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

Mary LaGatta, nominating chairman, presented the following slate of officers for 1985-1986. The elected board will include: president Mary Ann Crockett; vice president Judy Thyson; secretary Sandra Thompson; treasurer Betty Stebbins; assistant treasurer, Louise O'Donnell.

Committee members are: Street

Fair chairman Phyllis Johansen; Joyce Cummings and Nancy Clarke; EnKa Exchange, Co-chairmen: Diane Gallagher, Jacquelin Heffernan, Shirley Mulvaney, and Agneta White; Civic, Mardi Crawford; Social Service, Anne Everett; Meetings, Lorna Tseckares; Membership, Carol Johnson, chairman; Geraldine DeGeorge, Carol Kent, Phyllis Knopf, Condemned to Death!

Every summer, thousands of cats and dogs die needlessly after they are left inside cars. Even when car windows are slightly open — and pet owners are gone "just for a minute" — the rapid buildup of heat inside the car can reach well over 160 degrees in a few minutes.

Pets don't sweat like people do; they cool themselves through their lungs by panting. When the air becomes too hot, brain damage and eventual death results.

Shaded parking areas, open windows and air conditioned cars with the motors off will not prevent your pet's death from heat prostration.

If you must take your pet along in the car, have another person stay with it while you're gone. Ask him or her to take the animal for a walk or a rest in the shade. Provide fresh, cool water to drink.

Act immediately if you see an animal enclosed in a car on a summer day. Call the nearest police or humane organization for help.

WINCHESTER STARS

By JILL M. HIGGINS

For as long as he can remember, Harvey Kornicks has loved art.

As a student, he used to walk past the old jeweler's shop at 10 Winchester pl. just to watch the experts create their masterpieces.

Now, many years later, he fills their shoes. He is the master craftsman who whips up fancy cocktail rings and elegant earrings.

And he does it in the same shop that he peeked into.

"I guess I'm a dreamer," he said as he straddled a bench in his art-filled studio. "I always wanted to work in my own studio; somehow I just knew that some day I'd get my wish."

Kornicks, a California native who moved here several years ago, was formerly art director at Winchester High School.

But about a year ago, he gave up the teaching life to do what he loves best — create art.

He spends much of his time sculpting jewelry that is unlike the pieces found in a shopping mall store.

His rings consist of layers of gold and silver carved out images of animals or other tiny figurines.

His bracelets are often masses of intertwined silver and gold or simple metal bands bearing a cluster of beads at one end.

"Usually, I get my ideas from people who tell me about the person they are buying the jewelry for. I'll ask about the person's hobbies or work — anything that makes them outstanding from someone else. It's important for the piece to be representative of them."

Recently, Kornicks made a tie clasp for the Winchester Chamber of Commerce. The hand-crafted gift was presented to longtime resident Clarence Borggaard, the Chamber's Man of The Year.

"I wanted it to be something special — I wanted everyone to be happy with it. So I used the Chamber's insignia as the basis for the jewelry."

Kornicks says he enjoys the challenge of capturing the essence of a customer's interests.

"It's what makes a piece of jewelry different from any other piece. I try to create something that is not only flattering but something that makes a statement about the person as well."

He says he has always been an artist at heart — even though there was a long time when he felt he might never be able to make a real living at it.

"My parents don't understand how I can look to art as a way of life. My brother is a very successful 9 to 5 person and I guess that's the way they expected me to be. But I just can't be what I'm not. I have to be true to myself."

Tall and lean, with a rich crop of nearly black hair, Kornicks appears the epitome of the pensive, creative artist.

He speaks slowly, deliberately — as though he is weighing each word to create a balanced, artful sentence. "I don't want to mass produce anything. That's not what makes good art. It takes longer to make one set of hand-designed, handmade earrings. But an original pair is so much more meaningful than a pair that looks just like the ones that someone else."

Another facet of the art world that clearly captivates Kornicks is that of antiques — especially paintings.

In the small anteroom linked to the jewel gallery, Kornicks displays a huge portrait of a young woman, wearing a thin drape of clothing, and looking dramatic as ever.

"It's beautiful," he says, explaining that it also is a costly item. But then, he adds, antiques are often expensive.

It is the costliness of the antique world that drew him.

"I think everyone should be able to enjoy the beauty of old artwork — be it paintings, old clothes or furniture."

"It's very frustrating to see people at antique shows sell something for far more than it's worth — and get the price they ask for."

"I'm hoping I can make a dent in the antiques circles. Some of the dealers know who I am — and know that I know when they're not being fair. I think everyone who wants an antique painting or whatever should be able to own one."

"Not everyone will be able to pay thousands of dollars for an exclusive original; but at least people should have a taste of it. Just a small piece is enough to give people a taste of the past."

He grins when asked if thinks about his jewelry as being heirlooms — antiques in later years.

"I don't know if that day will come. . . . But it's nice to dream about. . . ."

SENIOR SCENE

Ellis Island Project

Nearly 17,000,000 immigrants entered the United States through Ellis Island between 1892 and 1954 and more than 100,000,000 Americans can trace heritage back to them.

As part of the recent nationwide campaign to restore and preserve the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, coordinators of the Ellis Island Oral History Project want to record and preserve the stories of the immigrants — their hopes, fears, joys, losses, accomplishments and courage. Local coordinators plan to interview 200 people in the area who either came to the U.S. through Ellis Island or worked there. It is hoped that through the sharing of these stories, this vital part of American history will be recorded for future generations.

People who know someone who has vivid memories of Ellis Island during those years should direct responses to the Jenks Senior Center (721-7136). These will be forwarded to the Public Information Department of the Ellis Island Oral History Project, New York, N.Y.

Memorial Tree

In early April, Emily McDavitt, a very public-spirited lady, passed away suddenly. Her devoted friend, Mrs. George Marks, wishes to give a living memorial in the name of Emily Mansfield McDavitt from the Marks Family, Dr. and Mrs. George Marks now reside in Alton, N.H., and Sarasota, Fla.

Emily McDavitt lived in Winchester all of her married life, participating in many community activities. She served as a former president of the Winton Club, drove seniors for a number of years as a member of the Jenks Senior Center Transportation Committee, and participated in church activities. Her kindness endeared her to all who came in contact with her. Grandchildren and great-grandchildren considered their grandmother's home as their second home.

Because the summer months are not ideal for transplanting a tree, Don Ellis, landscaper at the Jenks Senior Center, advises delaying the planting until the fall, when a variegated dogwood, oxendium, or paperback maple, will adjust to new soil as a living memorial to Emily McDavitt.

The tree is a gift from Dr. George Marks, his wife, Emily, and their four children. - Anne Marks Morgan, George A. Marks Jr., Frederick H. Marks, and Amelia Marks who is the godchild of Emily McDavitt.

Among Mrs. McDavitt's survivors are two sons, Edward of Winchester and Donald of Amesbury.

Fall Fiesta Fair

The faithful volunteers who have given time and energy through the years to the Winchester Seniors Assn. have come through once again. The following people will assist with fundraising for the Fall Fiesta Fairs, which are October 4 and 5.

The Ways and Means Committee is as follows: Ways and Means Chairperson, Anne Feuss; co-chairpersons for the fair - Anne Feuss and Helen Murphy; gift table - Pauline McGuigan - Evelyn Jenks; Aprons - Irma Ganchi; Holiday - Ann Ciampa; Baked Goods - Marjorie Blomquist, Sylvia Saslow and Esther Anderson.

Knit goods - May Hamby; Jewelry - Dorothy Cullen; Cheese - Rena Kazanian; Men's Boutique - Kenneth Cullen; Women's Boutique -

Miss McDavitt Is June Bride

Nancy Lane McDavitt and Thomas Paul Morris were married in the Washington, D.C., Temple on June 1.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur DeGeorge and Mr. Edward McDavitt of Winchester. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Morris Sr. of Harrisonburg, Va.

Following the ceremony, performed by Bishop Joseph Potz, a reception was held at the Washington Ward in Harrisonburg.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of chantilly lace trimmed with pearls saved from her great-grandmother's wedding dress. She carried a bouquet of pastel daisies and carnations.

Betty McDavitt served as maid of honor for her twin sister. She wore a lavender chiffon gown and also carried daisies.

The bridegroom's brother, James Morris, was attendant.

Ring bearer was Marisa Leavitt, a student of the bride. She carried a white satin pillow passed down from the bride's great-grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. James B. Lord.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth State College in New Hampshire and holds a master's of education degree from James Madison University in Harrisonburg. She is an aerobics and aquatics instructor at Valley Wellness Center in Harrisonburg.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Radford University in Virginia, is a laboratory technician at Perdue in Shenandoah, Va.

Following a wedding trip to Long Beach in Rockport, the couple lives in Harrisonburg, Va.

Hollyanne Haas Weds M. Milley

Hollyanne Haas and Capt. Mark A. Milley were married May 4 in a double-ring ceremony at Holy Family Catholic Church in Marietta, Ga. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Haas Jr. of Marietta. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Milley of Wildwood st.

The Rev. Dave Kukielski performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Powers Ferry Holiday Inn.

The bride wore a traditional gown of white organza with European embroidery laced with seed pearls.

Maid of honor was Amy Lee Haas, the bride's sister. Alexander Milley Jr. was the best man.

Bridesmaids were Mary Kay Milley of Winchester; Angela Ashby of Atlanta, Ga.; Laura Frohock of Roanoke, Va.; Beth Ann Salvati of Reading, Pa. and Pamela Traer of McDonough, Ga.

Ushers were Army Sgt. Henry F. Beck; Andrew Harding of New York, N.Y.; Kevin E. Kelly of Marietta; Joseph Lande of Pittsburgh, and Army Capt. David Price.

Flower girl was Laura Haas, and ring bearer was Michael Haas, both of Lancaster, Pa.

The bride attended Kennesaw College and is studying for a nursing degree at Hartnell College in Monterey, Calif.

The bridegroom graduated from Belmont Hill School and from Princeton University in 1980. Since graduation he has served in the Army, in the 82nd Airborne Division and the 5th Special Forces Group. He is now assigned to the 7th Infantry Division in Fort Ord, Calif.

The couple will live in Monterey, following their honeymoon trip to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

Diane Marino Plans Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. James Marino of Winchester announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane F., to John Elliott Nosack of Lexington.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William Nosack of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Miss Marino is a graduate of the Boston College School of Nursing. She works at Massachusetts General Hospital in the newborn intensive care unit.

Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Utah. He is a senior at the Tufts University School of Dental Medicine.

An August wedding is planned.

Dorothea Waite and Peter P. Patino, both of Winchester, will be married June 29 at the Colonial Inn in Concord. The couple will travel to Las Hadas Manzanillo, Mexico, for their honeymoon.

Saturday Was The Big Day For Sachem Star

Congratulations is extended to Dave Doherty after the North beat the South in Shriner game on Saturday by Chrissy Sarino. North rallied in closing seconds for a 15-14 victory. (John Pawlick Photo)

North Rallies For Victory

By David DeMarco

Ever since 1979, when Tom Murray of Winchester scored that first touchdown, the annual Shriners football classic has been one of the most exciting events of late spring.

This year was no exception, as the North squad rallied on Saturday to win with just 36 seconds left.

Representing Winchester on this year's team was David Doherty -- number 60 -- who played right offensive guard. "Dorr" made some outstanding blocks and played well overall.

In a game that traditionally favors the defense, the South squad opened the scoring early.

Mike Power of Westboro threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to Kevin Collins, giving the South an early 7-0 lead.

North came right back and took the ball 78 yards to score on a four-yard run by star-to-be Tracy Giles of St. Mark's.

With the game tied at 7, and 8:53 still left in the first quarter, it seemed this conflict was going to be an offensive show. However, neither team scored again until the fourth quarter.

Often the North would be hurt by costly penalties and mistakes would also stall drives.

With seconds left in the third quarter, number 22, Albert Pelletier, of Thayer Academy misjudged a punt and fumbled on the North 1-yard line, giving the South a golden opportunity.

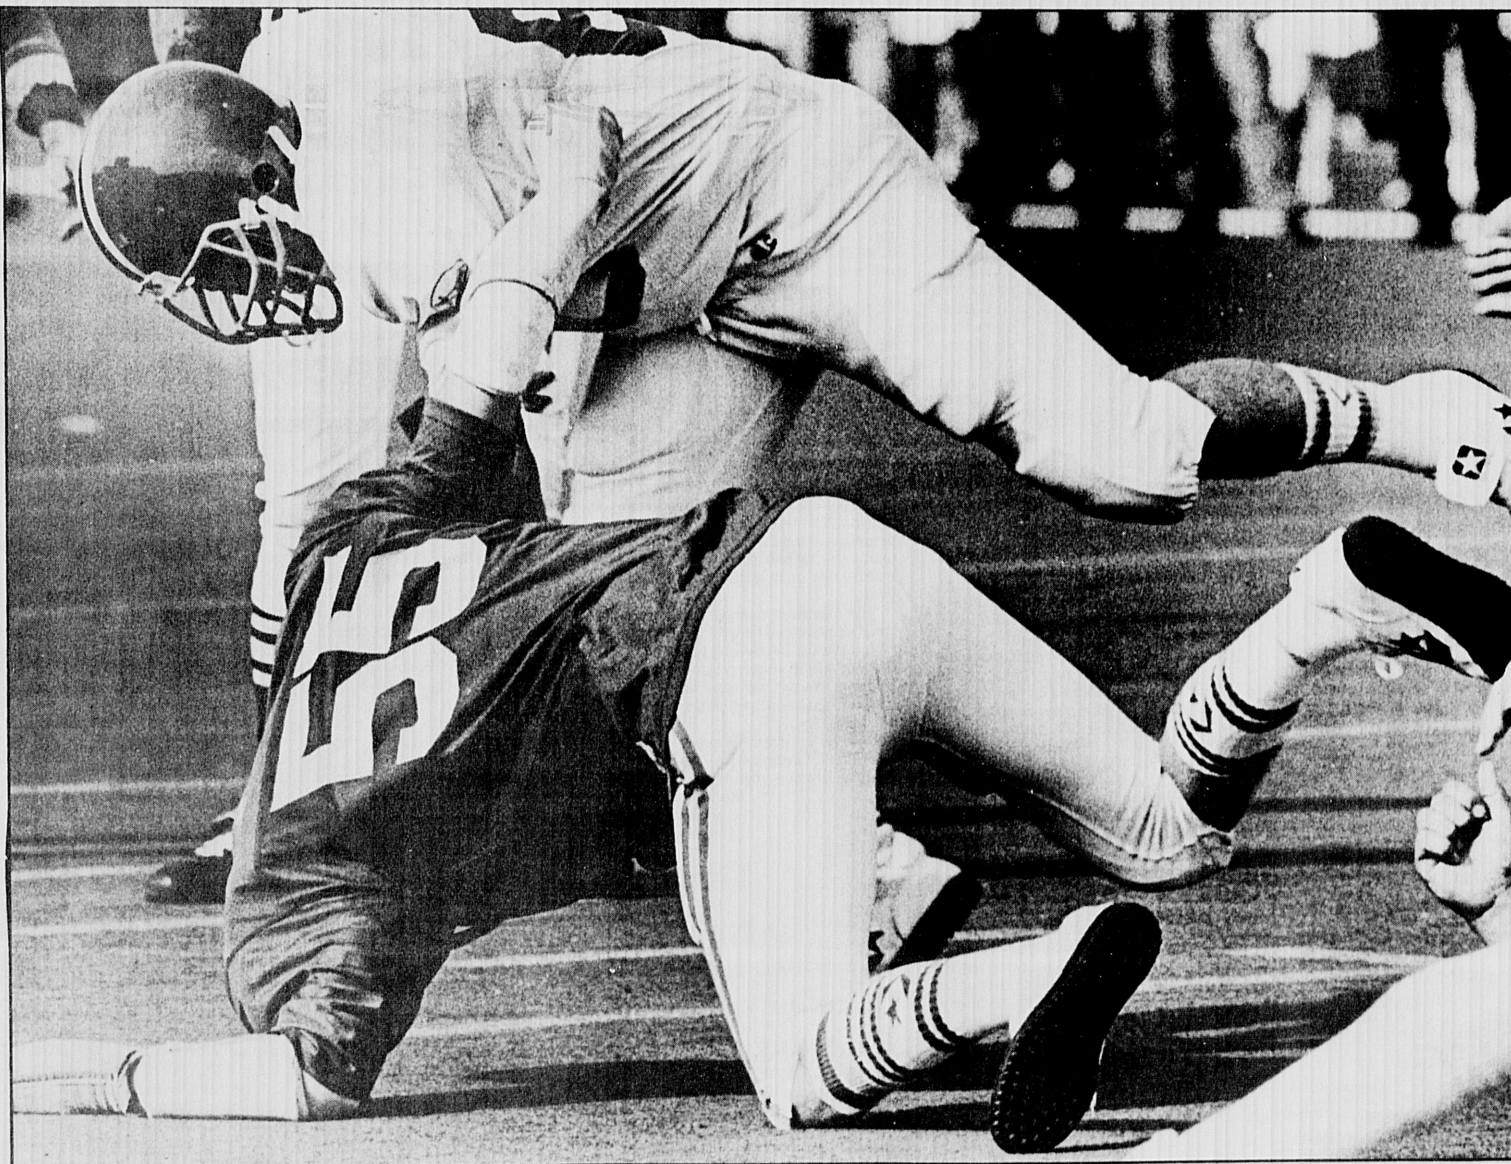

Gene Alston of Malden Catholic scored, giving the South a lead that seemed to be enough in a defensive game.

Again, mistakes hurt the North, as Roger Baldacci of Swampscott threw two interceptions to stifle North drives.

The South could do nothing, and appeared to be sitting on their seven point lead. With about two minutes left, Tracy Giles had other ideas.

Number 38 took over, as Giles stole the show, leading the North to the two-yard line with seconds remaining.

Quarterback Shawn Kennedy of Boston Latin handed the ball off to Tracy Giles, who moved in to put the North to within one point at 13-14. (Please turn to NORTH - Page 14)

Youngsters Are In Swim At Beach

By SHARON FRAY

More than 95 youngsters really got into the swim of summer this week -- literally -- as the first session of summer swimming lessons began Monday at Leonard Beach.

Program supervisor Hugh Murray said that this is the most popular session the Recreation Department has had in two years. Although the department is still accepting registrants, Murray said, most classes are already filled up.

He added that registration is still open for the basic rescue and lifesaving classes which begin next week.

Murray said that the ages of the children range from about 3-5 years old in the classes for non-swimmers to around 14 and 15 for basic rescue.

Lessons are held weekdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and are divided into two, three-week sessions. The second session will begin July 15. Anyone who wants to sign up for the second session can do so at Leonard Beach on the first day of the session.

The lifeguards, two supervisors and two additional instructors train the children for Red Cross card certification as Beginners, Advanced Beginners, or Swimmers.

"We're trying to keep the class sizes small," Murray said. Class size ranges from 2 to 9 children.

The participants in the program were enthusiastic. Sean Rafferty, age 6, said "I like diving under." Sean is a beginner and says he has been coming to Leonard Beach since he was a baby. His friend, Michael Morris, also likes diving and taking lessons.

10-year-old Chuckie Keef is an advanced beginner who aspires to become a lifeguard. He said he's been taking swimming lessons at Leonard Beach for three years and likes jumping and diving off the docks. "About everybody I know comes here," he said.

Hugh Murray, who has been teaching swimming at Leonard Beach for 4 years, said he enjoys his job. "Some kids come back," he said, "and you get to see how they improve."

Summer Sachems

The Summer Sachems baseball team won three of its four opening games recently, beating Wakefield, Woburn and Wilmington, and losing only to Chelmsford.

Students Must Have Physicals To Play Sports

In order to participate in fall sports at Winchester High School, all candidates must have had a physical examination by their own physician dated no earlier than May 1, 1985. The examination form from the physical must be given to their coach on or before the first day of practice, Monday, August 26, 1985.

Important To Exercise Before Starting Program

By STEVE NORTON

If you have the desire to begin exercising at home, remember there is an amplitude of knowledge to gain prior to turning on the music and jumping around.

Set some time aside each week for reading articles pertaining to aerobics. Before you know it, you will be telling everyone about a sport which can done to your favorite music, on your own time and without injury.

Begin learning anatomy and physiology of the human body -- your body. During the process of exercising, all systems become involved.

When exercising, the musculoskeletal system demands increased amounts of oxygen ("aerobic" means "with air"). The cardio-respiratory system speeds up to aid in transporting deoxygenated blood to the lungs to replenish it with oxygen. The integumentary system (how's that for a fancy word for skin) passes perspiration through the skin to help maintain normal body temperature. The gastrointestinal system utilizes calories, nutrients and fluids when nutrition is adequate.

For those of you who have been leading a sedentary life, it is recommended you consult your physician before starting up your aerobics program.

Warm Up

Your workout should include warm-up, stretching, aerobics, floor exercises and cool down. Warming up prepares you physically and mentally. Relax and do not hold your breath. Plan to spend 7 to 10 minutes on your warm up. This is your limbering stage. Do small movements -- arm and leg circles, small kicks -- smoothly at a moderate pace. Concentrate on a constant rhythmic breathing.

Stretching

Stretching, for 7 to 10 minutes, will reduce the chance of an injury. Never bounce in stretching -- make it smooth and gradual. Hold your positions for 10 to 12 seconds before moving on to the next position.

Gradually increase the time you hold the stretch. Begin with the head and neck and work down to the feet and ankles. Stretch all the major muscle groups.

Aerobics

While standing, begin the aerobics. Beginners should try for 14 to 20 minutes at their own comfort table pace. Continue at that pace and time until you feel it is too easy. Then gradually add a few minutes to your program.

Start with small movements for the first 3 minutes and gradually increase the intensity. Add a variety of movements by involving other body parts. Try to arrange the routine so the exercises flow easily from one to the next.

While running in place, try to keep (Please turn to EXERCISE - Page 14)

COMMENT

Winchester
Kernels

Ah, the rewards of journalism. Recently, The Star gave a tour of the newspaper office to a group of 7th-graders from Watertown. Their teacher wrote back with a thank you note, of sorts. "It was not exciting but you couldn't call it boring," the kids relayed about the tour. "I think they meant it was an interesting experience," wrote the teacher. "From newspaper non-readers you should take this as a compliment."

Take Pity On The Folks Who Live 'On Display'

Every June I feel the year's longest day approaching - I don't even need a calendar to tell me it's near.

The first day of each new season announces itself in some way to us.

Take autumn's first day, for example, likely a day most blooming and summerlike. And yet there's a change in the quality of light by the time you're that far into September: colors take on a golden cast in the soft afternoons, and a certain wind playing in the treetops hints at our imminent fall from grace.

As for winter's beginning, it comes with an all but audible tolling of iron bells. I remember noting its arrival last year; the Old Farmer's Almanac had figured it to the very second. I sat in my car at that moment by the edge of a pond. The day was pinched and grey, with a sun so low in the sky as to barely clear the housetops; any fool could tell that winter had occupied our territory by its close. The most unobservant could see that she had moved in and laid down the stern precepts of a chilly martial law.

Of spring's start, of course, there's never any question, perhaps because we wait for it so long. It can be rainy and cold in that third week of March. It can even snow. But when that day finally dawns that stretches itself like the neck of a small sun-hungry crocus to a length equal with the night's, we all sense the transformation. Birds gossip excitedly about it at dawn. Babies wake earlier, singing the news in their cribs.

This is how all three seasons announce themselves to us, then, high in this rock-strewn and gently sloping corner of America. We pause and mark their announcement.

But when that fourth season changes - when summer makes her breathless and flouncing appearance on our stage at last - it does more than rustle softly in trees and breezes.

The sun has climbed as high as it can go by this date. It shines with a wonderful, warming, restorative strength.

The air bears a curious added weight; light pours through it with the liquid wobbly heft of mercury.

Every particle of matter feels charged. Your skin bristles and glistens like the electric pelt of a well-fed cat.

There is the sense, on this first day of summer, of time suspended; a moment, a span of hours even, arrayed around the noon-hour, when creation holds still. The gears of the universe stop turning; the noise of their silence hums in our ears.

We are poised, on this day, at the top of a kind of mystical roller coaster, with the long slow climb behind us.

Picture yourself outside at this hour. Come out with me now and sit in the shade of this birch.

For a tiny interval here, we grow no older. The sun has paused in the sky, the way they said it did once for Joshua. Time stands still.

Our children are still our children, laughing and turning cartwheels just out of sight behind the house. Our parents are still our parents, strong and capable, tall in the bloom of midlife. The old elm tree lives yet, unbowed by chains or disease.

Our eyes shine moist and youthful. We feel shimmering at our centers the same cup of life that first brimmed in us as babies - call it the soul, if you like.

Nothing changes, for this brief interlude. Time stops moving in a linear fashion and shows itself, for these few moments around the Summer Solstice at least, to be what it always has been, in God's mind: a circle, seamless and whole.

A round and endlessly spinning gyre.

A wheel, if you like.

We are poised at its top now. And all is fixed, guaranteed, and granted as promised, as it was in the beginning.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Residents
Push For Sound Planning

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In a statement which appeared in last week's issue of The Star, Sam Rotondi referred to those opposed to his proposed housing project on Forest street as "the same group of people who oppose almost everything in Winchester.... (They) just don't want low income families in their neighborhood." He further characterized our concerns over this project as "the same fear that is the basis for the town's housing crisis to begin with."

Such statements may be politically expedient but they alienate and insult those who have a deep feeling for the place where they live as well as a strong moral concern for the needs of the disadvantaged in our society.

From Mr. Rotondi's remarks, the reader is to infer that those opposed to his project are political reactionaries who not only refuse to help the poor, but who stand in the way of the solution to Winchester's housing problem.

At issue is a proposal to build a 70-unit complex in a neighborhood zoned for single-family homes, where people are already worried about increasing levels of fast-moving traffic.

Forest Street is a winding, hilly, narrow and poorly lit street which leads to I-93 on one end and connects to Washington Street and Route 128 on the other. Residents are faced with rising levels of noise and pollution, and increasing danger to elderly and children - not to mention the trash we must pick up from our lawns every day.

Because this proposal includes 18 units of housing for low-to-moderate income families, it has a moral dimension not usually associated with apartment developments.

Because the town is currently facing a deadline for the provision of a housing plan for low-to-moderate income families, a political dimension is also being added to what would normally be simply a question of sound town planning.

Because we live there, our deepest concern is for the neighborhood. Recently, The Star published a map of our area which showed several large plots of undeveloped land, one consisting of nearly nine acres. What do we say to the next developer who comes along? He may also seek special financing in exchange for sorely needed access for a particular disadvantaged group.

And what will we find as we look around our homes 25 years from now? Will our neighborhood become another apartment-land? We don't have to travel far to see the ravages caused by spot zoning. When we paid premium prices for our homes, we were choosing not to live in that kind of town.

Sound planning and access for the poor, elderly, and handicapped don't have to be at loggerheads. With creative and professional planning, the character of our environment can be maintained and even improved while we share with others the excellent services that our town has to offer.

Once Again

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Channel 2 Auction has come to yet another successful conclusion for the year! WGBH-TV is proud to be able to continue providing quality entertainment, thanks to the generous and enthusiastic support of all the donors, volunteers and bidders in Winchester.

My special thanks to Dee Rotondi, who so ably served as captain of the go-getters in Winchester.

Interfaith Group: Let's Work Together

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As members of the Steering Committee of the Winchester Interfaith Assn., we would like to respond to the letter from Paul and Mona Johnian which appeared in the Star on June 20.

Our organization includes active and committed members of all the Winchester Christian and Jewish congregations who meet regularly to learn with and from each other.

Our group does not currently have Moslem representation, but as individuals, several of us have friends and acquaintances whom we like and respect who are of that faith.

We strongly disassociate ourselves from the anti-Islamic sentiments expressed by Mr. and Mrs. Johnian. Obviously, the Shiite fanatics who are trying to further their own ends by killing innocent American travelers are as reprehensible to us as they are to the Johnians.

But there are crazies at the fringes of all religious groups. The violent fanatics who have been involved in so many recent tragic events are the extremist fringe of a minority sect within Islam.

They do not resemble their reasonable, intelligent co-religionists who live in Winchester any more than the violent, alienated Protestants and Catholics who are killing each other in Northern Ireland resemble in their attitudes the local members of those religious groups.

There is quite enough divisiveness in the world already. Let us not add to it by criticising each other's religions.

Deserves Praise

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am a member of the Winchester Lacrosse team and would like to call to your attention a member of our team. His name is Paul Ferullo and he has received many awards that have gone unnoticed by your paper. Even though our team did not have a great season, Paul did. He was named to the Boston Globe All-Scholastic team, Boston Herald All-Scholastic team, and also to the Division 1 All-Star team.

I felt compelled to write this letter to let you know of his accomplishments this season. I think he deserves a little space in your sports section to let the people of Winchester know of these honors.

His accomplishments do not stop with lacrosse. He was the captain of the soccer team, as well as the lacrosse team. He also played hockey and was named to the Middlesex League All-Star team.

I just feel you should be aware of Paul's success this year and hope you could inform the people of Winchester of it, too.

Thank you for your time.
Sincerely,
A member of the team

Reader:
Sidewalks
Aren't Helpful

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It was with pleasure that I read the article (June 13 Star) about spunky Betty Newell because I have admired her courage and ability to get around when many others might give up completely.

It was especially interesting to read that she had no difficulty maneuvering anywhere except at the so-called "handicap ramp" in front of Craddock's Apothecary at the corner of Church and Waterfield roads. My own sister who must use a walker, also finds it impossible to move around that corner where the entire sidewalk slopes suddenly.

Some of us have vowed that instead of helping the handicapped, its dipped construction might indeed make handicapped persons out of the able bodied! So, one wonders if the wheelchair occupant cannot use the wheelchair ramp why would the rest of us be doomed to pick our way around the spot?

Then, in the article about "Winchester getting $169,000 for more renovations" I noted that these funds will allow Winchester to "redo ten crosswalks in Winchester center." When one thinks of the thousands of dollars spent on the construction of these faulty (or whatever) crosswalks, one questions who approved the plans and who supervised the work as it was being done?

It didn't take long for many of us who pass that way frequently, to realize that something was very wrong there as soon as the mortar dried. We, in truth, have to pay to have these crosswalks redone? Question.

Anyway, we certainly hope that the Craddock crosswalk will be the first to be "redone" and, preferably before the snow and ice make the area even more difficult to use.

'Thanks, Bob'

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Bob Lynch, acting principal of the Lincoln School for the leadership he has given to the Lincoln community during this most difficult year.

His kindness and optimistic personality provided us with the balance which we all needed to prevent the tragedy which occurred from leaving permanent scarring, especially on the impressionable young children under his care.

Bob is a great teacher and a wonderful human being, to whom we shall be always grateful.

Resident Questions
Rezoning

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

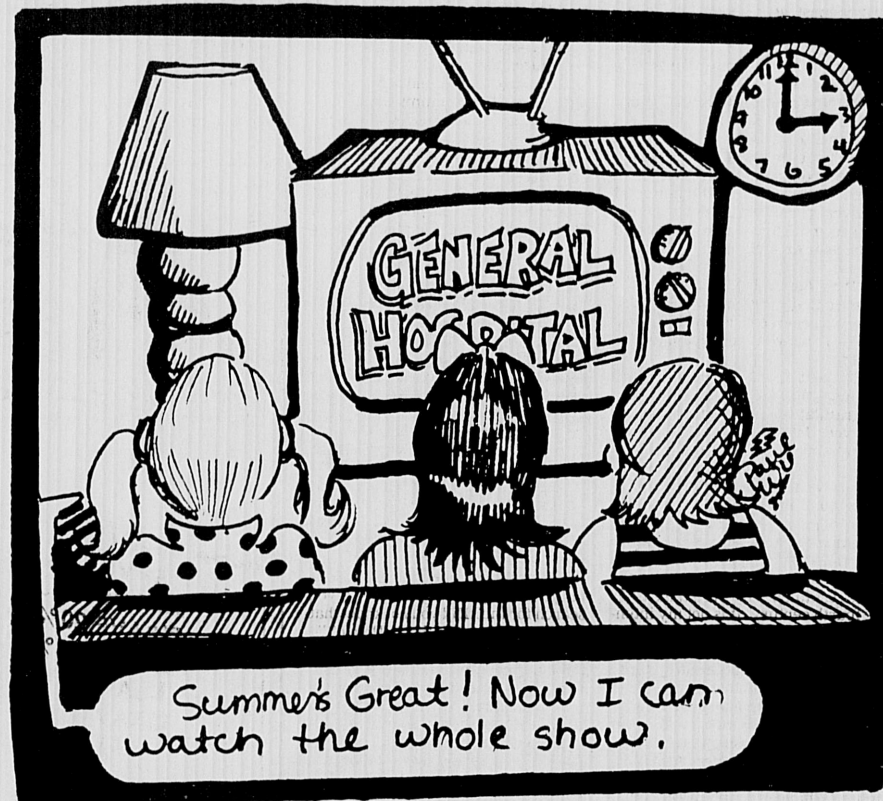

The proposed re-zoning of the Forest st. property from single-family to multiple-dwelling raises a number of economic and policy questions.

Economic questions include consideration of the taxes the property will generate, and the costs to the town of the services which will be required. Will this project be self-supporting, in the balance of revenue and costs, or will it enrich the developers at the expense of the rest of the town?

Policy questions: is it proper to change the zoning? Would this project receive support if it were sponsored by a family from Albany or Chicago? If not, then questions of favoritism inevitably rise.

Unless favorable answers to these questions, and many more, are not available, it seems that this proposal does not deserve the support of the town's leadership.

Very truly,
Fred Powell

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

This week's column records local representatives' and senators' votes on 10 roll calls from the week of June 17-21.

1986 BUDGET (S 2401) — The House, 144-7, refused to concur with the Senate version of a fiscal 1986 $8.8 billion state budget.

Supporters said the Senate version is better and noted agreeing with it will prevent a limited six-member conference committee from drafting the final version of the budget.

Opponents said the House version is better and argued the House should not give in on many of its major points.

(A "Yea" vote is for the Senate version. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Winchester Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET (H 6236) — The House, 117-15, gave near final approval to a $108.9 million supplemental fiscal 1985 budget.

Supporters said the package is a fiscally responsible one which will pay bills and fund necessary programs.

Opponents said the budget was loaded with waste and does not provide for any additional local aid or tax relief.

(A "Yea" vote is for the budget. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted yes.

ELDERLY INCOME (H 6236) — The House, 90-63, rejected a supplemental budget amendment eliminating the 10.7 percent tax on a portion of unearned income for persons over 65. The amendment eliminates the tax for these individuals on unearned income up to $3300 in 1986, $6600 in 1987, and $9900 in 1988. For joint filers, the figures are $3600, $7380 and $11070.

Supporters said the elderly need this tax relief which can easily be funded by the state surplus. Opponents said the state cannot afford the revenue loss and noted the amendment only helps the wealthy elderly.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted yes.

$82.8 MILLION (H 6236) — The House, 91-49, rejected a supplemental budget amendment providing $82.8 million in additional fiscal 1984 local aid to cities and towns to be distributed in proportion to 1985 per public school student.

Supporters said this would give communities money they are owed since they were promised 40 percent of actual growth revenue but have received 40 percent of estimated growth revenue.

Opponents said when indirect aid is included, communities have already received 40 percent of actual growth revenue.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted yes.

MORTGAGE INTEREST (H 6236) — The House, 80-62, rejected a supplemental budget amendment allowing homeowners to deduct 50 percent of their mortgage interest payments, up to $3000, on their state income tax return and increasing the maximum deduction for renters from $2500 to $3000.

Supporters said this will help homeowners by giving them the same advantage renters receive under Proposition 2 1/2. Opponents said homeowners already benefited from Prop 2 1/2 and claimed the state cannot afford the revenue loss.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted yes.

LEGISLATIVE AIDES (H 6236) — The House, 121-19, approved a supplemental budget amendment providing an additional $52,000 for legislative and administrative aides to representatives.

Supporters said this would provide a hike of an additional $325 for hard-working aides and bring their salary up to $19,000 per year. Opponents said the hike is simply not necessary at this time.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted yes.

EXEMPTION (H 6236) — The House, 79-52, rejected an amendment increasing the initial amount of interest which is exempt from the 5 percent tax on savings account interest from $100 to $200 for an individual; from $200 to $400 for a married couple; and adding an additional $100 new exemption for persons over 65.

Supporters said the amendment will save taxpayers $48 million. Opponents said the state cannot afford the revenue loss.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted yes.

NEW DRAFT (H 6236) — The House, 131-2, rejected a new version of a supplemental budget which makes many changes including eliminating 34 items in the original version and reducing the total cost from $108.9 million to $98.4 million.

Supporters said the $10.5 million in cuts will insure that only essential items are funded. Opponents said the cuts will result in elimination of essential programs including those helping children and the blind.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.) Saltmarsh voted no.

SURTAX (H 6236) — The House, 87-56, rejected an amendment immediately repealing the 7.5 percent surtax; 79-61, rejected a three year phaseout of the surtax; and 74-65, rejected a four year phaseout of the surtax.

Supporters said it was time to repeal this tax which was adopted as a temporary tax in 1975. Opponents said the state cannot afford the revenue loss.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it. Three roll calls are listed below.) Saltmarsh voted yes on all three votes.

4 CUTS (H 6236) — The House, 125-25, rejected an $86,563 cut in the House Rules committee account; 145-3, rejected a $92,500 cut in the House counsel's account; 136-7, rejected a $74,443 cut in the account for office supplies and other expenses of House members; and 132-11, rejected a $225,002 cut in the account for clerical and other expenses of House members.

In each case, supporters said the cuts were justified and claimed the additional money was just another expenditure of waste and patronage. Opponents said the cuts were unnecessary and claimed they would result in accounts being seriously underfunded.

(A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it. Four roll calls are listed below.) Saltmarsh voted no on all four roll calls.

Bar Mitzvahs: The Mystery Explained

By HOWARD S. RUBENSTEIN

More and more in the United States today, Christians with Jewish friends are invited to Bar Mitzvahs. Not knowing what to expect, Christians may feel uncomfortable, especially as the event approaches. The purpose of this article is to allay the discomfort by providing information, relating it to material Christians are already familiar with, and thereby to help make the event an educational and pleasurable experience.

Let's begin with definitions. Bar means "son" in Hebrew, and Bat (pronounced baht) means "daughter". Mitzvah means "a commandment of God". Bar or Bat Mitzvah, therefore, means simply a Child (Son/Daughter) of the Commandment, that is, a child committed to carrying out the commandments.

Mitzvah does not mean "a good deed", as is commonly and erroneously believed. And so, there is no way, with this vocabulary, to announce, "I have done a good deed."

Should one try, it would come out to mean instead, "I have done merely what God commanded us, or expects us, to do." There is a certain Yankee mentality that shares this point of view.

The best example I know is a story told about John Enders:

John Enders won the Nobel Prize in medicine in 1953 for discovering how to grow poliomyelitis virus in tissue culture. This fundamental discovery permitted the development of a vaccine against polio, and has led to the near extinction of his dreaded disease.

When the Nobel Prize was announced that year, so the story goes, Enders received congratulations from all quarters except one, his father.

He went to his father and complained, "Father, I have received congratulations from everyone except you, the person I wanted to hear it from most." His father replied, "John, when I was a boy, people did not receive a prize for doing what was expected of them."

Scholars say there are 613 mitzvahs or commandments in the sacred book called the Scriptures by the Jews and the Early Christians, and the "Old Testament" by Christians after the fourth century. It is not my intention to list all 613.

I shall limit myself, by way of example, to the "Two Greatest Commandments", as they are called repeatedly throughout the New Testament, and as they are given most precisely in the Gospel according to Mark, Chapter 12, verses 28-32:

"And one of the scribes...asked Jesus, 'Which commandment (mitzvah) is the first of all?' Jesus answered, 'The first is, Hear O Israel, the Lord is Our God, the Lord is One; and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength. The second is this, you shall love your neighbor as yourself. There is no other commandment greater than these.'

When a Hebrew child is born, there is a wish that he or she (will) grow up to lead a life dedicated to scholarship (Torah), family (Chuppah), and service to mankind and God (mitzvahs), most relevant to my topic.

Many ancient peoples had rites of passage at puberty or the onset of adolescence. It was a time of coming of age, of developing a deeper awareness of the mystery of life, and of becoming a responsible member of the community.

However, for the Hebrews, unlike many other ancient cultures, coming of age was celebrated in a peculiar way. It was not celebrated, for example, by the slaying and devouring of a powerful beast, but rather by a demonstration before the whole community of a mastery of certain fundamentals in scholarship.

An adolescent had to show the community that he could read a portion of the Scriptures in Hebrew, show an understanding of the moral principles the portion contained, and thereby demonstrate that he was capable of participating in religious service to God.

If the adolescent could do that, then it was assumed that he could fulfill the commandments.

Long before the Bar Mitzvah became formalized, the Hebrews recognized the age of 12 or 13 as the age of responsibility and of becoming a member of the community.

Curiously, the oldest evidence for this does not come from the traditional Hebrew sources, such as the "Sayings of the Fathers" or the Talmud or the teachings of Maimonides, but, surprisingly, from the Gospel of Luke, Chapter 2, verses 41-52.

Most of you know the story: Joseph and Mary had made their annual pilgrimage to Jerusalem in order to celebrate the Passover there with all the other faithful pilgrims. That year, for the first time, they had taken Jesus with them because he was 12 years old. When the Passover was over, Joseph and Mary began their return journey home to Nazareth only to discover that Jesus was not with their group.

Their frantic search for Jesus began. Three days later, a distraught Mary found Jesus in the Temple discoursing with the rabbis who were greatly impressed with his keen intelligence. Jesus defends himself to his parents by saying, "Why did you search for me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's House?"

This story says many things, but, for our purposes, the key fact that Luke gives us that Jesus was 12 years old. It was precisely because he was 12 that Joseph and Mary took him along with them to Jerusalem as a pilgrim that year, and similarly it was because he was 12 that the rabbis took the time to engage in discourse with him.

The rabbis would not have taken seriously a child of 11 or younger. Luke knew that, and so he makes a point of telling us Jesus' age. It is highly significant that this incident is the only one in the entire New Testament where Jesus' age is given, apart from mention of his age of 8 days when he was circumcized according to the commandment.

The Encyclopedia Judaica tells us that historically, the Bar Mitzvah, as a formalized ceremony for boys, did not take place until as late as the 15th century and the Bat Mitzvah for girls did not take place until as late as the 19th Century.

While equal treatment of females among the Jews may be viewed as somewhat slow from one point of view, it is rather rapid from another, when one realizes that the woman's movement in the Western World has taken hold only within the last 20 years or so.

Bar Mitzvah ceremonies today take place during the Sabbath service, which means either Friday night or Saturday morning. In some communities, the girls' ceremony takes place when she is 12, in others when she is 13. All boys' ceremonies now take place at age 13. Unlike a Confirmation, which is a group of youngsters, the Bar Mitzvah service involves only one or two children.

I need to say a few words about the Sabbath service because the Bar Mitzvah takes place during a Sabbath service. The Sabbath for the Hebrews is their most sacred holiday. It is a day of rest, contemplation, and pleasure, commemorating God's rest, contemplation, and pleasure after Creation.

Every Friday, Americans of all faiths exclaim, "Thank God it's Friday!" The Hebrews have been saying that for almost 4,000 years!

The Sabbath service is universal in its expression of God's love for all of mankind in general and all of mankind in particular. The first chapter of Genesis says repeatedly after each act of creation, "And God saw that it was good" and concludes, "And God saw everything that He had made and, behold, it was very good."

Since the service is universal in content and joyous in spirit, I believe it can offend no one and should have the capacity of moving many. In some synagogues, the prayers are entirely in Hebrew, in others in English, in most, a mixture of the two languages.

Often the congregants say prayers in unison or responsively. The prayer books indicate these things clearly, and so one may wish to join in and say the prayers, but no one should feel obliged to do so.

The adolescent becoming Bar Mitzvah is an active participant in the service. He is called upon to read a passage from the Torah, which is the five books of Moses; and also from the haftora, which is a passage from one of the prophets or the other sacred writings.

He may deliver a short homily on the haftora passage. My eldest daughter who became Bat Mitzvah in 1983 and my eldest son who recently became Bar Mitzvah each read portions from the prophet Isaiah.

I am reminded again of a passage from Luke, this time when Jesus was a young man, Chapter 4, verses 16-17:

"And Jesus came to Nazareth where he had been brought up. And he went to the synagogue, as was his custom on the Sabbath day. And he stood up to read from the book of the prophet Isaiah."

During the Bar Mitzvah service, the parents and grandparents, and perhaps other meaningful people such as godparents, are called upon to give prayers of thanksgiving. When the service is over, friends and relatives embrace the Bar Mitzvah child and his family with words of congratulations, such as "What a fine job!" or "Mazel Tov!" ("Congratulations!" in Hebrew and Yiddish) or even "Congratulations!"

A simple reception at the synagogue may follow. That, in turn, may be followed by a more elaborate reception or even banquet at the synagogue, the home, a community center, or hotel.

A word about dress: In general, dress for the service as one would dress for church, although a hat for women is not customary. Some synagogues require that the men wear skullcaps and prayer shawls. Others do not.

If the thought of a skullcap or prayer shawl makes you anxious, feel free to consult your host in advance. Gentiles and Jews always sit together. The orthodox, however, require that women, Gentile and Jewish alike, sit separately from men.

A word about gifts: As usual, a gift is up to the giver. Because religious gifts are so personal, it is best, except under rare circumstances where one has special information, not to give religious gifts, which will be given by intimate family and the synagogue.

Appropriate gifts include a book, a record, a tree (one may plant a tree in Israel in honor of the Bar Mitzvah child), a piece of jewelry, a gift certificate, a US savings bond, a personal check.

A final word: The Bar Mitzvah ceremony demonstrates a certain competence of the adolescent in scholarship. It implies his commitment to the Mitzvahs or commandments, service to God and man, but it is no guarantee of it.

As a new member of the committed spiritual community of Israel, the adolescent is presumed to be righteous, but that can only be measured by the works he does from that day forward.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Auditions Open For New Troupe

Auditions for a new performance group, the Duck Pond Players, will be at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, July 5, in the McCall Junior High auditorium. The troupe will sing and dance their way through a different Broadway medley each week.

Residents of all ages are encouraged to try out. No singing or dancing experience is required.

Auditioners should be prepared to sing two songs of their choice, one ballad and one upbeat number. Audition music is available from the Recreation Dept. at 721-7125.

Performances will be the evenings of July 17, 24, 31 and Aug. 7 in conjunction with the Duck Pond Summer Pops Band. A rehearsal schedule of two nights a week will be set by the cast.

Brian R. Milauskas, veteran director of Winchester High School shows, will lead the troupe. Selections from "Grease" and "Pippin" will be staged, as well as numbers from two other shows chosen by the players.

Jazz Quartet Plays Tonight

The Jeff Harrington Jazz Quartet will play nostalgic music from the 30s, 40s and 50s at 8:30 p.m. on June 27 at the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church st., Winchester.

Tickets, available at the door, are $4 for adults and $3 for students under 21.

Weather permitting, the concert will be outdoors. In the event of rain, the concert will be at Hadley Hall near the garden.

Refreshments will be served.

Harrington, the quartet's leader and tenor saxophonist, teaches woodwinds for the Winchester Music Program. The program, in its fourth year, offers instrumental and voice lessons, theory classes and small ensemble lessons to students of all ages. Last year 225 students participated.

The concert is part of the parish's annual Cloister Garden Concert Series.

Duck Pond Band Will Rehearse

All Winchester musicians are invited to join the "Duck Pond Summer Pops Band" directed by Priscilla A. Miller of high school marching band fame.

The pops band will play a variety of music, including semi-classical selections, show tunes and "oldies but goodies."

Rehearsals will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on July 8, 10, 15, 22, 24 and

The new Duck Pond Players will be led by Brian Milauskas, director of such Winchester High School performances as "Fools." Last fall, Suzanne Milauskas played a befuddled shepherdess in that show.

Winchester's newest summer theater group, the Duck Pond Players, will be directed by Brian Milauskas. He has led a variety of high school productions, including "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," with Matt Williams, Erin Boland and Kristen Kelly.

Music Program

Opens Registration

The Winchester Music Program is currently registering students for a pilot eurhythmics program for three and four-year-olds, beginning next fall.

According to teacher Susan Riggs, "Children explore the world of music through creative movement and active participation. Building on their own experience, children develop an understanding of basic musical concepts such as beat, fast/slow, loud/soft, and high/low."

"Through singing, movement activities and improvisation, children learn to express themselves with pleasure and with skill," she added.

Riggs earned a certificate from the Dalcroze Teacher Training Program at Longy School and a Master of Education degree from Lesley College. She currently teaches at the New School of Music in Cambridge and at the Belmont Music School.

Minister's Son Gets Lion Role

Ronald Purdy, son of the Rev. David and Pam Purdy of Dix st., will play the leading lion in a Cape Cod performance of "Androcles and the Lion."

The play will be performed at 8 p.m. on July 3, 4, 8, 9, 10 and 11 at Harwich Junior Theatre, West Harwich, Cape Cod.

"Androcles and the Lion" features the adventures of a traveling comedy troupe in 16th-century Italy.

Silver has been known since the Bronze Age (about 3500 to 1000 B.C.) and at that early time was being used as a medium of exchange. Silver artifacts dating from about 3000 B.C. have been found in Egyptian pharaohs' tombs.

Archival Center Changes Schedule

The Henry E. Simonds Memorial Archival Center of the Town of Winchester, located at 15 High st., will have new hours for the month of July.

The Center will be open: Monday 5:30 - 10 p.m., Wednesday 5:30 - 10 p.m.

The Center will be closed the entire month of August and will reopen at regular hours beginning September 3. If you have any questions, please call 721-7146 during regular hours and ask for Evelyn or Candy.

After hours, leave a message on the answering machine.

HEALTH BEAT

Women Smokers Face High Risk

Nearly one in three adults were smokers in 1982.

And while the overall proportion of smokers has decreased since 1965, fewer women have quit than men.

The cost of maintaining the habit is substantial, both in monetary and health terms, according to a report from Boston University Medical Center. In 1984 lung cancer overtook breast cancer as the leading cancer killer of women.

The harmful effects of smoking continue to be documented. Tobacco use has been linked to many different kinds of cancer, including cancer of the lung, esophagus, mouth, bladder, kidney, pancreas and cervix.

Smoking has also been linked to blood vessel disease, chronic pulmonary diseases and peptic ulcers.

In addition, pregnancy problems are more frequent in women smokers than nonsmokers.

Most recently, researchers have shown that women smokers are less fertile than nonsmoking women. From the study of a large number of women who wanted to become pregnant, the smokers were nearly 3.5 times more likely to be trying more than a year later.

This study supports previous laboratory studies suggesting cigarette smoke may interfere with conception. Past research has shown that miscarriages are higher among smokers and that babies born to women who smoke tend to be smaller than babies born to nonsmokers.

However, the bad news does not end there for women smokers. In a study involving more than 2,000 women, doctors found that younger women who smoke 35 cigarettes a day run a risk of heart attack five times greater than women who smoke fewer than 15 cigarettes a day.

The risk of heart attack in women smokers was increased by the use of oral contraceptives or by high blood cholesterol levels.

Women on birth control pills who smoke heavily are four times more likely to suffer a heart attack than women who smoke as heavily but never used oral contraceptives.

However, there is good news for both men and women thinking of snuffing out the habit, even after many years of smoking. A recent study shows that smokers who quit reduce their chances of suffering a stroke. Improved blood flow to the brain was apparent within a year of giving up smoking.

Local Woman, 90, Featured On TV

Kathryn Donaghey, 90, of Winchester, was recently featured on WNEV television news during a discussion about professional support for the dying.

Stricken with osteoporosis and leukemia, Donaghey spoke about her relationship with Hospice Care Inc., a local agency that provides help for the terminally ill and their families.

Donaghey and her daughter, Winchester resident Marion Chaffe, also appeared in a documentary film called "The Hospice Concept: Dying With Dignity."

The film, which focuses on the relationship between hospice families and staff, will be used for community education, support worker training and Hospice Care fund raisers.

In other Hospice Care news, Dorothy Matheson of Winchester recently directed a successful fund raiser for the agency, featuring a planetarium show at Boston's Museum of Science.

Volunteers are still needed as support workers for Hospice Care. A three-day training session for volunteers with previous experience will begin Aug. 12.

Also, for those with no hospice experience, a 12-week training program will be offered this fall.

For more information, please call the Hospice Care office at 648-3172.

Local Doctor Will Monitor State Medicine

Gov. Michael Dukakis has appointed Dr. Louise Liang of Winchester to the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Medicine.

The board is responsible for licensing Massachusetts physicians and for maintaining medical care standards throughout the state.

Liang is also director of the Peabody Health Center, a branch of the Harvard Community Health Plan. She has been instrumental in for-

Housing Crunch Pushes Seniors Out Of Town

By NANCY PICK

Finding affordable housing in Winchester can be a real ordeal, according to several town realtors interviewed last week by The Star.

"We've got people coming out of our ears for apartments," said Wesley B. Swanson of Swanson Associates Real Estate.

Not everyone can find a place to rent, he said. "The ones I feel sorry for the most are the older people who are on a limited income. They're really having a struggle with it. They're just aghast at the price of rentals."

Winchester realtor Sherman R. Josephson has seen a similar demand. He said he could find tenants for an "unlimited" number of apartments, providing the rent matched the housing quality.

Often, he said, he can find a tenant for an apartment with one phone call.

Josephson also meets clients who want to rent homes in Winchester. However, he said, "I haven't seen a single house [for rent] for months."

State officials, the town's Housing Authority and several Winchester realtors agree: there is a great need for moderately-priced housing in Winchester.

Another town realtor, William F. Caci, recalls from several years ago a particularly sad sign of the housing shortage. An elderly couple was forced to leave after 50 years in town because they could not find an apartment or small house for rent.

The husband's friends were in Winchester, he still took the train to Boston to work; even his doctors were in town.

"I remember this guy sitting on his living room couch crying because he had to leave Winchester," said Caci.

According to state officials, Winchester would need 736 more units of town's fair housing potential.

That potential, called the town's "fair share," represents 60 percent of the estimated need, according to Marc Draisen, private housing policy director for the state Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD).

"Every community in the metropolitan area has a responsibility to provide for the housing need of its fair share," he said.

chester's housing need doesn't appear overly high. According to the state, Stoneham needs 830 units of subsidized family housing; Bedford needs 543; and Lexington needs 1,168.

Residents shouldn't be shocked by the high figures for subsidized housing need, said Draisen. "The need everywhere is enormous," he said.

He said despite their needs, few towns are likely to come up with adequate subsidized housing.

Still, he said, "Performance in meeting the need is far more important than raw numbers."

Housing Authority gets requests
Winchester's Housing Authority gets two or three inquiries about subsidized housing a week, said new Director Jeremiah Keefe.

The Housing Authority has no names or applications on file, he said. However, better housing need data will arrive when applications open for a rent-subsidized house owned by the town.

Keefe said he expects advertising for the house, located on Reservoir st., to begin in early July. Response is expected to be heavy, he said.

Meanwhile, realtor Swanson said Winchester has traditionally been an exclusive town. "I was probably one of 10 kids in their 20s who were able to stay in the town," said Swanson, 1949 graduate of Winchester High School. "And I only did that through blood, sweat and tears."

According to Swanson, people in Winchester coffee shops talk about the need for more apartments, but then they "shoot down" proposals at Town Meeting.

Winchester is "very backward in a lot of things," he said. "Zoning is too tight."

Meanwhile, Winchester realtor Ann Blackham said Winchester's natural beauty and government contribute to high housing demand.

"A lot of people would like to rent a house but there isn't that much available," she said. Often, she advises people look in Woburn, Medford, Arlington or Stoneham, she said, if they can't find rental space in Winchester.

Occasionally, couples who can't afford to buy a home on their own choose to buy a house together with a second couple. That deal is known as "mingling," she said.

Blackham also said Winchester needs more housing for elderly people who want to stay after they sell their family homes.

Dick Murphy, owner of Bixby and Porter Realtors, agrees.

A few years ago, he was a backer of "Winchester House," a proposed six-story housing development for the elderly slated for land near Winchester train station.

He said his own mother inspired the project when she "left Winchester and went down to the Cape. She really would have liked to stay here," said Murphy. "A lot of her friends were in the same circumstances."

"Winchester House," however, never got off the ground.

State figures say Winchester has an elderly housing need of 259 units, based on a "fair share" calculation.

Keefe of the Housing Authority said about 75 people are on a town waiting list for elderly housing. Winchester runs 112 apartment units for the elderly, he said, and the turnover rate varies.

Realtor Murphy said he knows of people who have lived their whole lives in Winchester, raising their families in the town. But once they're on a fixed income, he said, they may have to leave because no affordable housing is available.

"Whatever the town of Winchester could do for the elderly at this point," said Murphy, "I don't think could ever completely fulfill the need."

Winchester has 10 units of subsidized housing planned for families. The state says 736 are needed.

subsidized family housing to accommodate its rental demand alone.

Right now, the town has three units of subsidized family housing set for opening by 1986, and seven slated for eventual state funding. That totals 10 units, a drop in the bucket compared to the estimated need of 736.

That state number derives from two sources: data from the 1980 U.S. census and a state ruling on the Winchester's "fair share" was determined by its financial strength, commuting patterns, job availability and predicted growth, he said. "The fair share need is what we consider to be the actual need of the community."

The other 40 percent of the 736-unit figure represents actual rental housing needed by Winchester residents. Compared to similar towns, Win-

Stop Smoking This Summer

A 20-day stop smoking program will be offered at Choate Hospital in Woburn and at Symmes Hospital in Arlington starting in July.

Pre-registration is required. In Woburn, the program will meet 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays, starting July 1, at Choate Hospital, 21 Warren ave. For more information, please call 933-6700, ext. 377.

In Arlington, the program will meet from noon to 1:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, starting July 10 at Symmes Hospital on Hospital rd. For more information, please call 646-1500, ext. 299.

The classes will address smoking patterns, withdrawal diet, smoking urges and more.

Brain damage varies

Brain damage from stroke may affect the senses, speech and the ability to understand speech, behavioral patterns, thought patterns and memory, and may cause paralysis on one side of the body. Damage to one side of the brain affects the opposite side of the body.

Get In Shape With Aerobics

Aerobic dance classes will be offered at 4:30 p.m. beginning June 27 at Choate Hospital, 21 Warren ave. in Woburn.

Classes will meet twice weekly for eight sessions on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Aerobic dancing is exercise to music. The routines make the heart and lungs work hard, strengthening the cardio-vascular system.

For more information, please call the hospital at 933-6700, ext. 377.

★ Exercise

a beat to the music. Keep your chin up, shoulders back, abdomen in, toes and knees forward. Keep erect but not too stiff.

Floor Exercises

At the end of your aerobics, slow down gradually until you feel comfortable doing floor exercises. Spend 15 minutes on the floor exercises.

Cool Down

A proper cool down should last 10 minutes. Never skip this portion of your routine, as injury may occur. Cool down should include static (slow) stretching and deep abdomen breathing. Your muscles should feel a slight stretch, not a pull or a tug.

Target Heart Rate

It is critical to monitor your heart rate (take a pulse) every 20 to 30 minutes during the aerobics routine.

To find your target heart rate (how fast your heart should beat during exercise for maximum training, i.e. cardiovascular benefit) follow this formula: men — subtract half your age from 205, women — subtract from 220 and multiply by 80 percent.

Maintaining a heart rate below this level will do little to improve your cardio vascular system. Exceeding this level could be dangerous.

What To Wear

Footwear is extremely important because of the hard surface most aerobic classes are conducted on. Select a well cushioned shoe. This will help dissipate the impact on the lower extremities.

Shoes should also have adequate arch supports and lateral stability. They should be flexible enough so you do not put a stress or strain on the ligament that crosses the arch of your foot.

Choose comfortable clothing that absorbs perspiration, and does not restrict your movements. Shorts and a t-shirt may be more appropriate than tights and leotards.

Safety Factors

Be aware of safety factors. Three or four workouts a week are sufficient for cardiovascular fitness and/or weight loss.

Danger signs to watch out for are: overfatigue, nausea, dizziness, pains in the chest, light headedness, difficulty breathing.

Should you feel any of the above, seek medical advice. Pain should not be felt anywhere. Exercise does not have to hurt to be effective.

Should you have any questions do as I did for this article — ask someone!

Enjoy aerobics, make it a pleasure to bring overall fitness, clearer minds and healthier bodies into your home.

Alaska for wilderness

The National Wilderness Preservation System consists of at least 268 areas in 43 states, with a total area of nearly 80 million acres. Over 70 percent of all the wilderness areas are in Alaska, covering 15 percent of that state.

★ Sachems

til Aug. 1, when the play-offs for the division championship will begin.

Sachems coach Larry Crowley said that the team consists of 20 players who have played at the varsity, junior varsity, or freshman level in high school.

Crowley cited pitcher Timmy Budrewicz as being particularly valuable to the team. Budrewicz pitched for the varsity last year, and had a 6-1 season with the Summer Sachems last summer. This season he has a 1-0 record so far.

Another good pitcher, said Crowley, is Al Nason, who pitched a four-hitter in the Woburn game.

Crowley also mentioned Peter Delvecchio, who hit two home runs in the game against Woburn, and has been batting well this season. Other good hitters are T.J. Della Sala, Gareth Kenton, and Mike Whyte.

A highlight of the season will be the all-star game in which all six teams in the South division will be represented by three players. The game will take place on July 13 at 8 p.m. under the lights at Burlington's Simmonds Park just off Cambridge st.

★ North

The difference between a great coach and a mediocre one, is who best out guesses his opponent. The entire stadium figured Mike Cavanaugh of North Andover would go for the tie. But Cavanaugh had other plans. He sent Tracy Giles in for the two point conversion to win the game for the North squad.

This year's victory gives the North a 5-2 lead in the series. North has now won the Shriners classic the last four years in a row.

For Winchester's David Doherty, the tradition lives on.

All-Stars

To Begin Play

The All-Stars will face Stoneham in the first round of the double elimination tourney.

The team is made up of 13-year-old boys who played Babe Ruth Minor League this past season. It is coached by Robbie Mistretta and assisted by D.J. McGee.

The team members are, from the Dodgers: Eric Childers, Mark Kaufman and Ray Forcina; from the Beavers, Matt Quill, Robbie Marshall and Adam Howell; from the Red Sox, Steve Tartarini, Mike Queenan, Matt Pacione and Sean Donlon.

Winchester's 13-year-old All Star team will open its district tournament play on Thursday, June 27, at 5:30 p.m. at Manchester Field.

Representing the Athletics are Ricky Mawn, Matt Rotondi, Craig Driscoll, Sean Curran and Chris Cuilla.

Slow-Pitch

Men's slow-pitch softball season is under way once again this summer, with almost half of their 230 games already played.

League commissioner George Queen said that the league, which has existed for about 10 years, introduced four new teams this year. Players range in age from 21-40.

Queen said that the teams form when a bunch of friends get together and find a company willing to sponsor them. There are 23 teams in all: 11 in division A and 12 in division B. Playoffs between the top 6 teams in each division to decide division champs will begin around August 4, weather permitting.

Games are played at Leonard, Mullen, and Ginn fields Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays starting at 6:15 p.m.

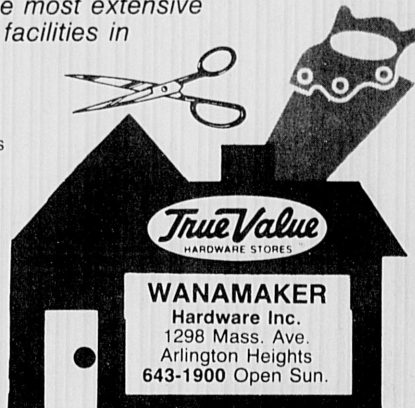

Anyone interested in receiving a scheduled should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to George Queen, Post Office Box 16, Winchester.

By ROBERT J. CAPOZZI

As you enter The Bon Vivant Cafe, located at 383 Main st., in Woburn Square, you feel as though you have transcended the Atlantic and are suddenly in a cozy French cafe.

Amidst the less-than pleasant setting of Woburn Center, The Cafe Bon Vivant surprisingly, miraculously, and refreshingly, offers an ambience which is quiet, elegant, exotic and romantic, while authentically French-like.

Co-owners Barbara Thomas and her son and head-chef Marc, have achieved this realistic atmosphere with a characteristically simple decor accented by candlelight, and topped off with a dedication to create a pleasant, French cafe setting.

While atmosphere is important to any restaurant, the food is, of course the most important factor. Here again The Cafe Bon Vivant strives for and has achieved excellence. They offer cuisine that is described by co-owner Barbara Thomas as "Country French."

What this translates into is cuisine that is not quite as rich as traditional French food and portions that are larger than one might expect at a French Restaurant.

"Country French" is also a mixture of old and the new and the prices of Country French are less expensive than traditional French cuisine.

This in no way implies that the exotic dishes we associate with French restaurants are eliminated. There is something to please the most discriminating palate.

A typical menu might include such dishes as Trout Almondine ($7.95), Shrimp Scampi ($8.95), Rack of Lamb Dijonaise ($13.95), Duck with Raspberry Sauce ($10.95), Steak Alfredo ($9.95), Split Veal ($12.00), Pheasant au beurre blanc ($12.75) or the specialty of the house, Scallops and Fettucini ($11.95).

Actually all the entrees and desserts for the day are listed on the chalkboard and vary from day to day. The bill of fare depends on the availability of fresh meats, fish, and poultry.

"Everyday our menu is fresh and new," explains chief Marc. "People enjoy well prepared food and have shown us they're going to go for it."

Chef Marc's compulsion for turning out great dishes is by no means a small contribution to the restaurant's success. By his own admission Marc is "a fanatic for garnishes and making sure food goes out hot and to perfection."

Marc is a graduate of the Culinary Institute in Hyde Park, New York, considered the best school in the country. More recently he served as assistant pastry chef at the Hotel Meridien.

His specialties are pastries and desserts and on display in the pastry case are many masterpieces with which to finish your eating experience at Cafe Bon Vivant. Among these desserts one might find anything from French apple pie, and light and dark chocolate mousse, to caramel creme custard and cheesecake. Other specialties include chocolate Grand Marnier cakes & tortes, and fresh fruit flans.

The Cafe Bon Vivant is an experience in dining both which includes both the food and the setting. They are open Tuesday through Friday for lunch (11:30-2:30), Wednesday and Thursday evenings 5:30-9, Friday and Saturday, 5-10, and Sundays 5-9. They are closed Mondays. Reservations are not required but may be a good idea and can be made by calling 933-8602.

The Cafe Bon Vivant also caters parties, weddings or other functions with groups of 50-200 people.

★ Lightning (From page 1)

said Gallagher. "At first, I thought he was just cutting the lawn and stretching his arms or something."

But then I saw he looked frantic and I noticed one kid was almost lying in the gutter and another one was lying in the grass.

"When I found out what happened I ran to about four houses before I found anyone home where I could use the phone to call for help."

Gallagher said he then raced to help Timothy Dailey Sr., who was trying to revive the trio.

Gibbons, who was struck on the finger before the bolt exited through his ankle, was wandering around on the lawn in apparent shock, said Gallagher.

"I had never done CPR before. I never took a course or anything. But I had read about how to do it and I just started doing it on them," said Gallagher as he stood shakily at the scene.

He (the elder Dailey) and I were going back and forth between the two who were the worst off. It was scary, because I had never even done CPR before in my life."

Gallagher said that although it was only about 10 minutes before the first rescue and medical crews arrived, it "seemed like forever — one of those kids was pretty blue."

On Tuesday, Gibbons, who was released Wednesday from Winchester Hospital, recalled "being flipped through the air and thrown about six feet."

"I just remember I was coming around the corner with the lawnmower and I met Peter mowing the lawn. The next thing I knew I heard this big crash and I was flipping through the air," he said.

A spokeswoman for Boston Children's Hospital said Timothy Dailey was transferred to a special care ward at Boston Children's Hospital late Monday after being stabilized at Choate Hospital in Woburn.

According to Children's spokeswoman Wendy Malacaria, the 17-year-old was expected to be discharged from the hospital late Wednesday. He was sent to Boston, said Malacaria, because doctors there have been treating him for cystic fibrosis, a congenital disease that affects the respiratory and/or digestive systems.

"Aside from suffering from amnesia about the accident, he seems to be doing fine," said Malacaria. "He just doesn't remember anything about the lightning striking at all."

Malacaria said doctors are concerned about possible trauma to Dailey's heart and brain, but at this point the teen is out of that danger.

She added that Dailey has been having mild muscle spasms since the accident, but that doctors did not express particular concern about that.

According to Winchester Fire Lt. John Regan, the hills near Amherstwood dr. make the area a prime target during lightning storms, although there have been no major problems reported in recent years.

A small crowd of curious residents stood nearby, as rescuers worked feverishly to measure the pulse and heartbeat of Peter Dailey, who was immediately determined to be the most severely hurt.

Meanwhile, other rescue workers eased Tim Dailey, who moaned and cried out as he was lifted by stretcher into a waiting ambulance.

A third ambulance, coming from Stoneham, arrived at least 20 minutes after the accident. Regan said he had initially called the Lexington ambulance service for extra help, but was told that Lexington was already at another call.

He said a communication mixup meant that an Arlington ambulance was summoned and then cancelled when it was learned that Stoneham was on the way.

"We'd have preferred Lexington because it's closer, but they were already out on another call," said Regan.

★ Gibbons (From Page 1)

"I just remember hearing a big crash and the next I knew I was flying through the air... It was like a war or something. There was this incredibly loud crack — and then it was perfectly still while I was flying through the air."

He said that while the exact details are still a little fuzzy, he doesn't think he was knocked unconscious.

"When I got up, it felt like my whole right side was paralyzed. I couldn't feel anything. I remember thinking I must have broken my ankles, because when I put pressure on them my feet just wobbled underneath me."

Once the rescue crews arrived, he was laid on a stretcher, where EMTs checked his heart beat, blood pressure and other vital signs. His hand was immediately wrapped in a bandage and he was covered with a blanket as rain sprinkled on him.

"I remember wondering if that ambulance was ever going to get there. I asked the guys if they really thought it was OK for me to be down there. I kept thinking, 'What if another lightning bolt comes along?'"

As he recalled the incident, he asked how his friends were faring. He said he was most worried about Peter, who he heard was not doing as well as Timothy.

"I know Peter got the worst of it. I sure hope he's going to be all right. I know his dad was really scared."

"But we've got the whole neighborhood back at home (Allston) pushing for us. They even said a special mass for us at St. Anthony's."

Winchester Man, Wife Indicted On Drug Charges

By JILL M. HIGGINS

John DeVito and his wife, Patricia, of Winchester, were indicted on various drug-related charges Tuesday at the Cambridge Superior Court grand jury.

DeVito, of Crescent rd., was arrested June 6 in Marlboro on charges of selling drugs to undercover agents at the Holiday Inn in Marlboro.

At a subsequent raid at DeVito's home, police said they confiscated 13.2 ounces of cocaine, worth at least $300,000. Police said the dollar figure on the overall seizure could go as high as a half million dollars, depending on purity.

Law officials last week said they expected a grand jury indictment for DeVito, although they had not previously stated that DeVito's wife would also be indicted.

A spokesman for District Attorney Kevin O'Malley said on Tuesday that the DeVitos came before Judge Andrew Gill Meyer Tuesday afternoon.

Assistant District Attorney Anthony Pabst said Patricia DeVito was released on personal recognizance. DeVito had posted $100,000 cash bail June 12, $50,000 of which was for charges stemming from the Marlboro arrest.

Next Issue Has Early Deadlines

Because of the Independence Day holiday, The Winchester Star will publish a day early on Wednesday, July 3.

This means deadlines will also be early next week. The press release deadline is Friday, June 28, at 5 p.m. The deadline for classified ads will be 3 p.m. on Monday, July 1. The deadline for display advertising will be noon on the same Monday.

Roman game golflike
Ancient Romans played a game called paganica that was similar to golf. They used a bent stick and a ball stuffed with feathers.

The other $50,000 was posted on charges in Woburn District Court of trafficking in excess of 200 grams. Cocaine trafficking carries a 10-year minimum mandatory jail term.

The case will now be exclusively handled by the grand jury.

Besides a cocaine trafficking charge, Patricia DeVito was arraigned on two charges of conspiracy and one charge each of possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana and possession of a hypodermic syringe.

Her husband was arraigned on two charges of trafficking, two charges of conspiracy to violate narcotics laws, possession of a hypodermic syringe, illegal possession of a rifle and ammunition and receiving stolen property.

Chelsea attorney Alan Chapman said on Tuesday that his clients were still living at their Crescent rd. home. "They're just trying to carry out a normal, natural life at home and try to have some peace," said Chapman.

He called the charges against Patricia DeVito "legal fiction" brought up by law officials.

"From my point of view, she was brought into this case on the basis of legal fiction — sort of an afterthought. If she was released on personal recognizance, what does that say about what the court really thinks of those charges," he said.

★ Beach (From Page 1)

beach supervisor for the Recreation Dept., agreed the sand is a problem. "I think they got good quality sand — for construction," he said.

The water, however, is of good quality. According to recent tests, he said, the water was almost as free from bacteria as drinking water.

Also, the DPW made a lot of improvements last year, he said. The pond was drained and cleaned, with new sand added for the entire pond floor.

A fiberglass coating was put over the wooden docks that had given children splinters. And a lot of weeds were pulled out last year before they could become a problem.

"It's definitely better than last year," he said.

In other action at the Selectmen's meeting, the board approved a progress report on Winchester's subsidized housing. The report will be sent to the state's Executive Office of Communities and Development to meet a June 30 deadline.

The town pledged to provide the report in a housing covenant with the state signed in February. Next, Winchester faces a Sept. 30 deadline for a list of potential town sites for subsidized housing.

Also, the board approved a restaurant license for Dover Grille, a new eatery on Winchester Terrace slated for late July opening.

Selectmen approved a public amusement license for the 1986 Winston Club Cabaret. The show will be held in the Town Hall auditorium.

The board accepted a $2,500 contribution to the Historical Commission and a $2,500 gift to the Council on Youth.

The board also accepted $675 in contributions to the Beautification Design Review Committee.

Selectmen interviewed three candidates for an opening on the town's Capital Planning Committee: Curtis Jones, Peter Van Aken and Stephen King.

Three candidates for the town's Historical Commission were also interviewed: Candace Margles, Joan Benson and Virginia Day.

No appointments were made, as other candidates must still be interviewed.

Church Donates To Youth

The First Congregational Church, in a special meeting, has voted a gift of $2500 from the Jenks Outreach Fund to the Winchester Council on Youth.

The council exists to extend the hand of friendship to our young people in various situations, and especially so when they are confronted with perplexing conditions they feel unable to handle without help. The mere fact of having someone who cares to talk things over with can make a great difference.

The donation from the Church will enable the Council to provide assistance over and above its regular programs when our young people encounter some of the excessive strains and stresses that are so frequent to day in our modern society.

Unitarians Set Summer Schedule

Services have stopped for the summer for Winchester Unitarian Church. However, Union Services will continue each week at several Winchester churches.

The schedule for Union Services is:

June 30 at Winchester Unitarian Church.
July 7 and 14 at Second Congregational Church.
July 21 and 28 at First Congregational Church.
August 5 and 12 at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.
Regular services will resume Sept. 8 at Winchester Unitarian Church.

Maine Chance: Slipping Back

A visit to the Maine coast is a trek through wilderness, punctuated by flashes of indescribable beauty.

Sparkling water crashes on a craggy shore. Freshly painted lobster trap markers dangle on clotheslines. Tiny rowboats sit adrift in the waving grass of saltmarshes.

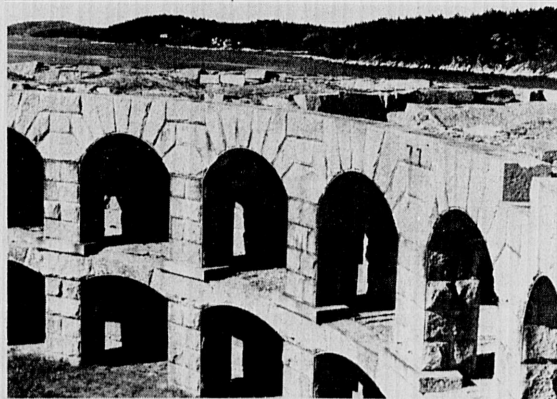

Popham Colony and the Pemaquid Peninsula are two breathtaking spots along Maine's mid-coast.

At Fort Popham, a trap-loaded pier juts into icy water. The fort, partially constructed in 1861, guards the Kennebec River where dozens of seals cavort on the rocks 100 yards off the shore.

Popham Colony was the site of the first English settlement in Maine. The community of 100 was short-lived, however, as disease and harsh winters sent survivors back to England.

The colony and fort can be reached from Bath, traveling Route 209 south through Phippsburg. Side trips along Routes 216 and 217 touch West Point and Sebasco Estates, and pass through an active resort area and a typical Maine fishing village.

The Pemaquid Peninsula features another fort, Fort William Henry, plus one of the most photographed lighthouses in the country, the Pemaquid Point Light.

The fort was a succession of four different forts, starting in 1630. The original fort fell to pirates two years after its construction. Indians destroyed the second fort, built in 1677, and the third, built in 1692. It was the third fort that won the name Fort William Henry. The fourth fort also was leveled. After it was built in 1729, locals destroyed it during the Revolution so the British could not occupy it. The present fort is a replica of the third fort, built by Sir William Phipps.

Further south, the lighthouse guards a rugged point of stratified rock, crashing waves, and busy tidal pools.

Tiny, winding roads edge the coast, opening onto vistas of rock and water.

The community of New Harbor centers around the lobster industry, with restaurants stacked on docks above lobster pounds. Thousands of lobsters are stored in wooden boxes floating beneath the docks, awaiting shipment to restaurants and grocery stores around the country.

A footbridge crosses the river splitting the town, and houses overlook the harbor and boats.

The Pemaquid light, art gallery, and fishermen's museum are at the end of Route 130 out of Damariscotta. New Harbor is off Route 32, another scenic ride. Fort William Henry and Pemaquid Beach are on the opposite side of the peninsula, also off Route 130.

Cool, Clear Water: Mystic Lakes Are Summer Playground

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

On any sunny day, the Mystic Lakes are crowded with people running, biking, playing Frisbee, sailing, windsurfing, wading, swimming, having cookouts, and enjoying.

The lakes are one of the most popular MDC reservations in the area, according to the Mystic District office staff.

People from nearby towns pack Sandy Beach on a steamy summer day.

And three private boat clubs — Winchester, Medford, and Tufts University — frequently send a small flotilla out on the relatively calm waters to join windsurfers, canoeists and rowboaters.

But how safe is the water in the lakes? And can people safely eat the fish they catch?

Well, there are problems with the water quality from time to time, say MDC and other state officials.

And both Upper and Lower Mystic lake are a long way from where they'd like to see them.

But both lakes are listed as Class B — suitable for swimming, fishing and other water sports — by the Division of Water Pollution Control, says Paul De Pietro, an MDC water quality engineer.

Only one water classification is higher — Class A, considered drinkable water.

"That grading measures a lot of water quality standards: bacterial levels, temperature, pH, dissolved oxygen, turbidity, aesthetics," he explains.

"Bacterial levels — particularly coliform — happens to be what they look at as far as swimming is concerned."

The MDC has a regular sampling program for fecal coliform bacteria levels at Sandy Beach, Mystic District staffers say.

If weekly samples show too high a level, the beach is closed to swimming.

Sandy Beach has been closed fairly frequently in the past because of contamination, due to overflowing, rain-swollen sewer systems in Stoneham, Woburn, and Winchester dumping raw sewage into some of the Upper Mystic's feeder streams.

But much of that problem is slowly being solved, thanks to sewer rehabilitation programs in all three communities, De Pietro says.

"As the towns clean up some of their sewer problems, it will improve the water quality at Sandy Beach," he explains. "The heart of the problem is what's coming out of the watershed."

When the beach is closed, notices are posted near the lifeguard stations. Information on the most recent water testing can be obtained from the MDC by calling 438-5690.

The MDC encourages swimming only at the Sandy Beach area, where lifeguards are on duty 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., June 16 to Labor Day.

The restriction is based on safety reasons other than water quality: sailboats and windsurfers are banned from the marked swimming area.

A firm answer on safety of eating the fish caught from the Mystic Lakes is harder to get.

Even the experts aren't sure — in part, because so little testing has been done.

In 1982, a study by the Mystic Rivershed Assn. and the state showed there was phosphorus, ammonia nitrogen, nitrate nitrogens, iron, manganese, copper, aluminum, zinc, lead, arsenic, cadmium and chromium in the lower part of the lake.

About the same time, people fishing in the Mystic Lakes were reeling in suckers, calico bass, and sunfish with fungus infections and strange red welts on their sides.

That raised a lot of questions about the health of the lake and its inhabitants.

At the time, Nancy Fratoni, in charge of the Upper Mystic Lake study, said most of the heavy metals and PCBs were found in the lake bottom.

She said the fish had not been tested for PCB or heavy metal contamination, and added she would not advise a steady diet of fish caught in the lakes.

Nothing much has changed in the last three years, state officials say.

"There's been nothing done about the fish lesions since then," says De Pietro. "The MDC does not have any funds for basic water quality issues; we don't even have any discretionary funds for weed control or whatever."

"It would take at least $50,000 to begin catching fish in the lakes and testing them for PCBs and the heavy metals," he says.

Eben Chesebrough, an environmental bio-engineer for the state Dept. of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE), was reluctant to advise people on eating Mystic Lakes fish.

"The situation is generally not significantly different than it was in 1982," Chesebrough says. "We haven't sampled it the way Nancy Fratoni did, and there is no information on the fish since then."

"There was a very high nitrogen level in the lake at the time, as well," he adds. "Nitrogen feeds [lake-choking aquatic] weeds — and in high enough levels, it can be unhealthy."

"Ammonia nitrogen in very high levels can be toxic to any living thing," Chesebrough says. "And the Mystic Lakes were approaching unhealthy levels, by the study in 1982, and a previous one DEQE did — I think it was in 1976."

Even if testing is done on the fish, it may be some time before anyone can say with surety whether it's safe to eat Mystic Lakes fish or not, he adds.

"There are no established standards for some of those heavy metals," Chesebrough explains.

"But, on the merits, if you catch a fish that doesn't look healthy, common sense should tell you to throw it back in," he advises.

As far as swimming, Chesebrough didn't think the presence of the heavy metals should be a great concern.

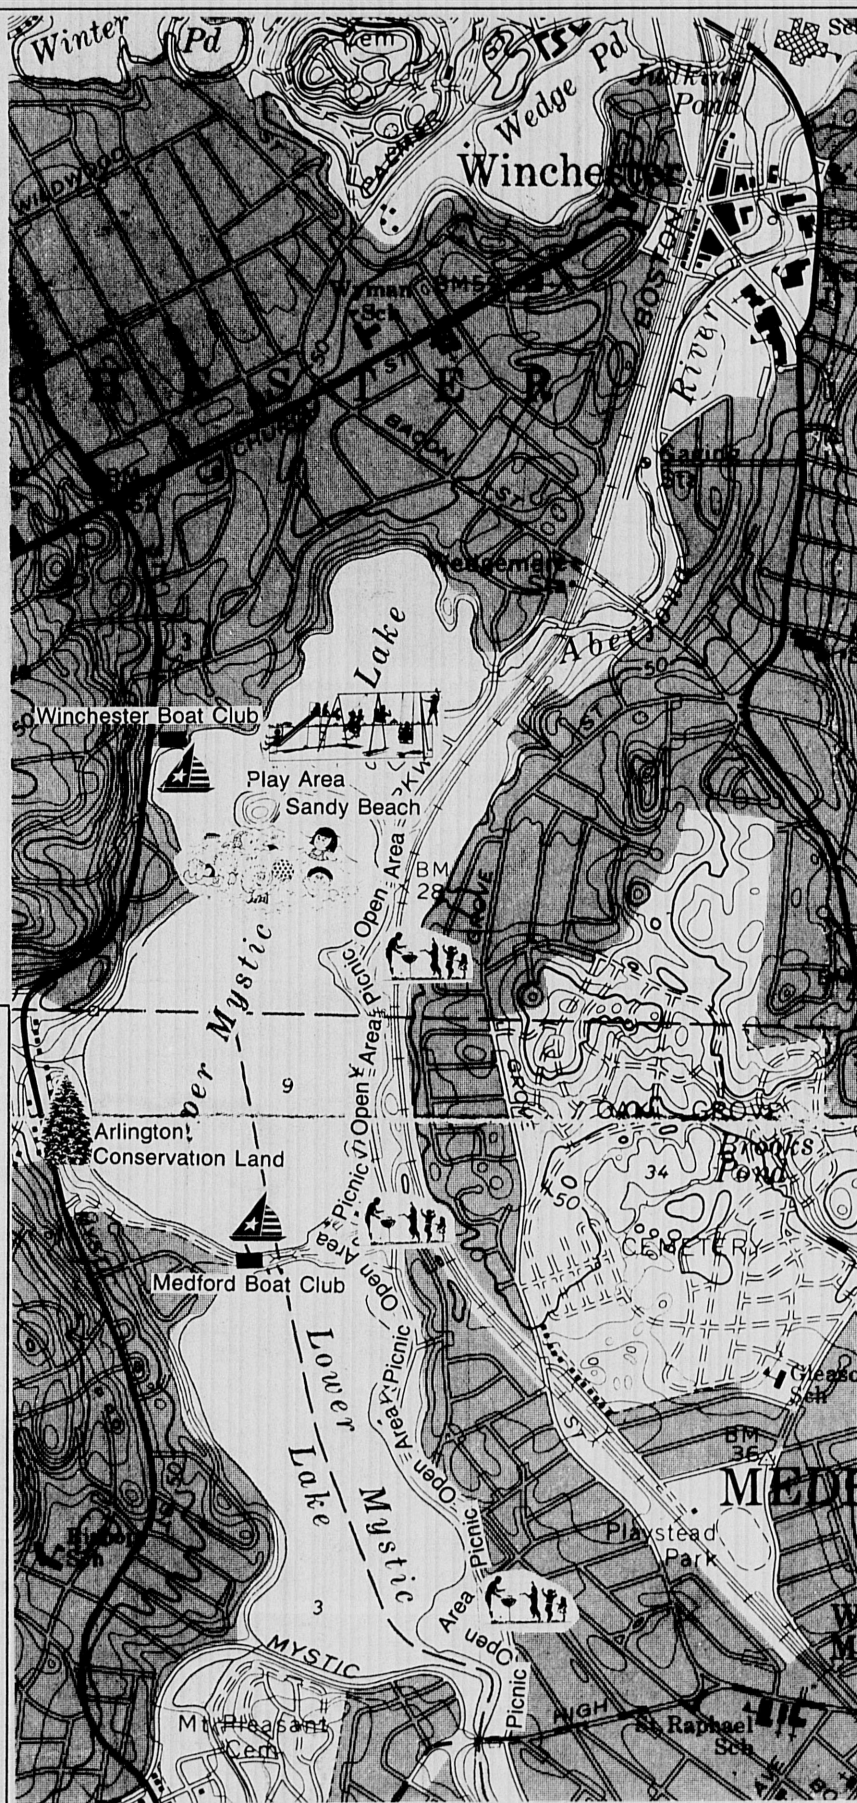

"Most of the metals are in the sediment, and the very bottom waters of the lake," he explains. "In the oxygenated surface waters, they are in very small concentrations."

"I can't say for certain, because who really knows what the threshold is?" Chesebrough says. "But I would say the major problems for swimmers at the Mystic Lakes right now is aesthetic rather than health; right now, it's just not very appetizing-looking water."

That leaves the folks who love the Mystic Lakes just three things to do:

- Keep enjoying the lakes;
- Use their common sense about swimming and fishing if in doubt about conditions; and,
- Work with local and state officials and environmental groups to get the lakes cleaned up and into better shape.

Then, the Upper and Mystic Lakes can really be the sparkling gems they seem to be on a sunny summer day.

When, Where, What

BY ANNE MARIE REIDY

The Upper and Lower Mystic Lakes have always been a great recreational resource for Arlington, Winchester, and Medford — towns ringing the lakes — and surrounding communities.

Even before there were colonists here, Squaw Sachem and her tribes migrated to the shores of the lakes to spend their summers.

Today, under the jurisdiction of the Metropolitan District Commission's Parks Division, the lakes provide boating, swimming, fishing, running, picnic and cookout areas — even though most of the lakeshore property in all three bordering communities is privately held.

At Upper Mystic Lake, in Winchester, the MDC runs Sandy Beach.

Staffed with lifeguards 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day from June 16 through Labor Day, the beach has bathhouses and bathrooms. There is no admission charge, and free, but limited parking.

Beachgoers can bring their own picnics, or have a cookout along the lake shores just off the beach area. Ice cream trucks frequently stop by the beach on hot days.

There is also a playground area next to the beach, and small-scale Frisbee, touch football and other games are allowed in the nearby grassy areas. On breezy days, kite flyers often visit the relatively treeless area near the beach.

Groups can use the area for large-scale cookouts or picnics, but groups of 25 or more should obtain a permit for $5 from the MDC's Mystic District office. Call 438-5690.

With another permit, for $25, picnickers can have alcoholic beverages at their festivities.

That permit is required for any size group, say staffers at the MDC Mystic District office. If a large group — usually 100 or more — seeks an alcohol permit, the MDC may require that a police detail be hired.

Sailboats, windsurfers and canoes are permitted on Upper Mystic Lake, but there are no public docks or landings in Arlington, Winchester, or Medford.

There is public access to the lakeside for fishing via some Arlington conservation land on the Route 3/Mystic st. side, says Mike Wright, that town's Director of Properties and Natural Resources.

"You can easily launch a small boat or a windsurfer from the MDC shore along the Medford side," Wright says. The MDC owns a long stretch of lakefront along Mystic Valley parkway, from Winchester, where the swimming beach is, down into Medford.

Lower Mystic Lake does not have any public swimming areas, although swimming bans are not heavily enforced, and many private property owners along the lake do have small beaches or docks.

However, in addition to allowing sailboats and windsurfers and canoes, small motorboats are allowed to use Lower Mystic.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Don't be discouraged by other people's negativity, improve your plans and forge ahead. You can get your point across dynamically and influence others to follow. Don't be put off by any temporary setbacks.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — A superior will notice your good performance and say so. Suddenly, something you've wanted may be within your grasp, so express yourself with confidence. Take the initiative in a relationship you'd like to see develop.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Your optimism is justified, a wish could come true and a surprise visit from an old friend sets your spirits soaring. Keep applying yourself and a promotion could be in sight. You may be on the brink of a new romance.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — A confrontation with someone now could only lead to a draw, so put your energy into using your artistic talents. You're in a powerful position if you'll accept more responsibility. Be ready and willing to make a commitment.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — A relationship could intensify and become more serious now. On the job, think big and take additional training that brings you closer to your goals. You succeed now by taking the lead and confidently stating your position.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Open up, be friendly, take some chances and be alert for financial or social opportunities. Associate with people who stimulate you mentally. Your charisma is high; display your affection for others and it will be returned.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — A new and broader attitude toward your work will help your performance and bring you closer to your goals. Someone wants to help and it's a good idea to share the load. There is real opportunity involving a contact you make now.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — What looks like a setback now is a future blessing in disguise. Trust your intuition and speak up about your ideas — you're on your way to the top! All types of partnerships are especially favored, including marriage.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Romance will be exciting and fulfilling now. Curb impulse — be tolerant of someone who is jealous of your position. Take nothing for granted and look at long-range possibilities before reaching important decisions.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Resist tendencies to escape from the routine and concentrate on what needs to be done. However, experiment with new ways to do things. A sentimental, overly-idealistic mood may leave you open to self-deception.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Devote yourself to work and you'll clear the way to future success. Share your ideas and opinions — you'll find a receptive audience. Make any necessary domestic adjustments with compassion, affection and diplomacy.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — A celebration may be in order — make it lavish if your finances are healthy. Something you fear is lost is probably only misplaced and will turn up eventually. Read the fine print in a proposition that comes your way.

What's Free Guides For Drivers, Talkers

By Judith Harlan

Just about everyone I know has a car and can use a little new information on cutting down fuel costs. Most people I know would be interested in some tips on buying a new car. Then there are the select few who would rather talk radio. So, in the interest of finding something for everyone, the freebie subjects this week are about cars and short-wave radios.

Gas-Guzzling Blues

The cost of gasoline fluctuates, but our driving needs rarely go up and down with the changes at the fuel pump. Most of us need to drive every day, either commuting or car-pooling the kids.

So what can we do to save money on gasoline? Are you throwing your hands up in frustration at this question?

Mileage Maker Tips is a three-panel brochure that can change your frustrations into fuel-conserving actions.

This fold-out freebie basically is a list of conservation tips — practical suggestions on how you can save money at the pumps.

Specific trouble spots to keep an eye on are outlined in Mileage Maker Tips, and driving skills also are evaluated. (Your driving technique can save or cost you at the gas station).

Directions: Send a postcard.

Ask For: Mileage Maker Tips.

Mail To: Amoco Educational

Services, Public Affairs-MC 3705, P.O. Box 5910-A, Chicago, IL 60680.

Car Buying Tips

If you haven't bought a new car since Dodge dropped the fins from its deluxe models, then you may have forgotten some of the essentials of car shopping. You may need a short refresher course.

And here it is: New Car Buying Tips. This three-panel fold-out brochure is a quick brushup and reference for out-of-practice car buyers.

If you're wondering where to go for information on new cars, other than the showroom, the answer is here. Try auto shows and also the April and October issues of many consumer and automotive magazines.

Determining the dealership you buy from is important, too. Your car may be back there for visits until the warranty runs out. This freebie advises you to look at how efficiently the service area is run for an indication of how well your car will be treated there.

Credit, that major necessity of the car purchase, is touched on. The car is not the only thing you comparison-shop for: the advice is to shop for loans, too.

Directions: Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ask For: New Car Buying Tips.

Mail To: AIC New Car Buying

Tips, 29200 Southfield Road, Suite 111, Southfield, MI 48076.

Wireless Words

If you have a shortwave radio stashed in your basement, your family room or your den, then you'll want to take a look at this offer. It's a sample copy of The Shortwave Guide, a monthly tabloid.

It talks to you about who's talking where, to whom and how. The issue I reviewed is 25 pages long. It includes an interview with the staff of Radio Cairo's Hala Hashish.

Another article looks into the subject of pirate broadcasting, focusing on the story of a longtime pirate who lasted on the air for almost 60 years.

If you are a shortwave radio enthusiast, this publication will bring you in touch with others like yourself. It includes an advance listing of shortwave broadcasts, so you can plan ahead to listen in.

Directions: Send 50 cents, postage and handling.

Ask For: Sample Copy.

Mail To: The Shortwave Guide, Miller Publishing, 424 West Jefferson St., Department FM, Media, PA 19063.

"Freebies" is compiled by Freebies Magazine, a national publication that features free (or postage-and-handling-only) offers you can request through the mail. To receive information about FREEBIES, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Freebies Magazine, P.O. Box 20283-CP, Santa Barbara, CA 93120.

What's For Seniors Plan For Golden Years

By John T. Watts
Copley News Service

Dear John: When we were younger, it didn't seem so important to plan healthwise for our senior years. If we weren't feeling very well, we'd get ourselves in gear and we'd know we would feel better. But as we grow older, we have more things going wrong with us.

When we are sent home from the hospital, we wonder who's going to take care of us. Sometimes the wife or husband may not be able to. Home nurses, God bless them, do much for the shut-in.

Sometimes the infirm forget they can do for themselves, and take their mate for granted. They shouldn't be babied too much. Let them take on some responsibility. Don't run at every beck and call.

You would be surprised at the number of us who have been active all of our lives, but now have given up. Don't let this happen. Keep repeating: I can do it.

One can either get up and try, or lie there and wait for the end. I know, because this is happening in my family. My husband's a brilliant man, and now he feels tired, isn't fighting and is wasting away.

And where do you turn? The children have their lives and their families. Medicare helps indefinitely, but personal insurance lasts only for so long. Then the money comes out of your own pocket.

It's not easy for the sick or for those taking responsibility for them. Plan ahead, if you can, to have medical help available when you need it. Thank you for listening. — D.B.

Dear D.B.: Yes, it's a very hard thing to care for a sick person in your home. I know, because I took care of my wife of 53 years, who had cancer. I gave it my all and had a heart attack from the stress, but God gave me the strength to go on.

I know we need friends to come in and say hello. A card or telephone call can do wonders. Above all, don't give up. You can make it if you trust in and believe in yourself.

To the lady who wrote and asked why I don't print all these letters: I write a column like Ann Landers. Dear Abby and Heloise. I have tried several times to write the column as you suggest, but letters with requests keep coming in. Someone out there sure believes in the column. So I'll keep doing what I'm doing and be happy that I can help people through it.

I love you dear people out there, and receive some beautiful letters. Thank you for your suggestions.

Letters may be sent to Mainly for Seniors, P.O. Box 1744, Hemet, CA 92343. Volume of mail prohibits individual replies.

Indianapolis race car, Penske PC-9 Cosworth Ford PFX built by Roger Penske might be among cars in Lexington's rally this weekend, part of the exhibits, "In Search of Barney Oldfield."

Car Rally Means Big Day For Clever Drivers Here

"What kind of Indian?" might be one of the questions asked along the approximately 60-mile route during the Museum of Transportation and the Museum of Our National Heritage's Minuteman Rally June 30.

Such questions don't give a participant much to go by — the answer could be almost anywhere, on a tree or in a parking lot.

However, they serve the purpose of an automotive treasure hunt: to test the wits of the participants.

During a rally, participants follow a specified course answering a series of questions aided only by clues to be spotted along the route.

The Minuteman Rally is part of the summer-long celebration of the Museum of Transportation's exhibit, "Fast & Flashy: A Sports Car Celebration," in Brookline, and the Museum of Our National Heritage's exhibit, "In Search of Barney Oldfield: Auto Racing in America, 1895-1985," in Lexington.

"What better way to celebrate both exhibits than to hold a jointly-sponsored rally in which all car owners are invited to participate. We have put together a witty "gimmick rally" that will challenge both experienced and inexperienced drivers alike," said Denise Trapani, director of the Museum of Transportation.

"The most important skill is cleverness — not speed. This is not a time-speed-distance rally, but rather a gimmick rally, in which the participant who answers all questions correctly — or the most questions — wins," she added.

The rally will begin at the Museum of Transportation, Brookline, and finish in Lexington at the Museum of Our National Heritage.

Each car will be given a question sheet of more than 40 questions to be answered along the route to Lexington.

The route will take four and a half to five hours to complete.

Participants must look closely to find the answers: questions require that participants look for answers on signs, historical markers, and odd things on and around houses.

Prizes will be awarded in two categories: to the experienced driver who answers the most questions correctly, and to the inexperienced driver who answers the most questions correctly.

If a tie occurs in either category, the car that answered the most questions with the least amount of mileage wins.

There will also be a third prize for "DLBF," the car that is "Dead Last But Finished."

Registration is from 9:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. at the Museum of Transportation.

A mandatory meeting for all drivers is at 10:45 a.m. The first car leaves at 11 a.m., with the remaining cars leaving one minute apart. A $10 entry fee is required, and there is a limit of two people per car.

All a participant needs is a car, a clip board, scratch paper, a working odometer, and ingenuity to find answers such as "an Apache" on an Apache lawnmower sign — the answer to "What kind of Indian?"

Spectators are welcome.

Entertainment will be provided throughout the afternoon at the Museum of Our National Heritage, including the series of film shorts.

Among films shown will be Barney Oldfield and the Race for a Life (1913) and If I Had A Million (1932), starring W.C. Fields.

For more information, contact Millie Rahn at (617) 861-6559 or Denise Trapani at (617) 522-6547.

The only movie I've seen recently is Desperately Seeking Susan. It was good. Madonna has that 'capture the screen' presence like Marilyn Monroe had. It's a different day and age so it's a different concept. The movie, aside from her being in it, would be good too. The theme is about this one New Jersey housewife who is following Susan's escapades in the personal ads of the newspaper and she ends up confusing with all the different people in Susan's life. It's a turn around where she ends up being pulled out of her mundane N.J. housewife existence.

I saw Rambo the other night. I thought that was great. Sylvester Stallone was doing hard labor for all the people he killed in the first movie, in a quarry banging rocks with a sledge hammer. His old commander said, "You can get out of here if you go back to Vietnam on a special mission to see if there are still any P.O.W.s there." So he said "OK, I'll do it if you get me out of here." So he went back to take pictures of the P.O.W.s if he found them. But he knew he was being set up to be killed because if he did find them, the U.S. would have to go in. So he did it his way, went crazy and destroyed just about half of Vietnam and brought back about nine or 10 P.O.W.s. Then he came back and went after the guy who set him up and took care of him.

Rambo. It's violent. I enjoyed him as an actor. I just happened to go to the movie because my kids wanted to go and I enjoyed it. I thought this one was better than First Blood; they took a good plot at first, added onto it and made it better. Another reason I like it better is because the first one was about a Vietnam veteran coming back and just getting grief. In the second one, it was back to the patriotic, for this country thing. So the first one just brought back lousy memories. Patriotism — sometimes you have to run violence with patriotism. Look at the hostages being held now. Sometimes you've got to face terror with terror. It's getting real bad when you can't even take a plane trip and don't even know where the hell you're going...

I saw Mask recently. It's about a boy who has a disease that makes him deformed as he grows older. Cher is in it. It's about how he tries to live a natural life even though he's that way. I didn't want to see it at first, but it's real great.

I went yesterday to see The Killing Fields. I went because of the good reviews. I liked it. I think it was interesting to see. I thought that sometimes the reporter was on a little bit of an ego trip of his own. The scenery was very beautiful but the sights and scenes were at times very horrible. I think it's something we tend to forget when not living near an environment where that is happening. I think it was good to make you realize where you are and some of the things going on in other parts of the world.

Rambo. I think it was much better than the first one (First Blood). A lot more action, it's about Vietnam vets. They set him up. He blows up the whole place over there, it's good, there's a lot of action.

Sailing/Boats

Community Boating, Inc.
Boston's best-known learn-to-sail program, located on Storrow Drive along the Charles River, will accept new members from June 24th to August 30th. For only $1., 11 to 17 year old kids can learn to sail on the Charles River and sail on weekdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The only requirements are written permission from a parent or guardian and ability to swim 75 yards. Sign-up for the program begins June 25th at 9 a.m., and continues every weekday for the rest of the summer. The boathouse offers instruction for beginners, recreational sailing, racing, advanced instruction for experienced sailors and a variety of other activities.

Coastal Sailing School

Bert Williams, a Coast Guard-licensed captain, teaches "a cruising kind of sailing for adults" on 26-foot sloops off Marblehead.

Taught on-board ship, his 20-hour courses ($225) can be done in one five-day week, two-and-a-half weekends, or over five weeks.

Williams also rents the large boats by the day or half-day — call for rates and further information: 639-0553.

Boston Sailing Center

Behind The Winery on Lewis Wharf in Boston, this private center offers courses from beginners "Learn to Sail" ($255) — including a 35-day membership — to ocean cruising, and 20 percent discounts when more than one person signs up at once.

Open now through November, every day, 9 a.m. till sunset — and memberships run a full year. For more information, call 227-4198.

Charles River Canoe Service

For those who prefer a peaceful paddle down the river, this private organization offers instructions and canoe rentals from their base on Route 30 in Newton. Canoe rentals are $5 an hour weekends, holidays, $4 weekdays; discounts for group rentals.

Hours: 10 to 6 now, noon to dusk (around 8) in summer. For more information, call 965-5110.

Europa Windsurfing

Windsurfing or board sailing is the latest water sport to sweep New England. The Mystic Lakes and Spy Pond are often dotted with board sailors skimming the water on what look like sailboats built on surfboards.

Europa Windsurfing, in Porter Square on Upland rd., offers lessons in handling the tricky boards, at Upper Mystic Lake in Winchester, beginning

May 1. ($24 for a two-hour lesson.)

Sail boards — and wet suits, for protection against the still-chilly wind and water — can be rented now (off-season) for $10 a day each. In season, a day's board rental is $24 — and reservations are a must. For more information, call 497-0309.

Nature Walks

Arnold Arboretum — This 265-acre botanical garden in Jamaica Plain designed by Frederick Law Olmstead has 7,000 kinds of trees and shrubs. More than 400 kinds of lilacs bloom mid-May; At the intersection of Route 203 and Route 1 in Jamaica Plain; admission free; open daily from sunrise to sunset. Handicapped people may arrange to drive through the park. For more information, call 524-1717.

Olmstead Homestead — The Frederick Law Olmstead National Historic Park, at 99 Warren st. in Brookline, (just off Route 9), is the home of the famous landscape architect who designed Boston's "Emerald Necklace" of parks. Tours of the home and the grounds of the estate are offered Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, 12-4:30. Group tours arranged. Admission is free. The staff also offers guided walking tours of sections of the "Emerald Necklace" on Sunday afternoons. Call 566-1689 for more information.

Garden In The Woods — This

45-acre preserve in Framingham, owned by the New England Wildflowers Society, offers wildflowers growing in their natural habitat. Open Tuesday-Sunday from 9-4 through Oct. 31. Admission $3.50; seniors and children, $2.50. Call 877-7630 for information or directions.

Walden Pond — Walden Pond State Reservation (Routes 2 and 126 in Concord) surrounds the kettle pond that Henry David Thoreau surveyed, swam in, lived beside and wrote about. "Thoreau Rambles" — one-hour hikes, with readings from his writings — are conducted at 1:30 p.m. Sundays.

Middlesex Fells — Trails marked by wooden posts (and detailed on small brochures available at Henderson's Stationers in Winchester) will lead you through the Fells — and through meadow, forest, marsh and pond shore, past trillium, jacks-in-the-pulpit and other wildflowers. Park at the old Girl Scout cabin lot on South Border rd. to pick up the Long Pond trail.

Winchester Town Forest — Park at North Gateway rd. if you're touring the Brooks-Parkhurst Town Forest, 28 acres of grand old hemlocks and oaks, lady's slippers and other flowers, with a section of wetland swamp, and several huge granite hunks, remnants of the 18th century Middlesex Canal.

Smith Pond — Winchester's Smith Pond is a conservation sanctuary where walkers can see cattails, low-bush blueberries, sumac, ferns, sassafras trees and many birds. Enter from Ridge st., near the Arlington line.

Menotomy Rocks Park — Arlington's Menotomy Rocks Park on Jason st. offers the standard swings, seesaw, and playing fields, and a one-mile "Vita course," a jog/exercise trail through the woods. No charge for the workout or the scenery; the park closes at dusk.

The Great Meadow — The Great Meadow, 183 acres of wetlands, grassy meadows and woods, walkers a variety of wildflowers, bushes, trees, muskrats, frogs, turtles, foxes and birds.

It belongs to Arlington, but is actually in Lexington. Fottler ave. and Maple st. in Lexington border the meadow. Entrance to the Great Meadow is easiest by taking Route 2A to Lexington Christian Academy, and walking in through their parking lot and soccer field, or by taking Mass. ave to the Waldo School — also in Lexington — and walking through their parking lot.

The Habitat — Belmont's most beautiful walk, The Habitat, on Juniper rd., is also private, and open to members only, although non-members can take workshops and courses. Memberships cost $12 for individuals, $18 for families.

Hammond Pond Woods — On either side of Hammond Pond Parkway in Chestnut Hill, it offers 64 acres of hills, several miles of gently rolling paths, and a deer park for wildlife observation. Open dawn to dusk; free. Enter through the Chestnut Hill Mall's lower parking lot; for a map, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Newton Conservators, Box 11, Newton 02159.

Broadmoor Sanctuary — The Audubon Society's Broadmoor Sanctuary, just under two miles west of Natick center on Route 16, has nine miles of trails through wetlands, woods and fields. Open dawn to dusk, Tuesday through Saturday. Donation, 50 cents. For information, call 655-2296.

Boston By Foot 77 North Washington st., Boston. Telephone 367-2345. Guided tours from May 1. The Heart of the Freedom Trail: Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays at 10 a.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Meet at statue of Samuel Adams. Congress st. near Faneuil Hall. Beacon Hill: Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays at 10 a.m., Wednesdays and Fridays at 5:30 p.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Meet at foot of State House steps, Beacon st. Copley Square in Back Bay: Wednesdays at 12 noon, Saturdays at 2 p.m. Meet on steps of Trinity Church, Copley Square. The North End: Saturdays at 2 p.m. Meet at statue of Samuel Adams, Congress st. near Faneuil Hall. Tours last ninety minutes and cost $4. Rain or shine, reservations not required. On June 30, BOSTON BY FOOT will stroll through Bay Village, a miniature garden-filled area originally built by French settlers, the tour leaves at 2 p.m. from the Park Plaza Castle at the corner of Arlington Street and Columbus Ave. Fee is $5 per person for this 90-minute walk.

CHECKING OUT MORTGAGE

As a homebuyer today, you have a choice of many different kinds of home mortgages. If one doesn't suit you, there is an excellent chance that another will. When taking out any mortgage, always pay close attention to:

- * ACTUAL MONTHLY PAYMENTS: Interest rates and home prices may be higher than they used to be but it is what YOU can afford month-
- * PREPAYMENT PENALTIES: You may hope to refinance the loan a few years from now. Make certain you can do so without having to pay a hefty penalty. Most Adjustable Rate Mortgages give you this break — but always check into it.
- * INTEREST FLEXIBILITY: If you are taking out a mortgage with an interest rate that varies according to market conditions, learn what index each lender uses to adjust the rates. Find out how active each indicator has been over at least two years.
- * WHAT'S AVAILABLE: Shop around; it takes time, but it really pays off to learn how downpayments and initial interest charges can vary.

Need a mortgage?

Alexandra Holton
Mortgage
Representative

Alex can help.

Applications and paperwork don't help people get loans. People help people get them. And that's why Alex is a good person to know.

Getting a mortgage can be a complicated procedure. You need someone who knows the ins and outs of mortgage lending. A person who can guide you through the process with the attention and concern of someone who genuinely cares about other people. Someone who will do his or her best to help you get the money you need at the best possible rate. And Alex is just that kind of person — she's an expert in real estate and the best ways to finance the purchase of it.

So if you need a mortgage, you know who to call.

UNION REALTY

Union Realty Associates, the fastest-growing real estate office in the area, is the founder of the 4.5% commission program. With offices in Somerville and Medford, as well as its central operations group which coordinates development, construction and commercial transactions, Union Realty can meet all real estate needs.

Donald Norton is president-manager of the firm which includes principals Ronald Marble, Donald Snow, Ross Blouin, Roy Scarpato and Jerair Gharibian. The six partners founded URA in 1983, each bringing more than 10 years' experience in real estate and development to the business which is a member of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and Multiple Listing Service.

With its motto "The Total Real Estate Concept," URA offers full service — from residential and commercial management to development, construction, appraisal and investment. URA handles everything from home inspections to project concept and design feasibility studies and condominium development.

URA is the only real estate company in the area that has a multi-office arrangement offering all phases of real estate expertise. Says Norton, "We don't just sell nice homes — we build them. We are the 4.5% people. We charge you less, but you get much more."

URA will soon relocate to 181 Broadway, Somerville. Their phone number is 623-6600.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1840-45 period. The 10th Battery competes with 35 call rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 12 clay pigeons on a 4x4 cardboard sacker at 30 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members have all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York - but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Hipsen at 1-855-1102 for further information. 11/3 TF

Prayer to The Holy Spirit

OH HOLY Spirit, thou art all knowing, who brightens every path that I may reach my idea, thou who give me this divine gift of forgiving and forgetting wrongs done to me and who in every instant of my life art with me. I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all your blessings and reaffirm once again that I never want to part from thee though the illusion of material things abound. My desire is to be with thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank you for your mercy on me and mine. (person should pray three consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days, grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be. I publish this prayer once grace attained. Grateful for grace attained. E.N.S. 6/27/7.11

Prayer to Saint Jude

O GLORIOUS Apostle, Saint Jude Thaddeus, true relative of Jesus and Mary, I salute thee through the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus. Through this Heart I praise and thank God for all the graces he has bestowed upon thee. Humbly I prostrate before thee, I implore thee through this heart to look down upon me with compassion. Oh, despise not my poor prayer, let not my trust be confounded. To thee God has granted the privilege of aiding mankind in the most desperate cases. Oh, come to my aid that I may praise the mercies of God. All my life I will be grateful to thee and will be thy faithful client until I can thank thee in Heaven. Publication must be promised if prayer is answered. Also thanksgiving to Saint Anthony. E.N.S. 6/27/7.11

1985 Oldsmobile 98

Dave Freedland talks about the TIME OLDS DIFFERENCE

"Wherever you buy an Oldsmobile you can be sure you're getting a fine, American-made automobile. We like to say, 'All Olds are created equal!'"

So what makes us different from other dealers? At Time Olds we are committed to quality in both our sales and service areas. Not only will we give you a great deal on a new Oldsmobile, but we'll follow through with the best service you can get anywhere. We want your business and will work hard to get it — and keep it."

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts. The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

BONNELL FORD—A GREAT STORY

Sixty years ago, Ralph Bonnell Sr. opened the doors of his brand new Ford dealership, selling the impressive Model T automobiles. He worked diligently through the Depression to build a reputation for honest, courteous and dependable service.

Today, Bonnell still has faithful customers from those early years. In fact, Eleanor and Frank Sweeney of Malden recently purchased a 1985 Ford Crown Victoria some 60 years after their first purchase of a 1925 Model T at Bonnell Ford.

Today, Bonnell sells hundreds of cars a year, making it one of the largest dealerships in New England. The service department at Bonnell has 50 service bays, certified mechanics, computer engine analyzers and alignment and balance testing equipment. And Bonnell's daily rental fleet is second to none! To this day, Bonnell is still building on the reputation of honest, courteous and dependable service.

SEE THE LIMITED DIAMOND EDITION CROWN VICTORIA

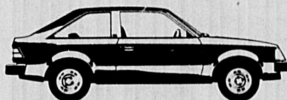

Now that we have reached our 60th year, Bonnell Ford would like to thank you for helping us get here. We have just taken delivery on a limited number of the outstanding Diamond Edition Crown Victorias. This car is a customized version of America's best full-sized car, the Ford LTD Crown Victoria....
